Auditorium Packed As 277 Swim Awards Presented to Winners

The auditorium at Queen Alexandra School was packed Saturday night for the Quinte Kiwanis Club-Belleville Recreation Commission Swimming Program Awards Night. A total of 277 awards were handed out to 240 city youngsters in the 7-19 age bracket.

Beginners' certificates presented totalled 101 while Saturday's Red Cross certificates went to 58 youngsters. Thirteen boys and girls accepted advanced certificates and there were 32 Junior Red Cross awards, 12 Intermediate Red Cross, 13 Senior Red Cross, three Intermediate Royal Life Saving, 12 bronze medallion, five award of merit, 27 awards for artificial respiration, a special award and 107 silver dollars for attendance. In addition, Quinte Kiwanis Club presented each boy and girl who completed the 25-lesson course with a swimmer's certificate.

The special award of $10 went to 19-year-old Cindy Hay, who was rewarded for lending her assistance with beginners' classes, helping out every Saturday morning. According to chief instructor, Murray Workman, water safety chairman for the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross, Ontario Division, Cindy has earned a spot on the staff of instructors for future programs. She has successfully completed her Royal Life Saving courses.

AWARDS PRESENTED

Making the awards were Charles Cox, president of Quinte Kiwanis Club; Newt Thompson, treasurer of the Belleville Recreation Committee; Red Cross; Leroy Morlock, Kiwanis boys and girls committee chairman; Terry Carter, assistant recreation director and Ken Soden, chairman of the Belleville Recreation Committee. Assisting were members of the staff of instructors, Mr. Workman, Jane McFarlane, George Mason and Gerry Muldoon.

How does a successful program like this one happen? Quinte Kiwanis Club vice-president Lee McBrien and Mr. Workman were mainly responsible for the early planning. Mr. McBrien, taking a YMCA Life Saving course early in 1965, met Mr. Workman who was the instructor. It turned out that Quinte Club official was quite interested in a swimming program as a community project for youngsters and he was talking to the right man.

The service club agreed to sponsor the swimming program with Mr. Workman as chief instructor. With Belleville Recreation Commission handling the registration and other administration duties, about 300 city youngsters were registered for 25 lessons at the Toys Model pool.

Staff instructors, members of the club who took care of the supervising of dressing rooms and marking attendance charts and the youngsters themselves did the rest. And the Saturday night presentation of awards wrapped up a successful program.

Tentative plans call for an enlarged program, including classes for adult beginner, next season. This will mean classes will be held Friday evenings as well as Saturday morning, providing the Toys Model pool is available.

Is Director Of C.A.R.S.

"The focal points of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's Ontario program are rheumatic disease units," said the annual meeting of the Ontario division of the society in Toronto was told by president Robert F. Clark. He outlined the use of these units in the treatment of the 300,000 Canadians now suffering from arthritis.

Each unit is located in a teaching hospital and contains from 20 to 45 beds. Patients in these units are under the intensive care of a team of physicians, physiotherapists, social workers and nurses who combine their skills to give each patient an individually designed treatment program.

The units have already reduced the average patient time spent in hospital from 83 to 43 days.

One of the directors named to the Ontario society for the coming year was Mr. A. E. Chatland, the president of the Belleville Branch of the C.A.R.S.

Canadian Lawn Bowlers To Compete in Australia

The annual meeting of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Council was held on Saturday at the Boulevard Club in Toronto and among the delegates present from across Canada to register their various provincial associations was the president of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association, Gerald Hyde of Belleville. He was accompanied by the secretary-treasurer of the association, Mr. Abe Wilson of Toronto.

Many items of business were brought before the annual meeting included proposed revisions suggested by South Africa to the constitution of the International Bowling Board; reports of the activities of the provincial associations during the past year; a report on the plans for this year's Canadian Championships to be held in Winnipeg in late August; a report on the first world bowls championship to be held later this year in Kyeamagh, N.S.W. in Australia and the make-up of the five man Canadian team for these games and the election of officers for the next twelve months.

Canada will be represented in Australia this year by a team made up of John Henderson of Montreal (Team skipper), Jack Beacon of Toronto, Joe Forster of the Bay Relief of Waterloo and Sandy Gray of Vancouver. All of these team members have been consistently in the front ranks of Canadian championships and it is anticipated that they will give this country a strong representation at international competition at international event. Countries from all over the world are sending teams of similar number to Kyeamagh and the estimated cost of the event is believed to be in the order of $250,000, most of which is being put up by the sponsoring Australian business firm which originally suggested and proposed the idea.

Discussion will be held on the possibility of the Federal government agreeing to meet the cost of a similar event on a much smaller scale for Montreal in 1967 to take place for Commonwealth countries and directly following the 1967 Canadian championships which are already booked for that city next year. An application has gone forward to the proper authorities and it is hoped that a favorable decision will be forthcoming in the very near future so that proper planning can take place for the event.

Mr. Ray Cordell of Winnipeg was the unanimous choice of the delegates for president to succeed retiring president, Al Shoemaker of Toronto. John Henderson of Montreal was elected as vice-president and Ray R. Knight of Toronto was again elected as secretary-treasurer. Harry Bailie of Toronto was again named as Official Umpire and Robert Cowan and Norman M. Alley were named as the Council's proxies to the International Bowling Board.

The semi-annual meeting of the Council will be held in Winnipeg in August just prior to the start of this year's Canadian Championships.

Delegates were present from all provincial associations including of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

School Regimentation

One of the charges frequently levelled against the Ontario educational system is that it is too regimented, and even impersonal. Yet without efficient organization and discipline school would be chaotic.

Administering the daily routine of a school is like running an ocean liner, and woe betide the company that does not provide a smooth operation. With the school population growing apace, administrative problems are becoming more complex and demand a strong but not necessarily dictatorial hand on the helm.

In Peterborough for example, students at Adam Scott Collegiate next year will attend school in two shifts — 7.50 a.m. to 12.47 p.m., and 1 p.m. to 5.32 p.m.

There were "moans and groans" from the audience when Principal Howard David announced the shift system at a recent school function. Actually the school has been operating in this way since last September, pending completion of a new high school still under construction. However, the new times will mean a slightly earlier start for some.

Principal David laid it on the line: "If you are in the morning group you must be out of here before 1 p.m. If you are in the afternoon group, you won't be welcome at school before 13 minutes to one o'clock. There simply won't be any room."

And he added: "Don't ask me to change students from one shift to another. My answer will always be no."

Mr. David's words are eloquent of the problem of school administration today. He noted that band practices and basketball practices might have to be held in the evening. Time in such a situation is of the essence.

Across Ontario, in varying degrees, the problem is the same. So there must be some regimentation; yet within the bounds of such necessary discipline, principals and teachers should not lose sight of the essentially humanity that lies behind education. Students too should co-operate to the fullest in achieving a harmonious routine.

War Against Cancer

The war against cancer is apparently entering a new phase. Recent discoveries seem to offer new hope to all but the most advanced cases of the disease.

Much of the research into cancer today is being concentrated on strengthening the defences of the human body against it, and one of the most significant discoveries in this area has been made by a Canadian father and son team.

Dr. V. A. Mirkovich, 40, a chemical engineer with the Department of Mines and Surveys in Ottawa, and his father, Dr. V. V. Mirkovich, 72, a chemical engineer living in retirement in Toronto, claim they have discovered an anti-cancer hormone produced by the human body as a means of defending itself against the multiplication of cancerous cells.

They say they succeeded in producing the hormone in laboratory form in 1958, and tested it from 1963 through 1965 on five cancer patients in Vera Cruz, Mexico, with "startlingly positive" results.

Negotiations have been opened between the Mirkovich's and the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation in Toronto for clinical testing of the hormone.

The composition of the hormone is a well-guarded secret, and this has prevented its widespread use. Now it is believed agreement to test the hormone, without disclosing its composition, may be reached in negotiations with the research foundation.

A Sunny Personality

Queen Mother Elizabeth is not one to worry about the weather. In any climate a smile comes naturally to her. And as Canadians and countless others throughout the Commonwealth are aware, this quality stems from a warm and gracious personality.

At all the Queen Mother continues to amaze everyone with her verve and energy. At Vancouver she appeared as cheerful and vital as ever despite the long and tiring flight from New Zealand and Fiji.

Vancouver's reception was warm and the weather described as "bright and springlike." How unlike our own grey skies which if not exactly precipitating scarcely are cause for celebration these days. Even in New Zealand, with a more temperate climate than ours, poor weather marred the Queen Mother's visit.

Is the climate changing down under, just as it apparently is in these parts? Of course, it is early autumn in New Zealand, and in some parts of the country this can mean strong winds and an awesome amount of rain. Even summers in New Zealand in recent years have been disappointing.

But again, the Queen Mother has seen quite a number of summers and winters, in various parts of the world. Yet the warmth of her own personality is unchanging, a quality which accounts for much of her popularity.

The Trials of Married Life

Orillia Packet and Times

Of all the advice being given to youngsters these days by the pundits, none is more lacking in understanding than that on marriage.

With all of today's casting and probing and examining by sociologists and counsellors, it is a miracle marriage can survive so much public snooping and poke-taking.

For despite the sentimental slosh that has been served to us on marriage by Americans, films and television, or outrageously by the grimy kitchen-sink philosophy of the angry young men of England, marriage continues to remain the last bulwark between humanity and moral desolation.

It is particularly lamentable that idealistic and romantic young people, honestly looking forward to marriage, have the cup dashed from their lips by cynical know-it-alls who depict marriage as a sort of paddock into which youngsters are driven by a stern society.

Strictly Personal

Why Are We What We Are?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A group of college students in an English class recently asked me: "Why did you become a writer?" I shrugged and said, "Because there was nothing else that I was good at."

But it was a serious question, and I turned it off only because there was no time to discuss it in depth. Actually, no one ever really knows why he does what he does, to any profession or occupation, unless it happens to be sheer chance or accident. And even then, I believe there is much accident in such matters.

Why do certain men become policemen? If we knew the whole complex of reasons, we would have a better understanding of law enforcement, and how to improve it — especially in the human relations part of it, which is deplorable in most cities.

Why do men become doctors? There are many surface reasons, of course — prestige, scientific curiosity, family background, and so on. But the unconscious reasons are often the strong, or even stronger, in motivating a young man through the obstacle course of medical training.

One suggestion I recently ran across comes from a widely respected doctor, Dr. Herman Feifel of Los Angeles' VA Hospital, and the author of "Pioneering study, "The Meaning Of Death."

Dr. Feifel contends that one important reason men become doctors is to control their own excessive fear of death. By becoming a doctor, he says, a man becomes an expert on death, loses jeopardy of death, and obtains dominion over his own anxiety, which is projected on to other people.

This may seem like arrant nonsense to most doctors, but patients who have observed many physicians "playing God" with their own bodies will recognize many not so quickly pooh-pooh the notion. There is also the question of motivation, for the doctor as well as for the patient; and the primitive witch doctor is as far removed from the modern specialist as we sometimes like to think.

"Social workers," says Feifel, "do deeper motivations, too, may have little relation to the art of helping or supporting thoughts. Perhaps they were not listened to as children; perhaps they, like the subject of a study of people who judged "might of the pen" to serve as lance and armour against anxiety, feel so fiercely aggressive in their own nature.

Grasping why we "become" certain things is not merely an exercise in introspection or a self-indulgence — for such knowledge can be used as a professional tool to deepen our relations with others, and to help us guard against those neurotic or hostile motives that inevitably creep in and deform our higher, and more conscious goals in life.

It is the complete success.

Blessed are the natural and women who have experienced such beauty. They are the sun and the moon and the stars, and fortunate are the children who have basked in their warmth and luminous rays.

Ordinarily yes, but this is not quite an open-and-shut question as you might offhand think.

For practical purposes, the way to proceed is to have your new doctor request the records (or copies of them) from your former doctor. You must specify your willingness to have this done.

Remember, both ethically and legally information which your doctor, past or present, possesses about you is confidential. He has no right to reveal anything without your consent.

Therefore, doctors are very careful about giving out information — including your medical records — without your approval. Consent should be in writing and signed by you.

So far as the legal aspect goes the medical records belong to the doctor and to the patient. The patient receives the services of the doctor — examinations, treatment, advice. The records, however, are an account of what the doctor has done. It seems legal, quantum comes up, perhaps involving a claim or law suit by the patient, the doctor needs his records if he is to be able to testify intelligently. Thus it is not entirely a question of the patient has gone to someone else: why keep the records?" the doctor may, under some circumstances, feel it wise that he retain his notations of what he has done for you.

My answer, therefore, is that in most cases records or copies or summaries of them can be transferred to another physician at the patient's request, but it is not something you can demand. Courtesy and common sense solve a lot of things easily whereas defining one's "rights" isn't always so easy.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can exercises to develop the bust be harmful? I think I can see some improvement. — Miss P. R.

No, exercise won't harm the bust. It won't increase the size either, but it may improve your gesture and that helps more than most girls realize.

To Mrs. J. M.: Web fingers are not occupational accident of nature. You cannot expect the condition to correct itself, but surgery can be effective.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife is 31 and for several years has had terrific headaches. Aspirin and Bromo-Seltzer don't help. Our family doctor prescribed some pills that give only temporary relief. Where could she go for treatment? — A.M.

Some headaches never yield to aspirin, but must have quite different treatment. Your letter contains no clue as to what type of headache is involved but I have two suggestions. First, get and read my booklet, "The Way to Relieve Headache." (Send 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, for the booklet.) It will make you aware of the variety of headaches which exist.

Then seek a doctor who makes a sub-specialty of this problem. Quite a few do. Your family physician may be able to refer you. If not, an inquiry at one of the major hospitals or at one of the big medical centres is your area, will lead you to such a specialist. Or the county medical society people doubtless will be able to help you.

There are mighty few headaches which cannot be greatly alleviated with proper treatment but it sometimes takes careful observation to determine which kind of headache is involved.

Effects of Drought Remain

The Ottawa Citizen

The disastrous drought experienced by Eastern Canada last year is still being felt. Efforts to ease the blow continue to be needed, and the provincial government's decision to guarantee $1,000 loans, interest free, for the purchase of seed and fertilizer is a step in the right direction.

Any farmer who lost more than 25 percent of his crop last year will be entitled to a loan. Repayment will be made over a 15-month period, and the normal bank interest of six percent will be paid by the government. About 20,000 farmers are expected to qualify, and the cost to the government will be around $1,500,000.

It remains to be seen whether the measure will be sufficient to get the stricken farmers back on their feet. Last year, emergency measures enabled the farmers to get feed for their livestock. But the drought had been extensive, hitting many farmers in 1964 as well as 1965. By last fall, they had little much margin in the form of savings or credit on which to operate. Some had to sell their stock together, and look for a livelihood in the cities. It is therefore still a question as to how much help now offered will be enough to get at least a majority of the farmers affected, if not all, back on their feet.

Advance reports indicate that moisture conditions in the area are good at the moment. If the drought does not recur, perhaps the present program will suffice. But the weather is always a gamble. If the farmers experience a third dry season, the government should be prepared to take all necessary measures to save the farms and livestock that will be hit.

Automated Libraries

By RONALD G. SHAFER
In the Wall Street Journal

Many of today's librarians are young men and women with a master's degrees in their specialty and bright futures before them. And libraries themselves are no longer just places to come in out of the rain.

The public hunger for knowledge has never been greater, and the school or town library today is apt to be a hub of activity, not a deserted one.

To help meet this strain on their facilities, librarians are experimenting and innovating.

In California, high speed teletypewriters chatter in many a library, transmitting book requests which one library can't fill to others which can; the patron waits two days for his book instead of weeks. In Florida, librarians are operating the first full scale computer assisted library.

Letter to the Editor

Dogs, Cats, Ruin Home Properties

Editor,
The Intelligencer

May I add a few words to the already overworked subject on pets running at large.

A pet in a home can be a source of great pleasure. It is a fortunate child who owns a pet and who is taught to care for it properly. But are we not trying also to teach our children to have respect for the property of others.

The fact that I am a homeowner and pay taxes does not give me the right to trespass on the property of other people. Neither does paying a dog tax supply a ticket to the destruction of property. Some of our tax money does, however, go towards paying the salary of a dog catcher. No man cannot be expected to be everywhere at once in a city as large as Belleville — nor can he be expected to be on patrol at daylight, which is the time when some thoughtless folk sneak their dog out for their unattended run. Surely we are responsible enough to assume responsibility for our own livestock.

My neighbors and I have spent several years of back-breaking work, and hundreds of dollars to make flowers, bulbs and perennials to improve and beautify our homes for the enjoyment of others as well as ourselves. Several shrubs must be replaced each year because dogs have killed them.

This morning I found hyacinths, which had survived the last fall and looked forward all winter to enjoying) lying on the ground where dogs had dragged them, then broken them off as they ran. Dogs can be taught but cats are sneaky and stubborn.

The stench in the spring from dead dogs found deer from the winter invasion of cats is disgusting. One hates to dig in one's garden for fear of finding a dog. It is no exaggeration to say that at least a dozen cats from the neighborhood make use of my flower beds; my doorstep for sunning; and my shrubs for hiding and spending their love songs with no respect for the hours when humans need sleep.

As we gradually added to our landscaping we spent time and money securing things to attract the birds. We found that the very things we provided to attract them were turned into feed boxes for cats. Such a job of bird catching easier for the cats. Consequently the birds are not as plentiful as they might but by summer when one could sit outside and enjoy their song they have gone. Even the robins have been caught by the cats (including helpless baby birds) have left the city after hunting many times during the summer we try valuly to find the source of a nest and find it in a tree in our own yard, knowing that somewhere a cat has left a dead bird. Many times we have had to find it and must soothe the time our own dog has often up.

It is not lack of love for pets that many of us object to them running at large. I love a dog but do not object to cats. It is showing complete disregard for the rights of other people's property to allow them to trespass and damage property.

Yours truly,
Property-Begging Dog

Nagging Can Go Too Far

St. Catharines Standard

The peril of nagging has been brought to light from time to time, but never in so startling a manner as in a recent report from Formosa. There, an aboriginal tribesman pushed his wife and six children to the top of a cliff, and then jumped himself.

The tribesman and one of his daughters survived the fall, but were reported in critical condition in hospital. From these tribesmen police learned that he wanted to end the life of the family because his mother had been "bugging us for years" with nagging. And the father of the family said his mother and wife was "really a nagging woman."

Yes, constant and deliberate nagging can kill. In most instances it seldom comes to light but the nature is there and a life is lost. This would be a much better world in which to live if the nagging could be made to halt their biting attacks, and learn to live in peace with others.

Will History Repeat Itself? If So, Stocks Are Headed Up

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP) — Prices moved sharply lower in moderate trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today with the industrial index falling 1.07 to 183.43.

A number of analysts say the decline is a result of the decision taken by General Motors Sunday to curtail production in eight plants for part of the remainder of May.

GM announced Thursday it was cutting back production in its four plants then reversed its decision late Friday. The market dropped more than four points last week.

In the main list, Massey-Ferguson fell ⅛ to 33¾, Bell Telephone ⅛ to 52¼, Peel-Elder ¼ to 13¼ and Alcan Aluminium ⅛ to 40¾.

Noranda slipped ⅛ to 39⅝ in base metals. Hudson Bay was down ¼ to 61, Rio Algom ⅛ to 23⅜ and Inco ⅛ to 99¼.

Among western oils, Banff was off ⅛ to 14¾ while Husky's Bay and Central Del Rio added ⅛ each to 19¼ and 11.

On index, golds were down .03 to 186.32, base metals .42 to 90.90 and the TSE 36 to 134.97. Western oils gained .19 to 106.14. Volume at 11 a.m. was 876,000 shares compared with 1,110,000 at the same time Friday.

Trade Balance In February Was Favorable

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had a favorable commodity trade balance of $23,800,000 in February, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday.

Imports during the month were estimated at $660,900,000, an increase of 20 per cent over a year ago.

The bureau said the commodity trade balance—up considerably from the $6,900,000 balance of February, 1965—was partly the result of the Ontario truckers' strike.

Trade in both directions would have been higher without the strike, the bureau said.

Imports from the U.S., the trade flow most affected by the truckers' strike, were up 16 per cent to $473,000,000 from $407,700,000 a year earlier while Canadian sales to the U.S. enjoyed a 36-per-cent increase to $424,700,000 from $336,800,000.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was up 1-32 at $1.07 23-32. Pound sterling was up 1-16 at $3.00⅜.

Wall Street Down Again

Driver Injured As Car Strikes Narrow Bridge

A one-car mishap near Queensboro Sunday evening sent a Peterborough man to Belleville General Hospital suffering severe scalp lacerations and a possible broken arm.

Bill Langevin, of Peterborough, was rushed to hospital by City Ambulance Service of Belleville after the car in which he and his wife Lena were travelling struck a narrow concrete bridge abutment on County Road 13, about a half mile west of Queensboro. The accident occurred about 7 p.m. Sunday.

Peking Papers Accept Attack On Articles

PEKING (Reuters) — Three Peking newspapers today bowed to an unprecedented barrage of criticism from other Chinese journals and agreed that they erred in publishing devisionist articles.

In a joint statement, the three declared: "We beg to accept these criticisms and would earnestly welcome it if broad masses of newspapers and periodicals throughout the country make all-out criticism of our wrongdoings."

The three newspapers, all published by the committee of Peking's municipal Communist party, were chastized Sunday for publishing articles by Teng To, former managing director of The People's Daily, the main Chinese Communist party newspaper.

The attack, which accused Teng To of "singing the same tune as Khrushchav," was published in the Kwangming Daily, a newspaper for intellectuals which has been one of the main vehicles in the party's recent drive to remould the thinking of writers and artists.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed Reed

"I got my first case, Dad . . . the college is suing you for non-payment of my tuition."

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP) — History repeats itself in the stock market, with variations, and the question today on Wall Street is: "How far will history go this time?"

On this Monday in May, the stock market has behind it the worst weekly loss since the week ending May 28, 1962.

On Monday, May 28, 1962, the market had behind it the worst stock market week since "black Monday"—Oct. 28, 1929.

By the end of June, 1962, however, the worst was over. In a year, all the losses were recovered and the market was climbing to new highs.

The up - and - down principle has been operating most of the time since then. The market has habitually rebounded to new peaks.

At the end of last week, the Dow Jones industrial average had plunged 92.32 from its record closing high of 995.15, made Feb. 9. Everyone on Wall Street was confident the fabulous level of "Dow 1,000" would be reached—but the market never made it.

The current steep decline is similar to the one that occurred last May and June. The Dow industrials plunged 99.03 then and bottomed out at 840.59. Then followed one of the greatest Bull Market drives in history.

At the bottom of that dip, Wall Street chartists announced a "bear signal," meaning that both the industrials and the rails in the Dow averages had penetrated previous lows, confirming each other. Shortly after the bell opened, however, an advance was under way.

Oddly enough, last Thursday "a clear-cut bear market signal under the Dow theory" was given. According to this, stocks should go lower, but the Dow theory had been flouted less than a year ago.

Last June, William McChesney Martin, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, cited "disquieting similarities" between conditions current then and those of the roaring 1920s. This week, Martin recommended an across-the-board increase in taxes as he took note of an overheating economy.

Gardner Ackley, President Johnson's chief economic adviser, raised the question last week as to whether soaring profits are in the national interest. This gave stocks one of their worst jolts of the week.

Johnson's record $112,800,000,000 budget this year was bullish for the market, as was his State - of - the - Union message in January, 1965. His anti-inflation stance was carefully balanced. He has asked the possibility of a tax increase while stating a tax cut would be unneeded if restraint were exercised by business and labor.

The possibility of a tax increase has loomed over the market, along with fear of government controls over prices and materials, resulting from the booming economy and the demands of the armed forces in Viet Nam.

Rising interest rates and tightening credit reached a climax March 10 when the Federal Reserve Board boosted the basic interest rate for commercial banks (the prime rate) to 5½ per cent from 5 per cent. Back in December, a boost in the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate to 4½ per cent from four per cent also had a dampening effect on the market.

Record profits, dividends and production in 1965-66 have boomed the stock market. The enactment of excise tax cuts last June came in time to help spur the market to a rebound from the May-June collapse.

Meanwhile, more and more mutual funds have become speculative, contributing to market swings.

All of these factors, plus the simple need to deflate many inflated stock values, brought the market down this spring.

The cutbacks by General Motors at the assembly plants were merely the triggers to send the market spinning last Thursday. GM's resumption of normal schedules put the market back up again.

GM Planning Short Layoffs In 8 Plants

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corporation reported Sunday that eight of its 23 car-assembly plants will give up production for periods of one to three days in the remainder of the month of May.

GM, cutting production to balance inventories with anticipated demand for cars, announced its assembly plant schedules for the 16 work days that remain in May.

In other 15 assembly units are expected to work the full, normal five-day weekly schedules, GM said.

The first announcement of a cut by the world's largest auto maker preceded a downturn in the stock market last week. As upturn immediately followed a second GM announcement of production plans. Ford, Chrysler and American Motors announced no production changes.

Interfering Mother Finds Happy Remedy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may be one of the strangest letters you have ever received. I hope you won't think it is too strange to print because I suspect other mothers have the same problem but refuse to admit it.

ANN LANDERS

My husband and I raised our four children to be independent and self-reliant. Everyone told us we did a wonderful job. As the children grew older I began to wish we hadn't done such a good job. I resented their independence. I wanted them to need me and ask for my advice. Before long I began to meddle in their affairs. I even tried to take over their children.

After a run-in with my daughter-in-law I decided to talk to my doctor. He told me I had an over-supply of mother love and that I needed another baby — which was impossible at my age. So he suggested an alternative. He sent me to the welfare people and I obtained a child-care license. I put an ad in the paper and within three days I had a 13-month-old boy. Two weeks later I advertised for a second baby. Now I have two little boys and I'm happier than I've been in years.

The mothers of these children say I am the answer to their prayers. I know they are the answer to mine. When these mothers take their babies away I will get replacements. There will always be mothers who must work and babies who need a mama-substitute. This is my specialty.

My relationship with my own children is better than ever. And I have no time for aches and pains or crying spells. How I wish I had seen a letter like this in your column five years ago. It could have saved me a lot of unhappiness. — SPARK RE-KINDLED.

DEAR SPARK: What a beautiful example of receiving through giving! And your doctor deserves a standing ovation for coming up with the ideal solution to your problem. Cheers for him and hooray for you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I took a job distributing phone directories. The job turned out to be interesting as well as educational. I wish everyone would try to deliver phone directories for just one day. They'd have new respect for the postman and other delivery people.

It is shocking that thousands of residents don't display their house numbers either on the mailbox or anywhere else. How do they expect anyone to locate them? I had to enlist the help of neighbors in a great many cases. I asked one woman who had no number on her porch or mailbox how she got her deliveries. Her answer was, "They figure it out somehow."

Why should they have to "figure it out?" It seems to me that the burden should rest on the residents and not the carriers.

Please print my letter. It is the surest route of millions of eyes that I know of. — DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE.

DEAR PEOPLE: The moment you finish reading this column, go outside and see if you could find your home if you didn't know where you lived.

If your residence is not properly marked, run — don't walk — to the nearest hardware store or the five and dime. Buy some paint and a brush — or some metal numerals and a hammer and nails. It could be the most useful thing you did all week.

DELICIOUS VEAL DISH

Whether the French or Italians or Hungarians or Chinese lay claim to the delicious veal dish I am serving up to you today I do not know. It calls for table wine and veal as for veal scallopini, and a generous amount of paprika and the whole delicious mixture is served on rice.

I hope you take this recipe seriously for instead of using veal in it you can substitute pork tenderloin or chicken breast - in other words you can use tender meat that requires short cooking time, - a gourmet dish - more so than last Monday's casserole - Veal a la Marlie.

Baked Stuffed Beef Heart; Onion Gravy; Baked Potatoes; Frenched Green Beans; Individual Dessert Fruit Salads: Peach Halves, Cottage Cheese, Pineapple Crescents, Grapefruit Sections. Stuffed Prunes; Cheese Wafers; Tea.

VEAL PAPRIKA ANONYMOUS (serves 4)

1 to 1½ pounds veal cutlet (or tender veal as for scallopini, cut up).
½ cup flour,
1 teaspoon salt,
¼ teaspoon pepper,
1 teaspoon paprika (first amount),
2 strips side bacon, chopped,
2 tablespoons oil (or butter or beef dripping),

Sauce Ingredients:
1 cup coarsely chopped green pepper,
½ pound mushrooms, scrubbed and sliced,
1 small onion, chopped, or equivalent in grated onion,
¼ cup chopped parsley,
½ cup white table wine,
½ to 1 cup 18% cream,
2 teaspoons paprika (second amount).

(See recipe below)

Cut veal in large bite-sized pieces. (If you are using stewing veal give it a good pounding — a la the Italians — to be sure it will cook tender quickly.) Into a strong paper bag measure the flour, salt, pepper and first amount paprika. Shake meat pieces in this to dredge. Heat oil (or other fat) in large frying pan and brown veal pieces in it on both sides. Lift veal pieces from pan and reserve them. Add chopped bacon to pan and saute until crisp. Discard about half of the bacon fat. Add green pepper, mushrooms, onion and parsley and saute until they begin to soften but retain some crispness (a la the Chinese). Add the wine (a la the French) and cream and precooked veal pieces and heat through. Add the second amount of paprika (a la the Hungarians) and serve at once on bed of rice for 4 people cook covered 1 cup raw long grain rice in 2 cups boiling water with 1 teaspoon salt, until all water is absorbed and rice is tender.

NOTE:

This mixture is slightly runnier than you might expect it to be but this extra moistness seeps down through the rice and is a delicious dividend. We served this with fresh asparagus and decided we had an epicurean meal.

"I have become closely acquainted with Italian music and art through four trips to Italy, two of them with my husband," Mrs. Kosygin said in a Moscow interview with the Cairo daily newspaper Al Ahram, published here today.

"So on shing irresistibly attracted me to art. . . . I like the twist and tango," she said.

Mrs. Kosygin was interviewed during a reception given in her honor by the wife of the Egyptian ambassador in Moscow, on the occasion of her trip to Egypt.

The Kosygins are due in Cairo Tuesday with a delegation of top Soviet figures on an official visit.

Mrs. Kosygin, a middle-age grandmother who speaks fluent French, was described by the paper's correspondent as "a simple and sentimental great lady who . . . wonders how life can be possible without sentiment."

Artists and Paintings Inspire Hat Designers

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — Artists and paintings have been a source of inspiration to most modern fashion designers. This spring the choice of two milliners, Sally Victor and Mr. John, has coincided, on Edouard Manet (1832-83).

Mrs. Victor designed several hats actually based on hats worn in Manet's paintings. One pillbox, for example, is almost a complete copy in shape of the hat worn in the famous Boy with Cherries. She also drew inspiration from The Large Boy for a yellow fabric roller.

Mr. John's contact with the artist is more tenuous. For years he has associated his hats, costumes, furs and jewelry with the names of famous artists. This spring it is his "Elegant Manet Collection." The influence is in a feeling of mood, rather than in actual adaptations.

But the association with an artist does provide Mr. John with a springboard for a glowingly produced, gossipy - style program about the artist's era. These are highly prized in fashion writers and favored clients who crowd his bizarre gift salon here twice a year to view his newest collections.

This spring, the program began: "It seems that I am expected to do a nude," said the handsome young artist rather carelessly. After such an opening, who could resist reading on.

This nude is in the painting Le Dejeuner sur l'Herbe (The Picnic). A scandal in 1863, it now hangs in the Louvre in Paris. Two years later Manet painted the nude Olympia, also in the Louvre but then considered the most scandalous painting of the 19th century. From this painting Mr. John derived one of the colors he featured this spring. Called olympe pink, it is described as "borrowed from the rosy glow of the nude nymphs in Olympia."

Other works "inspired" other color names. Boy with Cherries gave Mr. John cerise pink, which he describes as "a lush cherry red from the portrait of the young Mooimartre fruit vendor."

More Manet - inspired color names are Soleil Noir, a deep shimmering gold from the sun-dappled canvas of painting on the beach, and scarlet geranium, a blazing summer scarlet taken from the geranium - splashed Garden in Bellevue.

Manet painted numerous clothed models, mostly wearing hats. Mr. John recently did study these. A layered white silk organza with petals, for example, has a centered resemblance to the hat worn by the model in The Conservatory.

Several of Mr. John's spring bonnets bear a resemblance to the hat worn by "the naughty little actress Jeanne Marny" when Manet painted her as "Spring" and took her to Madame Virot, an elegant milliner, for a spring-like chapeau. Madame Virot created a confection of tulle and flowers, with black crown and tied-under-the-chin ribbons.

Poor Sport Refuses To Pay When He Loses

DEAR DORIS: How should other people associate with someone who calls himself a sport but when he is beaten, he refuses to settle his debts? This problem would be versed as follows:

In any sport, he likes to play
As long as the ball is bouncing his way.
He loves to win and thinks it's funny
When he wins all the people's money.

But when tables turn and he starts to lose
He simply groans and cries the blues.
The game is over and he keeps losing.
But to pay his debts he keeps refusing.

And to see such a poor sport is really saddening.
Everyone in our league will feel much better,
If this so-called sport gets to read this letter.

A PAID-UP SPORT.

DEAR SPORT: No tickee no washee! Show him your eloquent poetry in this column, and ask him whether it reminds him of anybody.

DEAR DORIS: Everyone likes to be remembered, and I for one do not hesitate to congratulate someone on a special anniversary, and I also try to show concern when someone is ill by a visit, phone call or a card. Should not the recipient, in return, acknowledge this message?

I have even sent wedding presents, and to this day I take it they have been received, but is it not in bad taste not to let the sender know if they have reached them?

Recently my husband passed away, and everyone who was so kind as to send me a card or a letter received my deepest thanks — TOO MUCH TO EXPECT!

DEAR TOO MUCH: Let's face it: Some folks are allergic to letter-writing, and some just plain forget.

Any wedding or anniversary gift simply must be acknowledged! A birthday card or get-well card doesn't carry the same obligation. But a message of sympathy? Quite important, in my book.

We don't communicate enough, and that's for sure. The thoughtful gal who keeps a pencil handy for reminders, and systematically telephones her chums or writes a grateful note for any special message, is building friendships.

Both Mother, Nurses Like Teaching Method

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—Mother and baby—and student nurse—are doing fine in a new program at the University of Ottawa's school of nursing.

Each student in the third year of her nursing degree course is assigned to a mother, to visit at home during the pre-natal period, care for in hospital and visit again after mother and new baby return to their family.

Both mothers and nurses like the idea, says Mrs. M. T. Mellon, co-ordinator of the field work at the school.

"Mothers are always a bit nervous, especially the first time when they're not quite sure what it's all about. This way they not only know their obstetrician but the nurse as well. Seeing another friendly face gives them a nice feeling."

Because the student has visited the home and met the rest of the family, she knows better the kind of problems with which the new mother will have to cope.

"And if the mother is worried about Michael, the nurse will know that Michael is three and his grandmother is looking after him."

ON CALL ANY TIME

Mothers are selected through their obstetricians and matched up with one of the students through the school. The students must be on call to go to the hospital at any time of the day or night, whenever their mother is admitted.

They are with her in the labor room, assist the doctor during confinement and instruct the new mother in care and feeding of herself and her baby while she stays in hospital.

"The nurses love it—they get to talking about 'my' baby," says Mrs. Mellon.

The nursing advantage of the plan is that a complete picture of obstetrical nursing is given, as well as the regular divided training.

"And during the post-natal visit to the home, the nurse can see the effect of her teaching at the hospital bedside, and what can be done in the home."

Co-operating with the public health nurse in the area, the nurse also becomes aware of facilities in the mother's community.

ORGANIZATION NEEDED

Similar programs have been carried out with Canadian post-graduate students and in American hospitals. "It's a trend," says Mrs. Mellon, "but it requires quite a bit of organization."

She feels the size of her school—there are 14 third-year students now—lends itself to this type of experiment. It could be just as effective for all types of patients, she thinks.

Mrs. Mellon's interest in involving the nurse in the community arises from her background as a public health nurse. She graduated from the University of Ottawa school in 1951, took post - graduate training there, and did public health nursing in Ottawa for several years, returning to the faculty in 1961.

She's a mother too. Her boy Peter was born eight years ago.

"I kind of wish we'd had this program then," she says.

Two Pams Now Quite Friendly

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Pretty Pamela's playful pranks became positively painful to the other Pam:

So one Pam took the other Pam to court.

In one of the oddest British High Court cases in years, Pamela Birmingham, 24, sued the company for whom she and Pamela Jones, 23, worked.

She contended Mr. and Mrs. Haus Co., a steel firm, failed to protect her against the horseplay of her friends and co-workers.

She said Pamela Jones did all sorts of things:

—Told the office manager, George Hollings, to telephone Mr. G. Raff at Primrose 3544. When Hollings called the number the London Zoo answered.

—Slapped around the office with a watering can singing: Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary, How Does Your Garden Grow?

—Then she poured water down my back," said Pamela Birmingham. But worse was to come..

"One day she pushed a basket with wheels across the floor; it hit my ankle and injured me."

SUED COMPANY

At that point Pamela Birmingham decided to sue—but to sue the company, not Pamela Jones. She told the judge:

"She is young and pretty and high-spirited. She is very happy person. But she's unpredictable and you never know what she's going to do."

After hearing Pamela Birmingham and her lawyer, the judge ruled:

"I cannot find that the employers were negligent. Mrs. Birmingham has failed to show that any act of Miss Jones was blameworthy."

He dismissed the claim for damages.

"We're really good friends," said Pam Birmingham.

"Yes, we are," said Pam Jones. "And this case has taught me a lesson. I'm going to be more serious now."

Neither girl works for J. M. J. Haus anymore.

Susanna's Family Fare

THE ART OF WORRYING

Dear Susanna: Without knowing too much about a person, Susanna, would you have any one single bit of advice for worriers — like me? — Wos la Me!

Before I answer, Woe, could we clarify one point? We are discussing healthy, resolvable trouble here, not tragedies.

All right? Now stand back!

One dreary, cold day, late in February, I had such a back log of problems causing me so much concern, that my only consolation was the thought that in time, everything would come out the same for all of us anyway.

It was in this vein that I sat down and described each one of these troubles in a tiny note book, dated the entries, and tucked it in with my Christmas cards to file for filing and keeper of my desk. I intended to check back from time to time to see which ones, if any, I had been able to do something about. However, because I was doing myself in completely by the art of worrying, I promptly forgot about the memos I had made until the following November when it was time to check over our Christmas address lists.

When I opened up the folder there was the little black book.

No one could have been more startled than I at what was revealed there. Without exception, every single one of those solved, dissolved or resolved!

Ever since, I've been able to face up to problems magnificently, knowing that if I simply keep calm and ride this set of troubles through, it will only be a matter of time before I am able to replace them with an entirely new set! — SUSANNA

MAILING WRAPPERS

Dear Su: To wrap newspapers to send to the old country, I take the large brown envelopes in which my husband receives business papers, snip off the two ends, and turn them inside out.

This gives me one long piece of smooth, tough, brown paper to roll around the newspapers. If they are very long or bulky, it may be necessary to use two envelopes.

It is best to write the address on first, before taping the wrappers in place. I'm sure you will find that magazines and periodicals (travel) in fine style when securely done up-this way. — Mrs. A. H.

Skidding Birth Rate Is Seen in Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP) — A song making the rounds of Budapest cabarets asks: "A baby or a car?"

The choice is not as glamorous as the song makes it seem.

Low incomes, a desperate housing shortage and the difficulties of every day life make children undesirable for most Hungarians. The car doesn't enter into the picture in a majority of cases.

In Communist-ruled Hungary today, the "negative birth rate" prevails among the urban population. More people die than are born.

Hungary's population rose only 26,000 in 1963, to 10,100,000. For every 100 births there were 140 abortions.

The government is concerned about the situation and measures are under study to reverse the trend.

Low salaries and high prices make it essential for both husband and wife to have jobs in most Communist countries. The Hungarian government is studying a system of part-time jobs for women that would permit them to be mothers while helping the family income.

Thousands of working Hungarian women leave their children in state or factory nurseries during the day. Officials admit that this solution is not satisfactory in the long run, and that there are not enough nurseries to accommodate all working mothers.

The government also has decided to increase family rent allowances sharply to encourage births.

But the housing shortage is perhaps the most dramatic factor preventing couples from wanting children, in Budapest, statistically there are 3.5 persons for every bedroom.

Legal abortion was introduced in 1957 and there are indications that the law will be revised.

Hungarian specialists estimate that if the present trend continues, the average Hungarian married woman will have three abortions in her lifetime.

Church Groups

CHRIST CHURCH CONTACT CLUB

The president of Christ Church Contact Club, Mrs. Edith Pringle, opened the meeting and called on Mrs. Lillian Hickleton and Mrs. Jean Weaver to discuss plans for the Confirmation reception they are convening on May 21st.

The Club decided to send a donation to the church camp, Camp Hyanto, again this year.

A rummage sale held last Friday by Mrs. Jean Ford's group was so successful that another rummage sale will be held later in May and will be in charge of Mrs. Middleton.

A husband and wife bowling party will be held May 16 for members and friends.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Iris Foster, Mrs. Maisie Daley and Mrs. Jean Weaver.

Resolutions Asking Nurses Receive Better Treatment By Government Endorsed

TORONTO (CP) — Resolutions asking that nurses receive better treatment under the Ontario Labor Relations Act and that the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario seek certification as representative for all nurses in personnel matters were endorsed at the association's annual meeting Saturday.

The meeting voted that "all legal steps be taken to convince the minister of labor that nurses are not being treated as they would wish under the Labor Relations Act."

The resolutions expressed fear that with individual units receiving certification there is danger that nursing groups may be given into the control of a labor union.

The delegates also passed a resolution expressing dissatisfaction with the progress of collective bargaining legislation requested in February, 1965. The resolution suggested that the RNAO become "involved politically in any manner that will further best the interests of the profession."

Another resolution accepted asked for establishment of extension courses for developing further skills in consultation with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, the Ontario Medical Association. Delegates voted to increase the RNAO membership fee to $35 from $30.

The meeting was told that six county public health units and four hospitals are already certified or in the process of organizing as a result of a resolution last year to "proceed with collective bargaining in whatever way was deemed possible."

Ontario County Health Unit nurses and nurses at Port Arthur and Fort William have formed associations and negotiated agreements.

Mrs. Margaret Cooper, president of the Ontario County unit, described the new agreement as "a breakthrough as far as our profession is concerned. Success of our negotiations will, we feel, encourage other employees of health units to seek collective bargaining."

She said that with the new contract, which runs from April 1, 1966, to March 31, 1967, the unit has risen from one of the lowest paid units to one of the highest in the province.

The health unit in Waterloo County is organized but waiting to commence operations Oct. 1, and Peel County unit is certified and negotiating a contract. Brant and Halton County units are applying to the Labor Relations Board for certification.

Brockville Hospital is awaiting a decision as to which nurses will be excluded from bargaining while Riverview Hospital is negotiating an agreement. Peel Memorial Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough are organizing.

Aussie Labor Opposes Troops In Viet Nam

HOBART, Australia (Reuters) — Arthur Calwell, leader of Australia's federal opposition Labor party, said today if his party came to power it would withdraw Australian troops from South Viet Nam as soon as possible, "in consultation with our allies."

Speaking at the University of Tasmania, Mr. Labor leader said that 800 of the 4,500 Australians serving in South Viet Nam this year would be either killed or wounded during the next 12 months.

Meanwhile, he said he would like to see protests and demonstrations all over Australia against conscription for service in South viet Nam.

50 Fatalities Across Canada Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weekend traffic accidents across Canada claimed at least 50 lives, half of them in Quebec.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, local times, also showed 12 drownings, three deaths by fire and one man killed when he fell from a hotel window in Vancouver.

Quebec reported 26 traffic deaths and three drownings. New Brunswick had eight road deaths—six of them in two accidents—and one drowning.

Four persons died in traffic in Ontario and four drowned.

Nova Scotia reported two highway deaths and one drowning.

Newfoundland had two drownings and Prince Edward Island one traffic fatality.

Saskatchewan had six highway deaths.

British Columbia recorded two deaths in traffic, one by drowning and one in a fall.

Manitoba reported three fire deaths and Alberta one in traffic.

Telling Govt. For 3 Years Says Operator

OAKVILLE (CP) — Murray MacBeth, an Oakville ambulance operator and past president of the Ontario Ambulance Operators' Association, says many Ontario accident victims die unnecessarily, because of inexpert attention by ambulance attendants.

Mr. MacBeth said the association has been telling this to the Ontario government for three years and has been pressing for legislation establishing minimum standards for ambulance equipment and training of attendants.

"Somebody down there is stalling and it's about time they got off their fat other-end and did something," he said Sunday in an interview.

Mr. MacBeth said there are virtually no controls on ambulance services. There are several cases where store owners who also run an ambulance use the same vehicle for grocery delivery.

In one municipality, he said, the dog-catcher who operates an ambulance service uses the same vehicle for both jobs. He did not identify the municipality.

AIR GETS CROWDED

There are 95,000 private aircraft, apart from commercial airliners, registered in the United States.

COLD WEATHER spoiled opening day for many a fisherman on the weekend but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of these two young anglers who enjoy ed themselves in spite of poor luck. Eugene Pringle, 12, of 112 Front St. and John Chapman, 10, 144 Front St., both students at Queen Alexandra Public School, are shown trying their luck on the east bank of the Moira River.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Miss Judy Wood of Toronto is holidaying at her home here.

Mrs. Gladys Moore, Miss Dorothy Moore, Miss Elsie Barnard, Miss Sharon Reid, Mr. Kenneth Kleinsteuber, Kenneth Reid and John Reid attended a youth convention held in Shawville, Quebec over the weekend.

Mr. P.M. Wood is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. O. M. Blaney of Northbrook and Miss Edith Bedford of Buffalo recently visited at the home of Mr and Mrs. John Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhyner Rollins spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle Rollins of Wellman's Corners.

Cold Weather Washes Out Fishing Derby

Uncomfortably low temperatures in the Quinte district on the weekend combined to put a record being set in the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club's pickerel derby in a tie. 23½ inch pickerel, the only fish entered, took first prize. Fred Polesky, 9 Applewood Drive, took the prize winner Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in the mouth of the Trent River, on a rapala lure.

Bob Bisland, reporting from the weighing-in station on South end St., said: "The cold weather made for the worst opening day fishing in years."

Mr. Bisland noted that about 175 members of the Fish and Game Club tried their luck over the weekend but "they might as well have been home."

He said that this year only three out-of-town fishermen registered for the derby. Although Mr. Polesky's fish was the only one entered, other anglers, who had been registered in the derby asked for permission to enter their catches but had to be refused.

GIVES WARNING

TORONTO (CP) — The housing committee of the North York branch, Social Planning Council, says "public housing developments . . . are tomorrow's slums." The committee, in a brief to be presented to the Ontario Housing Corp. and Central Mortgage and Housing Cor., blames chaotic building practices for the danger and warns slums will develop "if we fail to create environments that are conducive to the social well-being of residents."

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate

"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Often, in real estate, one plus one does not equal two. In the case below, $14,000 plus $6,000 does not equal $30,000. This paradox arises because every property has a basic value—costs added to this basic value are usually on a discounted basis.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: When the 5 lots in our subdivision were laid out there was a surplus 60-foot piece of ground between mine and my neighbor's property. He bought it and instead of having 3 x 30-foot side yard, (as is true of the other houses) he has 50 feet.

He has grown tired of the extra grass cutting and the higher taxes, and has offered the piece to me. An appraiser says that land in our street is worth $100 per front foot, or, $6,000 for the extra piece of ground. Zoning regulations would prevent building a house on it so I, too, would have to keep it lawn.

My questions are: Will the purchase of the extra piece of land increase the value of my house by $6,000 (now worth about $30,000)? Will I be able to add the total amount to my mortgage (now about $20,000)? —"Suburbanite"

ANSWER: Land is a valuable commodity (and even worth $100 per front foot as appraised) but, as a surplus piece added to existing lots, its value is highly discounted. The value of your property will most definitely not increase by $6,000. My best guess would be somewhere between $1,000 and $2,500 for the given situation.

Also, you will find that the lender will be reluctant to increase the mortgage to finance the purchase. It will have to be out of your own pocket.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: A tall 200-year-old oak tree is the one distinguishing feature of our block. It is located on my neighbor's property, but, almost half of the branches are on my side.

He has just been told that a property owner has the legal right to cut branches and roots that intrude on his property.

The tree is his pride and joy. Its value is, too. He is afraid that eventually it'll sell the property and the new owner may exercise his right and destroy the tree. This, we both desire to prevent. Is there any way of protecting against this coming outcry. —"Young Lover of Old Trees"

ANSWER: A simple, but rather unorthodox, solution would be for your neighbor to lease the air and subsurface right, for the area occupied by the tree. The effective term would be for the life of the tree.

Since both properties benefit, the rental should be nominal ($1 per year). After that, if you sell the property, it would be subject to the lease and you will have provided the protection desired.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Several faucets were dripping, so I replaced the washers. The result was most unusual; I lost almost all of the water pressure in the hot water line, but the cold water pipes were not affected. What happened? — "Mr. J. J."

ANSWER: There are washers on the market that swell in hot water; the result is a highly restricted opening and loss of pressure. If you will accidentally regular fibre washers, your troubles will disappear.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My bubbler got too good a job — the concrete finish on the cellar floor is as smooth as glass. The bubbler fine, but, when it gets wet it is like sliding on ice. After the third fall my husband insisted that I write for advice. — "D. R. A."

ANSWER: There are special concrete paints with fine sand particles made just for these situations. I recommend, however, that a concrete sealer coat (your paint dealer has this too) be applied first so that moisture in the concrete will not cause flaking of the paint.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Sharp, Gordon Differ Only In Approach

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp said Sunday he and his predecessor, former finance minister Walter Gordon, have the same long-range views of economic nationalism for Canada but approach the problem with different plans.

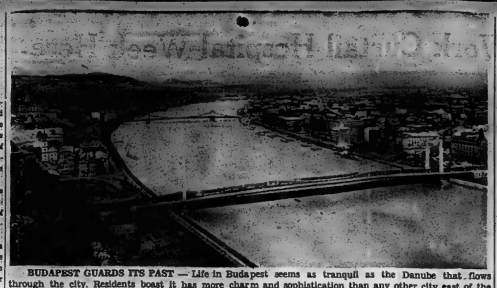
Mr. Sharp, interviewed on the CBC television program Weekend Report, said his view of economic nationalism is outward looking.

It was "one in which Canada recognizes its interdependence with the world and in which we accept our part in that greater world and closer world than there used to be."

Mr. Gordon, Mr. Sharp said, was "rather pessimistic" and against foreign-owned enterprise in Canada.

The former finance minister, appearing a few minutes earlier on the season's final edition of the CBC television series, This Hour has Seven Days, said too many Canadian companies and too much of Canada's resources have come under foreign control. This trend, if continued, could lead only to political control.

SUGGESTS COURSE



Mr. Gordon's new book, The Choice for Canada, urges more forthright federal government leadership and tax policy to end foreign acquisition of Canadian companies and resources.

Mr. Sharp said his differences with Mr. Gordon were only on means, not on objectives, and their differences did not represent a power struggle within the Liberal party.

"I think I'm very much more optimistic than Mr. Gordon. What concerns me just a little bit about this book—although it's a very useful contribution—is that it is, to my mind, rather pessimistic.

"I think we've got a great future in this country and we shouldn't be so worried. I think we should go about our policies feeling that we can play a very important role in the world and that we can provide the sort of life for our people that we'll be proud of."

Mr. Sharp said his views on foreign investment in Canada, outlined in a speech in Toronto on Wednesday, and the views of Mr. Gordon were "attempts to define aims more precisely."

BUDAPEST GUARDS ITS PAST — Life in Budapest seems as tranquil as the Danube that flows through the city. Residents boast it has more charm and sophistication than any other city east of the Iron Curtain. Although the authorities decry the old days of the Austro-Hungarian Empire the city guards its sentimental and cultural ties with the past. (CP Photo)

Rumors of Hungarian Unrest Appear to Be Quite Unfounded

By JOHN BEST

BUDAPEST (CP)—Toward the end of February, Hungary's main Communist party newspaper disclosed the arrest of a number of persons on charges of conspiracy and sedition.

In some quarters abroad, this was interpreted to mean that a potentially explosive situation was building up in this Communist-ruled land of 10,000,000.

There were reports that a government shakeup had occurred.

Hungarian officials were moved to vigorous and even outraged denials. They went out of their way to assure foreign correspondents and diplomats that any suggestion of a budding upheaval here was nonsense.

The episode illustrates that nearly 10 years after the uprising of 1956, the regime remains acutely sensitive to hints of popular discontent.

Taken into custody by security police, apparently over a period of months, were several persons convicted years earlier of political offences and released under a general amnesty in 1963.

One group had originally been arrested in the anti-Communist revolt of 1956. Others, including three priests, were members of the Roman Catholic organization Regnum Marianum and they had been arrested in 1961.

FACE JAIL TERMS

The police struck toward the end of the three-year amnesty period. Had no new offences been committed during that period, the original sentences would have been wiped out. As it is, they reactivated face stiff new jail terms in addition to the prospect of serving unexpired portions of their old terms.

Although the Communist party newspaper account spoke of "conspiratorial plans to overthrow the regime" and of "dark - intentioned sedition," government spokesmen play down the affair.

It happens that the disclosures come shortly after the introduction of new food price increases which caused widespread grumbling among the people.

The increases are part of a gradually unfolding economic reform program. A number of Hungarians have been arrested for being too vocal in their denunciation of the price boosts.

These arrests, coupled with those of the unmasked political prisoners, created an impression among some people that popular pressure on the regime was building up.

Opponents of the regime insist that if it weren't for the Soviet army, still present in Hungary, the Communist system would collapse.

They maintain that communism's popularity has steadily dwindled, resulting in a marked decline in party membership.

"The only ones left are state functionaries," says one bitter critic.

MORE FREEDOM

But it also appears true that many of the things Hungarian patriots fought for in 1956 have been achieved. Living standards have improved, police controls have gradually been relaxed, and the regime allows for quiet dissent.

"There is no excuse, and cannot be say, for those who attack our regime," says the government.

As for Budapest itself, the atmosphere seems calm, even tranquil. The city of 2,000,000 people wears a charm and sophistication given to few on the eastern side of the Iron Curtain.

Residents boast that it has all the charm of Vienna and none of the Austrian capital's commercialism. And they're proud of its scenery, notably the great jagged cliffs dominating the Buda site of the Danube as it describes a wide westward arc on its journey southward.

The metropolis, formed in 1873 when Buda and Pest were amalgamated along with the settlement of Obuda, claims a number of differences from others in the Communist world.

Although Marxist - oriented authorities declare that under the old Austro-Hungarian empire, Hungary was discriminated against and kept in economic subjugation, Budapest jealously guards its sentimental and cultural links with those halcyon days.

Their favor is evoked by the dash and elan of the people the many gracious hotels providing service fit for an emperor; the dignified elderly women conversing in hotel salons for hours, solemnly inspecting everyone who comes and goes and by the superb little orchestras that play Strauss waltzes for dining room patrons.

Tomorrow: Hungarians enjoy freedom to travel abroad.

HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT STILL SENSITIVE — Nearly 10 years after the uprising of 1956 the Hungarian government remains acutely sensitive to hints of popular discontent says Canadian Press correspondent John Best. Opponents say the regime would collapse without the support of the Soviet army by many reforms seem to have been achieved. (CP Photo)

Fishing Limit Helps Industry

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada is considering a 12-mile fishing limit —although not against all foreign fleets—and implementation of the new boundary "has resulted in added protection for our Canadian fisheries," Fisheries Minister Robichaud said today.

He made the point in an address to the 81st annual meeting of the Fisheries Council of Canada.

The 12-mile limit was but one of a host of measures his department has implemented or plans to in an effort to increase Canada's fishing catch, protect stocks and re-gear the $300,000,000-a-year industry for revolutionary changes being brought about by research.

Parliament passed the 12-mile limit legislation almost two years ago, increasing the three-mile limit by nine miles. The act empowers the government to draw straight baselines and this has been the snag.

Straight baselines, from headland to headland, enclose large bodies of water and certain foreign fleets accustomed to fishing in such spots would set up a howl.

"Therefore the government has been negotiating with a number of countries which have been fishing for many years off the Canadian coast regarding the establishment of proposed baselines."

2 Deer Killed Near Colborne Struck by Cars

TRENTON — Struck within minutes of each other by east and westbound cars at the same point of Highway 401, two deer were killed around 5 p.m. Sunday night. The accidents occurred west of the Percy Street overpass, near Colborne.

Mike Dale Read, 25, of Toronto, driving west, struck a deer which bounded from the east lane, across the median.

Donald Kennedy, 59, of Scarborough was driving east when another deer ran from the south edge of the travelled portion of the highway, into his car. This deer ran on into the ditch but was dead when provincial police from Brighton arrived.

Neither driver was injured. Damage to the Read car was set at $250; to the Kennedy car, $175.

The deer were removed by Lands and Forests personnel.

Kathy Smithrim Trenton, Winner Of Finals

TRENTON — On Saturday, at Burke's Falls, 16-year-old Kathy Smithrim, of Dufferin Ave. won out over 28 other girls in the Lions' Club District A, Ontario and Quebec public speaking finals.

Kathy, who is the daughter of Trenton barrister, R. H. Smithrim and Mrs. Irene Smithrim spoke on "Prejudice." For her impromptu speeches, Kathy chose "Things People Say" and "Should I Want to Grow Up?" In the latter speech, Kathy took the part of a teen-ager who decided she really didn't want to grow up because "seven is so much fun."

For her win in the English girls' division, Kathy received $100 and $200 scholarship. She will also attend the Lions' national convention in London, Ontario, later this year.

Kathy worked her way up from local and division sub-finals to win the first prize — a feat never before accomplished by a Trenton contestant, although last year, Robert Ketcle reached district finals.

TRENTON — Comrade Charlie Baker, a veteran of the Boer War and World War I and a member of Trenton Legion Branch 110, celebrated his 88th birthday over the weekend by taking part in the Legion's fishing derby. Charlie was the first one to sign up for the contest last week.

The fish were in a co-operative mood and 18 were weighed in at Garrison's.

Directions Came From Hanoi Says Roisk

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. said Sunday that President Johnson lacks the judgment to overrule wrong advice about Viet Nam from the state department and the military.

Schlesinger, an adviser to the late president John F. Kennedy, won a Pulitzer Prize last week for a book about Kennedy's administration.

Schlesinger said his main disagreement with State Secretary Dean Rusk is the notion that the United States faces systematic Chinese aggression in Southeast Asia, with the Viet Cong as the spearhead.

"The notion that the Viet Cong equals Hanoi equals Peking seems to me crazy," Schlesinger said.

Asked what he thinks about Schlesinger's views, Rusk said, "very little."

As for the official U.S. view that the Viet Cong are directly controlled from Hanoi, the secretary said: "That's not a misinterpretation. That's a fact . . . we know their instructions come daily from Hanoi."

Square Dance Graduation Draws Crowd

FRANKFORD — Frankford Village Squares played host to a 100 Do-C-Do-ers at the local community hall Saturday night. Present, many in western regalia were square dance enthusiasts from Trenton, Kingston and Cobourg areas. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of diplomas to twenty members who have been taking lessons under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Waddell of Trenton. Beginners usually take about six months before becoming full-fledged dancers.

Mrs. Waddell, who assists her husband said they started the hobby in the area in 1961. Since then about 200 members now hold a dance in various localities each week. During the week the enthusiasts visit members' homes to improve their dance technique.

Crowding and Building Work Curtail Hospital Week Here

This is Hospital Week and most hospitals across the country will be staging special events and Hospital Day visits to mark the occasion.

Due to crowded conditions, however, there will be no special events at Belleville hospital — that will have to wait until the opening of the new server and a half million dollar hospital wing scheduled for completion in 1968.

As result, the observance of Hospital Day in Belleville must of necessity be confined to telling the public something about the institution and the important role it served in the community.

Foremost function of all hospitals, of course, is stimulating to the relief of suffering and giving care to the sick and injured.

BIG EMPLOYER

But it also has another very important role — the Belleville General Hospital is one of the biggest employers of labor in the city with personnel ranging all the way from janitorial workers to highly trained technicians.

The hospital also requires efficient executive and administrational officials to keep things going smoothly and also top notch bookkeeping to keep the finances in order.

The modern day hospital is "big business," with an annual three million-dollar operation.

Including nurses in training, there are more than 500 persons at the local hospital with the payroll in 1965 amounting to $2,149,411.

In addition to payroll the hospital last year paid...out $118,756 for medical and surgical supplies, $173,188 for drugs and medicines and $713,879 for other supplies and expenses. The grand total was $3,157,700.

Where does the hospital dollar come from?

REVENUE SOURCES

According to hospital controller Mrs. Dorothy J. Curson, 83 cents of every dollar comes from the Ontario Hospital Services Commission through the insurance premiums which most people pay. Another 13 cents comes from other income patients, while the hospital cafeteria and other minor income sources make up the remaining four cents.

On the other hand 67 cents of every hospital dollar received goes out in salaries. 12 cents goes out for food; five cents for administration, four cents for plant operation, and four cents for "other" accounts. Two cents of every dollar received is retained by the hospital.

During the past year the hospital dietary department served more than half a million meals (524,037), an increase of 23,876 over the previous year.

STAFF PROBLEM

Hospital Administrator Stanley J. Johnston in his annual report to the hospital board of governors, speaks of the increasing problem of adequately staffing a hospital the size of Belleville General.

He notes that at one time staffing for the department of nursing was relatively simple as staff members were more or less interchangeable insofar as general duties were concerned.

But this is all changed now.

Today, because treatment of the sick and injured is intimately connected with scientific developments ranging all the way from pharmacology to electronics, the staffing problem is one of finding the correct proportions of properly trained persons.

As result of the specialization nurses qualified to work in one department are not necessarily competent to work in another without further intensive or post-graduate training.

To help ease this staffing problem Mr. Johnston expresses hope that the new community colleges, one of which is envisaged for the Quinte area, will soon become a reality and that special courses of training will be offered for medical technicians and technologists.

He hopes that even post graduate courses in electronics will be offered for nurses being prepared to operate the new monitoring and telemetry equipment expected for the near future.

Mr. Johnston has high praise for the many volunteers, both members and non-members of the hospital auxiliary, and for the services they selflessly provide.

"The many extra 'chores' performed by the volunteers help keep the wheels turning and make a definite contribution to the improvement of patient care," he said.

But in addition the hospital staffing problem, the Belleville hospital also has an accommodation problem which will not be solved until the new addition goes into use in 1968.

The Belleville hospital has a rated capacity of only 258 beds but up to as many as 323 beds are regularly set up.

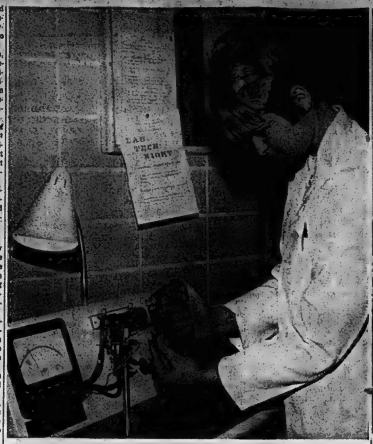
As a whole, the hospital last year had a percentage occupancy of 111.46 per cent while in the medical, surgical and pediatric wards the occupancy rate soared to a whopping 117.46 percent.

This, of course, is the reason for the corridor beds frequently seen set up in the newer parts of the hospital.

During the year a total of 9,118 patients were admitted to the hospital and for some reason or other the patients seemed to be staying a bit longer, thus further compounding the occupancy problem. The average length of stay for patients rose from 11.2 days in 1964 to 11.8 days last year.

CUT WAITING LIST

Even so, the new method of booking elective admissions is paying off in terms of reducing the once lengthy hospital waiting list. By the end of last year the waiting list was down to only 138 and all these were scheduled for admission within a month.

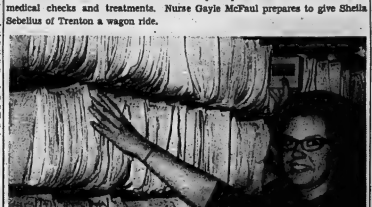


A program aimed at easing the trained nurse shortage has recently been carried out at the hospital.

A nursing activities study has recently been carried out by consultants from the Ontario Hospital Services, the idea being to see if it would be feasible to relieve nurses of all but professional duties.

For instance, it is possibly not good practise to ask a highly trained nurse to act as a department telephone operator, to run errands and perform other non-professional duties.

Hospital Administrator Johnston says, what with constant pressures for more and more hospital beds and with not enough nurses to look after the patients, the fullest possible use of nurses must be made.



In the nursing activities study all department procedures were observed for a full week. The results will be analyzed and later compiled into a report with recommendations to the hospital.

LITTLE RED WAGON in pediatrics ward at hospital is popular with the small patients. Suggested by a member of the medical staff, the wagon is used instead of a wheeled stretcher to transport patients to other floors for medical checks and treatments. Nurse Gayle McFaul prepares to give Sheila Sebelius of Trenton a wagon ride.

MICROFILMING of medical records is saving valuable space at Belleville General. Here Sharon Campbell, assistant medical records librarian, indicates space saved by single spool of film held in her right hand, above her head.

Houk Takes Over ★★★★★ ★★★★★ New Era?

Yanks Fire Keane; Start Win String

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Robinson, playing his first season in the American League, drove in the first runs of the season off Cleveland Indians' Luis Tiant and became the first player ever to hit a fair ball out of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

But in possibly the most significant first of Sunday's AL developments, New York Yankees, playing under new manager Ralph Houk, put together their first two-game winning streak this season by defeating California Angels 2-1 after defeating the Angels 3-1 Saturday.

The victory was the Yankees' sixth against 18 losses, but it pulled them out of the cellar and made them two-for-two since Houk replaced Johnny Keane as manager Saturday night.

"I think this club is good enough to win the pennant, and I've never had a Yankee club that wasn't good enough," said Houk, who managed New York to three straight pennants before becoming general manager after the 1963 season.

'I'LL PROVE IT'

"I believe in these guys, and it'll be a reflection on me if we don't do a lot better. This is no second-division team, and I'll prove it."

In other American League games Baltimore Orioles swept Cleveland 5-2 and 6-3, Boston Red Sox swept Minnesota Twins 8-1 and 4-1, Washington Senators edged Kansas City Athletics 3-2 in 10 innings.

Saturday Minnesota defeated Boston 6-4, Cleveland downed Baltimore 6-3, Chicago edged Detroit 1-0, and Kansas City defeated Washington 5-3.

The Yankees scrambled to their second straight victory with the help of second-inning errors by the Angels' Jack Warner and Jim Fregosi. The errors followed singles by Roger Maris and Clete Boyer.

Robinson's home run, in the first inning of the second game, traveled 360 feet with a roll and drove in the first runs off Tiant, who went into the game with three shutouts in three starts this season. Tiant gave up five runs in all before leaving in the third.

Robinson also hit a homer in the first game as Jim Palmer stopped Cleveland on three hits. Curt Blefary and Boog Powell added homers for the Orioles. Powell also connected in the nightcap.

George Scott's 10th homer, a two-run blast in the eighth, insured Boston Jones' homer had snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh.

Rico Petrocelli drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a single in the opener as the Red Sox halted a streak of 17 straight losses to Minnesota.

Fred Talbot held Washington hitless for seven innings although he gave up a run in the first. Kansas City tied it in the eighth when Bert Campaneris tripled in a run and scored on Wayne Causey's sacrifice fly, but the Senators won it in the 10th on Bob Saverine's run-scoring single.

A bases-loaded, two-run double by Gates Brown in the 11th gave Detroit its victory over Chicago. The game had been tied 1-1 since the third when Bill Freehan homered for the Tigers.

Did we do it needlessly?

One thing is certain—the beer was perfectly good. We believed that right from the start. The tests we make on every batch of product told us so. But now this has been proven beyond anyone's doubt by the most thorough testing ever carried out on a beer in the entire history of brewing. These tests, conducted by Federal and Provincial authorities, have shown that Dow products are brewed by the finest methods and to the highest standards of quality, purity and taste.

Even though we were sure that our products were beyond reproach, rumour was rampant in Quebec City. Dow bore the full brunt of this. We were the natural target for such rumour because Dow is the only brewery in Quebec City and outsold all other brands combined. As the leader in the industry we felt it was our responsibility to provide the needed reassurance.

So as far as Dow was concerned there was only one right thing to do. In the public interest, in the interest of our customers, in the interest of the entire brewing industry, in the interest of the many waiters, hotel owners and retailers who depend on selling beer for their livelihood, we had to remove all doubt from the mind of every single beer drinker. The best way to do this, we felt, was to remove our product from sale. This action was carried out, voluntarily.

Probably because we were the only brewer to take such action (and remember, Government reports have shown that Dow should not have been singled out from others) our action was misunderstood. Apparently people thought there must have been something wrong, or why would all that good Dow Ale be poured out? So the rumours spread about Dow and the peculiar situation in Quebec City. And it seriously affected our sales—even here where Dow Ale is brewed in Toronto especially for Ontario.

However:

If our action served to settle any doubt about the quality of Dow;

if it helped restore confidence in the brewing industry;

if it assisted in the official investigations to determine the real cause of the illness;

if it removed doubt from your mind;

if it proved that we're worthy of your trust,

then we had ample reason for doing what we did, expensive though it was.

So did we dump close to a million gallons of good Dow Ale needlessly?
We don't think so.

Some time ago I wrote a piece in this column about the "imminence" of a mythical war between the North Cement Nine of Point Anne and the South Cement Nine of Prince Edward County.

It was purely and simply a figment of my imagination inspired by a chance remark of a friend who with tongue-in-cheek wanted to know if I knew that Bobby Hull was the innocent cause of "impending hostilities" between the two communities.

Naturally he was "putting me on". It happened during the time that Bobby was striving hard to reach and break the "50-goals" records.

Sheer bellery twinkled in his eyes as he remarked: "I hear Point Anne, the birthplace of Bobby Hull is up in arms because Prince Edward County is claiming him as its son by right of adoption."

I believe Picton's Mayor H. J. McFarland once referred to Hull as "our (Prince Edward's) adopted son" in a speech, and rightly so - because after all, Robert does own extensive properties in the McFarland principality. And you can hardly blame Hinsmor for making such a statement.

But at the same time I do not believe Mayor McFarland had, by any stretch of the imagination, any idea of laying claim to Bobby Ann's unassailable right of being the birthplace of Hull.

The Oz Pointers are a fiercely proud and loyal people. They are proud of their quiet community, its assets, its place in the district and particularly the exploits of its native sons.

After all, what other comparable community in Canada, with the possible exception of Floral, Saskatchewan - the home of Hoey, can erect a sign within its confines as being the "Birthplace of the World's Greatest Hockey Player."

It has been brought to my attention that one or two perhaps more of the community's Hull buffs, are, shall I say, a bit miffed at what is quoted as "other places are trying to capitalize on the Hull publicity leaving Point Anne in the background."

This is nothing more than simple hogwash. Nothing is further from the truth. These silly rumors and I think they are nothing more than that, probably stemmed from the "adopted son" attitude of Prince Edward and the fact that Eddie Shirer organizations in Belleville are tendering Hull a testimonial - presentation dinner.

They are perhaps the mental weapons of a few anti-Hull buffs scraping the bottom of the barrel for ammunition.

Never in the history of Point Anne has its name graced the public prints, magazines, books, radio and television programs more than Bobby Hull's because as internationally-known name and personality.

Practically every writer or broadcaster, at some time has mentioned the fact that Point Anne is Hull's birthplace. It's name even in the last sessions of Parliament when the local member drew attention to the fact an American writer had dubbed the "Point" a "backwoods town in the wilds of Ontario." Not pretty, but it was publicity.

I do not believe Prince Edward county adopted Bobby Hull. I rather think Bobby "adopted" the county. One of the star's ambitions was to own a ranch stocked with beef cattle. And it seems Prince Edward had what he wanted almost made to order. Besides it was just a couple of train rushes from home town Point Anne — and the "family".

This has brought "McFarlandville" a share of publicity - but what can you expect? Prince Edwarders are intensely proud of Hull and his exploits and as the fact he has made a home there. You can't blame them for that.

The Islam-Shrine Testimonial Dinner slated for Thursday this week was devised to pay distinct tribute to the greatest athlete to emerge from the Bay of Quinte area.

Ed Lee of Islam Caravan and Bill Stewart of the Shrine with their committees, felt that Bobby Hull's home area should be among the first to honor the famous Golden Jet of the Chicag Black Hawks.

This city, they felt, with its facilities for accommodation, etc, was the logical venue for the function. Not content with the idea of bringing publicity to Belleville, through the dinner, enter their minds. Nor was there any indication that other communities in the area were planning similar functions.

Now let's face some facts.

The only expenses of the dinner are the cost of the handsome trophy to be presented to the guest of honor; advertising; the catering; hall rental and programs.

THE ENTIRE NET PROCEEDS OF THE FUNCTION WILL BE GIVEN TO THE RETARDED AND CRIPPLED CHILDRENS FUNDS OF THE ISLAM CARAVAN AND THE SHRINE.

When informed of this, Bobby Hull said, "This is the way it should be. I will do anything I can to help."

The only guests of the dinner will be Bobby and Mrs. Hull and the Hull family. Visiting dignitaries, etc. are paying their way. The press and radio are being admitted — at ten dollars per head. This is the way they want it.

And don't be surprised if you hear that Robert Marvin Hull plunked down a ten-spot to attend his own testimonial. That's the kind of guy he is.

20-Year-Man Gadsby Hangs 'Em Up

May Turn Coach

DETROIT (CP-AP) — Bill Gadsby, a 20-year-veteran of the National Hockey League, is retiring.

"I've played my last game," the 38 year old Detroit Red Wings defenceman said Saturday.

Gadsby made his declaion after playing 1,315 NHL games, a total surpassed only by Gordie Howe, the NHL's only other 20-year man who is still active.

Detroit's 3-2 overtime loss to Montreal, which gives the Canadiens their second straight Stanley Cup, was Gadsby's last game. He has never played for a Stanley Cup winner.

Asked what he planned to do, Gadsby said: "I have my insurance business at home," referring to his agency in Edmonton.

"My future in hockey?

"I don't know," Gadsby said. "I'd like to coach. But I'm not sure that I'd like to coach in the minor leagues."

STARTED WITH HAWKS

Gadsby was 19 when he started with Chicago Black Hawks in the 1946-47 season. He went to New York Rangers six eight years later and then to Detroit in 1951.

He plans to discuss his future within the next few weeks with Bruce Norris, Red Wings owner, and Sid Abel, the Detroit coach and manager.

He is one of only three 20-year veterans in the history of the NHL. The others to have lasted so long are Red Wings teammate, Howe, and Dit Clapper, a former Boston Bruins player.

Born in Calgary Aug. 5, 1827, Gadsby played junior hockey in Edmonton and then went into pro ranks. He made the jump into the NHL after spending only 12 games with the Kansas City club in the old United States League at the start of the 1946-47 season.

The six-foot Gadsby, whose normal playing weight was 185 pounds, made rapid progress with Chicago, then one of the weakest clubs in the league. Only once in his eight full seasons with the Black Hawks did they make the playoffs.

TRADED TO RANGERS

In November, 1954, he was traded to the Rangers. They weren't much of an improvement on his earlier company, but in a New York uniform he blossomed into one of the great defencemen of his time. The only rearguard who was consistently rated better was Doug Harvey of Montreal.

He was named to the NHL's first all-star team three times, in 1950, 1952 and 1958. He was a second-team choice four times, in 1953 and 1954 as a Black Hawk, in 1957 as a Ranger and in 1963 as a Red Wing.

At his peak with the Rangers, he also made his mark as a playmaker. For four consecutive seasons, he passed the 30 assist mark and he shared the record for most assists in a season by a defenceman, 46 in 1955-56.

The Rangers traded him to Detroit after the 1960-61 season.

City To Add Honors

Riteways Fete Champs

A truly great little hockey club, the Riteway Novices and their parents were guests of their sponsors at a special dinner at Pape's Saturday evening.

Proud champions all, the youngsters won the hearts of Belleville minor hockey enthusiasts, had words of praise heaped upon them from all sides Saturday, as did the club management.

Don Whelan is the team coach and Murray "Moe" Hunter the team manager. Among head-table guests were the sponsors.

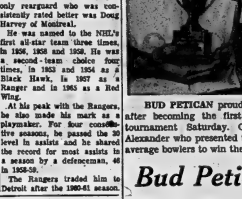
The team has been asked to appear at City Hall this evening to receive gifts from the city for their week-long victory march to the "B" championship in Brampton Easter week.

Riteways also went to the "A" championship in the Napanee tourney, the runners-up title in Gananoque, the great Cinderella runners-up honors in Brampton, the Eastern Ontario League championship, the OMHA "A" and "B" championships.

Mulholland and Ryan presented plaques to each member of the team. They were: Richard Barrett, Mark Coates, Peter Crawford, Wally Dainard, Brian Dubby, Johnny Edwards, David Flesch, Grant Goegan, Steve Kirby, Terry Marsh, Andy Ricketts, Peter Sovrkz, Bruce Sutherland, Justin Thistle, Mike Watt and Tim Whelan. Geogan was the club's leading scorer. He had seven 100 points, including 53 goals, in the team's 50 games. Riteways lost only eight games of the 50.



The parents presented beautiful trophies to Hunter and Whelan, inscribed with each player's name and number. All but two move up to the peewee division next year.

The sponsors received a scrap book covering the team's play this year, each member present received glossy team pictures and glowing tributes were paid to the boys, the sponsors, team coach and manager and the parents for their outstanding support.

Master of ceremonies Armand Dutty also received a gift from the parents.

Head table guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, Mr. Mulholland, BMHA - vice-president Russ Soule, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. G. Alexander. All congratulated the team in brief speeches.

Kingston Wins Over Parsons 4-1

A shorthanded Belleville Parsons team was unable to make a 1-0 lead stand up as they suffered a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Kingston Dunbriks, in Kingston, Saturday.

Parsons make their home debut here tomorrow (Tuesday) night at the Fairgrounds against Kingston Stingers. The game is slated for 8.00 and this will be the first soccer game ever played under lights in Belleville.

Only ten players made the game and one of these, Romano Degrosva, was injured, leaving the losers with only nine players for much of the contest.

Dunbriks got off Dunbriks early, attacks and took a 1-0 lead when Bob Rutherford got a free shot after 30 minutes of play. Max Valyear jumped on Rutherford's rebound and drove it home for the 1-0 lead.

Dunbriks tied when Docherty's header was deflected into the goal by Parson's' captain, Joe Iaesnis.

Two goals by Angelio Popazzi and another by Jerry Birks gave last year's champions, the Dunbriks, the 4-1 decision.

Match Play, 5-Pin Champion

BUD PETICAN proudly displays the Intelligencer Gold Cup and replica after becoming the first winner in the Belleville and District five-pin classic tournament Saturday. On right is Intelligencer staff sportswriter Garry Alexander who presented the trophy. Petican defeated 23 of the area's top average bowlers to win the honors.

Bud Petican Wins Gold Cup

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Bud Petican rolled the lowest game of the tournament early in the day Saturday but it didn't seem to bother the district "quiet man of bowling."

Petican recovered from a 107 game to capture the first annual Intelligencer Gold Cup Classic match play five-pin championship.

Divided into three groups of eight for the first round, each man bowled one game against each of the others in his group. The top two winners from each division then advanced into the semi-final.

They were Jack Canning, 6-1, and Paul Bailey, 6-2, from group one; Leo St. Louis, 6-1, and Harry Ridley, 5-2, from group two; Bud Petican, 5-2, and Bob McKinder, 5-3, from group three.

Bailey won a two-man playoff over J. McKenzie to join Canning from group one while McKinder ousted Glenn Hamilton, Jim Saider and Joe Allen in a four-way playoff to qualify from group three. The playoffs were necessary after ties in the games won-and-lost columns.

Petican, who finished well up in city averages this year with a 246.53 average, clashed with St. Louis is one of the two-of-three, semi-final matches. He disposed of St. Louis in two straight, 300-217 and 274-202.

Jack Canning reached the finals by ousting Trenton's P. Bailey in the same manner. The scores were 296-237 and 303-231.

Harry Ridley was the third finalist but had a tougher time making it. He lost his first semi-final match to McKinder from Trenton, 243-228, Ridley came back to win the next two, however, 272-152 and 245-182.

The finals saw each man play two matches against each of the others in a double round-robin.

Petican opened the finals at a fast clip, topping Ridley 228-174 and Canning 278-198. In the third game, Ridley downed Canning 228-208.

Ridley stopped Petican from wrapping up the crown early by posting a "must" win in the fourth game. The score was 220-215. That tied Petican and Ridley for the lead with records of 2-1 each.

Canning was eliminated in the fifth match when Petican defeated the southpaw 249-211, assuring the winner of at least a tie for the top.

Pressure of match play and some stubborn corner pins caused Petican trouble keeping his scores low in the final round.

Petican was presented with the beautiful Intelligencer Gold Cup, and two large baskets of groceries for his triumph. Ridley and Canning received gold medals as finalists, McKinder, Bailey and St. Louis silver medals as semi-finalists.

High single awards were given in the afternoon opening round. They went to Jack Canning from group one with 317, to Jim Begley from group two with 346 and to Joe Allen from group three with 340.

Competition was close with many of the games decided by a few pins. Petican's 107 game in his third game of the day lost to McKinder who had a 270. Petican came right back with two games over 300. Ridley on the other hand had a big 326 in his first match but still lost, to St. Louis' 239.

Following are the won and lost records for each group in the first round, including the playoffs in groups one and three.

Group one: J. Canning 6-1, P. Bailey 6-2, J. McKenzie 5-3, J. Hamilton 3-4, C. Fletcher 3-4, B. Doline 3-4, C. Hardwick 1-6, W. Dever 1-6.

Group two: L. St. Louis 6-1, H. Ridley 5-2, L. Labelle 4-3, J. Begley 4-3, G. Irwin 4-3, T. Kowash 2-4, L. Lucciola 2-5, R. LaVeur 0-7.

Group three: B. Petican 5-2, B. McKinder 5-2, G. Hamilton 4-4, J. Allen 4-4, J. Saider 4-4, G. Cormier 3-4, A. Butler 2-5, A. Clark 2-5.

"Speed Fight" Clay

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay flew off to London predicting a speed fight with Henry Cooper and already looking beyond the Cockney veteran to his next opponent.

"I'm gonna be about 208 pounds for Cooper, that's about 11 under what I was when I beat George Chuvalo," the world heavyweight champion from Kentucky said here Saturday night.

"This is gonna be a speed fight. I gotta be fast. That man can get in and punch fast. And I might be in trouble if he tagged me."

Clay, who will defend his title against Cooper May 21 in London, knows what it is to be tagged by the British champion. He stopped Cooper in 1963 but not before being knocked down.

"They say I was looking at Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor when he hit me, but that's not so.

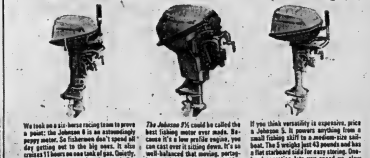
"I just didn't see the punch coming.

"The man I fight after Cooper will be another heavyweight who can whip James Ellis, my sparring partner."

Clay ridiculed that this heavyweight would have to be ranked in the first five by Ring magazine, not the World Boxing Association.

"I don't recognize the WBA," he said.

Wins At Harewood



JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — Rudi Bartling of Toronto opened the 1966 motor racing season in Ontario Saturday when he won the 30-lap Great Lakes Trophy races at Harewood Acres.

Driving a Porsche RS06, Bartling fired off a challenge from Louis Donolo of Toronto in a Meriyn.

We raced our six horses against six others—and lost.

We took on a six-horse racing team to prove a point; the Johnsons 6 is an astonishingly peppy motor. The Johnsons don't speed affray getting out to the big races. It also cruises 11 hours on one tank of gas. Quietly. As for the race, we placed second. But Tom Dorchester's Glenthompson has 25 miles an hour. And his horses weren't swimming.

The Johnson 25's could be called the best fishing motor ever made. Because it's a low profile engine, so you can cast over it sitting down. It's so well-balanced that moving, carrying and fishing is a cinch. Ridging fitting out from the inlet, and the steering-handle folds neatly out of the way.

If you think versatility is expensive, price a Johnson 3. It powers anything from a canoe to a fishing skiff to another 3-horse boat. The 3 weighs just 42 pounds and has a self-balanced idle for easy starting. Overhead operation lets you speed up, slow down, or stop without putting down your trolling rod. This year's 3 is even quieter than before.

The Johnson 3 offers two different speeds—Angle-Master and High-Thrust Drive. Both weigh just 35 pounds. The Angle-Master drives skiffs easily over rocks and weedbeds and through weeds. The High-Thrust model is ideal for sailboats and medium craft. Unlike others the Johnson 3 is a two cylinder motor—very smooth running.

West Blasts Referee

Generals Whip Oil Kings 6-2

By JOE DUPUIS

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Ray Kinasewich blamed his goal tender and manager still Hunter lashed out again at the referee after Edmonton Oil Kings lost 6-2 to Oshawa Generals Sunday and fell behind 3-1 in the Memorial Cup finals.

"You don't expect that a fellow who's old as well as season will choke up all of a sudden, but that's what he's done," said Kinasewich, explaining why he yanked regular goalie Don McLeod after the first period.

Kinasewich said McLeod, who plays with a deformed foot, has been unable to skate in three games against the Generals.

McLeod missed three of the first five shots he faced Sunday.

The fourth game of the best-of-seven series for the Canadian junior hockey championship will be played Tuesday night. All games in the series are at Maple Leaf Gardens and Sunday's contest drew 7,305.

Hunter, who verbally lambasted referee Frank Dale's result of Montreal for being too lenient during Oshawa's 7-1 victory in the second game Friday night, continued his attack. But this time he charged that Dalhesult refused to penalize Oshawa players for pulling the puck under their bodies when CALLS 22 PENALTIES

Dalgneault called 22 penalties and one of them, late in the second period to Oshawa's Barry Wilkins, was for trapping the puck and delaying the game. Otherwise, Hunter claimed, Dalgneault was "only five feet away and wasn't calling them."

The Generals again used accordeonman Bobby Orr only on power plays because of a groin injury, but centre Danny O'Shea stepped into the breach for the second time in a row.

O'Shea scored two goals, bringing his series total to five after a three-goal performance Friday night, and was especially dangerous on the power play. Both his goals came when Edmonton was shorthanded.

Wayne Cashman and Rom Dudaimne also connected on the power play for the Generals while George Babcock and Bill Lind rounded out the Oshawa scoring.

Both Oil King goals—by Ross Perkins and Ron Walters in the second period—came with the manpower advantage.

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane came in a gentleman and went out the same way—with kind words for New York Yankees who fired him Saturday as manager.

Keane arrived in New York Sunday from Los Angeles and met his wife, Lela, who had flown up from their Houston home. He didn't even know the Yanks had won their second straight game under Ralph Houk until a reporter told him.

"If they can't turn this thing," said Keane, "that is all there will be to it. The pitching wasn't bad, but we just were not hitting.

"I left the Yankees with all good feelings. It has been a privilege to have worked for them.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN

"I haven't had time to talk to anybody about the future. But I plan to contact all the major league teams. They all know that I am out. I want them to know I am available.

"The first I knew was about four o'clock Saturday afternoon," said Keane. "I asked them to hold off the announcement until I could tell the players myself. They agreed."

Keane spent his entire pre-Yankee career as a minor league coach and manager in the St. Louis Cardinals organization.

After Ring Dorres was fired as the Cards general manager during the 1964 season, Keane made up his mind he was down too. He made the move in dramatic fashion—the day after the Cardinals won the World Series from Yogi Berra's Yankees.

Track And Field

BCI Wins 1st Regional Meet

BCIVS overwhelmed all opponents to easily win the team title in the first Belleville Regional Track and Field Meet at Moira Secondary School, on Saturday.

The first four finishers in each event qualified to enter the annual COSSA Bay of Quinte championships being held at Trenton High School this Saturday, May 14.

Two other regional meets were also held, for "B" schools at Trenton and for "C" schools at Stirling. The meet at Moira was for "A" schools.

BCI piled up 306 points to grab first place in the six-school meet. Moira S.S. was second with 189 and Quinte S.S. edged out Albert College for third place. Quinte had 185 points and Albert 183, Ontario School for the Deaf was a close fifth with 181. Nicholson Catholic College was a weak last with only three points.

Since this is the first regional meet, all results will be considered records for the Belleville region.

In the juvenile division, for under 16 years of age, Wright of BCI was individual champion with a total of 27 points.

BCI's Cass took the junior crown, for under 15 year old, with 27 points.

The Jets remained on top Sunday by downing Syracuse Chiefs twice, 4-3 and 9-1. Rochester Red Wings and Toledo Mud Hens were rained out of a pair of games in Toledo.

On Saturday, Toronto edged Richmond 3-2, Toledo shipped Syracuse 1-0, Rochester tripped Columbus 3-2, and Jacksonville's game at Buffalo was postponed because of cold weather.

Beavers Square Cup Series

CALGARY (CP) — George Roy, coach of Sherbrooke Beavers, called for a quick referee Saturday after his club evened the 1968 Allan Cup final series.

Roy, a veteran of minor professional ranks, threatened to pull Beavers out of the game with Drumheller Miners, unless Destroy Van Dooden of Edmonton wasn't impected to replace John Kotzma of Yorkton as referee for the remainder of the series.

Beavers posted a 4-1 victory before about 2,100 fans after dropping a 6-5 verdict in the opener.

"I don't want any of my guys knocked out of the series," Roy said. "These guys have jobs."

TORNED TOUGHT PLAY

His complaint that Kotzma overlooked rough play considerably. Kotzma's assistants were linesmen Jules Switck of Saskatoon and Joe Cassidy of Calgary.

Drumheller's goal was scored by Gene Lambert, who punched a rebound past Serge Aubry midway through the second period.

Aubry blocked 39 shots compared to 26 by Sherbrooke goaltender Al Rollins, former National Hockey League standout.

Hab Fans Honor Champions

MONTREAL (CP)—A crowd of about 600,000 persons lined a humble route Sunday to pay tribute to Montreal Canadiens this year's National Hockey League champions and winners of the Stanley Cup.

A motorcade of players and club officials took more than four hours to travel the distance. They were treated to a barrage of cheers, confetti and paper as the parade wound its way through city streets from the Montreal Forum to Lafontaine Park.

After the parade the players were guests of the city at a banquet where Mayor Jean Drapeau presented each team member with a six-month entry to the 1987 Montreal world's fair.

Kauai King Wins Run For The Roses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainer Henry Forrest has been too busy during the last year to visit his new Tennessee home and there's no let up in sight as he prepared today to ship Kauai King, the Kentucky Derby winner, east for the Preakness.

"I bought a little, six-tree place at Brentwood, near Nashville, more than a year ago, but I've spent only one night there since then," Forrest said.

Forrest, a winner with the first colt he ever saddled for the Derby, gave much of the credit to jockey Don Brumfield.

"He rode just wonderful," Forrest said. "I told him before the race there might be some horses in front of him at the start, but to use his own judgement."

ADVOCATOR CAMP HAPPY

Almost as pleased as Forrest were some in the camp of Advocator, a surprise second finisher in America's most glamorous race. A groom, Albert Foley, proudly reported the colt would become Horse of the Year.

Jim Padgett, trainer of third finisher Blue Skyer, said he couldn't have been more thrilled" with the race.

With exception of Fleet Shoe, all of the colts from the Derby were rested or ailed in good health Trainer Larry Sterling said Fleet Shoe was "a little touchy in the left knee."

Both Fleet Shoe and Abe's Hope, the second choice in the betting and fifth colt under the finish wire, may get some rest from the racing wars. The others will continue training for summer racing.

All of the first six finishers—Kauai King, Advocator, Blue Skyer, Stupendous, Abe's Hope and Rehabilitate, ridden by Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B.—had a tag shot at the $130,500 first prize until the last. As the field swept under the wire, only about 25 feet separated the six. Eight lengths back was Amberold, who came from last place after a slight stumble coming out of the starting gate.

Fleet Shoe, Exhibitionist, Sky Guy and Williamston Kid followed in that order. Trailing the field over the finish line were Quinta, Tregulow, Sean Bob and Dominet.

The victory in the $185,000 Derby, which matches the second richest in the history of the event, marked a handful of firsts:

It was the first entry in the classic for owner Michael Ford and trainer Forrest and the first Derby ride for Brumfield. Kauai King also was the first Maryland - bred to win the Derby and the first since Jet Pilot in 1947 to lead at every call.

He also may be the first Derby winner whose name still causes argument two days after his win to the winner's circle.

"I don't know how you pronounce it," Forrest confessed.

Pappin Scores Three

Americans Whip Barons

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jim Pappin, the top scorer in the American Hockey League's playoffs last season, is at it again.

The 26-year-old native of Copper Cliff, Ont., who played two seasons with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, scored all three goals Sunday night to lead Rochester Americans to a 3-1 victory over Cleveland Barons.

Saturday night Cleveland dumped the Americans 5-1.

The Americans were shoved out of their home rink in Rochester several weeks ago by a bowling tournament and played Sunday's game in Buffalo, home of the Bisons. A crowd of 7,655, largest of the AHL season in Buffalo, saw Dick Gamble set Pappin up on all three goals. Keith McCreary got the only Cleveland goal.

San Francisco Giants may have pulled off a unique double play at St. Louis, spoiling the Cardinals' farewell at Busch Stadium.

Cepeda has a lifetime batting average of .308, he put on quite a show before changing uniforms, hitting a grand slam homer Saturday and driving in two runs with a pair of hits Sunday.

The Giants haven't needed much help this season. After a 15-run explosion Saturday, Willie McCovey, Jim Hart and Willie Mays hammered homers Sunday. Mays' was No. 513 of his career.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati Reds edged Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, Pittsburgh Pirates stopped Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, Houston Astros defeated Atlanta Braves 5-4 and New York Mets pounded Chicago Cubs 5-1 after losing the opener of a doubleheader 2-1.

HOUSTON POSTS SHUTOUT

Saturday, Chicago nipped New York 3-2, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 7-3, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 14-2, San Francisco crushed St. Louis 15-2, and Houston shutout Atlanta 2-0.

Jim O'Toole checked the Dodgers on three hits in the seven innings he was on the mound, singled home what turned out to be the winning run for the Reds in the 10th inning and, posted his first victory since Sept. 14. Tony Perez' sacrifice fly drove in the Reds' insignificant run off loser Pete Charles.

The Pirates snapped a 2-2 tie in the 10th inning on a walk to Willie Stargell and singles by Donn Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski. Bob Veale went all the way, scattering eight Phillies' hits. Veale also drove in a run with a single.

Run producing singles by Joe Torre and Lee Thomas gave the Braves a 4-3 lead in the eighth, but the Astros came back in the ninth with the aid of errors by Frank Bolling and Woody Woodward. Rusty Staub scored the tying run on Wood ward's wild throw before Joe Morgan drove in the winner with a bases-loaded single.

The Cubs won the first game despite collecting only two hits. The first, a single by Glenn Beckert in the sixth innings off Jack Hamilton, drove in two Chris Short runs and set off homer.

Dennis Rohan, who spends his winters in Burlington, Ont., with his Canadian-born wife, stopped the Cubs on five hits in the nightcap while the Mets put it cut of reach with a five-run third inning. Jim Hickman triggered the rally with a lead-off homer.

TRIPLE ROMANCE FOR ANN MAGERT in "MADE IN PARIS"

It's no wonder America's theatre owners named Ann-Margret "Outstanding Star of the Year." Wait until you see her in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's scintillating new romantic comedy-drama, "Made in Paris." She shakes up Paris with flair, dances up a storm, Santamaria's rhythms, shimmers to Count Basie's beat, romances a French movie revolutionizes French fashion in a "100,000 Helen Rose-designed wardrobe, and when romantically involved with not one but three leading men—Louis Jourdan, Richard Crenna and Chad Everett. And adding to the fun are Edie Adams and John McGiver.

Everything about this picture, including a spectacular Paris Fashion Show, with what today's girl will wear tomorrow worn by the most beautiful models, is designed for entertainment. Filmed in Panavision scale by producer Joe Pasternak, in Panavision and Metrocolor, it has extravagantly striking settings, ranging from sumptuous apartments, fabulous night clubs and historic to the environment of Les Champs Elysees.

On top of that, "Made in Paris" has wit, humour, sizzling love scenes and skylarking. Put "Made in Paris" which is now showing at the Belle Theatre, on your must list. It's the entertainment gem of the year.

Son of Walter Huston Acted Once With Father

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—"It's just as well that my father can't see me now," said John Huston with a dash of pity.

The director was ruminating over how the late Walter Huston, the best American actor of his generation, might have felt about his son's adventures into the profession. Lanky John is playing a bit of a role as M, the mysterious boss of James Bond, in Casino Royale.

"It's very brief, really," he said over a glass of sherry during the luncheon break at Shepperton Studios. "I only do three roles because I can't get other actors to do them."

He is directing a sequence in Casino Royale, which features a must-star cast that includes Sean Connery: It was the one Ian Fleming novel that the producers of "Thunderball" etc., didn't own. The Huston sequence is so wild as to make Connery's Bond seem like Sherlock Holmes.

Huston acted only in a lark when he was a youngster, and only once with his father, who was Toronto-born. He returned to makeup when Otto Preminger persuaded him to play a crusty cleric in The Cardinal, and drew an academy nomination.

Last year he directed himself as Noah in The Bible.

"But that was because Charlie Chaplin wouldn't do it," he remarked. "He was my first choice, and the idea of it appealed to him at first. But in the end he decided against it."

Chaplin now is at Pinewood directing The Countess from Hong Kong, and Huston has the other day that he himself ended up playing Noah. Chaplin was delighted.

From the Book of Genesis to James Bond is a far stretch, but John has made the transition in

Lee J. Cobb Was Perfect In 'Death of a Salesman'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The end of a man when his dream world is shattered was depicted powerfully Sunday night in the fine CBS-TV adaptation of Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman.

It was two hours of tense, sometimes painful drama as we watched an aging, defeated travelling salesman move inexorably toward self-destruction, silence desperately by 2 family lies—of quick fortune, of fame, of popularity—on which he built his shabby life.

Lee J Cobb, playing the distraught Willy Loman, turned in an overwhelming performance. It was as effective as his Broad way portrayal of the role 17 years ago. Mildred Dunnock portrayed Loman's loving, patient and blindly loyal wife with equal power.

The drama was told largely in flashback to happier days and was, of course, the story of the salesman—"just a hardworking drummer" whose life screamed in the moment of truth.

VALUES SHAKEN

Cobb's distorted values, mostly involving his importance and popularity, were shaken when his dream world began to cave in. But the fantasies also had destroyed his two sons, Biff, who was 34, making $28 a week and was a petty thief, and Happy, a bum,—braggart and

The Trots

OTTAWA (CP)—Jack Locke of South Mountain, Ont., continued to dominate the featured races at Rideau Carleton Raceway when he brought Tarport Scotty home at the head of the pack in the Mother's Day Pace Saturday night.

It was the third time in four starts of racing that Locke drove the winner in the feature.

TURNED DOWN MUSIC

David McCallum, TV's Illya Kuryakin, was advised by his father that music was a safer profession than acting.

Dog Control Bylaw Proposed By Council

NAPANEE — "Dogs and their control are a sore point with municipalities from one side of Canada to the other, according to a recent article in the 'Municipal World'," Mayor Lorne A. Smart says. Every Council talks about them but nobody has yet come up with the answers, he declares.

However, Napanee is planning to pass a stricter by-law. Some of the points to consider are being discussed informally, and one is to raise the fine from $5 to $10 for every dog impounded.

Another point which might be even more effective is to charge the owner even though the dog may not be caught, and have him appear in court. This might be an effective method of dealing with those well-to-do citizens who do not pretend to keep their dogs under leash and who simply pay the fine when the dog is caught, and take him home and turn him loose again. After having been convicted a certain number of times, such a person could be debarred from keeping a dog.

"It is a big problem, and so irritating one," the mayor says. "The solution is for every citizen to co-operate with the law as it stands today."

Around Town

NAPANEE — Members of the Napanee Detachment of the O.P.P. are congratulating themselves and the area for freedom from traffic accidents.

A minor accident on Wednesday May 4 was the last one to which they were called until 3:30 Sunday morning, and it was a minor accident, also, with damage estimated at $200. Joseph Dilley of Enterprise ran off the road and struck a pole near Colebrook.

An accident was reported at Erinsville at 3:30, but no details were available except that there were no injuries.

RED SHIELD CAMPAIGN

The Red Shield Campaign is off to a good start but no returns have yet come in. The material is all in the hands of the canvassers now, and the campaign should be in high gear this week. The objective is $3,185. Harry Moore, a local business man, is heading the campaign.

Mayor Calls Meet to Plan For Centennial

NAPANEE — Mayor Lorne A. Smart has called a meeting for tonight to make plans for celebrating Canada's centennial. Arthur Robertson, district representative from the Ontario Centennial Commission, will address the meeting, and will advise on the formation of a committee and on other matters pertaining to the celebration.

The meeting was called by Mayor Smart for 8:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall, and organizations of the town and county have been invited to send representatives. Whether plans made will be for Napanee alone for will include part or all of the county will be decided at the meeting.

Among those whom the mayor has asked to represent the town are Judge G. F. Smith, president of the L. and A. Historical Society, Wesley M. Allenbrook, president of the Branch 137 of the Royal Canadian Legion; Carson Graham, merchant-treasurer of the town, and Earl Morrison, publisher and managing editor of The Napanee "Beaver."

Mrs. Herb Reade, president of the O.S.T.O.C. Club was appointed a member of the Canadian Centennial Women's Activities Committee early this year, will also attend.

Prizes are given, and all the kiddies have to furnish is their bait and fishing tackle. The club furnishes boats, life jackets, boat operators, and all the hot dogs and other refreshments the boys and girls can eat.

Youngsters from 14 and under can take part, and their fathers need not be club members.

Merchants and organizations of the town give the project support, contributing prize money and donating food. The young folk look forward to this annual event, as it is often the only chance they have all year to go fishing.

CLAIMS HANGOVER CURE

LONDON (Reuters)—A drug company here has produced a pill that, it claims, will cure a hangover in 15 minutes. The company said that in tests carried out on 1,000 persons last Christmas, 800 reported that the hangover feeling quickly disappeared.

Historical Society Panel to Discuss Future Projects

NAPANEE — "A green belt, a parkway, an historical house in a park setting are they improbable dreams, or the key to progress for our country and county town?"

This question, and its various aspects, will be discussed by a panel of eminent people Wednesday evening, when the Lennox and Addington County Historical Society holds its annual meeting in the County Memorial Building.

The panel has been dubbed "Show," a word made up of the initials of the names of the panelists: Mrs. G. F. G. Stanley of Chaffey House, Kingston; Mr. John King of the Napanee Region Conservation Authority; Professor Ellis of R.M.C.; and Dr. Allan Walters, a Toronto psychiatrist, formerly of Napanee, who has made the study of history of this area his chief outside interest.

Moderator of the program is Mr. J. Earl Morrison of the Napanee "Beaver," president of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Stanley is interested in the restoration of early houses of Ontario, including the Macpherson house, for which she specially received the Centennial grant for Napanee. Professor Ellis is concerned with having Highway No. 33 from Kingston to Adolphustown become a parkway, Mr. King is interested in the proposed greenbelt along the Napanee River. He is field officer for the Conservation Authority.

Wanted Man Facing Trial For Kidnapping

PARIS (AP) — One of France's most wanted men goes on trial today for the kidnapping of one of the country's richest women.

The woman is Madeleine Dassault, 65, wife of Marcel Dassault, 74, builder of the supersonic Mirage IV bomber of the French atomic strike force and a member of the French Parliament.

Mrs. Dassault was dragged into a car May 25, 1964, by hooded men who knocked down her husband and chauffeur. She was rescued unharmed about 36 hours later.

SEARCH COUNTRYSIDE

Policemen combed the countryside where the car was seen heading. It happened to be my constituency. Dassault represents in the National Assembly.

Two bicycle-riding gendarmes shouted "anyone there" in a supposedly abandoned farmyard, where Mrs. Dassault was being held and, she explained: "My guard shook like a leaf, he was armed but I was getting fed up, so I called out."

Her guard, Mathieu Costa, surrendered. Two other men, brothers Gabriel and Gaston Darmon, were later arrested but the fourth—identified only as Dominique—escaped in a car.

Dominique was never found but, on Oct. 30, 1964, Casanova was arrested by police and charged with taking part in the abduction.

West Is Doubtful Chinese Explosion Was Real H-Bomb

By VERGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters) — Newspapers brought out their biggest banner headlines here today to announce China's thermonuclear test, but gave the world no further details of what the scientists achieved.

There was little sign of public excitement in Peking streets.

News reports were confined to the text of the official announcement, with its enigmatic phrase that the device exploded over western China Monday contained thermonuclear — or hydrogen bomb—material.

No explanation of the nature or strength of the blast was available today from Chinese officials.

The test was China's third since 1964. The phrasing of the announcement suggested the device had at least elements of the hydrogen bomb — a feat that marks a major forward in China's nuclear progress.

Newspapers announcing the successful test carried no official public noticeboards all over Peking and the announcement was broadcast in full.

REITERATES STAND

Immediately below the announcement of the test in The People's Daily today was a reiteration by Premier Chou En-lai of China's attitude toward the United Nations and its possibility of war.

He said China would not provoke war but if it was attacked by the Americans, the war would have no boundaries.

The premier's statement was made a month ago in a press interview and observers said the timing of its publication, as well as its place in the official newspaper, left no doubt that it was intended to complement the nuclear announcement.

Chou promised China's "support and help" if any country met with aggression by imperialists headed by the United States.

Without mentioning Viet Nam, he said China would back wars bombed by the United States it would feel justified in sending troops across China's borders to attack American forces in Asia.

Addressing the U.S. directly, Chou said: "If you come from the sky, why can't we fight back on the ground? That is why we say the war will have no boundaries once it breaks out."

ARE SPECIFICAL

(In Washington, U.S. officials were skeptical the Chinese had set off an H-bomb.

(U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and state department officials said they were awaiting analysis of radioactive debris from the atmosphere before making definitive judgments.

(Scientists at Niigata University, northern Japan, said they would collect debris from the rooftop of Niigata's municipal office building to detect fallout expected to reach Japan starting Wednesday.

(Experts at the French nuclear energy commission in Paris interpreted the Chinese announcement as meaning the bomb was an atomic bomb containing thermonuclear materials such as tritium, deuterium and lithium.)

The Peking announcement suggested the bomb was exploded in the air and probably

Will Get Warmer Tomorrow

TORONTO (CP) — Warmer weather will reach front - hit Ontario by Wednesday afternoon and temperatures may be back to normal by the weekend, the weather bureau said today.

The forecast came after frigid arctic air brought overnight temperatures down to 19 degrees at Kapuskasing in Northern Ontario and into the 20s and 30s in the south.

The warming trend is due to start after four straight nights of frigid air. Lows forecast for tonight range from 30 at Muskoka and Killaloe up to 38 at Windsor.

"The back of the cold spell will break tonight," the weather man said. "We should be back to normal by the weekend."

Forecast highs for Wednesday are in the 40s for Northern Ontario and the 50s for central and southern sections of the province.

Today's forecast points to the 70-degree readings in Alberta on Monday and today. It said:

"This air will push northeast and contribute to the melting of the present cold snap in Ontario."

The cold dry weather has delayed spring planting and farmers say rain is needed. But forecasts are for clear weather in southern Ontario and variable cloudiness with scattered snowflurries in the north.

Will Not Use Atomic Bombs As Blackmail

PEKING (Reuters)
Premier Chou En-lai pledged today that China will never use nuclear weapons to blackmail other countries.

China's purpose in developing nuclear weapons was defence and its ultimate aim was the elimination of nuclear weapons, he told a farewell banquet for a visiting Albanian government delegation, the New China news agency reported.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Warm, air now flooding northeastward into the south western parts of the Northwest Territories should contribute to the weakening of the high pressure cell on Hudson Bay. Consequently, although temperatures will below normal, a moderating trend in the day time temperatures is anticipated from Wednesday on. Tonight, however, will again be very cold with temperatures well below freezing, in most localities.

Gerda Munsinger Never My Mistress Sevigny Testifies

OTTAWA (CP) — Pierre Sevigny said today he gave Gerda Munsinger a ring which he had bought for $5 in Mexico.

The former Conservative associate defence minister said under cross-examination at the Munsinger inquiry that he gave the ring to the German blonde in October, 1960, when he was having drinks in the Chateau Laurier with her and two of her friends.

Mr. Sevigny said he wanted to put straight an incident which had caused a lot of "turmoil and noise."

He said that when he had been in Mexico earlier he had bought about 15 rings and other trinkets to give to his secretaries and other members of his staff.

It was a habit of his to make such gifts, he said.

When he was with Mrs. Munsinger at the Chateau, "I picked the ring out of my pocket—I had paid $5 for it—and gave it to her."

GAVE IT AWAY

Mr. Sevigny said Miss Jacqueline Delorme now had the ring because Mrs. Munsinger had given it to her.

Miss Delorme, a friend of Mr. Sevigny and Mrs. Munsinger, was listening to the inquiry testimony.

Mr. Sevigny also said he went to the day nursery in Boston with Mrs. Munsinger in September, 1959.

He said Mrs. Munsinger had been invited to the races by a friend of his and they had gone to Boston in a driving plane.

Mr. Sevigny said Mrs. Munsinger had never travelled in a government plane. He branded as a "lie" reports that she had travelled in an official plane with him to Sarnia.

LONG PAST

At one point, under cross-examination by Jack Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Cardin, Mr. Sevigny said:

"All this happened so long ago and should never have been brought up in the first place."

At another point, Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, conducting the inquiry, said Mrs. Munsinger was an experienced traveller who had been to the United States "on a number of occasions."

RCMP reports submitted to the inquiry had stated that Mrs. Munsinger was listed on entry to the U.S. in 1953 on security grounds.

Today was Mr. Sevigny's second-day on the stand. At Monday's hearing, he said he spent about 26-27 days in 1960, at Mrs. Munsinger's Montreal apartment, and that was the most time he had spent there.

Mr. Sevigny said Mrs. Munsinger "never was my mistress" and that as long as he knew her in 1959-60 "she was not a prostitute, call-girl nor a call-girl."

The word mistress implied "a kept woman by a married man. Mrs. Munsinger was never this to me."

Mr. Sevigny said that at the request of an old friend, Jacqueline Delorme, he went to see Mrs. Munsinger, arriving about 11:30 a.m. Nov. 27, 1960.

'I FELL ASLEEP'

"We talked at great length. I felt it was the last time I would ever see her. Because I was very tired I fell asleep. When I woke up it was in the early

Gas Find Pot of Gold For Britain

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP)—Natural gas discoveries in the North Sea a few miles off the east coast of England are beginning to look like the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Officials in the government's ministry of power now say privately Britain is probably sitting on the edge of one of the world's largest natural gas fields.

There is quite possibly enough gas available, say qualified sources, not only to fill all of Britain's current needs but also for possible exports.

There has been no official statement to confirm the extent of the finds.

The last public comment one early last month from Shell and Esso, working jointly on a major drilling operation, was the companies were confident their discoveries are "of considerable importance."

ESTIMATE STRIKE VOLUME

Reports Monday said the volume of gas from the Shell-Esso strike could be 5,000 billion cubic feet a day.

The production figure has leaped sharply in the last week. It began at a figure of 900,000,000 cubic feet daily and was revised several times times as new drilling reports came in.

The figures do not include a major find reported earlier in the North Sea by BP Exploration Co., a firm in which the government has a major interest.

If proven, the gas finds would mean drastic changes in the whole pattern of power supply in the United Kingdom.

BEGIN PLANNING

Officials in the power ministry have sadly begun preliminary planning for the massive problems the discovery would mean—new pipelines to be built and perhaps new factories to build them, new national power grid, new financing for the conversion from other power sources.

The government has already contracted to buy BPs gas.

It now is expected to press for a sharp reduction in the price it has to pay for further purchases, in view of the amount of gas being discovered.

Extensive gas fields would be another blow to Britain's already limping coal industry. Although coal still provides, directly or indirectly, the bulk of Britain's power, there has been a steady cutback in the number of producing mines and mechanization has sharply reduced the armies of miners.

Will Get Warmer Tomorrow

TORONTO (CP) — Warmer weather will reach front - hit Ontario by Wednesday afternoon and temperatures may be back to normal by the weekend, the weather bureau said today.

The forecast came after frigid arctic air brought overnight temperatures down to 19 degrees at Kapuskasing in Northern Ontario and into the 20s and 30s in the south.

The warming trend is due to start after four straight nights of frigid air. Lows forecast for tonight range from 30 at Muskoka and Killaloe up to 38 at Windsor.

"The back of the cold spell will break tonight," the weather man said. "We should be back to normal by the weekend."

Forecast highs for Wednesday are in the 40s for Northern Ontario and the 50s for central and southern sections of the province.

Today's forecast points to the 70-degree readings in Alberta on Monday and today. It said:

"This air will push northeast and contribute to the melting of the present cold snap in Ontario."

The cold dry weather has delayed spring planting and farmers say rain is needed. But forecasts are for clear weather in southern Ontario and variable cloudiness with scattered snowflurries in the north.

U.S. Military Police Panic Kill 6 After Saigon Blast

SAIGON (CP)—Six South Vietnamese civilians were shot and killed in Saigon today when a Viet Cong mine explosion triggered a half-hour barrage of machine-gun fire by American military policemen.

Five of them — four women and a child—were killed in the street along which the shooting took place. Two of the women died when Americans pumped bullets into an open truck carrying dock workers.

The sixth was shot in hospital where he was visiting a friend. Hospital officials said a large number of bullets entered the hospital but no one else was hit.

Twenty-one South Vietnamese and eight Americans were wounded in the barrage.

The incident began when a claymore anti - personnel mine exploded and blew in the glass front of the Suzie Wong tailor store.

A spokesman said a man was seen jumping into a taxi as the mine exploded. An American policeman fired at the taxi, starting a chain reaction of shooting along the street where other Americans guarded U.S. billets.

One American guard saw a truck moving toward him, carrying a gang of dock workers. He fired into it, and a jeep-mounted American machine-gunner joined in the shooting.

The truck tried to reverse but was blocked by a U.S. military bus travelling behind it. The machine-gun burst tore into the bus, too, injuring the South Vietnamese driver and at least one American serviceman.

3,500 Longshoremen Stage Wildcat Montreal Walkout

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's 3,500 longshoremen staged a wildcat walkout Monday for the second time in three weeks, tying up 49 deep-sea and 18 inland vessels along the waterfront.

The reason the strikers gave was the same as that given for the previous walkout—the tickcting of the dock workers' parked cars by National Harbors Board police.

While hurried meetings were held Monday night by representatives of the union—the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC)—the Shipping Federation of Canada and the NHB, a second issue loomed as a vital factor in the negotiations on the part of the workers.

Union members complained that little progress has been made in negotiations toward the signing of a new contract. The old one expired Dec. 31.

A conciliation board has been appointed, after Jean de Grandpre, Claude Provost of Quebec Superior Court, and the board plans to meet later this week.

In last month's walkout, April 19, union officials tried for two days before they could get the men back to work. They reported on the understanding that the entire parking issue would be resolved.

The exact cause of Monday's walkout was not clear.

One report said several longshoremen had received tickets on their cars parked in a number of areas including the vicinity of grain elevators in the east end of the port.

But a spokesman for the NHB said no tickets had been issued.

Pollution Cleaned Up By 1970

TORONTO (CP)—All industrial pollution in Ontario will be cleaned up by 1970, J. R. Simonett, minister of energy and resources management, told the legislature Monday night.

But Mr. Simonett, replying to criticism, said he does not think the government should seek convictions of firms that cause pollution.

He said he hopes that within 10 years there will be no pollution at all in the province.

Liberal members Robert Nixon and Vernon Singer earlier charged there is a "pressing need" for dealing with pollution.

Mr. Nixon (Brant) said pollution warranted consideration of a conference to discuss pollution.

"Americans have polluted the Great Lakes now we have to act and something should be done about it. I hope we can proceed immediately with a cleanup of the Great Lakes."

BEACHES FILTHY

Vernon Singer (Toronto-Dovercourt) said the filthy condition of the beaches along the Toronto waterfront has been unchanged for years. He asked what the government is going to do about it.

Earl Silverstein (Liberal, Eglinton) said he was speaking during consideration of the estimates of the energy and resources department.

Mr. Singer said "Toronto Bay has almost become a cesspool and there is not one beach along the city waterfront where swimming is possible.

"A whole generation of children's growing up who will not know what it is to swim in Metro-area waters."

John Root (L — Wellington-Dufferin) said that "in spite of the sensational headlines I think we can be assured that Lake Erie is far from being a dead lake as yet."

Mr. Simonett's prediction that pollution in the province's lakes and streams will be eliminated in 10 years drew scorn from the opposition.

CAN'T SET DEADLINE

Mr. Singer said it is impossible to put a deadline on such a program. He accused the government of paying little more than lip service to the pollution problem.

But David Caverly, general manager of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, said on Monday night outside the legislature that the 1970 deadline was a reasonable target for eradication. The commission could not predict future pollution control problems but thought the deadline was feasible.

Fred Young (NDP — Yorkview), said outside the house the minister is absolutely wrong to speak of a 1970 deadline.

"Unless the government is willing to lower the boom, they'll never meet their deadline."

Mr. Young also said many firms are not interested in

Funny Phrases Heard

— Simonett

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Some of the punny, funny phrases on which parliamentary reputations stand fall came during a Tory-led Commons debate on government reorganization Monday.

The debate on a resolution led to first reading of the government reorganization bill, which establishes five reorganized departments, adds to a sixth and creates a new portfolio.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, saying the cabinet already is too large, said it was a mere move by the government "to shuffle the deck and deal a couple of new ones."

When he referred to the forestry and rural development department, Mr. Diefenbaker said he didn't notice any reference to this in the resolution.

CONFIDENCE FADES

Mr. Pearson confidently began reading the resolution, sure the reference was there. He got doubtful about halfway through and wound up:

"I see nothing in today a little disconcerted."

Mr. Diefenbaker then twitted Mr. Pearson about forgetting its "minister of reform," Forestry Minister Sauvé.

Government House Leader McIlraith later explained that it wasn't necessary to mention forestry and rural development because the changes weren't extensive.

"If he says he sees the forestry minister among the trees in this resolution, then we have no objection," Michael Starr (PC—Ontario) cracked.

Conservative Credit Lesley Thompson said he objected to any premise that there should be increased federal control of social and economic activity.

'FIELD TO PRESSURE'

"It seems to me that one of the problems we face today is that we are yielding to the pressures of following the path of least resistance," Mr. Thompson said, phrasing the mixed metaphor with rare skill.

Debate continues today on a resolution that an annual $8

Sanctions Against Rhodesia Threaten to Inflict Painful Bite on Economy Soon

SALISBURY (AP) — Economic sanctions against Rhodesia, which have only been nibbling at the central African country's economy, threaten to bite painfully in the next few months, industrial and economic sources say.

This was one major consideration behind Prime Minister Ian Smith's decision to agree to exploratory talks on the Rhodesian issue with British Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley.

Assessing the general effect of sanctions from the six months after Smith seized independence from Britain Nov. 11, industrial and economic sources say the sanctions have a disastrous effect on the country's economy.

Assessing the general effect of sanctions from the six months after Smith seized independence from Britain Nov. 11, industrial and economic sources say the sanctions have a disastrous effect on the country's economy.

The pressure is on, they say, only a three or four-day week and the government has created work for others who have lost their jobs. The government has stopped releasing figures on unemployment and trade, so there is no statistical guide.

Stores have fewer customers, but this is probably due to gasoline rationing, forcing many shoppers to make only one major shopping expedition a week.

The most widely - publicized aspect of sanctions has been the oil embargo. Britain, with United Nations backing, has stopped all supplies passing through the normal entry point, the Mozambique port of Beira.

But reliable reports from many sources say Rhodesia's oil storage tanks are full to the point of overflowing, and oil supply coming from private trading organizations and friendly governments in South Africa has enabled Rhodesia so far to meet its rationed needs and overcome the embargo.

Extreme government security on sales of the tobacco crop, traditionally Rhodesia's greatest single foreign currency earner, have been remarkably effective. Nevertheless, one well-informed source said sales so far have been about half but not exceeded $5,000,000 to $8,000,000.

Similar secrecy surrounds most of Rhodesia's other traditional main exports—ores, chrome, asbestos, copper, sugar and beef. There are unconfirmed reports that substantial amounts of these still are being exported. Coal still is being sent to neighboring Zambia and also to The Congo because the vast copper mining industries there can find no other reasonably-priced alternative supplies.

By far the worst hit in the automobile trade. Sales of new vehicles dropped 34 per cent in May, first three months of this year, compared with the same period last year. Consumption of gasoline is down four to five per cent.

A leading industrialist said indications are that Rhodesian exports of manufactured goods will drop about 40 per cent to £45,000,000 (US$5,000,000) this year.

Rhodesia has started producing many articles formerly imported—from refrigerators to lollipop sticks.

Belgians Give Queen Welcome

ANTWERP (Reuters)—Cheering Belgians lined the streets when the Queen arrived here today, nearly 22 years after the city was liberated by the British army during the Second World War.

Nine members of a Queensboro area family were turned out of their home early this morning by a fire that levelled the two-storey dwelling.

Mahlon Laishley, his wife, and their seven children, ranging in age from five to 17, escaped injury after one of the children, a 14-year-old boy, awoke about 1 a.m. to find the ceiling of the house ablaze.

By the time the Tweed Volunteer Fire Department arrived on the scene, the house, located about four miles south of Queensboro, was almost totally razed.

The Laishley were unable to save any of their possessions from the blaze, with the exception of three chairs. Anyone wishing to contribute clothing or assistance to the Laishley family is asked to contact Mr. Clayton McMurray in Queensboro at 473-2331.

Strenuous Objections Heard Before Bylaw to Increase City Tax Rate Three Mills Approved

Belleville city council yesterday passed the bylaw at a time the 1966 tax rate — but not before strenuous objection was heard that there were a number of unnecessary items in the year's estimates.

The bylaw to strike was set at 33.3 mills for residential and farm properties and at 36.1 mills for commercial and industrial assessments.

Introducing the by-law Mayor J. R. Ellis noted the budget had been gone over thoroughly during the seven-hour budget meeting last week. All items, he said, had received a complete and adequate hearing.

He admitted the tax rate was up three mills but pointed out that increased salaries and wages for city employees were costing an additional $85,000; the school rate alone was up more than a mill and debenture payments were up two mills.

These items added up to an increase of three mills, but through paring other items council had been able to hold the tax increase to two mills.

OBJECTIONS RAISED

Alderman Donald Joss objected strongly to some of the items in the estimates. He did not begrudge Jack Allin who said the militaire increase amounted to 10 percent.

Ald. Joss objected to the $30,000 budget item for day nursery. He said the money would go to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and the Belleville Industrial Commission, the $10,000 city levy for the support of the Moira River Conservation Authority, and to the $5,000 to the historical society for the purchase of antique lighting.

His suggested some of these monies should be placed in a contingency fund instead of being spent for the purpose voted by council.

Noting that the tax increase was 30 percent Alderman Allin said that by closer scrutiny council could have spent at least a mill off this year's tax rate.

SOME WORK CUT OUT

Alderman Art Keegan and Dr. J. Russell Scott, also supported Ald. Joss, the former noting that more money should be spent on roads and sewers.

Some work of this nature planned for this year had to be cut out because of lack of money, said Ald. Keegan.

Speaking in support of the budget, however, were Aldermen Jack Deacon, Douglas Boyle, Sodom, Carruthers and Williams.

Aldermen Deacon pointed to the heavy expenditure planned for city parks, claiming that some of the budget items objected to by Ald. Joss were quite important.

Alderman Sodom supported the day nursery, noting that in many cases the children attending such a nursery would be from welfare families, thus allowing the mothers to go out and work.

In the end Alderman Joss's motion to place tax monies from some of the items objected to into a contingency fund, was ruled out of order and the by-law setting the tax rate was passed.

On a recorded vote only Alderman Allin opposed the mill rate by-law.

The Munsinger inquiry, headed by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, is investigating Court of Canada, has received RCMP reports describing Mrs. Munsinger as a "security risk" and Sevigny, a common prostitute, petty thief, passer of bad cheques, drug addict and Soviet espionage agent before she came to Canada in 1955. She has denied these charges.

Mr. Sevigny said he told Mrs. Munsinger he would do his best to help her. He said her visitor passport renewed so she could return to her homeland.

He said he never was blackmailed over his relationship with Mrs. Munsinger. She had no access to any files, documents about defence or government matters.

He said this is the crux of this complete investigation, I wish solemnly to say under oath that I never did or said anything that did I have cause to suspect or think that Mrs. Munsinger could be connected in any fashion with any alien group, any subversive group or representatives of foreign countries which since have become hostile to us.

Mr. Sevigny declared that "if I suspected then or now that anyone close to me was in any way connected with the enemies of my country I would be the first to denounce the proper authorities and ask for corrective measures."

TOLD DIEFENBAKER

Earlier, former justice minister Lucien Cardin told the inquiry a security risk had been created by Mr. Sevigny's relationship with Mrs. Munsinger. He had reported the facts to then prime minister Diefenbaker.

He considered Mr. Diefenbaker's judgment in keeping Mr. Sevigny in the cabinet had been vindicated since there had not been at the time or since subsequently any breach of security.

He said the RCMP reports on Mrs. Munsinger did not raise any questions in his mind about Mr. Sevigny's loyalty but only raised questions about Mr. Sevigny's discretion.

Miss Delorme, who described herself as an accountant and "liaison officer" in the fashion field, testified she received a letter, dated April 28, 1958, from Mrs. Munsinger in Germany.

The letter, entered as an exhibit, said Mrs. Munsinger was working for the United States forces in Munich and was also job she held before coming to Canada.

Later, she said, there weren't any more letters from Mrs. Munsinger and she concluded her friend had died of leukemia. Mrs. Munsinger had told her of having a complete change of blood because of the disease. She told Mr. Sevigny that Mrs. Munsinger was dead.

Miss Delorme said she first knew Mrs. Munsinger as Ricky or Olga Rossegger. She had been introduced to her by Hubert Ducharme, whom she described as a lawyer.

WAS BELIEVED DEAD

In November, 1964, she bumped into Mrs. Munsinger and John Doyle, not further identified, in New York. Mr. Doyle had asked about "old Rossegger." She had told him and Mr. Doyle that Mrs. Munsinger was dead. Mr. Doyle laughed heartily.

Justice Minister Cardin in the Commons March 4 referred to the "Monsegnor" case—its first public mention—and March 10 said Mrs. Munsinger was a "newspaper name to us" that Mrs. Munsinger died of leukemia in East Germany. He said his source of Monsegnor in the Commons was "unimpeachable source."

The justice minister also charged that two or more Conservative cabinet ministers involved with Mrs. Munsinger and that Opposition Leader Pearson was implicated in the case when it was brought to his attention as prime minister in 1963.

Mr. Sevigny said he was called before Mr. Diefenbaker Dec. 31, 1960, in Mr. Fulton's presence. He had been "stunned and stupefied" to hear Mrs. Munsinger was suspected of being a spy.

"The prime minister insisted I keep relations with Gerda to stop all communication with Mrs. Munsinger. I told him I had already done so, assuring me that it was only by extraordinary circumstances I had met her. At the end of 1960 I told him I would not communicate with her again and I never did."

He said he knew that if Mr. Diefenbaker or Mr. Fulton had any doubts about him, they would "they would not keep me one minute longer in the cabinet."

DENIES BLACKMAIL

"I was never blackmailed," he testified.

"I was not lacking in physical or moral courage. It's all very nice for the RCMP to say what happens when you are put in a classic example. But it takes two people to make a contract even if it is a blackmailing contract.

"I don't care easily and I'm not one to be blackmailed."

Mr. Fulton said he felt Mr. Sevigny wouldn't yield to blackmail.

Mr. Sevigny said he didn't know Mrs. Munsinger still was alive until he talked to her on the phone March 11, 1966.

"I was so surprised I dropped the telephone on the floor."

Miss Delorme said she called Mrs. Munsinger the same day and was told by her "you know very well I'm too dumb to be a spy."

Miss Delorme said she told Mr. Sevigny in January, 1960, that Mrs. Munsinger was dropping his name and the names of other important people.

"WAS FLABBERGASTED"

Mr. Sevigny had been flabbergasted and determined not to see her any more.

Mr. Sevigny said Miss Delorme also told him Mrs. Munsinger might be becoming emotionally attached to him. From then until November, 1960, the relationship was limited to "chance occasional meetings and some telephone calls."

He said he found out Mrs. Munsinger used his name as a reference on her citizenship application.

"Her main fault was to embellish situations, to add romance to the simplest situation and to exaggerate.

"She had a natural tendency to exaggerate . . . one might have said more than she should have."

COMPLETE TEXT OF ALD. JOSS' REMARKS ON THE CITY BUDGET

Mr. Chairman — Gentlemen: We have before us a bill to enact the 1966 tax levy, which increases the mill rate on residences of the City by approximately three points. It has been reported in the newspapers that, if your house is assessed at around $7,000, this will mean an increase of about $20.00 per year in your tax bill.

$20.00 does not seem like a lot of money, when we are dealing with millions of dollars. In fact, the proposed expenditure of the City this year will be over $5½ million dollars. Yet, $20.00, I would suggest, Gentlemen, is quite a bit of money to a lot of citizens of the City of Belleville. Those on fixed incomes are those who are having a difficult time at present to make ends meet. For those of us who can afford the $20.00, it is still $20.00. This Council is obliged to answer to all citizens and "Where is their $20.00 going to".

I am prepared to vote for the budget before us, and increase the mill rate by three points. However, in being prepared to do this, it does not mean that I am 100 percent satisfied with the budget. I am dissatisfied with several features of the budget and several principles involved within this budget. In total, my objections do not amount to more than one percent of the total budget," and, therefore, I cannot see myself in the position of holding up the business of the City for a matter of ½ of a mill. Indeed, I feel that if ever the mill rate is to be slightly increased, it is a very much needed work in the City accomplished, it should be now when the economy is booming and not at a possible future date, when even more citizens might be in financial need.

My objections rest primarily with the way we spend some of the money we collect, and what I wish to dwell on some of these points.

Today, both Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments are all too keen to embark on ever increasing spending of money in areas where they have never treaded before, on the excuse that the citizens are demanding it. I suggest to you that, if many of these new adventures were closely analyzed, we would find that most of the citizens would not ask for them. Many of these programmes are initiated by the legislators in many cases, in order to make headlines for themselves with certain segments of the population and by bureaucrats to enlarge their own empires.

In the light of the foregoing remarks, I will discuss a few of the points which are included in this budget and which I feel are beyond the scope of these type of Municipal Government.

Firstly, there is the expenditure of $30,000 on new nurseries. In opposing these nurseries, I am not attacking the excellent work the City Welfare Director has done for the benefit of the welfare recipients and the citizens of Belleville. He has done a fine job. The proposal, however, to initiate a new concept of day nurseries is unjustified and unrealistic. The point was brought up at a previous Council meeting that these day nurseries would be subsidized by our senior government to the extent of 50 percent. Gentlemen, I would like to state that there is all too great a trend at this Council that, because something is subsidized by a senior government, it must be a good thing and we must plunge into it. We must keep in mind that the portion which is not subsidized by the senior government comes directly from the pockets of the taxpayers of this city. Indeed, this subsidized portion comes also from the taxpayers, but indirectly. There is no justification for going out and spending money, because it is subsidized, if the citizens of this city will receive no direct benefit from it. Let us, therefore, discard the argument of subsidization on this basis.

Now, what are these nurseries suppose to do? They are suppose to look after the pre-school children of working mothers. I spoke earlier about the citizens of this city who are on fixed incomes, I spoke earlier of the citizens of this city who are having a difficult time to make ends meet, and now I ask should these citizens be asked to support the children of working mothers, who never has reason to be warped. The argument is put forward, and it has been put forward in the local news-paper that these day nurseries will eliminate or help eliminate juvenile deliquency. It is my opinion that good timing in the family is the best way to eliminate juvenile deliquency. Only the parents accepting their responsibility will eliminate juvenile deliquency. I do not object to pre-school nursery schools as such, and, in fact, my children went to them and so did I but I suggest that this is an area for the private and religious sector of society and not the government.

Secondly, I wish to refer to the grant to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. This year, we were asked for $4,000 grant for the Chamber of Commerce. Last year, we gave this body approximately $4,000. Upon my suggestion and in order to avoid a precedent of a $5,000 grant, this Council elected to give the Chamber of Commerce a $4,000 grant this year, and a bonus of $2,000 for the printing of a special Centennial Book, which will advertise the city and the events in the city for 1967. Basically, I am opposed to giving any grant to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

I believe that the strength of the Chamber of Commerce is in itself and within its members. A Chamber of Commerce is essentially an association of the business and professional men of the city formed for the purpose of promoting business interests and business within the city. This does not say that the Chamber of Commerce is not doing a good job, Gentlemen. They are doing a good job and their presence formed is doing a great job, but I would suggest that, for the good of the Chamber of Commerce itself, it must support itself. The body must survive on its own. It must not become a ward of the City of Belleville.

Thirdly, the Industrial Commission. I supported the formation of the Industrial Commission some two years ago, and if I recall, their budget was a modest one of around $10,000. I see last year that it was $19,000, and I see this year that we have a body which is doing a fine job North of Belleville. It is building recreation facilities for the citizens of the area. It is building dams to control the flow of the River. When I was last informed that the Belleville is paying over 60 percent of the levy to this body and that the citizens very little benefit from this body, I question whether we should carry on with it. Likewise, there is no reason they should be asked to help through direct grants to help keep up these parks along the Moira River, North of Belleville. I think we should take over position in the Moira River Conservation Authority, and if we are going to contribute any of the large share of the cost of this organization, we should demand direct action on the Moira River within the limits of the city. If this is not possible, under this Authority, then the Industrial Government should take it over, as it is not within the limits of this present municipal property support it.

Fifthly, there is the $5,000 expenditure for an antique light collection. I am opposed to this. I think it is great that someone should offer a valuable collection of antiques to the citizens of Belleville, but I do not think that it is the government of the City of Belleville's job to support the taxpayers money on such a collection. We have much to do with the city streets, with the city lights, and with the city sidewalks. This is our job. If the unexciting, it is unexciting, but it is our job. Our job is not to buy an antique light collection. If it is the wish of the citizens of Belleville to have these lights then it must be the private sector that obtains them and not the public.

Finally, I am opposed to this Council paying $600 for 40 new chairs for this chamber. This is a small sum when compared to $5,500,000, but all these small sums might add up and they could add up to a point that they would mean a lot to many citizens of the City of Belleville. I say to this body, Gentlemen, that we don't you and me be the ones participate free of charge to run the Belleville Minor Sports Programme with $600. Gentlemen, these chairs that we have now are quite adequate. They are not falling apart. The fact that they are a little uncomfortable is something that we can endure, for, I am sure, there are many people in this city who sit on uncomfortable chairs. In fact if they were a little bit too com-

Toe Safety Council Formed At Corby's

Last Thursday, at H. Corby Distillery, after a special safety film showing for the employees, the presentation of a "Ten - On - Two Club" Charter to the company was made by John Twigg, Industrial Accident Prevention Association's safety counselor, Kingston. Accepting for H. Corby Distillery Ltd., was Mr. J. S. McLean, in charge of production planning.

The charter authorized the establishment of a Ten - on - Two Club to encourage toe protection, and to honor the men and women of industry whose alertness to their own safety has resulted in the prevention of serious toe injuries.

Mr. Borden Shipman, 297 Charles Street, Belleville, received the first membership on March 16 while unloading full barrels of spirits, weighing approximately 400 lbs., and Mr. Shipman had a full barrel roll off an elevator in the warehouse and land on his toe. Because he was wearing safety boots the resulting accident was little more than bruise the toes and instep.

Presented to Borden with his membership certificate was a gold tie clip, a pocket protector and a 10-2 button all on behalf of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, together with a pair of safety boots from the company.

Youth Placed On Suspended Sentence

A 17-year-old Belleville boy will have to be on his best behavior for the next year after he find himself facing a jail sentence.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills warned Robert Woods, 82 Emily St., that he would have to obey restrictions imposed upon him in his part in the breaking and entering of the Belleville Live Stock Sales Barns on North Front St. March 1.

In placing the youth on the two-year suspended sentence Magistrate Wills said he would have to pay costs and make restitution for damages and slight a bond promising good behavior.

Woods will have to be home by 11 p.m. every night except on the nights he attends school. School nights curfew is 12 p.m.

Woods pleaded guilty to the breaking and entering charge two weeks ago and was remanded until today for sentencing.

During the winter months, Belleville cubs and scouts spent some 1125 "boy-hours" in the Y.M.C.A. swimming pool, and 90 boys earned 42 bronze, 25 silver, and 12 gold swimming badges.

Should Horses Be Allowed Near Houses?

Should the keeping of horses be allowed in the city's residential areas?

That is a question being pondered by members of city council who have divided views on the subject.

The problem arose during the drafting of the new dog by - law which also restricts the keeping of certain other types of animals in the city.

Because of complaints from a property owner who built a coffee party in Belleville, sang a solo for the Rotarians.

The Belleville Rotarians, led by President Ernest Burnham made the journey to Cobourg by train, returning later in the evening. The CNR's Harry Fast arranged an engineer as coach on the night train back to Belleville.

The Rev. Douglas Hall of Cobourg addressed the meeting of some 80 Rotarians. As a former policeman, Mr. Hall was a logical position to speak on juvenile deliquency, a subject which he illustrated by display ing knives and other weapons he had taken from wayward youths.

George Martin Named School Board Member

Mr. George Martin, manager of the Royal Bank, has been named to the Bay of Quinte District High School Board to replace Mr. Norman Moore who resigned from the position. The appointment of Mr. Martin was made at Monday afternoon's meeting of city council.

Also in connection with the high school board, Mr. William J. Keith of Toronto has been named as maintenance and building supervisor for the four schools owned by the high school district.

Mr. Keith held a similar position with the Lakeshore District Board of Education in Toronto where he supervised maintenance of eight public schools and four high schools. He will assume his new duties at Belleville on June 1st.

Rotarians Have Fun on Cobourg Visit

Inter-club meetings of Rotary are invariably an occasion for some fun and games, and last night's visit by Belleville Rotarians to Cobourg was no exception.

Following the main course, Belleville Rotarians brought in a cake 5 ft. high cake and invited Cobourg president' Dr. Laurie Lawson to cut it.

Finding this beyond his powers, someone lifted the top off the "cake," and out stepped an attractive girl wearing a bikini.

The young woman was Leslie Gardner of Holloway, a top student at Quinte Secondary School. Miss Gardner, who modelled at a recent business and professional women's club coffe party in Belleville, sang a solo for the Rotarians.

Huntingdon Township Cuts Tax Rate by About a Fifth

In these days of increasing costs a reduced tax rate is something to talk about.

But that is the good news this year for ratepayers in Huntingdon township where township council has been able to lop approximately 20 per cent off last year's mill rate.

The 1966 millrate for residential property owners in the township school area is 68.5 mills, down 17 mills, and the commercial rate 76.5 mills, down 18.5 from last year.

The residential rate of 68.5 mills is made up of 23.7 mills, county, Centre Hastings High School, 21.7 mills, township and roads 12 mills, rotected school, 4 mills, and township school area 11.7 mills.

The commercial rate breakdown of 76.5 mills is 23.7 mills county, 34.2 mills high school, 16 mills township and roads, 2 mills rotated school, and township school area 13 mills.

The big reduction this year is in the high school rate where the 31.7 residential rate this year compares with 32.5 mills last year and 34.2 in the township and roads rate which is down more than four mills. The commercial rate has been cut in half down 12 mills and the road rate just under four mills.

A Tass news agency correspondent in the central Asian city, speaking by telephone to Moscow, said it was still not known whether there were any new casualties.

But he said "everyone is at work, the streetcars are working, the trolley-buses are working," and that modern buildings in the city centre were undamaged.

TRENTON — The United Service Clubs' swimming pool fund has now climbed to $34,339.76.

The members of the Trenton Board of Education agreed last night to hire Trenton architects, Barnett, Calder and Creighton, whose tenders for the outside pool, when Mr. Creighton told them this would be no cost to the board or the people of Trenton. The swimming pool committee had recommended that the cheapest objective might become known. Tenders will include the alternative ways of enclosing the pool.

They Survived

The recent story of Rudolf Hess' continued imprisonment in Spandau prison in Germany, 25 years after his extraordinary "peace mission" flight to Scotland is a reminder of those grim days when the war crimes for which many have long since been sentenced were being perpetrated by the Nazis.

Hess, perhaps, was not tarred with the same brush as were Goering, Goebbels, and Himmler among others. Nevertheless, he was deputy fuehrer, second only to Hitler, and as one of the leading figures of the Nazi movement in the days leading up to the last war he must have known about Belsen and the other death camps where thousands were put to death in gas chambers.

Even today the search goes on for missing Nazi war criminals. Those who survived the concentration camps will never forget what they went through. Many came through the ordeal, but lost fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters.

In Montreal last week three women who survived German concentration camps carried a wreath to the cenotaph on Dominion Square. Dressed in prison clothes, they were among 350 persons who attended a memorial parade on the 21st anniversary of V-E (Victory in Europe) Day, sponsored by the Association of Survivors of Nazi Oppression.

Judging by the photograph of the event, the three women must have been only small children at the end of the war, but for that reason their memories are likely to be keener than most. Strange it is to think that a whole new generation has grown up which never knew the agony of those who suffered from Nazi terror.

Shock for Westport

Westport residents must have received quite a shock when a freak tornado raced through the area last Friday afternoon.

The picturesque village some 40 miles northwest of Brockville is seldom witness to anything more untoward than the occasional drag strip race along the main street. At least that was all that broke the autumn calm the last time we were there. The tornado perhaps reached past at 60 m.p.h. or more, nose to tail, up the road by the museum and town hall.

The late afternoon was still warm and bathed in light as the village came into view and the sun gleamed on and reflected from the glass against the brown mountainside, and a chill in the air as the day wore on revealed itself in the Rideau's deepening blue.

The village sat quiet in the distance. There was a suggestion of old Europe, maybe Switzerland or Germany, there, in this village in the midst of the Rideau, an impression that later was shattered rudely by the two young drag-strippers. Perhaps this was the spirit of the Irish, whose names abound in the area.

The museum had just closed, but peering through the windows we could see an old buggy which doubtless had given yeoman service around the turn of the century. An ink-stand, a piece of fabric commemorating Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee were ôther relics.'

At the rear of the building there were some latter-day — and this setting, less attractive, symbols of Canadiana, in the shape of empty beer bottles and other assorted junk. But then, Westport is not alone in such exhibitions of how not to beautify the countryside.

On the bridge over the canal and below the "mountain" a group of boys and an adult stood looking at the water, in this village setting where it seemed appropriate to just let time pass by. On the way home pumpkins ready for Hallowe'en peered from barns around Athens and Yonge Mills.

What a contrast for Westport to have entertained anything so unwelcome as a tornado. Fortunately no one was hurt, and at least the big wind must have created some excitement, and not a little terror. No sleepy little village this.

Refused Visa

Communist China's refusal to grant the leader of the British Liberal Party, Jo Grimond, a visa to visit the country, is puzzling when it is considered the Peking regime has admitted many lesser lights in recent years.

Did Mr. Grimond, perchance, put his foot in it during the recent election campaign in Britain? Hardly, if one considers that he rejected the idea that Britain still has an independent peace-keeping role east of Suez for example.

The Liberal leader said Britain should cut its bases and spending accordingly, and place its nuclear weapons under international control within the western alliance. He urged that Britain keep an effective defence force in Western Europe — but that could not be considered any threat to China.

On top of all this, Britain recognizes the government of Communist China. Why then have they barred Mr. Grimond from visiting the country. Only Peking can answer that question, but it is not saying a word.

Please Mister Postman...!

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Wouldn't it be lovely if our friends in the Income Tax Department had deadlines on sending us back our refunds? But, let us go past the April 30 banging date, and we can expect to be strung up by the toes. But nothing is ever said about how quickly the wheels of Ottawa must move in returning our overpaid monies to us.

For little guys, the amount is never very much. Maybe it's only fifty dollars, a hundred dollars, but visions of the windfall dance through our heads like jingle-pockets at Christmas Eve. When we're down to stretching our last 50-cent piece over two days of cigarettes and coffee, or when some bill collector is breathing down our necks, the postman can't blow his whistle fast enough.

We watch for his blue uniform the way we used to watch for Mom's tweed coat when she was coming back from town and had promised to bring us "something." That refund becomes the panacea for all our ills. Unless, of course, we start worrying about it. Then it turns into a combination of Dracula and Frankenstein, both feasting at the foot of our beds, eyes glaring, fangs bared.

Could we have overlooked something? Could our old-fashioned, non-new math have failed us? Will there be a knock at the door with a prim1y smiling gentleman to say "Your refund was in error. That'll be quite an additional amount, plus interest, of course."

So, between conscience, memory, good will, anticipation and just plain fear, the refund doesn't do us any good when and if it does come. We'll always be more than that on tranquilizers!

Some Wise Words on Sex

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

When he turned specifically to the subject of sex on Youth Night at the Grand Valley crusade, evangelist Leighton Ford packed a lot of valuable advice into a few pungent paragraphs.

Whether the relaxed word explosion will ever become generally acceptable is doubtful. Nevertheless, it is an apt term, for there is no doubt that at this particular stage of human development, especially in the North American environment, the subject of sex is profusely and unwisely overemphasized.

The pendulum, it would seem, has swung about as far from the Victorian code of suppression and ignorance as possible. In literature, as well as purely pornographic books and magazines, in the films, even on the stage and on television, it sometimes seems that the trend will not stop until nothing is left unwritten, unsaid or unstaged.

The result is that youth today looks at the subject with different eyes than their parents did. But it is wrong to suppose that much has really changed.

The rules our grandparents went by may be outdated in some respects, but the pendulum may soon start swinging back to a realization that "sex when exploited is sin," as Mr. Ford said, that if we break God's rules in this area, "we break ourselves."

Beatle Music Ranks High

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I know you're a devotee of classical music," writes a woman in California, "and therefore I'm surprised that you've never devoted a column to attacking that horrible rock-and-roll music our young people are growing up on these days."

Quite right, I am very much! I have never attacked rock-and-roll music because I rather like it — not all of it, of course, but then there's a lot of classical music I can't stand, either.

The only time I happen to enjoy some rock-and-roll, but I think its popularity among young people represents a great improvement over the popular music my generation listened to except for a few Cole Porter and Jerome Kern tunes, most of what we sang and danced to was absolute junk.

Now, a good deal of rock-and-roll is pretty phony; but it is more honest, more vital, more true to the native roots of music than the banal Pan Alley imitations of my youth. Moreover, it expresses the kinetic needs and the emotional excitement of young people in a more authentic fashion.

All categories of music are artificial and largely meaningless — classical, popular, jazz, rock-and-roll. Music has basically only two kinds of music: good and bad. Both can be found in all categories. Any category (even the classical) has much more bad than good.

I have carefully listened to many of my daughter's Beatles records, and the percentage of good music in them is just as high as in any other form of music. And certainly it is higher than in those inexpressibly corny Lawrence Welk renditions which older people of no musical taste seem to find so satisfying.

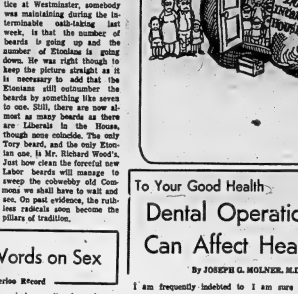
It is the middle ground in all the arts that is usually a wasteland, for art is a creature of extremes, the very high and the very low forms having more substance and interest than the middle ground between — nothing in music is worse, for instance, than "semi-classical" music, which is a contradiction combining the most corrupt elements of the classical and the popular.

Social structures, incidentally exhibit the same characteristics: there is some kind of affinity between the aristocrat and the proletariat, but little between the upper and the middle classes. The bourgeois virtues, like the bourgeois tastes, are mildly respectable, safely bland and unutterably dull.

The younger generation has rejected our kind of "pop" music as quite legitimate and sensible grounds — because it was phony, slick, sentimental and musically dead. They don't have put in its place may not be to our liking, but it is, by and large, closer to Mozart and Beethoven's emotive drive than the vapid Tin Pan Alleyisms of my own youth.

Woman P.M.?

Calgary Herald



There seems to be a trace of romanticism in the prediction of Vera Tweney-Reid that Canada will have a woman prime minister, perhaps by the end of this century! Certainly the possibility cannot be overlooked. But, on the other hand, if woman is the political animal the sociologists claim, why hasn't a female minister emerged in any country which has been less real than imagined for some time.

British MPs Sport Beards

Ottawa Journal

There are, of course, about as many ways of judging a House of Commons as there are of killing a cat. But the London Letter of the Manchester Guardian comes up with one we haven't encountered:

The significant trend to notice at Westminster, somebody was maintaining during the interminable oath-taking last week, is that the number of beards is going up and the number of Etonians is going down. He was right though to limit the observation to that and it is necessary to add that the Etonians still outnumber the beards by something like seven to one. Still, there are now almost as many beards as there are Liberals in the House, though none coincide. The only Tory beard, and the only Etonian one, is Mr. Richard Wood's. Just how clean the forceful new Labor beards will manage to keep the coke-smoky old Commons we shall have to wait and see. On past evidence, the ruthless razor-blade soon become the pillars of tradition.

Dental Operations Can Affect Heart

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I am frequently indebted to other doctors for suggestions in writing this column. At the moment I have notes from two dental surgeons.

Dr. L. S., referring to a column about pencillin after a person once has had rheumatic fever, points out that transient bacteria resulting from otherwise ordinary procedures can lodge in damaged heart valves, increasing the damage, or result in bacterial endocarditis.

He observes: "Having a tooth removed or having teeth cleaned (manipulation of gum tissue) to name but two everyday treatments in dental practice, can cause serious complications in a child or an adult if the dentist isn't told that the patient has had rheumatic fever."

Of course, I have in the past warned about extractions, but Dr. L. S. raises a most valuable point: Such a warning should be given prior to any procedure. The dentist can (and does) give penicillin or other protective drugs when he has been warned.

Similar precautions can be taken for other oral procedures, as well as non-dental ones: Minor surgery of any kind, removal of tonsils or adenoids, bronchoscopy, genito-urinary examination, and so on.

"Dear Doctor: As a dentist for 18 years my main interest has been to help people maintain clean, healthy mouths.

"Having come to the realization that smoking had a very bad effect on the teeth, gums and mucous membranes, I was happy to hear the medical profession endorse the practice.

"What I cannot understand is why you and other physicians don't come out with any edicts and give people the impression that cigars and pipes are approved. My experience has been that the most unsanitary conditions are found in the mouths of cigar and pipe smokers in that order. — D.D.S."

A similar question was asked when the U.S. Surgeon General released his report on smoking and health a couple of years or so ago. The answer is that we have massive statistical support for the relationship between cigarettes and lung trouble. We don't have it as regards other forms of smoking.

Physicians — I among them — quite generally refer to tobacco or smoking in relation to health matters other than lung cancer. Smoking is strictly forbidden for a diabetic patient. The nicotine (not just the smoke) has its harmful effect on peripheral circulation. Smoking by whatever means, certainly bothers peptic ulcers; not to mention bronchitis, asthma and the like.

We can't always pin down which form of smoking is worst. But it is not only the cigarette which causes mischief.

And now we have a voice from the field of dentistry pointing out still other reasons why we'd all be better off if we'd give up smoking in the first place.

I am sure that other dentists concur.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between T3 and emphysema? Is emphysema contagious? Do people with emphysema cough, like TB cough? — Mrs. D. L.

Tuberculosis is an infection with a germ. Emphysema is a loss of elasticity in the lung tissues and is not contagious. People with severe emphysema are likely to do a good deal of coughing.

Churchill Fund Lags

Hamilton Spectator

How goes the Churchill Trust Fund in Canada? The last report, on January 25, showed that Canadians had contributed $1,-000 to the fund in its first year of existence.

At the same time, it was reported that Australia had raised more than $2 million.

The answer must come from the Hon. George Drew, who was named Canadian chairman when the campaign for funds started more than 15 months ago.

Mr. Drew has several times promised to make a statement on the campaign's progress. To the best of our knowledge, he has not done so.

Does Canada's contribution still stand at $1,000? Has Mr. Drew a fundraising plan in mind? If he has, when does he hope to put it into practice?

The drive for funds has been a great success, except in Canada, and is already paying significant dividends. On April 26, the Churchill Memorial Trust, for which the funds are being raised, announced the selection of 66 men and women as the first Churchill Travelling Fellows. Five of these Fellows will come to Canada this year. A total of 3,203 people, representing a wide range of occupations, applied for this year's awards.

It is indeed extremely embarrassing that Canada should have floundered so badly in its support of such a very worthwhile cause. We are the second wealthiest county in the world, on a per-capita basis, yet we have given only a trifling amount to the Churchill Fund. It is more than embarrassing — it is shameful.

Canoeing '67 Style

Ottawa Citizen

The Canadian Canoeing Association has been given a grant by the Centennial commission to prepare maps of the water routes followed by the early explorers. These will show rapids, portages and camp sites as well as such historical information as the Indian lore of the territory. They should be popular with those who plan canoeing trips in 1967.

Thurlow Property Up for Auction

Editor,
The Intelligencer

We is noted that the Ontario Department of Highways has put up for public auction on May 25, the property that lies between The Old Kingston Road and Number Two Highway, in the eastern entrance to Belleville in Thurlow township.

I would like to make some suggestions and invite comment in your paper and on the CJBQ Why Not Call program:

(1) That this land be sold or donated to the City of Belleville or Belleville Centennial Celebration Committee, to be developed as a public park. As it is understood, the city doesn't have many parks particularly in the east end and the city will probably be taking this section of the township in the near future. Also it would improve this entrance to the city.

(2) That this land be developed by the Ontario Department of Highways as a roadside auto park. The land could be leveled and some clearing of trees, and a few roadside tables put in.

I would rather see either of these actions be taken than this land be sold to a private enterprise.

Magazine Racket Over Telephone

Editor,
The Intelligencer

Today, Friday, I had a phone call from a woman saying I had ordered several magazines (almost the whole list) through the mail. When I asked for the complete list, Belleville she snapped, "Why do you ask questions?" and hung up!

The racket was used several years ago hiring high school students to place calls. Finally, after a period of about six or eight weeks, when payday came the boss couldn't be located and none of them received their last week's pay.

This naturally leaves a bad impression with the student who tries to earn money through the holidays but the woman who called today was not behind the scheme and being more mature should realize the cheapest benefit by her rudeness and believing in something for nothing and in trying to force such a silly belief on other people.

The Belleville Better Business Bureau would not recommend the company she represented so why doesn't she smarten up and work for a company that will pass the test?

— Ella E. Tupper.

Bill to Impose Strict Import Quotas On Canadian Cheese Before Congress

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Legislation to reimpose stricter import quotas on Canadian and other foreign cheese has been submitted to the United States Congress by a Wisconsin representative.

Whether it gets anywhere is another matter.

The U.S. in early April sharply boosted the amount of cheese that Canada and other nations could provide and told the tariff commission to ponder raising the quotas for next year even higher.

The dairy quotas have restricted Canadian imports for more than 15 years. New Zealand is the main provider with Canada second at 614,000 pounds annually. This is raised by 300,000 pounds for the year ending June 30.

While Canada has its sights on perhaps doubling its sales of aged cheddar, a Canadian specialty, U.S. purchases will still be a crumb compared with Canada's annual exports to Britain of about 30,000,000 pounds.

Taking advantage of the broader U.S. market would require 27,000,000 pounds of milk or a slim tenth of one per cent of Canadian milk output.

Proxmire's bill, now awaiting co-sponsors, would limit imports of cheese to the 1961-63 level and increase them progressively in line with increases in domestic consumption.

...ON ISSUES

The higher cheese imports and the general dairy picture figure to be fall election-campaign issues in the farming belt of the Mid-West.

Proxmire's complaint is that, for the first time since the Korean War, U.S. dairy demand has caught up with supply and now the government is throwing the door open to imported cheese.

Wisconsin's dairy farmers have been fading away rapidly, statistics show, due to high costs and more attractive earnings elsewhere. The U.S. national dairy herd last year decreased by 5.5 per cent to 16,600,000 animals. Government dairy stocks have vanished, even in dried milk.

Getting the dairy import quotas eased or abolished has been a chronic Canadian issue in discussions here and it had been gone over again in early March.

The reason for the U.S. action was attributed to rising prices. Recent surveys show milk prices for a half gallon across the country are up three to five cents and butter a pound is up as much as 10 cents.

Demand for cheese has produced comparable increases.

Proxmire complained that word of extra supplies of imported cheese cut American cheese prices three cents a pound immediately.

Napanee Warehouse Burns; Two Families Homeless

NAPANEE — Fire of undetermined origin starting in a storage building at the corner of John and Mill Street, last night destroyed the warehouse and rendered homeless two families living in a nearby double house.

Forced from their homes were an elderly couple Mr. and Mrs. Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marzola with their three small children, aged 5, 6, and 7 years.

Napanee firemen under the direction of Fire Chief W. J. Patton, fought the blaze from 9.55 p.m. until 1.30 this morning before bringing the blaze under control. The warehouse was destroyed and the roof was burned off the double dwelling.

Other residents in the area climbed onto their roofs to protect their homes from falling embers.

Firemen said the blaze was the most serious fire in Napanee in many months.

There was no estimate of the fire loss pending an investigation by Fire Marshal Del Hoge.

Two Dumped Into Water as Boat Capsizes

PICTON (Staff) — A few minor accidents over the weekend resulted in one man receiving multiple injuries and being taken to hospital as a result of a one-car crash on Highway 33. Robert Foreman of Barrisfield, the injured man, was a passenger in a car driven by David George Robb, also of Barrisfield. Their car left the road at the intersection of Highway 33 and Scoharie Road.

In another accident a car driven by Stanley McPherson of R.R. 2, Picton struck a cow owned by Burton Lyons also of R.R. 2, Picton. Damage to the car was estimated at $300, but the driver escaped injury. The cow was valued at $225.

Also over the weekend there was a two-car collision resulting in minor damage on county road 8 just outside Picton. Drivers were identified as John Leonard Dafoe of R.R. 4, Picton and Louis White of Camp Picton.

Sunday also saw a near drowning in the chilly waters of the Bay of Quinte in Picton's outer harbour when a small boat capsized ducking the two passengers. A large swell just claimed to have struck the boat and nearly filling it with water. Margaret Anne Goodwin of Picton and Thomas Murphy made it to shore in a small ledge at the base of a steep cliff. Peter Bosvert who was in another boat at the time of the accident came ashore to help but the two boys could not get the Goodwin girl, who was unconscious from exposure up the steep cliff to a more secure location. The Murphy boy went up the cliff to the highway to flag down a car for help.

A number of boats from the Prince Edward Yacht Club went out to assist in bringing back the boats and occupants. Miss Goodwin, a 17-year-old high school student is reported doing fine. A family spokesman said "she just got a good ducking, if it had happened in the summer when the water was warmer she would have been nothing to it."

Did we do it needlessly?

One thing is certain—the beer was perfectly good. We believed that right from the start. The tests we make on every batch of product told us so. But now this has been proven beyond anyone's doubt by the most thorough testing ever carried out on a beer in the entire history of brewing. These tests, conducted by Federal and Provincial authorities, have shown that Dow products are brewed by the finest methods and to the highest standards of quality, purity and taste.

Even though we were sure that our products were beyond reproach, rumour was rampant in Quebec City. Dow bore the full brunt of this. We were the natural target for such rumour because Dow is the only brewery in Quebec City and outsold all other brands combined. As the leader in the industry we felt it was our responsibility to provide the needed reassurance.

So as far as Dow was concerned there was only one right thing to do. In the public interest, in the interest of our customers, in the interest of the entire brewing industry, in the interest of the many waiters, hotel owners and retailers who depend on selling beer for their livelihood, we had to remove all doubt from the mind of every single beer drinker. The best way to do this, we felt, was to remove our product from sale. This action was carried out, voluntarily.

Probably because we were the only brewer to take such action (and remember, Government reports have shown that Dow should not have been singled out from others) our action was misunderstood. Apparently people thought there must have been something wrong, or why would all that good Dow Ale be poured out? So the rumours spread about Dow and the peculiar situation in Quebec City. And it seriously affected our sales—even here where Dow Ale is brewed in Toronto especially for Ontario.

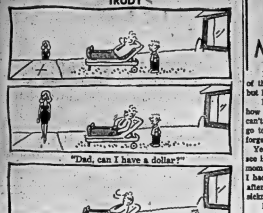
However:

If our action served to settle any doubt about the quality of Dow;

if it helped restore confidence in the brewing industry;

if it assisted in the official investigations to determine the real cause of the illness;

if it removed doubt from your mind;



if it proved that we're worthy of your trust,

then we had ample reason for doing what we did, expensive though it was.

So did we dump close to a million gallons of good Dow Ale needlessly?
We don't think so.

African Violet Collection Displacing Home Furniture

SOUTH BERWICK, N.S. (CP) — For Mrs. George Chute the love affair with the African violet began eight years ago. Now her collection of plants is displacing furniture in the Chute home.

Mrs. Chute bought, swapped and propagated after starting her collection with a single leaf cutting. She now tends 400 plants and says the hobby is "pure enjoyment."

The collection includes 96 varieties brought from the New York World's Fair by a relative last year. Some of the imports are rare in Canada and include progeny from several award-winning plants.

To bring the plants from the fair required permission from agriculture department authorities at Ottawa.

Mrs. Chute says her husband doesn't mind the increasing invasion of plants into the living room farm home.

"He's been a great help," she adds.

Mr. Chute has built tables and shelving units to accommodate the multiplying plant stock and there are plant shelves in every room of the house.

Mrs. Chute says she doesn't use any special soil mixtures for her thriving plants. Earth from the Chute farm is sterilized to destroy harmful bacteria and mixed with peat moss to provide the growing medium.

No artificial lighting is used. Plants on shelves utilize ordinary window-filtered light but they have to be turned frequently so that growth is not lop-sided.

Boy's Illness Costly, Mom Resents Expense

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 12 years old and I got out of the hospital a few weeks ago. I have been sick quite a lot but I have kept up with my studies and my grades are good.

Lately mom has been talking a lot about how much my sickness has cost. She says she can't buy any new clothes for a long time, or go to the beauty shop. She says we'll have to forget about a new car, too.

Yesterday some boys from school called to see if I wanted to go to a movie. When I asked mom for the money she got real mad and said I had a lot of nerve to be asking for extra after they had spent so much money on my sickness.

ANN LANDERS

Dad came in and said mom was wrong. He gave me the money to go to the movie but I didn't enjoy it much.

I love my mother and I want to be a good son. I'm sorry I have been sick so much and that it is so expensive but I couldn't help it.

I can't get a job because I am too young but I have a couple of friends who have promised to let me know if a paper route opens up. I want to make some money so I can give it to mom to help make up for the things she has been doing without on account of my sickness.

Mom is a truly wonderful person and I wish you would tell me how I can make her proud of me. I want her to know how much I love her. Please help me. — DANNY.

DEAR DANNY: You sound like a wonderful son. I wish you were mine.

I have no advice for you, Danny. You don't need any. I just hope that you will always be as generous and kind and free of bitterness as you are today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a widower in my 70th year. I'm far from old, however, and I have more pep than some of my friends who are 30 years younger. I would like to take my granddaughter on a trip to Europe this summer. She is 18 years old and will have completed her freshman year at college.

My finances are limited and we could make the trip — if we used double room accommodations. Do you think it is proper for a grandfather to share a room with his 18-year-old granddaughter under these conditions? — M.V.

DEAR M.V.: Sorry, Gramps, no. I suggest that you both save your money and make the trip in 1967 when you can afford separate rooms.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a very fine young man who has a habit that drives me out of my mind.

Whenever we sit down at the dinner table for the salt and pepper shakers. He'll look for five minutes. I've asked him how he knows the food needs seasoning without tasting it. He says, "Oh it's never spicy enough to suit me."

I plan to marry this nice guy and I'd like you to tell me if I should speak up now or wait until we are man and wife. — ANN NOID.

DEAR NOID: Be quiet and learn to live with it. Consider yourself fortunate if the guy reaches no further than the salt and pepper shakers for the spice of life.

Duplicate Bridge Session

While the World Championship Bridge tournament has been taking place in Italy, and the Canadian-U.S. team struggling to beat the seven-time winner Italians, enthusiasm for duplicate bridge is showing steady growth right here in Belleville. One of the newer players appear at each session, and usually return.

The Whole-Master-Point night comes only once in every three months, and then, as always, the greater the number of players, the greater are the awards. At the first on in March with 36 players, Mrs. Ruth Hicks was the winner at the top of the list, instead of the usual fraction, but with say, twelve tables, it might be as high as 2 points or more. The bigger awards are likely to attract some out-of-town players again as was the case in March.

Whole-Master- Pointe'ght is especially interesting to me because the natural tendancy is for players to make special efforts to win, and to take chances with optimistic bids. While staying out of trouble is said to be the winning formula, the occasion as to whether to gamble on hand, or to let the opponents try to make their bid is often a hard one, and results on this special night can be surprising. Any time might be a Whole-Master-Point night this Thursday!

At the last April session with eight tables out, the average was 77, and the top scorers were: Mrs. Durrell Ritchie - 105½ and an award of .40; the Townsends with 100 and .30; Dr. Skinner-Turner and Mrs. Hicks .15; Actre-Pugh with 85 and .10; and the Belangers and the Schlems tied with 84, and .05 each.

Everyone interested, who has a partner, is most welcome to attend Whole - Master - Point night this Tuesday, May 10, at Quinte Hotel, at 7:30.

CAS Votes to Remove Names of Natural Parents From Adopted Certificate

SUDBURY (CP) — The Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies has approved a resolution that would remove the name of natural parents from an adopted child's birth certificate.

The resolution, sponsored by the Children's Aid Society of Perth, was approved by most of the 500 delegates Monday despite arguments that the adopted child might want to know his original name.

A spokesman for the Perth society said few adoptive parents want to know the name of the natural parents and a moral responsibility for protection of the unwed mother must be assumed.

The resolution was one of 18 voted on in the opening session of the three-day conference. Others dealt with salaries paid to social workers, the need for more schools of social work and dental-care assistance for low-income families.

Betty Graham, director of child welfare in Ontario, told delegates that 1965 was a record year for adoptions.

A total of 1,050 social workers were employed during the year, an increase of 68 per cent from 1955. More adoptions were completed than ever before and more families were given welfare assistance.

URGES DELEGATES

Miss Graham urged the delegates not to do their job alone. In some cases, she said, volunteers or experienced persons without social training can be called on for help.

The opening address of the conference was delivered by E. R. McKinnon, Nova Scotia's deputy minister of welfare. Mr. McKinnon called for a guaranteed minimum income for all Canadians.

He said such a plan, related to family size, would remove one of the greatest causes of poverty in Canada. It could be carried out by a negative income tax whereby some persons would get money instead of paying taxes.

"Most important of all," he said, "it is in keeping with the social and economic philosophy by which our life is ordered. It is not a contradiction of the principle of self-help; indeed it encourages self-help."

Mr. McKinnon accused social workers, psychiatrists, teachers and psychologists of pandering to general arrogance in deciding what is best for a community.

"How do we cease to grieve with the defeat and lethargy of a whole community," he asked. Especially the community that has known little but unemployment, poor housing, poverty, ignorance and social paralysis?

Rev. Rodolfe Villeneuve of Cornwall said the new Child Welfare Act for Ontario is a milestone in the history of provincial children's aid societies.

New Bikinis To Be Small And Smaller

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The new way to order a bikini is in shades of blonde, redhead and brunette—and, of course, sizes small, smaller and smallest.

For the lowest, tiniest baby bikini is the latest sun fancy for summer, traditionally the silliest of fashion months.

Designers Joan Thornton and Rennette Foster, who call themselves Joan 'n Jennette, launched the bikinis Monday as a past of their new collection.

The strands of silliest hair wrap around the bosom and the lower body like the generous coiffure of a South Sea island native girl. Although the hair looks real enough, it is the dyed fibre grown in textile laboratories for artificial wigs.

Customers are encouraged to buy bikinis to match their own coiffures.

LOOK AFTER HER

Lest men be jealous, the girls also have created be sand she suits in hairy monkey-type, one-piece styles. Or men can buy trunks to match their chests.

In contrast to the bare beach fashions were the knickerbox, gaudy undershorts just an inch shorter than the new short skirts.

"Skirts are going to be much shorter than they are even now," said Miss Thornton, "at least seven inches above the knees, as they are in England."

The modesty pants are to exhibit and promote the stylish minxes to get out of autos, ride bicycles, plump into the depths of a country pool, or cross legs in an office conference, Miss Thornton said.

They are unmentionables meant to be mentionable.

Church Groups

WESLEYAN METHODIST W.M.S.

Wednesday evening the May meeting of the Wesleyan Methodist Women's Missionary Society convened in the church to elect a new slate of officers for the year beginning June 1st.

A timely poem entitled "Room at the Bottom" was read by the president, Mrs. Lyla Vedovato, who along with Mrs. Pamela Rawlings, conducted the devotions. Speaking on the work of community missions, Mrs. Rawlings presented two plans for Bible study groups in the community, and in homes where people can relax and voice their opinion without embarrassment.

Several ladies led in prayer on behalf of the coming special missionary services with Miss Madeleine George Reg. N., on May 15th and Rev. and Mrs. Paul Dekker on May 28 and 29.

A missionary certificate is to be presented the evening of May 12th by the local church choir.

Mrs. Vedovato thanked the ladies of their commitment to assist Silver Lake Camp, and also of the visits scheduled June 27 to July 3 at Hastings Manor.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Elton LeRoy conducted the election of officers at which time the following executive was elected: presidents — Mrs. Lyla Vedovato; vice-president — Mrs. Joyce LeRoy; secretary — Mrs. Vivian Trotter; treasurer — Mrs. Helen Bowman; assistant and band superintendent — Mrs. Nora Elliott.

Directors of committees included: work — Mrs. Ruth Calbury; membership — Mrs. Violett Mitz; visitation — Mrs. Lil Jeffrey; program — Mrs. Joyce LeRoy; nominating — Mrs. Jean Loring; social — Mrs. Leta Young; press reporter — Mrs. Nora Elliott.

Mother's Helper

YOUR CHILDREN'S respect for authority begins with yours. Their little eyes and ears are always open, taking in how YOU respond or disobey traffic laws, how you speak of your boss (employer), or whether you get to work on time. Not only your example, but your support of authority is important. For instance, if you disagree with a teacher's decision, work it out with the teacher yourself instead of "talking down" her authority at home. 60 Women's Editors Tour Fair Site

They were shown what the finished fairgrounds will look like by Commodore O. C. S. Robertson, who showed slides of models of various pavilions, the modern housing project that is known as Habitat 67, and the Expo theatre.

Some 1,200 applications have already been received for the 250 available jobs as hostess. Miss Archambault said she would like to receive more applications from the seniority and Maritime provinces, especially, in order to recruit a representative group.

90 Per Cent Maple Syrup From Quebec

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the sweetest things to come out of Quebec seems to be getting the cold shoulder from the nation's taste buds.

Canada produces 20,000,000 gallons of maple syrup each year, and 90 per cent of that comes from Quebec sugar bushes, but none appears in tonnes of maple products annually.

Half the crop is exported. Most of that turns up on shelves in can pancakes or as one of those 20 ice cream flavors.

The rest is the question only grows in eastern Canada and the northeastern United States, and of the 60,000,000 trees in Canada only 1,000,000 are being tapped.

To make one gallon of syrup, 30 to 40 gallons of sap have to be collected, and the problem is to make sure what you pick up at the supermarket is the real thing, rather than the kind it's labelled "maple syrup" or "maple sugar" with the name and address of the producer.

Once you get it home, you should store it in a cool, dry place, say the economists in the federal agriculture department. And once it's been opened, it must go into the refrigerator, capped to keep air out.

If you want to keep it for several months, it should be brought to a boil, then stored in sterile jars to prevent mold from developing.

And when the family gets tired of eating plain over waffles, toast or cereals, you can use it in pies, puddings, and cakes, or a glaze on meat or vegetables.

Club Activities

HARMONY STUDIO CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held at the home of Mrs. E. Veley, R.M.T., on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Veley acting as chairman, opened the meeting. The date for the annual recital will be June 4 at the auditorium of Prince Charles School.

The following pupils entertained with piano selections: Kathryn McGeown, Penny May, Beverley Lewis, Melanie May, Joel Dinnel, Jennifer Sutherland, Helen Keakuls, Rodney May, Kathryn Sine, Evelyn Terry, Janet Gardiner, Carolyn Lewis, Sheryle Cretney, Deborah Grass, Jean Wallbridge, Ann Keakuls, Susan Sweet and Linda Moakes.

The musical part of the program was brought to a close with "Grande Valse Brillante" by F. Chopin, played by James Noakes, a grade 10 student; followed by a Chopin etude played by duet by Mrs. Veley and daughter Lorraine.

Mrs. Terry, the club hostess, and her assistants, served refreshments.

Successful Living

Has Formula to End Religious Differences

DEAR DORIS: About the letter from a young lady who is engaged to a man of a different religion: Having faced a similar situation, may I express a few thoughts?

First of all, both parties must be willing to consider giving up their own religion. Second, each must be completely honest with himself (and herself) about the importance of his or (her) religion in his life.

Third, visits to minister and priest together and alone are essential. (Make an appointment several days in advance and in the forenoon) Also make a list of all thoughts and questions.) Fourth, and more important than many people realize, is not to allow family and friends to influence you.

DORIS CLARE

If, after all this ,neither one is able to give in, they should part. If they do agree on which religion to follow there must be no looking back, no regrets. In our case, my husband gave up his religion, his reason being that it is the mother who mostly has to answer a child's questions and teaches and hears prayers.

We have been married 19 years and while we still have a lot to learn and a long way to go (I hope), I can say from experience that this difference is religion, knowing before you start where one of the major problems in a marriage lies, can be used as a foundation for a very happy marriage. — NOT A DIVIDED HOUSE.

P.S.: I wonder if the couple who are leaving their religious problems to their children realize they are putting on those young shoulders problems they haven't the courage to solve for themselves?

DEAR NOT DIVIDED: I am publishing your entire letter. What you have done will be a guide for many young people who are faced with the same dilemma.

DEAR DORIS: If I am caught talking to any boys, my brother tells my Dad and I receive a beating. I will be 17 in July.

I sometimes sneak out my window to see some boys. But I was caught once and now I can't leave the house, unless to school or on an errand, I am in Grade 11 and I am pretty smart. Can you help me? — HELPLESS.

DEAR HELPLESS: Which came first? The French leave or the beating? Your Dad may feel he can no longer trust you.

But such imprisonment is unreasonable; and a beating, which soul-piercing, successfully, is being encouraged in this by your warden-father.

Believe it or not, he thinks he is protecting you from yourself. Better talk over your problem with a friendly, older person, an aunt, a minister of a counsellor.

DEAR DORIS: Is it proper to have the coffee poured in cups at their places when you summon your guests to the dining room after an evening of bridge? Or should the coffee be poured after they have commenced eating? — HAPPY HOSTESS.

DEAR HOSTESS: Four It after. Most folk eat first, drink later; and there is the few minutes it takes to brew round, a hot drink can cool down.

DEAR DORIS: I have a friend who is going with a guy who is a minister's son. However, he is the perfect symbol of a Romeo and enjoys dancing, drinking and smoking. He isn't really good looking and dresses rather flashy (I mean his clothes do not fit properly for they are so tight) but he has a real good line.

He told my friend he loved her after the second date and they saw a lot of each other. Then he began to make excuses. Some of us have seen him with different girls. We have heard things about him that weren't very nice.

One thing is Doris, she's crazy about him. She is really too nice for him. Even his friends can't stand him. Do you think we should risk telling her he is a phoney or let her find out for herself? — CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED: Right now she is blinded by the stars in her eyes. They won't register.

Coax her out to a party where she'll meet other un-phoney Romeos and hope that the competition will open her eyes.

Confidential to CONFUSED: Drop him. From where I sit, a guy who'll stand you up at the drop of a hat is the one with the bad reputation.

Centennial Year Plans Outlined at Study Guild

The meeting of the Belleville Women's Study Guild was held at the home of Mrs. C. Wishart, Dufferin Ave., and the evening's topic was a timely one — that of plans for celebrating Canada's Centennial at Federal, Provincial and Municipal levels.

In charge of the evening's program were Mrs. D. E. Mayhee and Mrs. N. I. Meifrum, who had just attended the local workshop for Centennial planning. As guest speaker they were fortunate in being able to bring Mrs. Charles Wilson, chairman for the arts, of the Belleville and District Centennial Committee. Mrs. Wilson outlined briefly for the group the different facets of centennial planning as it affects local groups and interests, and her presentation made it apparent that the Centenial is to be a year filled with a variety of events which will make 1967 a whole year of celebration.

BONFIRES OPEN EVENTS

The tentative calendar of events begins with huge Christmas bonfires in January, and includes the official opening of the new Centennial Library, concerts and presentations both professional and amateur and for children as well as adults, special presentations by the horticultural society, the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip, the legally sponsored carnivals with its seven cars each depicting different parts of Canada's history, and later in the year special Christmas activities and decorations.

Local service clubs will be sponsoring many activities, the further development of Canada's Island will be highlighted, and women's clubs will hold fashion shows featuring costumes of 100 years ago. Women and girls are encouraged to make their own costumes, which may be worn on special occasions and will lend color to parade days. Sports activities will take on a centennial look, the harbor is to be the scene of special activities, and Provincial exhibits will see a floating, bi-lingual art centre from May through September. The annual local fair will have a centennial flavor, and the abundant energy and enthusiasm of young people will be reflected in student council activities and J.C. projects.

It is hoped that Canada's Festival of the Arts will be represented locally, as well as Ontario's own festival. The local Theatre Guild, Choral Society and Art Association all figure in the 1967 calendar. There were intriguing hints of fascinating theatrical events to be announced as plans were completed, and rumor has it that many local property owners were planning, to spruce up and paint up this year, so as to be fair to enjoy Centennial events, next year.

WOMEN'S BRANCH

Until just over a month ago, Ontario was the only province with a women's committee on its centennial council. Locally, Mrs. Meifrum is chairman of women's activities.

Mrs. Mayhee and Mrs. Meifrum completed the evening's presentation by giving their impressions of the centennial workshop, displaying Federal and Provincial literature on centennial planning and answering questions.

The business of the evening was conducted by Mrs. C. R. Rosier, Guild president. As a follow-up to last month's topic of interracial marriage, Mrs. L. W. Wilkins read portions of a letter from a young woman who is a partner in such a marriage.

Miss J. Tetzlaff read a letter from the Guide's sponsored child, now living in France.

The tea-table period was taken by Mrs. A. A. Walls, and its theme the Resurrection applied to centennial thinking as a new life and inspiration springing from the past.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. R. J. French, commentator on the C.B.C. in Ottawa, and her two children, Colin and Janette, spent Mother's Day with her mother, Mrs. H. Martin, at the home of Mrs. J. Rose, 40 North Park Street. They also visited Mrs. French's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Martin, 23 Southview Crescent.

REFRIGERATOR DOUGHNUTS
(Courtesy Mrs. D. S. - adapted by Emcee)

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tablespoons soft butter (½ cup less 1 tablespoon)
2 tablespoons (6 teaspoons) am-ple[1] quick-cooking porridge[2]
2 cups sifted all - purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup milk

Into beaky bowl measure the sugar, eggs and butter and beat until blended and smooth. Sift and measure the flour, add the baking powder, salt and nutmeg to it and sift again. Add to first mixture along with the vanilla and milk and beat with beaters until smooth. Scrape down sides of bowl. Cover snugly and refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Cut dough into 3 portions, scoop out one - quarter with rubber scraper and roll-out on generously floured board to ¼" thickness. (Keep remainder of dough in refrigerator.)

Cut out with floured doughnut cutter, transferring doughnuts and cut-outs to board on which you can carry them to the stove. Incidentally, this dough is highly satisfactory to handle. Heat fat or oil to 360 deg. Fahr. (or hot enough to brown cube of bread in 40 seconds). Fat should be at least 2" deep or deeper if you are using a deep-fat fryer. Lift doughnuts on wide spatula and carefully slip into heated fat without crowding. I fried 3 doughnuts and 3 hole cut-outs at a time. As soon as they rise to surface and show a gold color or bottom turn over. Stand over them and do not overbrown. At once lift from fat with slotted spoon and drain on paper towelling.

Continue with all remaining dough until it is used up, piling leftover scraps up and rolling and cutting them out too. Roll doughnuts in sugar.

I had 48 doughnuts and 48 hole cut - outs. These doughnuts are at their very best when fresh, but what is not except wine and fruit cake?

Mother's Day Is Humbug Says Doctor

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mother's Day is humbug and should be abolished, along with Father's Day, says Dr. Edro Signori, a University of British Columbia psychologist.

He said in an interview Monday Mother's Day was a relic of the time when women were regarded as second-class humans and "they had to do something for them to make up for the way she, along with other women, were regarded."

The only purpose Mother's Day served now, he said, was providing a day for children getting rid of the guilt feelings for those who forget about their mothers the other 364 days of the year."

He said it was "good business for the florists and sellers of Mother's Day cards" who kept it alive for commercial interest.

But Dr. Signori's views weren't shared by his 21-year-old daughters, who bought 'a Mother's Day card for him to give to his wife after talking him into signing it.

The psychologist admitted his daughters "thought something of Mother's Day." But his wife thinks Mother's Day is a big joke, he said.

Hostess Tip
There's a bit of the artistic chef in everyone. If you don't believe it, plan a do-it-yourself sundae making session next time your entertain. The inspired creations built by folks who won't set foot inside a kitchen are amazing.

More the Merrier
Offer as wide a variety of sauces as possible. But keep preparation time down by purchasing some good ready-to-serve sauces or chooses from a countless number of jiffy sauces you can mix up in next to no time.

For the Chocolate Fans
Chocolate of course is high on the list of favorites. Make a smooth sauce by combining a (6-ounce) package semi-sweet chocolate pieces with ¾ cup whipping cream. Cook over very low heat, stirring frequently until the chocolate melts. Add vanilla or a teaspoon of powdered instant coffee . . . Delicious!

Make-it-Maple
Another Canadian flavor favorite is maple. For it, we boil a cup of maple syrup with 2 tablespoons butter, for about 3 minutes. Cool and stir in ¼ cup evaporated milk, and 3 tablespoons chopped almonds. Good over ice cream or top coffee ice cream.

Fruit Medley
When fresh fruits are in season, almost any fruit combination meets with instant success. The bright red color and fresh flavor of crushed sweetened strawberries teams beautifully with vanilla ice cream. Not so common but just as good, party-pink rhubarb, cooked until tender and sweetened, makes a hit over strawberry ice cream.

Warm Cherries
Speaking of fruit combinations, this one is delicious served cold, if you haven't time for a Sunday fire. Just melt ¾ cup red currant jelly in a saucepan or chafing dish. Drain a 15-ounce can apricot halves and add to the jelly along with a 15-ounce can bing cherries. Heat gently and serve, warm over vanilla ice cream.

Susanna's Family Fare

HOW TO LIFT A GLASS TABLE TOP

Dear Susanna: From the day I was married, 23 years ago, I have been struggling with the heavy glass top of an antique coffee table.

The whole centre of the table is a beautifully smooth-grained wood, polished to a satees finish but like all of you who have these heirloom tables know, the outside carved edge is slightly raised so that the glass fits quite snuggly, down in.

What an undertaking every time it was necessary to lift the glass to clean away crumbs and other bits and pieces that worked in underneath.

Do you know what my mechanically minded son bought for me at the hardware store last week, just for this purpose? A small short - handled plumber's plunger or suction cup!

One touch and it lifts the top with absolute ease. A twist of the wrist while you steady the glass with your other hand, and the plunger releases. — Mrs. S. L. Delisle

STITCHED SNUG

Dear Susanna: Children's knee socks that have stretched to the point where they will no longer stay up can be kept in place without tight garters by sewing around the top of the socks with elastic thread. — D. Waterford

SILVER BRUSH

BAUBLES, BANGLES AND BEADS

Dear Susanna: A tall, attractive (empty) hair spray tin covered with material in a color to match the bedroom accessories and a young girl (older ones too, that are young at heart) is delighted to have a lovely useful bangle bracelet holder.

If the bracelets are a little too large, and all slide down, then add a soft layer of padding be neath the material, shaping it so that the holder is slightly thicker towards the bottom. — Mrs. O. H. Flishie

PAINT STRAINER

Hi Su: With spring decorating chores wailing for you around every door and window, you'll be needing a sturdy paint strainer.

The industrial index slid 2.20 to 162.30, its lowest level since Aug. 10, 1965. It has dropped 4.26 points since Wednesday.

The decline followed a slumping New York market which was hit by a rash of selling as a result of a weekend announcement by General Motors that it was putting eight plants on a short work week.

Contributing to Monday's drop was a statement by Ford that it was curtailing production by seven per cent in May.

Heaviest losers on the Toronto were issues which are also listed in New York, including Alcan Aluminium 1¾ to 39¾, Bell Telephone 1 to a low of 58, and CPR ¼ to a low of 50¼.

Among other industrials, Dofasco fell 1⅛ to a low of 29½ and Canadian Industries 1¼ to 32. Commerce 1⅛ to 62¾. Slater Steel also slipped to a 1966 low, declining ¼ to 15¼.

Inco led base metals down, dropping 1⅜ to 56¼. Noranda, Denison and Hudson Bay were each off ¼ to 50½, 46¼ and 81.

Golds failed to counter the trend. Kerr-Addison slipped ¼ to 10¾ and Hollinger ⅛ to 23¼ but Dome advanced ⅛ to 42¼.

On index, golds were down 2.13 to 165.37, base metals 1.13 to 90.39, western oils 2.09 to 103.86 and the TSE 2.10 to 153.83. Volume was 2,101,000 shares compared with 2,635,000 Friday.

000,000 grant to Newfoundland be continued until both federal and provincial governments agree to stop it.

"Are you speaking for your party?"

Any party responsible for ending the grant could be sure it would have a rugged time cracking the Liberal stronghold.

MORE WORK AHEAD

Mr. McIlraith said that once the Newfoundland resolution is disposed of, the government would go on to second reading of a bill to establish a fund for economic and social development on special rural development areas, a resolution on tariffs would follow, then second reading of a collective bargaining bill for the civil service.

The government organization bill provides for establishment of:

—A solicitor - general's department responsible for penitentiaries parole, and the RCMP.

—A registrar-general responsible for bankruptcies, corporate affairs, patents, copyrights and trademarks and restrictive trade practices.

—A manpower minister responsible for immigration, employment services and development and use of manpower resources.

—An Indian affairs and northern development minister responsible for the territories, Indian and Eskimo affairs, national parks, battlefields, historic sites and monuments, and migratory birds and other wildlife.

—An energy, mines and resources minister responsible for energy, mines, minerals, water and other resources, explosives and technical surveys.

ADOPT SUGGESTION

Prime Minister Pearson said that, in line with a recommendation by the Glassco royal commission on government organization, the treasury board would come under a separate minister.

Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), a former immigration minister, said the wedding of immigration and labor would be an unhappy one.

Labor department officials were opposed to increased immigration. And with former labor leader Jean Marchand as manpower minister, there was no doubt who would win.

He also objected to splitting the justice department into three.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) conceded changes are necessary to lighten the load of an "overburdened" justice minister.

However, he questioned the way responsibilities were being divided at a time when a coordinated war on organized crime was necessary.

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of A. Lorne MacDougall as chief executive officer of the Canada Labor Relations Board was announced Monday by Labor Minister Nicholson. Mr. MacDougall, 59, has been secretary of the board since 1953. Mr. MacDougall, a native of Barrie, is a graduate of Queen's University and joined the department 30 years ago.

Defections May Bring Change In Hungarian Travel Policy

By JOHN BEST

BUDAPEST (CP) — One way individual freedom has increased in Hungary since the 1956 revolt is the more liberal official attitude toward foreign travel.

Last year a million Hungarians travelled abroad—10 per cent of the population. Of these, about 150,000 went to Western countries, mainly Austria and Italy but also France and West Germany.

Some observers say there are signs of a tightening up in the Communist government's attitude toward foreign travel because of the number of Hungarians who have defected while in the West.

Unofficial reports have put the figure on defections in the thousands but authorities say these are exaggerated. One polite official explained that because many defectors are doctors, engineers and other professionals, their prominence and the news of their actions lend to give a misleading impression.

Nevertheless, it is evident that Hungarian officials are anxious about the problem.

Among defectors have been members of athletic teams. Commenting on one such case, the defection of a promising young soccer player in West Germany, a Communist newspaper concluded that in Hungary "the moral education of athletes is far below their professional training."

GOODS SMUGGLED HOME

Another reason why foreign travel might be curtailed is the great amount of smuggling and currency speculation in which it is involved. Early this year an entire national swim team bound for Bremen was ordered back at the border when some of its members were found to have foreign money with them.

The main traffic, however, is in goods smuggled into Hungary from abroad. Some observers feel authorities may not be entirely unhappy about this because it helps relieve pressure of demand on hard - pressed, generally inefficient Hungarian enterprises producing the same commodities.

The resourceful Hungarians have found ingenious ways of overcoming the main problem connected with travel abroad —money. Unable to take more than a few dollars with them when travelling, for example, to Austria, they make arrangements with someone in Austria to help out.

The Austrian will perhaps pay for lodgings and even gifts purchased in Austria. In return, the visitor will make some sort of repayment to a relative of his benefactor back in Hungary. This works out because there is hardly a family without some such connection on both sides of the border.

TRADE APARTMENTS

Similarly, travelling to Czechoslovakia, a Hungarian tourist may have a whole empty apartment or house conveniently waiting for him, complete with a list of prospective friends, food and a month's supply of local currency.

It will all have been pre-arranged with a Czechoslovakian intending to visit Hungary who will be given the same treatment.

Among those taking advantage of the travel boom are Hungarians with relatives in Canada. Last year, at the British embassy which handles Canadian consular affairs here, 1,000 visas were issued for Hungarians going to Canada for visits.

Large numbers come here from Canada, returning to the homeland from which most of them fled at the time of the 1956 uprising.

Some collect brides to take back to Canada. In one month (August) last year 40 Hungarian - Canadians presented themselves at the British Embassy for certificates required before they could get married.

Travel business between Canada and Hungary is so good, in fact, that Air Canada is said to be considering opening an office here.

Cheering Communist party officials hurried into the streets in the capital distributing a special edition of the party newspaper, The People's Daily, proclaiming the test a complete success.

The announcement gave no indication of the bomb's strength or any further technical details.

The blast took place over Western China at 4 p.m. (3 a.m. EDT) Monday, the official announcement said. One purpose of China's development of nuclear weapons was to oppose "United States-Soviet collusion for maintaining nuclear monopoly," the announcement said.

Monday was the first time Russia was directly named as a reason for building up China's nuclear arsenal.

In Washington, defence officials said China may have come up with a dud in an attempt to detonate a hydrogen bomb.

treating effluent from their plants, "Industry is realistic. They're only going to do what they have to go."

Mr. Simonett, expressing in the house his opinion that the govt. should not seek counterfeits of firms that cause pollution, told Mr. Nixon: "I don't think the honorable member would want us to go into his riding and close these plants up. I know I wouldn't want them closed in my riding."

SPENDING ESTIMATED

Mr. Simonett said it was estimated last year that Ontario industry will have to spend between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 to meet the 1970 deadline.

He said the deadline was contained in an ultimatum from the OWRC to industry last year. The deadline is intended to apply only to industrial pollution from existing plants, he said. New plants must be proved to be free of pollution before designs are approved.

Mr. Young said earlier the OWRC does not have enough money to do its job properly and lacks the necessary authority to enforce its objectives.

He said the government has cut the OWRC budget this year. It had been a practical budget aimed at getting enough funds to do the job needed on pollution, he said.

Mr. Young produced OWRC reports referring to industrial pollution from nickel mines in Sudbury, oil drilling operations at Petrolia and pollution caused by six companies in the Brampton area.

Chinese Communist Official Blackest Enemy of Party

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Judging by a vast flood of propaganda from Peking, the blackest enemy of the Chinese Communist party is a Chinese Communist official named Wu Han.

The indictment against Wu Han is a fascinating exercise in Communist logic. To hear Peking tell it, Wu is the centre of a threat to the existence of the regime.

Wu has become the main target of a campaign denouncing "anti-party, anti-Communist elements." The campaign has such a hysterical sound that it suggests panic in high places.

Mao Tse-tung's politburo has made Wu and "his supporters" object lessons. What is happening to them serves as a warning of what can happen to anyone who toys with the idea of opposing politburo policies.

As the politburo tells it, Wu Han as long as seven years ago "revealed his true face." But in those seven years he remained service - president (deputy mayor) of the Peking city council and a respected historian and theoretician.

The propaganda fails to say why, if he revealed himself in 1959, he was not ousted. It fails to say why the Communist state continued to publish his works.

SPARKS DRIVE

Wu just happens to be in the centre of a violent drive against intellectual and others — some inside the party, some inside the armed forces—now accused of threatening the politburo's rule. So the regime has constructed a case against Wu and flashed a signal to others against "enemies" throughout the country of 700,000,000 population.

The case is based on Wu's writings since the 1960s. In those days the Communists, including Mao, instructed followers to use any and all subterfuges for inflicting enemy ranks. Today, the things Wu wrote and said in those days are part of the indictment against him.

Wu has been a prolific producer of historical and political essays and other works. His allegories about bandits and bandmen in the 1940s would have been interpreted as condemning Chiang Kai-shek, the Nationalist China leader, and Chiang's Kuomintang party. Not so now, in retrospect.

In the 1940s Wu wrote that "the people are suffering." He claimed to champion "genuine democratic politics" — as Communists out of power invariably do. He wrote against one-party dictatorship. He deplored the sort of rule which gave all wealth, glory and power to one man.

These essays were published as a book in 1960. In the context of the 1940s, an attack on one-man rule and one-party dictatorship pointed to Chiang Kai-shek.

DIDN'T EXPLAIN

Wu changed China's propaganda. Wu published his essays "without explanation." Thus, attacks on one-man and one-party rule could have another meaning. By 1960 Mao had all the power and glory.

Now the party finds that Wu had managed "to sneak into the revolutionary ranks" in the 1940s. It finds that in all the intervening time he was serving China and "the reactionaries" as a tool of the "U.S. imperialists."

His sought a "middle road," thus indicating a belief that the Communist party did not represent the Chinese people.

We committed yet other sins. He forgot the importance of "class hatred" in two historical plays.

The party says Wu championed such unthinkable things as "personal liberty and freedom of thought, press, travel and others such as election rights."

Auto Accidents Might Be Less Harmful if Bodies Were Less Rigid

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—Oscar is a key figure in the auto industry's safety program but he never will say a word about it.

He is a 180-pound dummy, made of rubber and steel and wired to give detailed reports of the bumps he takes in 30-mile smashups a year on Ford's testing area.

Oscar is the name which Ford's safety engineers gave to the hero of their auto collapsibility program, aimed at finding ways to absorb the force of a collision while leaving the car body intact.

Collapsibility is a word that seems destined to become common in the auto industry in the years ahead. In simplest terms, it involves the questions of whether auto accidents might be less harmful if car bodies were less rigid.

Ford is deeply involved in a collapsibility study and General Motors has done considerable research, too. Chrysler and American Motors have taken a preliminary look at the idea.

From a layman's viewpoint, the problem seems to be this:

Studies have indicated that in an auto accident, about three to 10 per cent of the collision energy is absorbed by the body. The rest is shared by the car occupants and car interior.

MADE TESTS

From the smashups, plus laboratory tests and simulated tests fed to a computer, Ford studies have disclosed several things thus far:

1. Glimpsers and their backup structures are of little value in a crash.

2. Radiators have no value in reducing the effects of a crash.

3. Something may have to be done about the tire and wheel, which Ford engineers feel do not absorb enough energy.

4. Auto suspension frames now get a "free ride" in auto accidents and should be modified so they will absorb more of the effects of any impact.

Studies showed that when a car is in an accident it takes just 30 one-thousands of a second for the energy of the crash to be dissipated.

All the damage that the car sustained in the crash happened in that tiny part of a second and the remainder of the crash energy was transferred to the passenger in what has been called the second collision —the impact of occupants against the car.

Ford said if the crash time could be lengthened a bit, it would cut down the amount of crash energy transmitted to the passenger and thus give him a better chance of escaping injury.

SUBSIDIZE FALLOW

The U.S. government paid farmers $1,382,000,000 to reduce grain acreages in 1965, compared with $846,000,000 in 1963.

Substandard Housing to Be Investigated

NAPANEE — Napanee is taking seriously the problem of substandard housing and means to do something about it. Early in the year the question of a by-law to deal with this problem was proposed, and a committee was set up consisting of Councillors Donald Read, Bert Massie and Clayton Woodcock.

Last Tuesday night the committee met with Mayor Lorne A. Smart to report on their investigation and prepare a statement to be submitted to Council at its next meeting. Information had been requested of other municipalities regarding their by-laws dealing with houses not fit for human habitation, and these replies have been received and are being studied.

One conclusion reached was that although all municipalities have the same problem, each has special characteristics and the same by-law cannot be applied to any two communities.

Warm Weather Needed for Crop Growth

NAPANEE — Seeding in Lennox and Addington is about two - thirds completed, Garnet Mills, agricultural representative for the county reports. Considerable grain corn is in also. Some of the seeding is up and has frozen off, he says, but he believes it will come back, if it is not frozen below the growing point.

However, moisture and warm weather is needed now, to start growth. The reserve moisture is not adequate for growth, and the record low temperature is holding everything back.

Mr. Mills is more concerned about the prospects for the hay crop than for grain. "We have had two bad years as far as hay is concerned, and reserves are used up. Unless we have a good crop this year the situation may be serious."

The present gloomy outlook could change over night. If and when we get a good day's warm rain the grass and the grain will jump into growth and the whole picture will change. It is early yet, he says, and there is no cause for alarm."

Gives Report of Employment Situation in Napanee Area

NAPANEE — The employment situation in this area looks bright, Manager T. W. Cox of the National Employment Office reports. At the end of March this year 513 men were registered for employment. At the end of April the figure was 386, a drop of 125. Last year at the end of April 398 men were seeking employment through the office here. The drop this year is caused by men going back to their normal summer jobs, and by the fact that Napanee Industries are taking on 30 new men last week and this.

The situation as far as women is concerned is apparently not as good as for the men, but there is no explanation. At the end of March there were 177 registered unemployed women, and 194 a month later, a drop of only 16. At the end of April 1965 the figure was 230, which is 36 lower than this year.

This trend is reflected all across Canada Mr. Cox explained, with more and more women coming into the labor market. Employers are catering to them, making their shifts convenient ones for mothers to use. One firm has a nine to three shift, so that mothers can see their children off to school and be at home when they return. A second shift is from six to 11, when the husbands, employed during the day, are at home to play with the children. Women now form 35 per cent of the work force, as against 30 per cent a few years ago.

Many of those registered here wish to go into employment in the tourist industry and will be absorbed as soon as the lodges open. Soon there will be an increase in the registrations as students begin to register early for summer employment in order to have some help. Officers assured them before examinations.

Soon National Employment Offices will have a new name. They will be known as Canada Manpower Centres. Offices is part of the new Department of Manpower. A bill is before the House this week which will authorize this.

Cold Weather Is Concern For Industry

DESERONTO — The unprecedented cold weather is causing anxiety in the canning industry in this area, William Forbes, general manager of Metcalfe Foods, Deseronto, states. This firm is not in serious condition as far as the tomato plant line is concerned. They did lose between 20 and 25 thousand plants last Thursday night, but these are surplus, as they always grow more than they need. However, it was a loss.

Mr. Forbes stated that their loss is as nothing compared with the loss suffered by Prince Edward growers who are reported to have lost 1,000,000 Plantula Thursday night and more on Friday.

A second worry is the problem of getting out the seed peas. Some are in the ground now and some are up. However, there is not sufficient moisture and heat to bring up a large percentage of the amount planted.

More seed should be given out to the growers now, but if they were sowed right away, would be ready for the cannery at the same time as the one now lying dormant. This would bring a glut of the crop which the factory could not handle. There must be successive sowings of peas to keep them coming to the factory steadily, and not too many at once for the factory to handle. Peas deteriorate rapidly unless cut at the proper moment and processed within a few hours.

And as Metcalfe Foods and its managers are in a quandry. It all depends on the weather. Given a good day's warm rain the peas now sowed would jump, and would be ready to process to make way for the crop from seed not yet in the ground.

GOVERNMENT FOOTS BILL

The U.S. government will finance nearly 80 per cent of American colleges' $2,500,000,000 research budget in 1966.

Napanee Personals

NAPANEE — Three members of the staff of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital attended the annual meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association held in the Royal York Hotel last Wednesday through Saturday; Miss Violet Camblin, director of nursing; Mrs. Roy Markham, assistant director of nursing, and co-ordinator of in service education; and Mrs. Joseph Glenn, operating room and emergencies supervisor.

The Rev. Gordon Hammond, Mrs. Hammond, Margaret Anne and Janice spent Saturday with Mr. Hammond's sister, Mrs. Allen Lyle and her family in Smiths Falls, and his mother, Mrs. Clifford Hammond of Ottawa who was visiting there.

Mrs. Frank Ford of Mill St. returned Sunday from the L. and A. County General Hospital, where she had been undergoing treatment.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Craig of Marven were Mrs. Craig's sister, Mrs. Ted Sanford with Mr. Sanford and Stephen of Kingston, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fretts of Bridge St.

Mrs. Wilson Hart of Robert St. returned Sunday after a month's absence, most for the most part in Daytona Beach, Fla., with her son Dr. V. O. Hart and his family. While there she attended the wedding of her granddaughter Mary Sharon Hart and Thomas Partridge, April 9, returning to Toronto last Wednesday, she visited her nieces, Mrs. Boyd Scott and Mrs. Victor Holland and their families, and spent two days in Belleville with her sister, Mrs. Archie Cook and her husband. Sunday all joined a family party at the home of Mrs. Hart's niece, Mrs. Ronald Giles of Ameliasburg.

Tax Foundation Suggests Consolidation of Federal And Provincial Sales Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Consolidation of federal and provincial sales taxes and a shift to the provinces of federal revenues from tobacco and liquor taxes is suggested in a review of federal - provincial tax relations published by the Canadian Tax Foundation of Toronto.

It says the present split between federal and provincial occupancy of the personal income tax field is about as far as the two levels of government should go.

The foundation's 312 - page book in English and French, based on an earlier work by A. Milton Moore and J. Harvey Perry, was prepared for the tax structure committee composed of federal and provincial finance ministers and treasurers. Donald I. Beach, until recently a member of the foundation's staff, brought the earlier work up to date.

The tax structure committee has been preparing for the autumn start of federal-provincial negotiations on new tax-sharing arrangements. The current ones expire in the spring of 1967.

The book says Canadian experience in financing a federal form of government has become a model for other federal states, but more and closer co-operation is needed between the two levels of government at every stage of research and tax policy formulation.

Ronald Robertson, director of the foundation, says in a foreword that in a dynamic federal country like Canada "there is probably no such thing as an absolutely final solution."

Federal financing of direct taxes and the constitutional restriction against the provinces entering the indirect taxes field leaves the provinces with little room for flexibility, the book says.

"While recent federal-provincial arrangements have recognized increasingly provincial need and allocated an increased share of revenues to the provinces, too much use of the personal income tax has been made for this purpose.

"Even with the provincial inability to levy indirect taxes, federal revenues from alcohol and tobacco, for example, could be shifted to the provinces through the provincial tobacco taxes and in control of operations."

The book also says administrative duplication and lack of a uniform tax base result in an inefficient cultivation of the sales tax field in Canada.

"The administration by one government level of a uniformly based retail tax combining a basic federal rate and a supplementary rate levied by each province to meet its own needs could benefit government and taxpayer alike.

"If the tax were to be provincially administered, an improvement in current provincial practices covering interprovincial and international transactions would be necessary."

Until 1964, the federal government played a "guardian role," making conditional grants to the provinces to spur them to adoption of new policies and plans. But since the federal government has permitted provinces to opt out of federally inspired joint plans, this is likely to be a permanent part of federal-provincial tax relations.

The book expresses concern for the effect of this on Ottawa's ability to pursue a national fiscal policy.

So long as UAR-Soviet political advance and Soviet interest there is little likelihood the cordial relations between the two countries should not continue.

Harry Truman Honored on 82nd Birthday

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman got a lot of nice compliments at his 82nd birthday celebration Monday, but nothing seemed to delight him so much as when Democrat Jack Reed told him by telephone:

"I understand that you think I have more important things to do than wish you a happy birthday. Well, for the first time in your life you are wrong, Mrs. Truman may know of some other times, but I certainly don't."

"I want you to know that I'll never be too busy to pay my respects to a great American," the president said.

There was a genuine feeling of affection for Truman by the more than 400 dignitaries and old cronies who gathered at the birthday luncheon. Truman, perceptibly aged, confined his remarks to a few words of thanks.

President Johnson, in the phone call amplified to the guests, told of a proclamation he signed Monday extending "the admiration and gratitude of all the people."

The proclamation lauds Truman for devoting "himself unceasingly to the cause of freedom, peace and the betterment of his fellow man."

Wholesale Price Index Declines

OTTAWA (CP)—The general index of wholesale prices based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100 fell a point and a half in March to 256.1 from 259. In February, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The index was still 11.3 points or 4.6 per cent higher than the March index last year, however.

Lower prices for livestock fresh and cured meats, fishery products and hides and skins pushed the animal products group index down to 295.2 in March from 303.8 in February. The vegetable products index dropped to 224.1 from 225.4 with lower prices for unmanufactured tobacco, rubber and rubber products, vegetable oils, and sugar.

Lighter Vein Of Committee In Session

OTTAWA (CP) — It was a night sitting in a lighter vein for the Commons broadcasting committee Monday.

The subjects:

—Singer Dinah Christie's decolletage.

—Why CBC senior Vice-President W. S. Briggs is called "captain."

These all came up as the committee continued its look into the battle between producers and CBC management over the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

While Jl. G. Walker, general manager and vice-president of the English network, was describing some lyrics sung by Miss Christie that management objected to, Robert McGeave (PC—Halifax) remarked:

"... And she takes a deep breath from time to time."

"Yes, a very deep breath," said Mr. Walker.

Later, Bryce Mackasey (L—Montreal Verdun) asked whether Mr. Briggs had another role in addition to his work with the CBC.

PROPER QUESTION

"Is he in the militia or the army or something? Why do we constantly refer to him as captain?"

"He has a boat," said Giles Grenier (Creditiste — Lapointe).

Mr. Briggs is a retired navy officer.

At another point Mr. Mackasey asked Mr. Walker how many decisions management takes on to itself. Did management select the color of toilet paper to be used in the corporation?

"No, not as a rule," replied Mr. Walker.

The committee adjourned until today when it will question J. Alphonse Ouimet, the corporation's president.

It is investigating the removal of co-hosts Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre from the program.

Toronto Gallery Raid Conviction Is Appealed

TORONTO (CP) — Paintings by the great masters such as Picasso and Rembrandt were just as explicit in sexual detail as drawings in an exhibition staged by former art dealer Dorothy Cameron, the Ontario Court of Appeal was told Monday.

Miss Cameron is appealing a conviction last fall on seven grounds of exhibiting obscene art in her gallery. She was fined $300.

Defence lawyer Walter Williston said in his opening address that people around the world may be denied the right to view the works of the masters if Miss Cameron's conviction is upheld.

"It could well prevent art galleries, museums, libraries, universities and other similar institutions from exhibiting works generally regarded as a legitimate portion of the cultural heritage of the world."

In his judgment against Miss Cameron last November, Magistrate Fred C. Hayes said some of the nude figures in the drawings were engaged in acts which are illegal under the criminal code.

RAID GALLERY

Last May, members of the Toronto morality squad raided Miss Cameron's gallery and seized seven drawings from the exhibition titled Eros 65.

Five of the drawings were by Robert Markle of Toronto and one each by Lawren Harris Jr. of Toronto and Fred Ross of Saint John.

Magistrate Hayes wrote in his 21-page judgment that the dominant characteristic of each exhibit is "the undue exploitation of sex."

Mr. Williston argued that although any picture of a great artist could be obscene if "it is used in a disgusting manner.

"If some of Picasso's works showing intimate sexual detail were put on a billboard, then they would become obscene because they would be an outrage to public decency.

"And if some of Rembrandt's works were made into picture cards, the seller could go to jail."

He said Miss Cameron's gallery on downtown Yonge Street was "among the six best commercial galleries in Toronto. The seven paintings were arranged as an exhibit "calculated to attract connoisseurs of art and lovers rather than persons interested in pornography."

Mr. Williston said even paintings of the crucifixion would be banned if standards used against Miss Cameron were made general.

He argued there is no obscenity in the description or portrayal of sex in the fine arts, no matter how explicit the portrayal may be.

"Obscenity lies in the treatment of the subject matter," he said. "The Criminal Code recognizes serious - minded artists must have freedom in the production of work of genuine artistic merit."

Before the court adjourned, Mr. Williston asked the three judges to take judicial notice of the recognized art works of the world.

"To decide whether the purposes of an artist or exhibition is 'base,' the court must have a working knowledge of art, its development, history and purpose."

Mr. Williston is one of five lawyers acting for Miss Cameron. They are supported by the Canadian Civil Liberties Association and an expense fund donated by Miss Cameron's friends and supporters.

The hearing continues.

Kosygin Pays Visit to Nasser

CAIRO (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived in Cairo today for an eight-day official visit. He was met by President Nasser.

It is the Soviet leader's first official visit outside the Communist world since he came to power 18 months ago.

Kosygin's visit was seen here as a sign of increasing Soviet interest in Middle Eastern affairs.

Nasser Takes Time Out To Attack U. S. Policy On China and Viet Nam

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Nasser took time out to attack United States policy toward China and to visit Nam on the eve of a visit by Soviet Premier Kosygin to the United Arab Republic.

The Egyptian leader said that American policy has created a "complicated situation in Asia by ignoring the truth about the Chinese revolution and, further, trying to isolate China and destroy it."

He said the U.S. is encouraged to continue activity in Viet Nam because the Soviet Union is in no position to issue an ultimatum for the withdrawal of American troops, and this Soviet inability was blamed on the current dispute between Peking and Moscow.

Nasser's comments were made public hours before the scheduled arrival in the UAR of Kosygin and a group of Soviet political and economic advisers.

FIRST OFFICIAL TRIP

The Soviet premier's eight-day tour of the UAR is his first official trip to a non-Communist country—except for a brief visit to New Delhi for prime minister Shastri's funeral—since he replaced premier Khrushchev in October, 1964.

Cairo was bedecked in red flags and hammer - and - sickle banners to mark the visit of Kosygin in the country and to the $1,000,000,000 Aswan Dam, of which about 40 per cent was financed by the Soviet Union.

Kosygin's trip will give the Soviet Union a chance to raise a fresh challenge to Western interests and military positions in the Middle East.

The Russians have supplied Nasser's armed forces with more than $1,000,000,000 worth of tanks, jet submarines, air-to-air missiles and other weapons since the Egyptian leader years ago.

Kosygin also may take advantage of the trip to persuade the feuding socialists of the Arab world—Iraq, Syria and the UAR —to unite against the pro-Western elements in the Middle East.

NEW PROMISE

But if the visit by Kosygin

Civil Servants Walk Off Jobs In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Some 1,000 provincial civil servants employed in professional capacities walked off the job in Quebec City and Montreal Monday in support of their demand for increased salaries as part of their first work contract.

Officially, the civil servants are holding study sessions, a term used by employees who walk off the job without having the legal right to strike.

After simultaneous morning meetings in Quebec City and Montreal, the civil servants said they will not return to work until they reach a settlement with the government.

Pickets were set up on principal government buildings in both cities.

The decision to begin the study sessions was made Saturday after a breakdown in negotiations with the government.

The civil servants involved are members of six unions affiliated to the Quebec Provincial federation of National Trade Unions. They include engineers, surveyors, accountants, forestry engineers, agronomists, biologists, chemists, geographers, economists, veterinarians and geographers.

WANT MORE MONEY

They claim they require $2,000 a year less than other professional people employed by the city of Montreal and Hydro-Quebec.

Their average salary now is $8,000 a year. They are seeking an increase of 20 per cent in the first year of the contract, 10 per cent in the second year and $1,000 in compensation to cover the last five months of legislation.

Health Minister Eric Kierans, in charge of the government end of the negotiations, described the work stoppage as an illegal strike.

He said he was surprised to learn that four of the six unions involved joined the walkout without even having heard the government's contract offer.

There's a difference, perhaps in the face, the fez and the faith, but from there on their associations with each other take on a touch of the "Three Musketeers" complex.

Those were the years the Belleville Allanahra Islam Caravan and the Belleville Shrine Club have through friendly fraternalism set an outstanding example of what can be done through inter-club co-operation.

The jewelled fezzes of these two organizations, the silver of the Caravan and the red of the Shrine have intermingled in many social get-togethers. Harmony, accord and mutual respect have keynoted these functions.

While some of their paths are divergent, humanitarianism is the bond that draws these organizations together. This is evidenced in the co-sponsorship of the Bobby Hull Testimonial Dinner being given here Thursday night.

As his already been noted, the entire net proceeds will be divided between the Shrine Crippled Children Fund and the Retarded Children.

Joint committees of the Shrine and Islam Caravan have worked closely together since the dinner was planned several weeks ago. The many details were worked out successfully through mutual effort and co-operation.

The stage is now set; the "actors" are in the figurative wings and, it is hoped, a full house there will be on hand, not only to pay colorful tribute to a great athlete, but to assist two great humanitarian causes.

The dinner, highlighted with the presentation of a handsome gold trophy to Bobby Hull, the guest of honor, is being held in St. Michael's Academy auditorium. It will be preceded by a social hour scheduled for Nicholson College where the ten-dollar-plate guests will get the opportunity to meet Bobby Hull and his family, following the dinner, another social hour with dancing is being held at the Shrine Club. There are no extra charges.

During the dinner the Tommy McNevin Memorial Trophy, symbolic of the "Sportsmanship Hockey Championship" will be presented to the proud winner by Bobby Hull.

That master of the quick quip and boo mot, CJBQ fawn-colored Jack Ellis, of course, will be the master-of-ceremonies. Strictly on his honor not to "pause for station identification" or ask his audience to "stay tuned while we wash", Mr. Hoskings will introduce visiting dignitaries and conduct other MC rituals.

Perhaps the two proudest people in the auditorium and banding an equally proud family will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, senior.

Representing their municipalities will be Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville and Mrs. Ellis and Mayor Harvey J. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland of Picton. Special out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wilson. Mr. Wilson, former Chicago Black Hawks chief scout, is the man who was signed Hull to his professional hockey contract.

Also at the head table will be the co-chairmen of the Testimonial Dinner who worked successfully for its success, Ken Fez, Islam Caravan, and Mrs. Fez and Bill Stewart, Shrine Club and Mrs. Stewart. Blake's Successor?

Boom-Boom Quits Aces

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion said Monday he is resigning as coach of Quebec Aces of the American hockey League.

He said one of the reasons for his action is that Aces owner Gerald Martineau "didn't know whether or not he wanted to remain in business."

Geoffrion, a former star with Montreal Canadiens, said in an interview:

"Before I left Quebec City a few days ago, I was told that if a new position presented itself I should consider it seriously."

There have been recurring reports that the Quebec club is for sale. The management is said to be disappointed about fan support for the team in Quebec City.

HE'S DISAPPOINTED

Geoffrion also said he is deeply disappointed about his team's showing in the AHL as playoffs. The aces had finished well ahead of the remaining teams in their division of the league, but lost to Rochester Americans in the first round.

Geoffrion said he would meet David Molson, president of Montreal Canadiens, "to see what plans, if any, the organization has for me." The Aces are a farm team of the National Hockey League club.

Geoffrion has been mentioned as a possible successor to Toe Blake if Blake decides to step down as coach of the Canadiens.

Blake soon will begin a one-month holiday, following which he is expected to advise the Montreal management of his plans.

Oil Kings Standby Goalie Out

TORONTO (CP)—Don Caley, picked up by Edmonton Oil Kings as goaltending insurance for their Memorial Cup final against Oshawa Generals, is ineligible to play.

Edmonton, behind 2-1 in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian junior hockey championship, learned Monday that Caley can't play because he does not come from Alberta.

Caley was an all-star with Weyburn Red Wings of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League and the Oil Kings added him as a third netminder behind regular Don McLeod and Jim Knox.

Bill Hunter, manager of the Oil Kings, said he was "misinformed" by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association about Caley's eligibility, but CAHA vice-president Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, Ont., said the Kings can only use a goalie from Alberta. Caley is a resident of Saskatchewan.

"If Edmonton's two goalies are injured," said Pollock, "I imagine another one would be provided, but he would have to be from their own (Alberta) branch. Caley can't play."

Mantle, Maris Homer ★★★★★ Yankees' M. and M. Boys Ride Again ★★★★★ Win Three In Row

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The M and M boys struck again Monday night, for the first time in nearly a year.

MICKEY MANTLE

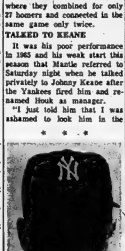
Mantle hit his first home run of the season and Maris recorded his second, marking the first time since May 18, 1965, that they had connected in the same game.



The Yankee outfielders gained the label of M and M because of their torrid homer hitting that made them baseball's most awesome twosome in the first half of this decade and powered the Yankees to five consecutive American League pennants.

Last year, however, injuries reduced their effectiveness to where they combined for only 27 homers and connected in the same game only twice.

TAILED TO KEANE

It was his poor performance in 1965 and his weak start this season that Mantle referred to Saturday night when he talked privately to Johnny Keane after the Yankee first him and re-named Houk as manager.

"I just told him that I was ashamed to look him in the face," Mantle said, "because since he came here he was the only man I played for that I felt I let down in baseball."

ROGER MARIS

The Yankees are going well compared with the first 20 games of the season when they won only four times. Mantle, in particular, is going well.

While he drove in only one run in the first 18 games he played, he now has knocked in five of the 11 the Yankees have scored in their three-game winning streak.

Elsewhere in the American League, California Angels walloped Washington Senators 10-7 and Kansas City Athletics whipped Boston Red Sox 6-1, Cincinnati Reds defeated Atlanta Braves 7-4 in the only National League game.

Mantle's homer was a 370-foot drive in the fourth inning while Maris' 410-foot blow in the seventh was the 202th of his career and tied the game 2-2. Joe Foy singled then won it for Mets Stottlemyre when he led off the ninth with a homer against Al Worthington.

Bob Rodgers and Ed Kirkpatrick each drove in three runs with a triple and a homer as the Angels made full use of their eight hits. The Senators, who had 14 hits, contributed eight walks to California's attack.

Ron Athletics rode a four-run fourth inning to their victory. Manny Jimenez tripled in one and scored on a wild pitch by Boston's Pete Magrini. Jim Lonborg later came on and wild pitched another run across.

Two home runs by Pete Rose and Alex Shamsky in the third inning carried Cincinnati past Atlanta. Rose had four hits in all while Shamsky also singled and scored in the first on a single by Leo Cardenas. Denis Menke and Ed Mathews homered for the Braves.

The low Canadian pro in each tournament who has already filed an entry in the World championship will qualify to compete at Southport and will have his travel costs to the England paid by the sponsoring company. Each pro receives $1,000 expense money for being on the tour.

The amateur making the trip is Mike Weir, 20, of Sarnia, Ont., who qualified as the low Canadian in the 1965 Canadian Amateur.

In addition, Toronto professional George Knudson, who finished among the top 10 in Canada's Order of Merit last year, has already qualified.

Mud Hens Win Four In Row

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baby, it's cold outside where International League teams have been urged to play Ice Hockey all these days. But Toledo's Mud Hens have a winning streak to keep them warm.

The Mud Hens made it four in a row Monday night by edging Rochester Red Wings 1-0 before a temperature of 39 degrees in Toledo persuaded all hands to postpone a scheduled second game.

Mates As Much To Blame

Oil Kings' Goalie Hits Back

TORONTO (CP)—Goalie Don McLeod of Edmonton Oil Kings struck back Monday at critics of his performance in the three games of the Memorial Cup playoffs, which he term-makes are as much to blame as him.

"I know I've been lousy, but some of our fellows haven't been using their heads," McLeod said. "A friend of mine kept track in one game and the Generals scored on 36 shots."

McLeod, 18, the team's first string goalie, has been beaten 13 times by Oshawa Generals in the three games.

Oshawa leads the best - of - seven Canadian junior hockey final 2-1 on the basis of 7-4 and 6-2 victories in the last two games. Edmonton won the opener 7-2. The fourth game will be played here Wednesday.

McLeod said his players have been shooting directly at the Oshawa defence instead of getting their shots away quickly.

CRITICIZED YOUNG

He said he was envious of the protection given Oshawa goalie Ian Young by the Generals' defence.

Ray Kinsawich, the Edmonton coach, has to decide whether he'll go with McLeod Wednesday, or remain with standby goalie Jim Knox who held the Generals to two goals in the two periods he worked Sunday.

Kinsawich was critical of McLeod's work in the opener claiming the two Oshawa goals in that game were "soft ones."

But Kinsawich denied at a press conference Monday night a statement attributed to him after Sunday's game that McLeod had "choked up."

"I would never say that about any player," Kinsawich said. McLeod has been having his problems in this series but he's a good goalie. All he needs is one good game, and he'll win this cup for us."

Lawn-Boy with Grasscatcher picks up grass, leaves, and weeds as you cut!

If you're a Lawn-Boy owner stand up and take a bow. You're one of the smart ones. Then sit down and relax. It isn't the easier than raking or pushing a heavy old-fashioned mower! Lawn-Boy's grasscatcher does the raking for you. It picks up grass while you cut. It picks up leaves in the fall and tidies your lawn in spring. It collects weeds before they spread over your lawn. To empty, you jump-up off the bag and unzip.

Lawn-Boy starts easier, too. You use just two fingers and 84% less effort than old-fashioned heave-and-haul type mowers. And Lawn-Boy is warranted for two years—that's longer than some mowers last.

See your dealer for the full line of Lawn-Boys with grasscatcher, without grasscatcher, push-type, and self-propelled. In all, there are 19 reasons you should own a Lawn-Boy. Your dealer is itching to show you every one.

Both Networks To Televise Football

Some In Color

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian Football League fans will be able to see games on both the CBC and CTV television networks again this season—some of them in color.

Gordon F. Keeble of Toronto, president of CTV Television Network Ltd., announced Monday long-term contracts have been signed with both Eastern and Western Conferences for all regular-season and playoff games.

League officials said the amount to be paid to the CFL over a three-year period covering 1966-67-68 is close to $2,500,000.

J. G. (Jake) Gaudaur, general manager of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the EFC and chairman of the league's TV committee, said the CTV will pay $1,425,000 for rights to televise games in the East.

Hugh McColl of Edmonton, president of the WFC, said the deal gives his conference "just about $1,000,000" and allows the network to telecast any WFC game.

In Toronto, the CBC announced it will again telecast all Saturday games in both conferences this summer. Arrangements to carry the Saturday games were reached with CTV, which is continuing an agreement reached in 1965 between the two networks providing for sharing of CFL television coverage.

Still to be negotiated are terms for the Grey Cup game, but CTV's agreements with each conference give that network first refusal of the game. The payment is the largest in the history of the EFC and marks the second time a three-year contract has been signed. The CBC paid $1,000,000 for similar rights in 1963-65-67-68.

The amount paid to the WFC was also the largest in conference history.

Morgan, Robinson Top Bats

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Houston's baseball team launched a new double play combination this season with the addition of speedy Sonny Jackson and it has helped rocket the Astros into third place in the National League.

Joe Morgan, the Astros' second baseman, has taken over the league batting lead with a .370 average. He also leads in hits with 34.

Jackson, a rookie shortstop, is 10th in batting with .312 and leads in stolen bases with 11, three more than Maury Wills of Los Angeles, the perennial pacesetter.

Ken Boyer of New York Mets, the batting leader with .391 a week ago, slipped to .290.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, the former National League from Cincinnati, took over the American League batting lead with .400. He had nine hits in 24 times at bat last week.

Minnesota's Tony Oliva, the batting champion the last two years, zoomed into second place. He lifted his average 68 points to .394 by collecting 13 hits in 24 tries.

George Scott, Boston rookie, moved into first place in American League home runs with 10. He slammed five last week. Brooks Robinson remained the runs-batted-in leader, with a total of 23.

Hank Aaron of Atlanta is the National League's home run leader with nine while San Francisco's Willie Mays has the most RBIs, 21.

The pitching leaders are Juan Marichal of San Francisco, who has won all three National League games, and Cleveland's Sam McDowell, a four-game winner in the American. Both are unbeaten.

Ten pin winners, Marilyn Thurgood, 275 Albert Street, and Robert Long Jr., 254 Palmer Road of Belleville hold airline tickets won in the Bowl Your Way to Europe Contest. They will travel to Washington, D.C. for the roll-offs on May 26, 27 and 28. Winner of the Washington, D.C., tour will travel all expenses paid to Europe for one week.

THE TOYOTA CROWN COULD BE CALLED A COMPACT BUT IT'S TOO WELL BUILT!

Back in the days when the term "compact" was coined, it was derided that a compact should have maximum dimensions for wheelbase, overall length, engine power and weight.

The wheelbase, overall length and power made common sense. But the weight limit meant that all true compacts were flimsy and just didn't stand up under hard use. The compacts fell apart and so did sales and the "compacts" grew up and became "intermediates" and joined up GT jobs.

Toyota didn't compromise its Crown sedan with flimsiness so by definition the car fails to be classed as a "compact". It's too solid and it weighs 2,800 pounds. That 2,800 pounds is centered mainly in Toyota's massive box section X-braced frame and unit constructed body. The body is made of 16 gauge steel (4 s.w.g. heavier than standard automotive sheet metal), it is undercoated, has a three stage rust preventive treatment and is heavily painted with acrylic enamels. The entire body is insulated against road and wind noise, heat and cold. Open up a no-draft at 80 miles an hour and you'll realize just how quiet a Crown is.

In Japan the Toyota Crown is the most luxurious car made so it's loaded with equipment they call accessories or extra cost options on other cars. When you buy a Toyota Crown the only extra available is a radio. Toyota has standard equipment other makers don't even list as options.

If you think Japanese cameras and motor cycles are good, then take a closer look at a Toyota Crown and you'll see what Japanese quality really means. And like other Japanese quality products, the Toyota can be sold at a price way below its European competition. You can't really compare the Toyota Crown with domestic compacts. Remember the Crown has been forced out of this class because it's too well built.

Regarding the current season, it was pointed out that the Garrison Club fared well, taking part in five major Central Ontario Tournaments, and bringing home trophies from all five, despite a late season start due to work in the armouries here.

Plans for next season call for a more concentrated effort to obtain a larger junior membership in the club, with the possibility of instructions from senior club members.

The election of officers for 1966-67 was held with Ronald Walmsley named president, Leo Forten vice-president, Dorothy Knight secretary, Glen Harry treasurer, and Fred Weismaker, Mike Church and Ted Smith, directors.

BD Softball Final Meet Tomorrow

With the schedule opening less than two weeks away, the Belleville and District Softball League will hold its first pre-season meeting of the year tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

The meeting is called for Dick Ellis' home, 564 Sidney Street, at 7:30 sharp.

Secretary Jerry Reid says that a schedule will be presented to the clubs for approval and that any other last-minute matters should be brought up now, "before we get the season under way."

All clubs are asked to have representation.

Teams in the league are: Belleville Bobcats, Bloomfield, Madoc, Belleville Ellis Juniors and Belleville Trudeau Motors.

Canny Cassius Cautious

LONDON (AP)—Cassius Clay will meet British Prime Minister Harold Wilson for a chat at the House of Commons before the May 21 heavyweight title fight with Britain's Henry Cooper.

Clay flew into London and was so polite and modest he had photographers biting their lips with frustration.

"Nope, you'll say I'm making a prediction," countered Clay.

Clay was tired after his flight from Miami, Fla., via New York, which was delayed for four hours by fog. He starts training today.

"I just want to sleep. But you can be sure I will take no chances against Cooper this time. Man, I learned a lesson," Clay said.

Briton Wins Italian Net Crown

Mrs. Haydon-Jones, 27, Britain's No. 1 woman player, was the first British woman to win a championship here since 1959, when Christine Truman took the title.

Last year's winner, Maria Bueno of Brazil, could not compete because of an injury to her left knee.

Australia's top-seeded Roy Emerson eliminated the United States last hope today by beating Marty Riessen 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 in a men's singles quarter-final match.

The match between Emerson and eighth-seeded Riessen, of Evanston, Ill., was suspended Friday night because of darkness.

Emerson will meet Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli in the semi-final Tuesday. Tony Roche will play fellow Australian Martin Mulligan.

George Raft Now Working In Posh Club as Dancer

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—Every night at nine a Rolls-Royce draws up in front of the Colony Club on Berkeley Square and out steps a legendary figure, George Raft.

He is wearing his working clothes: Dapper suit, striped tie, gleaming hairpiece. Raft is going to work not as an actor, which is how he earned his fame in 25 years of Hollywood movies.

Nor is he working as a dancer, which is how he began his career in show business.

George Raft is back in the gambling business, which has provided livelihood—and occasional disaster — at times throughout his adult life.

The Colony Club is one of the many posh places that have been thriving on the tourist trade and the swinging Britons of the new, illuminated (turned-on) idiot. There is talk now that London has outstripped Las Vegas as the gambling capital of the world, at least in the quality of the high rollers. Games of $100,000 are slight occurrences, I'm reported.

APPROACH CASUAL

Raft listens to the rattle of the dice, the whirring of the roulette ball with the casual assurance of a bobby hearing the sounds of traffic.

"What am I doing here?" he said. "Well, I just walk around, talk to people, have a drink. Maybe console them if they have dropped a few on the tables. It seems to make them happy.

"They usually ask me about flipping that half-dollar; I tell them it was really a nickel, which is what it was. But then everything has been inflated."

The half-dollar—or nickel—was flipped by Raft in London, the 1931 film that lifted him out of the ranks of night club dancers. He became the epitome of the tough guy in gangster movies of the 1930s, and survived the 1940s, often as a nice guy.

But movie styles change, and Raft suffered the fate of those in fic fancy to a less elemental, more sadistic kind of film vil-lain. With the decline of his movie fortunes came a reverse in his personal luck.

RECALLS LAST FLING

"The last time I gambled," said Raft, gazing over the Colony Club's green — felt tables, "was at the opening of the Flamingo in Las Vegas. That was 1946 or '47. I think Jimmy Durante opened the bill.

"Well, I dropped $45,000 that night. I took the train back to Hollywood. George Jessel asked me why I didn't drive my Cadillac back. I said I figured somebody might send it to me."

Raft was later a part-owner of the Flamingo and then became associated in an ill-fated deal with gambling in Cuba just before Fidel Castro took over the games. He still is facing a civil suit with the government over the deal.

Amerks' Walton Top Rookie

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Mike Walton, 21, centre for Rochester American hockey club today was named the American Hockey League's Rookie-of-the-Year for the 1964-65 season.

Walton, who had 36 goals and 51 assists and finished in a six-th-place tie in the individual scoring race, collected 37 points in balloting by writers and broadcasters in the circuit's nine cities.

New Coach For Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have called a press conference for today apparently to announce a new coach for the 1965-67 season.

A club spokesman declined comment Monday on a report that coach Milt Schmidt will move into the front office.

Schmidt has spent 32 years with the Bruins as a player, assistant general manager and coach. President Weston W. Adams is reported to want to retain Schmidt in take over as general manager when Hap Emms retires.

President Takes Viewers Through His Hill Country

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson's central Texas hills and the rich valley of the Little Pedernales River — "a place where I could come and refill my cup, so to speak, and recharge myself for the more difficult days ahead" — was shown on television Monday night. The president himself explained what it means to him.

The Hill Country: Lyndon Johnson's Texas was NBC's special program and the president, as a reminiscent mood, acted as guide in a camera trip that took viewers from the house in which he was born to the family plot in a nearby cemetery.

"My first memory is on the banks of this river," said the president with a wave of the hand toward the Pedernales. "I remember running down and putting my feet in the water and watching the fish when I was four years old."

Some of the time he drove his car along the white dirt roads of the south central Texas strip called the Hill Country, pointing out the old fieldstone fort where his grandfather and other settlers stood off Indian raids. He took viewers to the house where he was born and even showed the bed in which he arrived before a doctor could get there.

He remembered many intimate things—the sight of goats scrambling to eat the leaves off small shrubs and trees," over running through oak trees and "the beautiful white-faced cattle grazing in the lowlands and the fertile valleys and particularly the prairie country."

The tour also included visits with his first school teacher and, of course, the one-room schoolhouse he attended, as well as a favorite hangout, the Johnson City chili parlor. But the most interesting portion of the program came when the president was speaking with a warmth and informal manner about this homeland he loves.

"I feel comfortable here," he said. "I'm at home here. It gives me a serenity."

At another point he tried, in other words, to sum up:

"Well, the sun seems to be a little brighter, the climate a little warmer, the sky a little fresher, the people a little kinder and more understanding. I guess it is a good deal in what you are accustomed to.

"And I still like to eat the food that my mother cooked when I was a little boy, the types of food that she cooked and I still like to visit the scenes of my childhood and recall all that has happened over half a century."

Although the scenes in which the president appeared were filmed last November, the cameramen have been shooting the countryside until as recently as last month. The result was spectacular color pictures of the area.

The hour program is a fascinating television document. In addition, it revealed a side of the president much different from that one presented to the public in Washington.

$10,000 Baby Sox "Bargain" Pays Off

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—In this day and age when top-rated rookie prospects demand—and get—hundreds of thousands of dollars in professional football and baseball, it appears Boston Red Sox may have landed themselves a real home run slugger for $10,000.

He is George Scott, a 22-year-old rookie who currently leads the American League in homers with 10, including seven in his last eight games.

Pitchers don't know what to throw to Scott, a six-foot-two, 200-pound slugger who signed with the Red Sox four years ago.

"We heard he was a high-ball hitter," Minnesota manager Sam Mele said after Scott hit three homers in a four-game weekend series here. "He belt a low pitch for one of his homers here Friday night.

WORD WILL SPREAD

"We haven't figured out how to pitch him. The pitchers will find out something to get him out and the word will spread. If they don't, he'll hit .340."

Scott is like Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota in that he has so much strength he can poke homers to the opposite field if he just meets the ball.

Scott hit 25 home runs for Pittsfield in the Eastern League last year and batted .319.

Is Scott going to replace team mate Tony Conigliaro, who currently has only two homers, as American League home run champion?

"I went the first two months last year and hit only one home run," Scott replied. "The same thing could happen here."

Common Market Farm Subsidies Are Approved

BRUSSELS (CP) — Ministers of the European Common Market cleared a major hurdle today by agreeing on financing of agricultural subsidies and reforms.

They also agreed to do away with the internal trade barriers on agricultural and industrial goods by July 1, 1968 — 18 months ahead of schedule.

The farm financing issue has been one of the most controversial in the Common Market's eight-year history and threatened to disrupt the West European trade bloc last summer.

The ministers agreed on the joint community financing of the cost of farm supports by July 1, 1967. It is expected to cover all Common Market farm products by July 1, 1968.

To raise the level of farm efficiency throughout the community, particularly in the most backward areas like southern Italy, the cost of farm improvements will be borne partly from community funds.

The means by which the six countries individually used to protect their farmers will then be replaced by a joint system and they will jointly pay out subsidies to dispose of surpluses on the world market.

The Common Market's members are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The common fund will draw its revenues primarily from customs duties on imported farm products and partly from direct contributions of the member nations. It was estimated that the fund would spend some $1,500,000,000 a year on financing exports of farm surpluses, price supports, and structural improvements in agriculture.

The principle behind the operation is that the six have agreed to pay the subsidy cost of exporting high-priced farm products and of lowering internal market prices stable.

France and The Netherlands will draw the most benefits as major exporters of farm produce. Italy and Luxembourg are considered the biggest importers of farm improvements.

West Germany and Belgium as the largest importers will make the greatest sacrifices in paying a share of the market's surplus production.

Belgium's biggest reward will be that the common financing will cover its sugar beet production. Belgium is West Germany's increasing production of poultry and eggs.

West Germany's sacrifices will be counterbalanced by getting France to agree to a free market for industrial goods.

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — An alleged statement concerning a prime minister of Canada by a woman described as a common prostitute and one-time Soviet spy was made public Tuesday by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Justice Spence, head of the Gerda Munsinger security inquiry, said a commission-prepared summary of police reports containing the alleged statement is not part of the evidence at the royal commission inquiry.

The summary quoted Mrs. Munsinger, described in RCMP evidence before the inquiry as a prostitute and one-time spy, as saying the prime minister of Canada "had told her she was doing a great thing for Canada."

A spokesman for Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, who was prime minister from 1957 to 1963, said:

"We treat this whole statement with the contempt it deserves. It is a smear. The release of this kind of unverified and unsubstantiated gossip or rumor, or whatever it is, is totally irresponsible."

DENIED EVIDENCE

Evidence has been that Mrs. Munsinger, who lived in Canada from 1953 to 1961, was the mistress of Conservative associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny. He has denied this.

The 3,500 - word summary, made public by Mr. Justice Spence at the request of chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien, said at one point without specifying the source:

"Mrs. Munsinger pointed out that the pressure and tensions arising from being associate defence minister, and domestic problems, had been prime factors in Mr. Sevigny's quest for companionship and solace.

"She made it clear that her relations with Mr. Sevigny were not just an 'affair' but that she would marry him if it were possible for him to obtain a divorce.

"She claimed to have done everything in her power to assist. Mr. Sevigny with his domestic problems and his work and said that, at a social function in Ottawa, the prime minister of Canada had told her that she was doing a great thing for Canada and that Mr. Sevigny had great things in store for Canada.

"This, she said, gave her a great sense of pride in the knowledge that she was of some assistance to Mr. Sevigny."

Mr. Sevigny was still in the witness box when the document was distributed in mimeographed form to the reporters at the inquiry. He was asked no questions about what Mrs. Munsinger allegedly claimed were his domestic troubles and possible marriage to her after a divorce.

Mr. O'Brien asked that the report be made public because a question of the validity of the police reports had risen. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Justice Spence said the summary was a "bandy document" but that "of course it is not evidence and can't be considered as evidence in the composition of a report."

He said the persons named in the summary — including Mr. Sevigny, former trade minister George Hees, former immigration minister Ellen Fairclough and Gaston Levesque, executive assistant to Mr. Sevigny—had the opportunity to meet any of the statements in it.

The report said Mrs. Munsinger mentioned that she knew several members of the federal cabinet, including Mr. Sevigny, Mr. Hees and Mrs. Fairclough.

'HAD MADE QUEBEC TRIP'

It said Mr. Levesque "had made inquiries concerning the possibility of entry into the U.S. for persons known to the RCMP to be a narcotics suspect." The source for this was given as an unnamed U.S. immigration officer.

It said Mrs. Munsinger was an associate of Montreal jewellers and underworld characters and worked in night clubs operated by gangsters and persons associated with narcotics operators.

The report said Mrs. Munsinger's underworld friends included "one whom the police believed to be the Canadian representative of a U.S. crime syndicate and who was apparently well known to Mr. Sevigny."

This underworld king-pin apparently had paid Mrs. Munsinger's air passage to Munich from Montreal when she left Canada for good May 8, 1961.

This same man and another underworld figure had telephoned the security officer of a Montreal department store where Mrs. Munsinger had passed bad cheques and said "it would be ridiculous if ministers of the Crown should suffer for the sake of two prostitutes."

The summary added:

Politicians Must Find Solution

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Both public apathy and indifference of automobile manufacturers are to blame for the thousands of traffic deaths each year and politicians must find a solution, the Commons justice committee was told Tuesday.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we have the jurisdiction," Howard Grafftey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) said as he tabled a brief on the necessity for installation of proven safety features in all cars by the manufacturers.

Provinces had the responsibility to provide safer roads and better-trained drivers, he said, the federal government could set uniform standards for safety features.

Mr. Grafftey said highway safety councils and safety leagues do a terrific job in educating better drivers and safer roads "but do nothing about the problem of safer cars."

TAKE 'SILENCING MONEY'

He said they receive a good portion of their annual budgets from the automotive and allied industries — "silencing money" —and "scream bloody murder" when politicians try to find the solution to safety problems.

Manufacturers were caught up in the annual race for styling changes and these took precedence over safety features.

He called the 1966 Ford Mustang the "most dangerous car on the road." Ford had agreed to incorporate 12 major safety features in the vehicle, he said, but all were eliminated at the interest of styling. The car's front would "cut a pedestrian in two at 30 miles per hour."

Other companies were just as bad. It was impossible to use the three-point safety belt on hardtop models made by General Motors.

Mr. Grafftey said he would bring up the problem of school buses at a future meeting of the committee. The buses operated on secondary rural highways—a high degree of safety was "constructed like sardine cans."

Priest Kidnapped in Attempt To Get Pope to Aid Prisoners

ROME (AP) — Black-masked kidnappers freed a Spanish priest-diplomat unharmed today after holding him for 12 days in a vain attempt to get Pope Paul to intercede for political prisoners in Spain.

Rt. Rev. Marco Usaia, ecclesiastic councillor of the Spanish embassy to the Vatican, was released 28 miles north of Rome. He said he had been held in some sort of house, he did not know where, and could not recognize his captors who wore dark dresses and black-masks.

Police said they had located the area where they believed an anti-Franco group of Spanish anarchists was holding Msgr. Usaia. The police said the kidnappers apparently turned him loose when they saw they could not slip him through the tightening police cordon.

Msgr. Usaia disappeared April 28, after leaving his office in Rome to drive to his residence a mile away. His car was found the next morning parked a few blocks from his quarters.

In the days that followed, half-a-dozen letters were received by police, the embassy and Rome newspapers purporting to come from the Court of Nay anarchist group. The letters said Msgr. Usaia was well and would be released soon but they wanted Pope Paul to intercede with Generalissimo Franco on behalf of political prisoners in Spain.

Vatican sources said the Pope would not accede to the kidnappers' demand.

Chrysler Moves to Cut Cars

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. auto industry took another bump Tuesday but still rolled along at a pace second only to record-setting 1965.

The latest move was a Chrysler decision to cut its June car production. Ford and General Motors previously reduced their May output.

The cuts came in the wake of April sales reports which showed the four U.S. auto firms sold 761,606 cars, about 28,000 below the April, 1965, total.

That report shook up auto executives who had seen first quarter sales zoom to a record high of 2,200,000 units, about 11,000 ahead of last year.

Watusis by Mink Coat Set Annoy Iowa Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative H. R. Gross says the Johnson administration's "mink coat set" should cut out its $3 a.m. White House parties and swinging Watusis in the Smithsonian Institution.

The Iowa Republican said:

"I don't think with a war going on, and the problems this government has to face, that the president of the United States—his family or the vice president—ought to spend time dancing until 3 in the morning."

Gross first made observations on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives Tuesday, then elaborated in an interview.

Referring to the opera ball, a midnight dinner-dance for 1,000 held last Friday in the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology, he said:

"I was amazed and shocked that they had a $75 to $100 per ticket dance at the Smithsonian with the Rev. (Bill D.) Moyers doing the Watusi and frug and one woman sent home to get dressed because she was half-naked."

Moyers, White House press secretary, is an ordained Baptist minister, was indeed doing the Watusi, as were a dozen other members, said the source, a number of congressional leaders and their wives.

Mrs. Rudolph Carter, wife of a state department officer, showed up wearing a transparent white lace dress with only a flesh-colored body stocking underneath. Some of her fellow members of the ball's executive committee sent her home to put on a slip.

"I guess Washington isn't ready for fashion yet," she said afterwards. "This dress was created by a New York designer especially for this party."

The ball is an annual fund raiser, and since part of the money was for the John F. Kennedy Centre for the Performing Arts, a Smithsonian satellite, the champagne dance was held in the museum.

Many of the same crowd were at the White House party April 27 in honor of Danish Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag and his wife which lasted until 3 a.m.

Today's Chuckle

"You're getting married today," said the bride's mother, "and remember that marriage consists of give and take. If he doesn't give enough, just take it."

Combat Rural Poverty

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons was told Tuesday that extraordinary measures are needed to combat rural poverty.

Forestry Minister Sauve introduced out one of the big weapons in the Commons—a government bill establishing a $50,000,000 fund to be spent in the hardest-hit areas.

The money would be used to increase income and raise rural employment and standards of living, the minister said as the Commons opened debate on second reading—approval in principle.

Opposition MPs all favored the fund but had some reservations. They continue the debate when the House sits again at 2:30 p.m. EDT today.

Mr. Sauve said studies carried out under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act program show low incomes are prevalent in some rural areas in all 10 provinces.

NEED HELP NOW

But some rural pockets are so depressed that they can't wait for the slimmer of years it will take for ARDA to solve their problems.

As examples of poverty-stricken areas, he pointed to the Interlake area of Manitoba, northern New Brunswick and an area of Quebec east of Riviere-du-Loup.

Mr. Sauve said the fund would carry out projects in consultation with the provinces that could not be financed by other public programs.

Provinces developing plans under the fund include Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) said if the fund increases income in the areas and recalls it to a higher standard of living, "then this legislation is good."

George Hees (PC—Northumberland) predicted the government would have to increase the fund, and soon. A $50,000,000 fund for all 10 provinces would have to be spread thin.

Two MPs warned against the

Mao Emerges From 'Tomb' Once Again

AP correspondent John Roderick spent a total of six months during 1943-47 in Yenan while it was the Chinese Communists' capital. There he met Mao Tse-tung on many occasions.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—The message said: "Mao Tse-tung reported dead. Please check." The year was 1966.

Now 72 years old, the chairman of the Chinese Communist party has perhaps had more decises and resurrections—on paper—than any other world figure.

Mao has emerged again after a six-month absence from public view during which all the wild rumors and speculation were aired. Two photographs of him with Albanian Premier Mehmet Shehu somewhere in China show him in obvious good health, looking healthier than ever, somewhat less gaunt than he seemed in photographs last year.

Despite this, U.S. officials in Washington continue to believe Mao's health is bad and power is slipping from his hands.

They may have some intelligence not available elsewhere but there is nothing to be seen in Tokyo to support this, unless

Debretts Peerage Says Godiva Was One of Queen's Ancestors

LONDON (CP)—The Queen is related to a host of exotic figures in history, but whoever might Lady Godiva would turn up among her ancestors?

The 11th - century countess, who scandalized Coventry by riding through the city clad only in her long tresses, is mentioned as a forebear of Elizabeth II by no less an authority than Debrett's Peerage, British-established blue-book of blue-bloods, which published its 164th edition today.

In a special article to commemorate the 900th anniversary of the 1066 Norman conquest, Debretts for the first time shows how the Queen is descended from the vanquished King Harold as well as giving the well - known descent from William the Conqueror. Harold's daughter Gytha married a Prince of Kiev, ancestor of the Russian czars, and this line linked up again with the English crown at the time of Edward III.

Legend has it that Lady Godiva rode her famous ride because of heavy taxes imposed on the citizens of Coventry by her husband.

She appealed to her husband to cut the taxes and he said he would if she rode naked through Coventry's market place.

Before riding through the market place and streets, Lady Godiva issued a proclamation that all citizens should not look at her.

The only person who peeped was named Tom. His disobedience led to the phrase peeping tom.

Kiwanis Speaker Appeals For All Municipalities to Have a Suitable Airport

Eight members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club were airborne yesterday taking a flying visit to Brockville Kiwanis Club were L. A. Kells, R. G. Lumbers, Don Rose, R. G. Harrison, Ronald Keel, Dr. E. L. Dixon, Don Davenport and Ralph Morton.

While that group was interclubbing in Brockville, those in attendance at the local club's regular meeting at the Kiwanis Centre here were told by their speaker Jim Law: "This area's future is up in the air. Let's make sure it has a place to land."

Mr. Law, a Kiwanian, is secretary-manager and publicity manager for the Prince Edward Flying Club. He spoke on "General Aviation — It's Economic and Commercial Benefits to the Community". He stressed the opinion that all communities must recognize the economic importance of air transportation and provide suitable landing facilities for aircraft now operating in general aviation.

"All flying except that done by the military and the airlines is a broad description of general aviation," he said.

He continued: "General aviation will continue to grow, in years to come, towns without airports will learn of their value too late, when business has moved some place else.

"General aviation needs to be understood and understressed. The lack of a thorough understanding of its use and usefulness can cause communities to miss business opportunities and to incur financial loss. Community planners have overlooked opportunities in area growth and builds barriers to economic and social development.

"Every community with proper airport facilities is on the main line of air transportation. This means industry can locate where labor and tax structures are most favorable. In study after study, conducted by United States Development Commissions and Chambers of Commerce, a readily accessible airport shows up as one of the five considerations listed by companies looking for new industrial sites and for places to establish branch plants or offices.

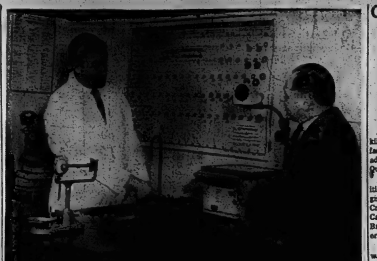
"Every community that located in the State of Georgia during 1953 did so in an area that had an airport, according to Cole Morrow, Director of Airport Services for the Federal Aviation Agency."

Mr. Law suggested that Belleville might take a leaf from the book of a town like Springfield, Vermont.

"There (in Springfield) the use of aircraft is a real force in the business and economic life of the area. Springfield is a town of less than 10,000 population. It is supported by several important industries. Of the main airface transportation routes and 33 miles from the nearest airline stop, Springfield depends heavily upon its general transportation Airport.

PLENTY OF BUSINESS

"An average of 474 passengers per month arrive in executive aircraft and more than 200 others use air taxi or charter service. Here are nearly 700 persons a month doing business in and for Springfield through the use of general aviation airplanes. One or two flights a day by scheduled air service — if it were available — could meet the needs of this town of 9,000 people but for the majority, only their own private or chartered aircraft is fast enough, convenient enough, flexible enough.



"Time is dollars to businessmen and those in industry who cannot afford the luxury of a long wait between business appointments or to arrange their travel schedules to fit the rigid timetables of public transportation. Between cities of five and seven, this is not a problem. It is easy to go from Montreal to Vancouver but could

Hockey Champs Given Trophies By City Council

It was a proud group of young hockey players who Monday visited city hall council chambers to accept individual trophies for their recent feat in winning the "B" section in the novice division in a recent minor hockey tournament at Brampton.

Sixteen team members dressed in smart new blazers, accepted individual trophies from Mayor J. R. Ellis who congratulated them on their fine performance in bringing honor to the city. Alderman Kenneth Soden assisted in the presentations.

Team manager, Don Weslan, introduced the boys also team coach Murray "Moe" Bonter, who was credited with a "wonderful" job in bringing the boys along as hockey players.

District Meet For Elks Held in City

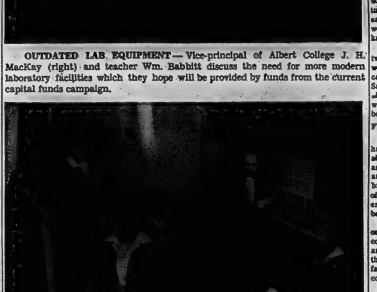
On the weekend over one hundred Elks gathered in Belleville to enjoy the fellowship of their Brother Elks and to conduct the business of District No. 3.

Saturday evening Brother E. G. Freeman past Grand Exalted Ruler from Fort William conducted a dedication ceremony for the Belleville Elks' new home at 109 Cedar Street. Honored Guest was Mr. Lee Grills who addressed the Elks, complimenting them on the new lodge rooms and for their charitable work in the community. Following the dedication an evening of dancing was enjoyed by members and guests.

Sunday morning the Elks and Ladies of the Order of the Royal Purple paraded to the Salvation Army citadel on Pinnacle Street for the church service, following which they returned to the Elks Hall for buffet lunch.

Lodge was convened in the afternoon to conduct the business of the district. Brother Ray Sadler of Picton was elected to serve a second term as District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler. Brother Bennett Johnson also of Picton was re-elected as District Secretary.

Brother Freeman addressed the meeting at length, pointing out that the constitution of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of Canada expresses the true meaning of Brotherhood because there is no discrimination as to race, creed or color, that any man of good moral character may become an Elk. Brother Freeman also predicted that the Elks would progress from 30,000 to 40,000 in a quarter of a million before the turn of the century.



Following the meeting members and guests enjoyed a delicious cold plate luncheon.

Page Spread On Hospital In Magazine

Belleville General Hospital has achieved province wide publicity in the spring edition of "Hospital Highlights" published by the Ontario Hospital Association.

The edition, just off the press, carried a full page spread on the Belleville hospital's achievement earlier this year in being the first in Canada when an electrocardiograph was transmitted between Campbellford and this city via regular long distance telephone lines.

The article tells the story of the Belleville "first" and includes pictures of the sending procedure at Campbellford and of the receiving equipment at Belleville.

MUSIC STUDENTS IN CROWDED QUARTERS — The present music room at Albert College will be replaced by a modern music-library building if the goal of the capital funds campaign currently being conducted by the college is attained.

Albert College Will Launch Drive for Renovation Fund

Albert College in Belleville is about to launch a Capital Funds Campaign to raise $900,000 for renovation and expansion of existing college facilities.

The campaign will officially "kick off" with a banquet on Saturday, May 14 in Ackerman Hall at the college. Various campaign officials and Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville are expected to be on hand.

"For some time, the members of the college's Board of Governors have been conscious of the need to update and expand the present facilities", says Mr. Taylor Franklin, the College Business Administrator.

"Forty years of 'wear and tear' have taken their toll. Equipment and furnishings that were considered modern when the new college was opened in 1926 have long since become obsolete."

Mr. Lorne McDougall of Belleville, chairman of the board of Governors re-elected Mr. Franklin's sentiments. "There have been great changes in academic courses of study, particularly in the sciences. In order to keep pace, Albert College needs practically all new equipment in the physics and chemistry laboratories.

PLAN NEW BUILDING

Adding that there is no additional space available in the existing college buildings, Mr. McDougall said that it has been decided to erect a new building to house a library and facilities for music and instruction and practice.

The need to embark on an extensive renewal program has also become evident, to remedy the ills of outdated boilers, and obsolete electric wiring, and to permit the installation of more modern kitchen, gymnasium, and swimming pool equipment.

The amount being sought from alumni and friends of Albert College in the three - year campaign includes $150,000 for expansion, (the library-music building), and an additional $150,000 for the improvement of present facilities. It was decided in February of this year to enlist the services of the Capital Funds Service of the United Church of Canada to supply the campaign with a professionally experienced resident director.

Acting in this capacity, Rev. Stephen Wilk is organizing the Albert College campaign with the assistance of campaign chairmen located throughout the province, from the Lakehead to Ottawa. With this all embracing type of approach those associated with Albert College hope to realize their objective and give the college the face-lifting required to meet the needs of a modern and changing educational program.

Cross-Canada Survey Killing Frosts Hit Farming Hard in Parts of Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

An unusually cold spring with killing overnight frosts has hit farming hard in parts of Canada, particularly in Ontario and Quebec.

But in some parts of the Maritimes planting of crops may begin earlier than last year, a Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed. And in British Columbia weather generally has been good for crops.

On the Prairies a surge of warm air, producing temperatures in the 90s, is moving eastward. It is replacing cold, wet conditions in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Prairie farmers say one or two weeks of good farming weather will enable them to catch up. The seeding picture in Saskatchewan, for instance, is about the same as last year when the province produced a bumper wheat crop.

FEAR DROUGHT

The central Canadian fronts have built up plateaus of vegetables, killed those in the ground and held back growth of grain and fruit trees. Dry weather brought fear of a second year of drought to farmers in eastern Ontario and western Quebec.

On the Prairies the near-record temperatures improved field conditions in most Alberta areas. The warm, sunny weather brightened the outlook for farmers who had coped with a cold, wet spring.

Alberta agriculture conditions were good to excellent and the Alberta Wheat Pool said seeding was a little ahead of the same time last year.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool reports said warm, dry conditions this week will mesh seeding will be effective through most of the province by the weekend. The pool said it expects the 1966 wheat crop to get off to a good start.

Warm weather easing into Manitoba was expected to get an end to unseasonal cold. Temperatures have been 15 to 20 degrees below average for early May. The agriculture department said one or two weeks of good weather is needed to bring general seeding.

SEEDING IS LATE

Ontario's planting generally was more than a week late because of record cold. But the weather bureau in Toronto said temperatures should rise this afternoon and be back to normal by the weekend. The forecast came after the mercury dropped to as low as 19 degrees at Kapuskasing overnight.

Farming conditions in Ontario varied.

"We are not too greatly concerned as yet," said E. K. Pearson, Waterloo's agricultural representative.

But in eastern Ontario, rain and warmer weather were needed.

"The shadow of last year's crippling drought still hangs over their heads," said Prescott-Russell County's agricultural representative, E. R. Jennings.

Wheat, pasture and hay crops in the Ottawa Valley were hard hit by winter kill. Thousands of cattle were sold in the fall after the 1965 drought to provide money for feed.

The unusual cold delayed pasture growth in Quebec province and put it about 10 days to two weeks behind last year.

Quebec farmers "needed a particularly good crop this year and are getting a bad one," said Dr. John Budar of Macdonald College department of agronomy.

"This is more serious this year than it has been in the past because the crops were no bad last year that most farmers ran out of hay during the winter."

Seeding was reported behind in almost all Nova Scotia sections. But below - normal temperatures haven't damaged fruit buds in the apple-growing Annapolis Valley.

Despite recent cold and snow in New Brunswick, planting in the northern district could begin two weeks earlier than 1965, said a spokesman for the provincial agriculture department.

The main damage in Prince Edward Island was frost killing newly planted potatoes, a spokesman for the federal department of agriculture in St. John's said this weather in Newfoundland "has been terrible" and has had an adverse effect on crops.

Doctors Want OMA as Voice In Bargaining

TORONTO (CP)—The Council of the Ontario Medical Association decided Tuesday to seek legal changes in its charter to qualify it as a collective bargaining body for its members.

The council, policy - making body of the 7,200-member association, accepted a recommendation which will allow the OMA to offer assistance to salaried physicians.

However, the OMA's committee on economics and medical practice is also expected to draft legal framework for collective bargaining for all doctors in case the need arises.

A report by the committee said that because of the Heaney report on collective bargaining in the federal civil service, it appears likely regulations will be passed enabling the 370 physicians in the federal service to bargain collectively.

And, the report added, "it is conceivable that the provincial government may enact similar legislation."

Trenton Council Votes to Buy Old Post Office Building

BY EULA GOELDNER — 392-2939

Town council last night voted to purchase the old building from the Crown Assets Corporation at a price of $41,500.

When the old post office was offered last summer with a $53,000 price tag the town considered it would have to bypass the purchase but when it was later offered for public sale, the town was given the first refusal.

"We have opened up a can of worms" stated Trenton Mayor J. James MacDonald, referring to the fact that certain other councillors were in favor of razing the old structure to provide open space in the centre of the town.

Another group of councillors feel the old building should be retained as a landmark. The cornerstone of the building was laid by Sir John A. MacDonald, Canada's first prime minister.

It has been suggested that the building be opened as a youth centre or as a meeting place for senior citizens.

Mayor MacDonald said he would likely have a battle on his hands if the building was torn down.

The mayor said he was a bit disillusioned as he thought the purchase price of the old post office building could have been lower.

Will Consider Road Tenders

TRENTON — Murray Township council will meet in special session Friday night to consider tenders for the building of the new developments road running from the railway overpass to Highway 33.

Tenders for the building of sections of the new road between the Glen Miller and Highway 401 will be called this fall.

New Car Burns

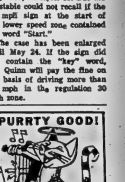
TRENTON — A new 1966 Meteor, with 300 miles to its credit, was reduced to a molten mass of twisted metal Monday when it caught on fire as minor repairs to the rear axil were being carried out at the Trenton Machine Tool lot on Bay Street. Gas was reported to have leaked from the tank and ignited. The car was owned by Robert White of Trenton.

A workman was slightly singed about the hands.

Case Heard Although Man Not Present

TRENTON — James Harry Poole of Frankford, tried in absentia by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton court yesterday on a charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence, was found guilty on the evidence, fined $10 and ordered to pay court costs.

Chief Constable Wm. Hockley of Frankford told the court he had seen Poole toss three bottles from his car. When the chief constable approached Poole, the latter was reported to have said: "Prove it mister."



Chief Hockley examined the broken bottles and their labels, and smelled the spilled contents, coming to the conclusion that they had contained beer.

CASE ENLARGED

Clifford E. Quinn of the RCAF, pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving 35 mph in a 25 mph zone in Trenton court yesterday.

Constable Douglas Bradshaw told the court he had approbended Quinn in a school crossing area, on April 18. But the constable could not recall if the 25 mph sign at the start of the lower speed zone contained the word "Start."

The case has been enlarged until May 24. If the sign did not contain the "key" word, Mr. Quinn will pay the fine on the basis of driving more than 30 mph in the regulation 30 mph zone.

Help for the Retarded

Belleville citizens are receiving in the mail this week envelopes which afford them an opportunity of making a contribution to the work of the local association for retarded children.

The Flowers of Hope Fund, as it is called, is being conducted in conjunction with Canadian Retarded Children's Week. Some 34 children are geared for by the local association at 281 John Street, and, appropriately, these young people assisted with the preparation of the envelopes for mailing. One of their tasks was to fill the envelopes with the floral seeds which are the symbol of the campaign.

In common with other communities throughout Canada, the Belleville association provides occupational, educational and recreational facilities for retarded children, assisting in the work are such groups as the Keyettes at Moira Secondary School, and the program of activities includes sending the children to camp.

In Canada alone, more than 600,000 persons are mentally retarded. One child in every 30 is born mentally retarded and will never be able to learn or do things the way other children can. Even at the age of 20 and upwards the retarded child will have the mental age of a child of two.

Nevertheless, medical research and the work of the retarded children's associations are helping these young people to become more self reliant, useful and happy citizens.

Some 5,000 children whose intelligence is less than half of normal children are now being trained to a considerable degree of self-care and self-sufficiency at 500 special schools similar to the Belleville association's school in John Street.

No family, regardless of class or race, is immune from the mentally retarded child. The fact remains that mental retardation disables twice as many children as do cerebral palsy, polio, rheumatic heart disease and blindness combined.

The continue their work, the local associations for retarded children throughout Canada are seeking the aid of citizens by inviting them to contribute to the Flowers of Hope Fund. Their contributions, together with the work of government and private agencies, are vital to the health and happiness of youngsters who through no fault of their own are unable to live normal lives.

Berlin Escape

The Berlin wall is a symbol not only of the ideological gulf that separates east and west, but of the essential insecurity of the eastern world.

The so-called iron curtain is no figment of the imagination. The communist world shields itself from the freer and infinitely more prosperous life of the western world with a grim system of mines, barbed wire and armed guards. And in Berlin, of course, there is the wall which in the few short years of its existence has been witness to the most fundamentals of triumph and tragedy, of courage and despair, and of mankind's struggle against adversity.

Many have escaped across this hideous barrier, but many have died under the guns of East German border guards. Yet the escapees from the communist world keep coming, and if the wall itself is virtually impregnable a little ingenuity often wins the day for some clever refugee.

Only the other day for example a 21-year-old East German border guard fled to the west after putting a colleague to sleep with several sleeping pills. How did he do it? Did he put them in the guard's coffee? The report did not say, but the ruse meant freedom for one more who had had enough of the grim trappings of communism.

A Needless Tragedy

The killing — accidental as it was — of a young Los Angeles man who had been racing his wife to hospital illustrates a degree of trigger-happiness in the United States which fortunately does not exist in this country.

Leonard Schuyler was killed when a police officer's gun discharged as he reached into the car to remove the ignition key. The young man's wife was expecting a child.

Even in the tense atmosphere of a big city like Los Angeles, the police should not be permitted to draw their guns unless they are certain the circumstances warrant it. This was a tragedy that should not have occurred.

Indians Plan for 1967

Saint John, N.B., Telegraph-Journal

It is good to see the interest which the chiefs of all Indian Bands in New Brunswick are taking in the Centennial plans. As Canada's original residents, they should have a significant role in the 1967 events.

At a get-together in Fredericton with Indian Affairs and Centennial officials, it was indicated that the Indians may promote two provincial projects, as well as staging special public events at the individual reserves and also participating in the Centennial celebrations generally.

One possible major project discussed by the chiefs was a museum of Indian artifacts.

But the New Brunswick Museum in Saint John there already exists a fine collection of eastern Algonkin Indian artifacts, from the Stone Age period to more modern times, including several birch-bark canoes, clothing, beadwork, basketwork.

We suggest that rather than open a formal Indian museum at such the tribes might well consider the establishment of one or two reconstructed Indian villages, as they would have looked in a long-ago age.

Historically, New Brunswick had three tribes — the Micmac, whose habitat extended from Gaspe down the Northumberland Strait coast into Nova Scotia, and who numbered 2,000; the Maliseets, mainly on the St. John River, about 800; and the latter's kin, the less numerous Passamaquoddies, down the Fundy coast and into Maine.

So it would be quite natural if the two major tribes — who were different in customs and speech sponsored his own Indian village. Such centres in realistic setting could become a great magnets for New Brunswickers and tourists alike in the summer. Surely it would not be out of touch, for instance, to re-erect the Maliseets' Indian house at Kingsclear, a palisaded stronghold with an outer wall formed of strong stakes thrust into the saplings. The actual site is being engulfed by Maclaque's development, but it could be put to close by, handy to the Eel River portage that was the traditional Indian trail to New England.

A Prince Edward Island enterprise has already pointed the way by creating a "Micmac Village" in a wooded dell about half an hour's drive from Charlottetown. There are several scattered wigwams, with many Indian relics on display, including reproductions of animal traps and fish stakes. On the village's scenic trail, the visitor catches glimpses of lifelike tableaux in the woods — for example, an Indian drawing back the arrow to his bow to aim at a deer. And an authentic-looking Indian child is there in the encampment to tell visitors about the lore of olden days. It's worth serious thought.

Airline Boss' Great Wealth

Windsor Star

If your memory reaches far enough back you may recall the time when a young American of considerable means decided to produce a motion picture about World War Airmen. His name was Howard Hughes and the title he selected was "Hells Angels."

He was known to be very wealthy, by inheritance, but many who knew of Howard Hughes in their pockets predicted a crashing loss for the brash hero. On the contrary he was a smashing success, placed no undue strain on Hughes' professional talent, and was acclaimed by many veteran airmen in these parts as a very good representation of the early war in the air.

Mr. Hughes continued to believe in the air and in the decades that followed and the financial returns from this endeavor perhaps could become a great as his high expectations.

It was announced the other day that he was divesting himself of the controlling interest in Trans World Airlines. He is expected to gross about $550,000,000 from this proceeding, which strikes us as a good thing when he saw it.

Progress: East—West Style

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Next year, the Russian Revolution will be 50 years old, which is middle-age by any standards. And what is interesting about the coming event is that the Soviet Union still masquerades as a "progressive" and "revolutionary" government.

This is a semantic illusion. The way in which a country changes is a good index of its "progressive" tendencies, and, except for military and scientific technology, Russia has changed very little in 50 years.

The United States, on the other hand, is considered by Russia to be a "conservative" if not a "reactionary" country. Yet, measured on the scale of change, the United States is much more "progressive" than Russia — even, in our own way, more revolutionary.

The Soviet Union is still ruled by the dead hands of Leninist orthodoxy, which is a fossilized religion. Little has changed since the days of Lenin — no political parties, no free elections, no free speech, no relaxation of the bureaucratic hold on the citizens' necks. The 1917 revolution is as "reactionary" as any system can be.

We, despite our flaws and inconsistencies, have transformed the whole structure of American life in the last 50 years. The resemblance between Russia in 1917 and today is fantastically slight.

Capitalism, in short, because it contains a self-correcting process, is flexible enough to can adjust to changing conditions. The theology of Marxism, however, is harshly inflexible, and is impervious to the demands of reality. It is revolutionary only in the beginning, after that, it leaves little room for change and growth.

The great tragedy of our time is that communism has been able to appeal to the hungry, the exploited and the downtrodden as a "progressive" system, because it encourages them to throw off their chains. These people cannot see that new, and lighter, chains will be forged for them.

In the last half century, the United States — with all its sins of commission and omission — has responded to new ideas, new conditions, new demands. Capitalism today is nothing like it was in 1917, and will never be like it again; for we have learned to live with it and survive and expand, our system must adapt itself to different needs and goals.

We have changed, we have moved, we have modified our institutions, and it did not occur despite the screams and protests of our own reactionaries. Russia is incapable of doing this, because its whole rationale is based stopcock upon a huge initial error, which it can neither resist nor repudiate. Tp call such a system "progressive," and ours "conservative" is a monstrous perversion of the words and the facts.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 11, 1966 . . .

The British and Hanoverian armies launched one of the classic attacks of his history of war 221 years ago today—in 1745—at the battle of Fontenoy. A mass of 7,800 infantry marched slowly uphill, while being shot at by artillery from both sides. At one point the lines halted and British and French guard officers again gave each other three cheers. The battle was a French victory in that the British attempt to prevent French capture of the Low Countries failed. Today's French armies were commanded by Marshal de Saxe, in a wicker chaise because he was too sick to ride his horse.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—Germans overran 300 yards of British trenches near Vermelles, France; a German attack near Kondo, East Africa, was thrown back.

Inward Goiter Surgery Results Are Rewarding

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is surgery the only treatment for an inward goiter? What chances of recovery are there from such an operation? — Mrs. C. S.

Goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck. An inward goiter is one which exerts pressure inward, on the windpipe and gullet. It may also extend downward below the upper portion of the breast bone, as the pressure increasing.

There is a lump, difficulty in swallowing, possibly a cough and trouble is breathing.

While medical treatment often is effective is, controlling over-activity of the thyroid, it cannot reduce the size to any marked extent, so for the inward goiter surgical removal is the only course that is feasible.

Disability from such an operation is brief, risk is very small and the results are prompt and rewarding. Improving the patient's health in many ways in addition to bringing quick relief from the discomforts of the pressure.

I would not hesitate to have such surgery without delay.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please comment on use of the drug quinidine for a man of 75 with a heart condition. Also, I enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin for a copy of your booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." — Mrs. F. E. L.

Quinidine is used effectively in certain heart disorders which involve an irregular rhythm. The dosage is very important, so your doctor must decide when it is needed and how much.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine mentioned a medicine you published for psoriasis, which I have. She said it was two kinds of ointment and a vitamin. Would you tell me what it was? — Mrs. W. R.

Your friend didn't see it in this column. There is no sure remedy for psoriasis. This condition sometimes clears and goes without seeming rhyme or reason, so when it disappears some persons promptly credit has been used, then that remedy gets all the credit.

The trouble is that all sorts of remedies are said to be a "cure," when actually they had little or nothing to do with the problem.

I have not recommended any of the hundreds of supposed remedies. Consult your doctor or a skin specialist for various kinds of ointments which will keep the skin soft and control the occasional itching, and let it go at that. Fooling around with one salve after another is usually a waste of time and money. Psoriasis may be a nuisance but it isn't contagious and it isn't dangerous. There is a genetic factor involved, but it improves with summer sun and is worse in the winter.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter, 11, has scoliosis. Please inform us as to cause, treatment and possible cure. — L. S.

Scoliosis is excessive curvature of the spine to one side or the other which can result from injury, faulty posture or occasionally from some rarer cause. Not all scoliosis deserves a any attention other than a sincere attempt to develop good posture.

In some cases braces may be helpful. In severe cases, with young people, special supporting devices are used to draw the spine gradually into better position. You will have to depend on an orthopedic surgeon to judge what needs to be done. If he recommends only improved posture, possibly with some special exercises, follow his advice. Or if he sees a real problem developing and recommends more drastic measures, do as he says.

Unemployment Insurance

London Free Press

With the Canadian economy bowling along at a satisfactory clip, the federal government is in the fortunate position of being concerned with shortages of skilled manpower rather than the necessity of stimulating the economy and creating employment.

In these circumstances it perhaps is easy to become complacent as general prosperity restores the Unemployment Insurance Fund to a position of good health and surplus. But, past experience and past abuses of the fund have proved somehow readily the situation can reverse itself, how rapidly the flood of insurance contributions can be depleted.

The Canadian Labor Congress convention in Winnipeg in different fashion has called attention to the unemployment insurance fund. It has approved a resolution calling for the insurance act to be broadened and for the rate of benefits to be increased in not less than two-thirds of previous earnings.

Further the CLC decided to ask that contributions be required from all employed persons.

It was a few years ago that revision of the Unemployment Insurance Act was deemed imperative. A special committee was appointed to study amendments to actuarial principles and an enlarged system of contributions. An overhaul of the act was a commitment of the Diefenbaker government, was one of an urgent commitment of the Pearson ministry. Now it apparently has vanished from liberal program and throne speech.

Economic improvement makes the fund appear robust. But the government should heed the lesson of the past and place a now on a sounder actuarial basis, rather than await another possible period of recession when it will be far more difficult to implement necessary changes and adjustment. The CLC resolution may compel the government to act, because of the increased burden it will place upon the fund.

His Voice Lives on

BBC London Letter

The voice of the BBC's foremost broadcaster, Richard Dimbleby, who died last December, can be heard in cities and towns of his outstanding broadcasts on a record issued concurrently with the book of tributes, "Richard Dimbleby, Broadcaster," published by the BBC on Monday. A profile from the 320-page book and record will be given to the Richard Dimbleby Cancer Research Fund.

The book, with a foreword by Lord Mountbatten, contains 48 specially written contributions from the men and women who worked most closely with Richard Dimbleby, in examples of his own broadcasts and writings, and over 300 photographs of all stages of his versatile career at the microphone. It is edited by Leonard Miall, a long-term colleague and former BBC Washington correspondent, who takes up the appointment of BBC representative in the United States at the end of the year.

The record includes excerpts from Richard Dimbleby's commentaries: The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, the Wedding of Princess Margaret to Antony Armstrong-Jones, the Funeral of George VI's Lying-in-State; his report from the Belsen concentration camp; his broadcast from the air side, a Visit to a Turkish Bath, and "Panorama's" spool broadcast on hopes for the spaceship Hermes.

The story of this famous radio and television personality is told by well-known BBC commentator Wynford Thomas, who was one of his old-est friends, and the record is based on a radio program broadcast at the time of Dimbleby's death. It is produced by Peter Dowling for BBC Radio Enterprises, a new department which handles, in collaboration with gramophone companies, the provision of discs based on BBC programs. "The Voice of Richard Dimbleby" is issued as a special in the "Music for Pleasure" series.

Take-Home Pay

Ottawa Journal

Take-home pay, that's what counts. The Financial Post has prepared a table showing how it has been whittled away. In 1964 a married taxpayer with two dependent children and earning $8,000 a year gave the federal and provincial governments and the old age security fund $1,000 of it. In 1966, with Canada Pension Plan contributions added, he will pay $831.

Unwelcome Vultures

BBC London Letter

Vultures posed a considerable problem for the British telecommunications firm of A. T. E. when they were installing television in the Gateway in West Africa, where telephone boxes are provided at frequent intervals for the use of the local motorists.

Interviewed in the BBC World Service "Science and Industry" program, Mr. A. J. Troon explained that these birds, weighing 20 pounds or more, had a persistent habit of perching on overhead wires and bring to them down. Drawbacks to the alternative of putting cables underground are that they need to get washed away in heavy rain, and were liable to interference from termites and other forms of underground life.

The company solved the problem by developing a new telephone powered by energy from the sun and installing instruments which, instead of using the motorway at two or three mile intervals. In effect, each telephone box is a radio station in itself with mast and aerial of its own. Since each was independent, there was no need to link them by cable, because no source of power was required other than the energy from the sun. The amount of energy stored in the battery associated with each box is enough when running for over 24 hours during rainy spells.

The system had been used in Britain, Mr. Troon pointed out, and operated quite successfully even in British weather conditions. As to cost, he estimated that a typical installation of this type could be provided at 20 to 60 percent of the cost of either overhead or underground cable installation.

that political pressure was being brought on the Montreal city police by secure Mrs. Munsinger's release (from jail) and it was suggested that, if charges were pressed, an important political figure would be blackmailed."

Mrs. Munsinger had been arrested Feb. 3, 1961, with "another common prostitute" for making out rubber checks for $925 worth of merchandise from Simpson's, Eaton's and Morgan's stores in Toronto. The charges were dropped the next day.

"While incarcerated, Mrs. Munsinger indicated that people in high places would suffer if she was not released and the name of Mr. Sevigny was used."

The report nowhere names any of the racketeers referred to.

It said the RCMP security branch concluded that Mrs. Munsinger's fear of exposure of her past rendered her "extremely vulnerable to further exploitation by the Russian intelligence service."

"The opinion of the security branch of the RCMP was that Mrs. Munsinger's association with Mr. Sevigny multiplied her vulnerability to the Russian intelligence service unless consider any operation that would compromise her, or obtain information from him, indirectly through her, one of top priority."

CHARGED $15 TO $100

The report went into some detail about Mrs. Munsinger's charges to customers as a prostitute. These ranged from $15 up to $100 for a whole night.

The inquiry then adjourned to Wednesday, May 18, at 10:30 a.m.

Lt.-Col. The Hon. Joseph Pierre Albert Sevigny, 48, spent four hours in the witness box Monday and Tuesday but still remained calm as the testimony about sex and security, to make some humorous comments.

When asked, for instance, whether he had given a photograph of himself to Mrs. Munsinger, he said: "As Conservative associate defence minister from 1950 to 1963 he had two photos of me. I don't distributed to meet requests which came in every day.

"One was in military attire. The other was the usual politician's photo in which one tries to look more or less intelligent."

FLEW WITH GERDA

Of his trip by private plane with Mrs. Munsinger and another friend to the Boston dog track: "I like dogs and I like horses. One particular dog I remember. He was superb."

Of his gift of a ring to Mrs. Munsinger in Montreal in October, 1960: "I bought it in Mexico for $5. I bought 10 or 15 and other ministers and secretaries and members of my staff."

Of Mrs. Munsinger as a model: "When modelling for a furrier, she was very proud of showing mink coats."

Of the night he said he slept in a chair in Mrs. Munsinger's Montreal apartment: "It was not very romantic but that's the way it was."

Jack Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Cardin, said it was not very considerate of a "man of distinction" like Mr. Sevigny to fall asleep in the apartment of a "single lady of distinction."

'INDEED A LADY'

Mr. Sevigny had earlier described Mrs. Munsinger as "indeed a lady of distinction" who was "welcomed in Montreal's select circles" and "courted and admired by prominent people."

He agreed it was not polite to fall asleep in such circumstances but it was difficult to judge people when they were tired and had "dined wisely but not too well."

At another point, she said Gerda "called me Pierre—that's my name."

Asked whether he had looked into the diary of his friend, Miss Jacqueline Delorme, about the date of a telephone call concerning Mrs. Munsinger, he replied without a pause: "I'm not in the habit of consulting ladies' records."

Mr. O'Brien said Mr. Sevigny was the fourth male visitor to Mrs. Munsinger's apartment on the night of Nov. 26-27, 1960, and that the first three paid a fee.

Mr. Sevigny said he had found that out only recently.

WAS NOT SUSPICIOUS

During their relationship in 1959-60, he said, "I had no reason to suspect that Mrs. Munsinger was anything else than a woman of respectable character."

Mr. Sevigny added that he now knows during her final weeks in Canada "she resorted to prostitution to live when her back was to the wall and she was destitute, ill and broke."

Mr. Campbell said Mrs. Munsinger went to Europe on a three-week excursion about this time and added: "She was getting around pretty well for a sick woman."

Mr. Sevigny said RCMP reports on Mrs. West in the Diefenbaker in December, 1960, "implied I'd been intimate" with Mrs. Munsinger.

Mr. Campbell: "What did that mean?"

Mr. Sevigny: "Actually, it means that we had been close. . . ."

Mr. Campbell: "How close?"

Mr. Sevigny: "As close as a man can be to a woman."

HAD SEXUAL RELATIONS?

Mr. Campbell: "Didn't that have the implication of sexual relations?"

Mr. Sevigny: "I suppose that it had."

Mr. Campbell: "What did you think that?"

Mr. Sevigny: "I did not answer to that. . . . I don't remember whether I kept silent."

Mr. Justice Spence asked whether Mr. Sevigny had had sexual intercourse with Mrs. Munsinger.

Mr. Sevigny: "I remember denying that the situation was as described in the (RCMP) reports. I never denied in that interview (with Mr. Diefenbaker) that I had had a physical relationship with Mrs. Munsinger."

Later, Mr. Campbell said: "You didn't tell the prime minister the whole truth, did you?"

Mr. Sevigny: "It seems sir, I've always told the complete truth. I was not given much of a chance to speak. . . . All I had a chance to deny was that abs or I was a security risk."

HAS NOT APPEARED

Mr. Cardin, who touched off the inquiry, has not appeared as a witness and Mr. O'Brien has indicated he will not be called.

Mr. Cardin had charged last October, 1960: "I bought it in Mexico for $5. I bought 10 or 15 and other ministers and secretaries and members of my staff."

Of Mrs. Munsinger as a model: "When modelling for a furrier, she was very proud of showing mink coats."

Cameron Erotic Art Case in Hands of Court

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Tuesday reserved its decision on whether seven pictures by three Canadian artists are pornography or erotic art.

Dorothy Cameron, former Toronto art dealer, has appealed her conviction and $350 fine last year by Magistrate F. C. Hayes who ruled obscene seven pictures in the Eros 65 show at her gallery.

E. G. Hachborn, of the attorney - general's department told the five appeal judges that if artists reach a high imaginative level they will produce contemporary erotic art. But if they are "hands of the drawings manifests an undue, unnecessary exploitation of sex," Mr. Hachborn said of the seven pictures

"I used to be shy around boys, but I think I'm getting the hang of it now."

Plan Monorail From Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of New York state business men is promoting a scheme to build a $600,000,000 monorail from Montreal to Utica in the heart of the Mohawk Valley.

Gale Lyzle, a Utica warehouse owner who heads the group, said plans include use of the New York Central railway right-of-way as a base on which to build the line.

He said the line would draw 5,000,000 passengers a year and collect at least $100,000,000 in fares.

Senator Robert Kennedy and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller had promised full co-operation.

Mr. Lyzle plans to discuss the line with Montreal officials in June after receiving a feasibility study to determine exact costs.

Every Major Decision By Johnson on Viet Nam Leads to Bigger Moves

BY ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—A characteristic of the Vietnamese war has been that every major decision by President Johnson has however cautious and painful—has led to even bigger decisions.

And straws in the wind here now forecast a tougher U.S. role in Viet Nam.

For example, will the bombing of North Viet Nam, ever closer to the harbor of Haiphong and the capital of Hanoi, be extended in such previously-excluded targets as oil depots?

Will the war theatre be extended to Cambodia? Official secrecy on the use of Thailand, or American aircraft over Laos, have been pierced. Cambodia has been shelled.

Can the manpower build-up toward 350,000 or 400,000 men in the ground in South Viet Nam be achieved without moving the U.S. callower to a wartime economy? Will 400,000 men be sufficient?

With the war theatre be extended to Cambodia? Official secrecy on the use of Thailand, or American aircraft over Laos, have been pierced. Cambodia has been shelled.

Can the manpower build-up toward 350,000 or 400,000 men in the ground in South Viet Nam be achieved without moving the U.S. callower to a wartime economy? Will 400,000 men be sufficient?

What more has to be done at home in pruning U.S. domestic programs to finance the establishment of a vast military and economic-aid complex in and around Saigon?

These problems are implicit in the president's attempt to fight a war with politics as momentum at half-throttle.

North Viet Nam, so intransigent after the halt in the earlier peace initiative ripples through official Washington, is said by U.S. officials to be more infiltrated more than 20,000 men into South Viet Nam.

This strengthens the U.S. military leaders' argument that more Americans are needed to do the job on the ground—more than the 255,000 were on hand as of May 1.

It strengthens their argument that more bombing of more targets in North Viet Nam should be the main line of American manpower.

At the same time, the U.S. is expected by the end of the year to have more than 8,000,000 men under arms—probably the largest army in the world.

The war in Viet Nam has imposed on the U.S. armed forces, says congressional evidence, a severe drain on the trained personnel. There is a heavy growth in green troops and — under present regulations — steady flow from the armed forces of draftees who have completed their training and done their battlefield service.

At home, too, spending on Viet Nam and its serious part be running at $1,200,000,000 or more a month. There is correspondingly less for peacetime projects.

The war theatre, officially the two Viet Nams, is in fact much broader, recent actions show. Thailand has been used for a big base as a departure point for American planes attacking the north, but little publicity has been given to it.

Recent official acknowledgment has been made of American action against forces in Laos. American guns have fired into Cambodia, where the Viet Cong have sanctuary. And North Vietnamese allies have long been sanctuary for training or for "privileged" supplies into the south.

Behind the decisions that must be made in all these areas remains the question of whether Hanoi or even the Soviet Union will succeed in avoid direct involvement in Viet Nam as the American presence increases.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN SEYMOUR, MOTHER OF 3

When your baby begins to crap he may not eat a bit of the playpen but between times when you'll want baby to stay put. How to keep your scout-about happy after he had a taste of freedom? These tips may be helpful:

- Time element. If you reserve pen time for baby's most contented times, he probably won't resent it.
- Toy trickery. A few different toys for each session help keep baby's fascination alive. Also an interesting place to come home to. A knotted sheet with a Gerber Teething Biscuit inside adds a nice surprise.
- Action causers. By placing the pen where baby can watch your comings and goings, he won't feel neglected.

Lip-smacking lunch or scrumptious supper. The pen is the perfect place to have when you finally tempt baby's appetite with Gerber Meat Dinners. Savory? Yes, of course. They have 3 times as much succulent meat as our regular vegetable-meat combinations. The addition of garden vegetables gives them a wonderfully perky flavour. Veal, Chicken, Turkey, Beef, Ham, or Lamb.

- Safety measures for Somewhere-Creepers make a bonfire for bright objects, so be sure you can the floor for pins, buttons, iron and laxatives. Records should not be left a-single. Floor lamps are beasties are a hazard.

Teething hints. Your baby's appetite may seem a bit at troublesome teething times.

Favourite foods of older tots. Extra cuddling and comforting help in the mothering division: frequent slips of cooling Gerber Fruit Juices and Juice Drinks are most welcome.... Gerber Teething Biscuits, extra-hard and waffle-surfaced, will give baby the biting satisfaction he wants and needs. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Ann Landers

Saves Man From Fire, Too Timid to Deny Lie

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How does a person develop courage? I'm 35 years old and still searching for the answer. What baffles me is that I chicken out on the silliest things.

For example: Last week the milkman overcharged me $3 and I spent an hour rehearsing what I was going to say to him. Finally he decided to skip it. Another time, during a committee meeting, a woman told a vicious lie about a good friend of mine. I knew it was a lie and I was boiling inside but I couldn't bring myself to speak up.

A few years ago I ran into a burning house and dragged out a relative without a minute's thought of my own safety. People said I was a hero — that I had performed an act of tremendous courage. But is it courage when you don't stop to think about what you are doing? If I'm so brave why am I such a coward about the little things? What can I do about it? — TIMID LUMP.

DEAR LUMP: Very few heroes stop to think about the danger. The experts tell us that most acts of heroism are the result of the individual's conditioning and/or training.

Chickening out with the milkman was not due to a lack of courage. The reason can be found in your feelings of insecurity.

Verbalize your feelings with a friend. It will give you strength to face the next test and to act on your convictions. Each time you succeed it will make the next time easier.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This morning I telephoned my son's steady girl friend to see if she had heard anything from him. Henry is stationed at Fort Dix.

The girl's mother said, "Oh, Diane went down there two weeks ago to be with Henry. She has taken an apartment for a month."

Ann, I was so dumbfounded, I had to get a chair and sit down by the phone before I could do my housework.

Diane is 17 years old. She finished high school last semester. Her parents are respected people, but they must be crazy to allow her to go to an Army Camp and spend a month with a boy.

I brought Henry up to know right from wrong. But how can a young boy resist temptation when a girl throws herself at him? Steal he isn't made of. Now I know why we haven't heard from Henry for two weeks. He is so busy with the girl he can't find a minute to pick up a pencil and write to his mother.

Please tell parents to keep their daughters at home. Mothers with girls in their teens have enough to worry about without this problem. — DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: I agree. It is disgraceful for parents to allow a 17-year-old girl to go to Camp following — and when they write and ask if it's all right to let their daughters visit boy friends in Army camps I tell them as strongly as I can No ! ! ! ! It is not all right. More than this I can't do.

Confidential to EXHAUSTED AND SICK AT HEART: I am not surprised. Nobody can face today's challenges if he is still carrying yesterday's burdens and suffering from last year's heartaches. Stop feeling yourself. Join did what you felt was best and in my opinion you did better than most people could have done under the circumstances.

SHOULD GET AID

MONTREAL (CP) — Low-income persons should receive financial aid from the provincial government to pay for legal expenses, Justice Minister Claude Wagner said Tuesday. HAM - ORANGE COMBINATION

The combination of ham and oranges is not unfamiliar to you for at one time or another most of you have glazed a roast ham with a mixture of orange juice and brown sugar and mustard.

But today's combination includes whole oranges baked around a ham slice. When cut into hot from the oven to your dining-room table it is a beautiful sight. I will give you the detailed directions for "petal ling" the orange peel.

WEDNESDAY Guests

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Veal Paprika Accompanies on Rice (see Mon.); Asparagus; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers on Leaf Lettuce; Russian Dressing; Shredded Fresh Pineapple; Refrigerator Doughnuts (see Tues.); Tea.

BAKED HAM SLICE WITH BAKED ORANGES, (serves 4)

One 1-inch slice uncooked or ready-to-eat ham (1½ pounds), 4 medium size navel oranges, 1 large soft prune, stoned, 4 teaspoons sugar, ½ cup fresh orange juice.

Slash fat edges of ham with sharp paring knife and place on shallow baking dish. Cover with foil and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. one hour. (See note below for shorter baking time if ready-to-eat ham is used.)

To prepare the oranges for baking wash them, then with a sharp-pointed knife make eight vertical cuts in the peel starting at blossom end, to within one inch of bottom. Loosen each peel 'petal' from pulp and pull peel down and back point is under orange to form a fold ed petal. (Coax, do not force, or skin may crack. Later, when hot from baking, they become pliable and manageable and any petals that unfold are easily tucked back). With finger tips loosen orange sections at top centre and coax slightly apart. Fill centre of each with a soft stoned prune. Sprinkle each carefully with 1 teaspoon sugar. Spoon some of the orange juice over each. One-half hour before serving time arrange oranges around ham slice and raise temperature to 350 deg. Fahr., basting frequently until all orange juice is used. Bake with ham for time too. Bake one-half hour until oranges are tender. Serve one whole baked orange with each serving of ham to each guest. We served it with broccoli with Hollandaise. It was a delicious, beautiful and unusual dinner.

Note: If ready-to-eat ham is used arrange prepared oranges around it to start with. Bake all, covered with foil, for 15 minutes, then remove foil to finish baking and to brown for 15 or 20 minutes longer. — 30 to 35 minutes in all, for ready-to-eat-ham.

Citizenship Court Report Given at Meet

The regular meeting of the Argyle Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held in the Officers' Mess in the Armories on Wednesday afternoon with Regent Mrs. Hagerman presiding. The Regent Mrs. K. D. H. Willcocks was in the chair.

Mrs. J. B. Milroy gave the Citizenship Court report and mentioned the fact of so many Service people being presented among the New Canadians. A donation was sent to the Officers Mess and the members of the St. Julien Chapter assisted. Mrs. Milroy read an article on Communism in Canada "Alert" is the new name for the Communist party, the former the Communist line Trotskyite activity. The Trotskyites are currently promoting among young people in Canada a film on Guerrilla warfare. Two of the beliefs are that Communism is against religion of any kind including Christianity and Judaism. It is against the democratic party and private enterprise.

Regent announced the dates for the National convention in Montreal, May 23th-June 1st. Five delegates (of 9) forward voting privileges for the chapter to Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Provincial Regent.

A motion was made to provide the secretary with a brief case to carry books. After some discussion a motion was made authorizing the chapter to produce a cook book in the fall. A number of recipes were received and more requested. A tentative date was set for a rummage sale sponsored by the two chapters in aid of the Mental Health Association.

A number of books and finished articles were turned in for overseas shipment. Included in the display were several items made by Mrs. Morrison. These were suggestions made by other chapters at the Prov. Convention for Services at Home and Abroad.

Mrs. Angus Duffy attended an invitation to hold the June meeting in her home and this will be a potluck supper.

Following the adjournment refreshments were served and the Regent gave her report of the Convention in Hamilton. Several items of interest were discussed and in connection with the report. Mrs. Refouse will give her report at the June meeting.

By CY FOX

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)— "Good morning, Miss Marsh," chant the children in 10 schools run by the Jamaica Save the Children Fund.

They are greeting a smilingly energetic Torontonian of 27 who has been in this Caribbean Commonwealth country for two years as a supervisor with the fund.

Robin Marsh is one of 25 volunteers now in Jamaica under sponsorship of a private, non - denominational organization known as Canadian University Service Overseas.

Her job includes keeping an eye on the fund's schools which serve children aged four to seven. The schools are located in underprivileged sections of Kingston and elsewhere in Jamaica.

Miss Marsh plots a tiny car through this capital city's hot streets and thick traffic and talks with the bright and hardy Jamaican teachers who oversee the classroom activities of 1,300 children.

The schools, for lack of better facilities, sometimes operate in makeshift quarters such as a converted church or a former market building.

FACE DRAWBACKS

Sometimes the circumstances are rugged. The market building has a metal roof, which magnifies the 80 - degree midday heat of Kingston. Another fund school having carries on despite sickening odors given off by a nearby tannery.

Despite the limitations, the facilities are highly valued by fund officials who say losing them would mean an end to the schooling.

The building must be vacated by July. The fund is trying to replace it so the work can go on.

One of the schools serves children of families that live—sometimes seven to a small room—in a nearby public housing estate. Unpenned pigs and goats rustle through the dust of the poverty - stricken community.

But the children, once in the fund's school, can still chorus "All things bright and beautiful, the Lord God made them all."

Miss Marsh puts in a full day with the fund. Then she takes on the added task of being coordinator for the other CUSO volunteers in Jamaica.

NO FAVORITISM SHOWN

Of these, 15 are teachers. The others do everything from working as technicians with the Jamaican health department to helping with a youth camp.

CUSO receives its money from Canadian universities and from additional funds canvassed provincial governments, business and industry, foundations and private citizens, all in Canada.

It received a $300,000 grant from the federal government in 1965.

At that time, the organization had 340 volunteers serving in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean and Latin America — serving, says the group, "on a basis of equality with those with whom they live and work."

But Jamaica hasn't been all work for Miss Marsh, a perky blonde who was a teacher for five years at the Woodlibra Community Centre's nursery centre in Toronto before coming here.

After arrival in Jamaica she met a youthful British engineer who was teaching in Kingston under a British volunteer service plan.

His has since returned to Britain and Miss Marsh is due to leave here in August. They plan to marry in October.

A. Storms, chairman of sports, introduced head-table guests. They were unit president J. Boyle, Mrs. A. Hardy and Elizabeth Lundberg.

Mrs. Hardy presented the new Curling Trophy, on behalf of her husband, to the "A" championship darts team; the Beatles. Members of the team are: captain L. Davidson, A. Storms, P. Rousky, S. Welsh, M. Campbell and R. Kelly. Each member received individual trophies and Carlings awards.

J. Boyle presented the Edinborough Trophy to the "B" championship darts team, the Chipmunks. Team captain is D. Tapp and other members are R. Fitzgibbon, T. Fenton, M. Haines, D. Deming and J. Mawdsley.

The two losing teams, the Bouncers, captained by E. Bobleah, and the Jets, captained by G. Fitzgerald, received consolation awards.

In cribbage, M. Green was the winner and E. Nolan the runner-up. Both received their trophies from J. Boyle. E. special award was given to R. Fitzgibbon for the highest possible score, of 180, despite the fact that the score was gained in a friendly match. M. Galbraith made the presentation.

Thanks was given to all those connected with the ANAF sports.

Susanna's Family Fare

UNHAPPY DUTIES

Dear Susanna: I strongly suggest that whenever you have occasion to send flowers to a funeral outside the family you insist that the florist include your full name and address.

I have just come through the experience of helping to take care of the arrangements for a relative's funeral, and in many cases, when flowers arrived, there was only a small card enclosed with the first name, and the sentiments of the sender.

Unfortunately, we were not well acquainted with all of the friends of the deceased, and sometimes it was necessary to do quite a bit of tracing before we could acknowledge the flowers and thank everyone for their kindness. — No Name Please

HEMMING HINT

Dear Su: Masking tape is wonderful in the "at" width for "hemming" draperies for anyone subject to numerous moves and constant alterations. No stitch marks at various levels! — Audrey Hamer

VINEGAR RINSE

Dear Susanna: Nothing like a sprinkle of vinegar in the first rinse water to remove stubborn soap from white clothes. — Edna Jennings

CAKE CARRIER

Dear Su: To carry a deep cream pie or an iced cake to a church supper, set it on the lid of a similarly shaped cookie tin.

Pack the space between the outside bottom edge of the dessert and the edge of the lid with a loosely scrunched roll of foil to keep the cake or pie firmly in place.

Carefully clip the bottom part of the tin onto the lid as a cover for the baking, and march off to the supper with your masterpiece well protected by a cushion of air. — Mrs. Grace Dolan

Goodwill Worker of 1966 British-Born Nan Williams

WASHINGTON (CP) — British-born Nan Williams, 57, who came to the United States in 1939 from Toronto, is the national goodwill worker of 1966.

Her achievement: Apparently complete recovery from a prolonged breakdown that left her paralyzed, emotionally and physically, as recently as 1954.

The award is made annually by Goodwill Industries of America, Inc., a voluntary agency once dedicated to the physically handicapped but now also helping emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded patients through 131 branches.

Miss Williams has recovered so well that she is a trained supervisory Goodwill employee in Philadelphia.

Born in 1909 in the east London borough of Walthamstow, where her father was once mayor, she had to live in a girls' home at 10 years of age because of poverty and was raised to Toronto in 1926 at the age of 15.

LONG HOURS

Miss Williams says she worked long hours, attended high school at night and took two years at the University of Toronto, again at night.

She came to Baltimore as a domestic in 1939, studied pediatric nursing nights at Johns Hopkins University and had her first breakdown that year over worry about wartime dangers for her family still in London. The diagnosis was dementia praecox and included partial paralysis.

Her illness continued until 1954 despite psychiatric treatment, she says. She attempted suicide three times. The turning point in the attributes to coming in contact with the Goodwill organization and "being needed — everyone needs to be needed."

Miss Williams was here recently as part of her prize and met Vice - President Hubert Humphrey.

U.C.W. Meetings

The Auxiliary also supplies equipment and services to other parts of the hospital. Members number 100 seniors and 25 juniors They need church organizations to provide day favors on special occasions and to make donations to used magazines not more than three months old.

Mrs. Raymond Rowe announced the spring tea her unit is planning for the first week of May. Mrs. Frank Rabel and Mrs. R. Rogs conducted the program.

Successful Living

Will She Be Wild Later If Denied Dates Now?

DEAR DORIS: What is your opinion on how old should girls be before they go out? I do want to please my parents but I also want to please myself. I think this is very important also because you see some girls. I can hardly fall asleep thinking why they don't want to sit down and talk this over like parents should do.

I am 15. My aunts say I'm not too young and I believe them. So how can I convince my parents that I am old enough and that I can be trusted?

I also heard that if girls don't go out when they are in their teens (around 15 or 16) they will run around wild after and they will have to get married. I don't want to be like this so please, please help me. — NOT DORIS CLARE TOO YOUNG.

DEAR NOT: It doesn't necessarily follow — but it does happen that if a girl has no practice at all in dating boys and finding out how to keep the lid on, she doesn't grow the habits she needs. Then when the time finally comes when she is given — or takes — freedom, the lid is definitely off!

In my book, dating in groups, at 13, is a nice way to start. Yet my greatest sympathy goes to those girls whose parents give them no protection whatever.

DEAR DORIS: I met a boy and we went steady for seven days. Then he said he went to the bad because I was so happy to be with him I sort of giggled. He got really angry and took me home.

A couple of days later he waved to me but he went back pretending he was angry. Friends have told me to act uninterested, so taking their advice I acted angry. I'm now caught in the middle. He's 19 and I'm 16.

Please help me, I need an adult's opinion without getting a lecture. — PERPLEXED.

DEAR PERPLEXED: Here's news for you: Acting angry is acting uninterested! Right now the idea is to keep cool, friendly, ready for fun but in complete possession of your feelings.

To him the giggles meant ridicule, and it takes a really "big" guy to stand being laughed at. Next time, better show up when he pockets up!

P.S. to all parents: Please note "Perplexed's" last paragraph.

DEAR DORIS: My son is married and has three children. We have helped them financially in many ways, but my daughter-in-law has said she doesn't appreciate what we gave them. She changed to our religion but none of them go to church much. When I mentioned this to my son he said they were not going to force their children to go to church as he was forced to go. Of course this hurt me.

We love our grandchildren very much and would like to see them often. But now they have decided not to allow them to visit us because we spoil them, and I know I am not welcome there. I think about this so much that at times I am sick. It seems as if we have a son with family my rarely see them.

Are we supposed to forget about them? — SICK AT HEART.

DEAR HEART: No, indeed. But you are supposed to let them manage. In this case your generous impulses have only made your daughter-in-law feel embarrassed and inadequate. Add to this her awareness of your worry about the church business, and she gets the idea — not too far from the truth — that you don't approve of her.

Children need grandparents. Try writing a letter or having a private talk with the woman your son married, abdicating any effort at remote control, and making her feel wanted.

DEAR DORIS: I have been married for two years to a soldier. I have heard gossip that he runs around with other girls when I am a weekend pass. Should I believe this? — UNBELIEVER.

DEAR UNBELIEVER: Couldn't say. There is bound to be other evidence. Have you noticed whether he is home with you when he gets his leaves?

P.S.: Next time please give your right name.

(Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you on the way to more Successful Living.)

Women's Institutes

SIDNEY SOUTH W.I.

Mrs. Delbert McComb was convenor of the program on Agriculture at the home of Mrs. Gerald Grills for the May meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute.

Mrs. McComb introduced Mr. Estabrook of the Fruit and Vegetable Extension Branch of the Department of Agriculture. Taking as his topic "Rural Landscaping." Mr. Estabrook considered the basic farm with its lane, lawn, garden and buildings, pointing up his talk with films. In beautifying rural areas we must get the most beauty for as little work and as little money as possible, he said. This could take a form of recreation. It is best always to consider first a plan of the farmstead as it is and to make improvements around it. Large deciduous trees planted at the side of the buildings give the impression of anchoring them like ground and hedges planted near the house make a good back ground. These trees, cedar and white spruce, are available from the Department of Lands and Forests.

Lanes should be cleared of junk and fences straightened, the speaker continued. It is well to have Hydro poles placed along the line fence. Natural stone and rail fences can be made into desirable backgrounds for flower gardens. Lawns should slope rather than have high banks and there should be few small areas of grass to make for easy cutting. If sidewalks are to be added, make them wide enough for two people to walk along straight to the doorstep which should be rather large. The back yard can be given privacy by hedges or trees; a paling fence will add beauty to a garden or patio. White washed or painted fences and stones add much to the beauty of the farm buildings.

Mr. Estabrook concluded his address by saying, "Pick up, clean up, paint up, along with planting trees and hedges to make a more inviting farm and lovely country-side."

Mrs. Martin Mowbray, Mrs. G. Sills and Mrs. J. Tomaky are to be delegates to the district annual. The Institute is sponsoring a C.N.R. films night, May 27, in Centenary Church hall with neighboring Institutes invited.

Musical Ride of RCMP Not Affected by Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — The horse will vanish within six months as a standard part of the training of Royal Canadian Mounted Police recruits, RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan announced Tuesday.

Equestrian training will be replaced by extra academic instruction and such physical training as isometrics.

The RCMP's famed Musical Ride, which dates back more than 80 years, will not fall victim of the motor-age innovations the RCMP most reluctantly make, the commissioner said in a statement.

The new policy is "forced by rapidly changing times and conditions" that include a requirement for more academic training in police schools.

"We're still retaining the ride so there will be no change in name of the force," said a spokesman at RCMP headquarters. "No immediate change anyway."

The force also will continue to train ceremonial mounted escorts for such occasions as the governor-general's trips to open Parliament.

The force will retain 300 of its 1,000 horses and maintain a winter course in Ottawa, training 48 men a year in three groups to keep the ride going.

The spokesman said the training changes will cut the basic program for recruits at Regina and Ottawa to eight months from eight.

The processing rate now is 1,000 recruits a year and the saving in salaries alone from the shorter course would be $700,000.

While equestrian training was invaluable for developing personal courage and self-control, "chances are a man won't even see a horse after his graduation and such days," the spokesman said.

The horse has been an integral part of the force since the inception of its predecessor, the Northwest Mounted Police, in 1873.

The extensive North American tours of the musical ride will be continued.

No Joke About Trying To Sell Boa

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — How do you sell a six-foot boa constrictor in a city with no zoo?

Toby Styles tried a newspaper classified advertisement and has been swamped with calls.

"Most people thought it was a gag," the 23-year-old former Calgary zoo-keeper said in an interview Tuesday.

"But when they found it was for real about 15 callers expressed a serious interest."

He is asking $25 for the nine - pound, 2½ - year - old snake.

GOT IT, APRIL 1

Mr. Styles, who has been staying with his parents in a suburban apartment building while on leave of absence from his job, received the snake about a month ago as an April Fool's day joke from a friend in Florida.

Boas are no stranger to Mr. Styles, who used to keep three as pets in his Calgary apartment.

"Boas are no trouble at all. You feed them once a month —three or four mice will do nicely for Sir Solomon (He's the snake he wants to sell before he returns to Calgary this weekend)—and that's all you have to worry about."

Sir Solomon was named after Sir Solomon Hochoy, governor-general of Trinidad and Tobago, a good friend of Mr. Styles' parents.

"He doesn't know anything about it but I don't think he'd be insulted."

Receive Fines For Impaired Driving Charge

NAPANEE — Last Friday two men, Robert William Beattie and Frederick D. Hartwick appeared before Magistrate R. C. Jackson in Napanee and both were fined $100 and court costs, and each had his licence suspended for three months, after pleading guilty to charges of impaired driving.

Several other cases were settled out of court or were remanded for trial at a later date.

Tuesday, Jeff Morgan, Donald LaPointe, Morley York, Carl Wood and David Wood were charged with being in possession of stolen goods, were again remanded. The date for their trial was set for June 4.

For making a false statement in order to obtain unemployment insurance, Arthur Scott was fined $25 and costs. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

A charge of careless driving against Norman Powell was dismissed by the magistrate.

DRIVERS KILL SELVES

About 18,000 British drivers, apart from their passengers, died in road accidents in 1965.

Ronald McPherson Elected Centennial Committee Head

NAPANEE—Ronald McPherson was unanimously elected chairman of the Centennial committee at a meeting called by Mayor Lorne A. Smart Monday evening. Representatives of 24 organizations attended. Everyone present volunteered to work in some capacity.

The mayor welcomed everyone and informed them that arrangements had already been made to accommodate the Centennial Caravan, which will be in Napanee June 29 and 30. The high school board had consented to have it set up in the ball park, now school property. The council had voted $1,000 for the celebration.

Wesley Allenbrack gave a report of a Centennial meeting he had attended in Ottawa recently, where the emphasis was on the beautification of Canada for her 100th birthday. Homes in towns and in the country, and their surroundings should be cleaned up, and eyesores everywhere be cleaned up.

Earl Morrison gave a report on a Centennial workshop which he had attended in Belleville recently, where projects had been suggested and where he had learned of literature available which would be of assistance.

SET UP COMMITTEES

Judge G. F. Smith introduced Arthur Robertson, liaison officer for this area for the Centennial Commission, who told the audience that Napanee had no time to lose. "Centennial Year is only eight months away," he warned. He advised the setting up of key committees who would in turn set up sub-committees. He thought it unwise, he said, to concentrate on July and August, and advised spreading the celebration over the year. All sorts of literature was available on whatever projects might be chosen.

The speaker was of the opinion that the churches should set up an interdenominational committee, and organize special church activities throughout the years The Rev. Guy Case, speaking later, said he was in favor.

The question of county-and town committees in the celebration was not settled. Harold Creighton, Reeve of North Frontenac, a member of a committee set up by the County Council said that no decision had yet been reached by the committee. Other members are Dr. Alan Hawley, Reeve of Sadg, W. B. Douglas, Deputy-Reeve of Napanee; and Warden Plotz.

Mr. Robertson was thanked by Judge G. F. Smith.

Dr. McPherson took the chair after his election. No further officers were elected, but all who attended are available for any position.

It was felt that one vice-chairman should represent the county, and that a second should be a woman. Several names were advanced, but no decision was made. A motion was passed that if the County Council decides to co-operate with the town in the celebrations, the chairmen should be appointed by them.

Envoy Phelps of the Salvation Army suggested that since the welcome given the Scarborough Citadel Salvation Army Band had been such a warm one, the town might like to have a second band come as part of the Centennial celebration.

Theolog's Wives Hold Meeting In Napanee

NAPANEE — The Theologs' Wives, who meet normally in Kingston each month, changed their meeting place for the May meeting to the board room of Trinity United Church in Napanee Monday evening.

Wives of the student ministers of Queen's Theological College organized themselves about two years ago, and have been meeting regularly for fellowship and to discuss common problems.

About 15 of the young wives attended from the Napanee, Kingston and Belleville areas and from Amelisburg and Tamworth in Prince Edward. They agreed that Napanee is a more convenient place for the meetings than Kingston, for the ladies from Hastings and Prince Edward county, and the next meeting place may be changed occasionally.

A short period of games and contests was followed by a discussion period, and refreshments brought the meeting to a close.

These young women are living in interesting and value the opportunity to discuss their common problems. Monday evening's meeting, with the U.C.W., and asked themselves and each other if it is good as it stands. They agreed that something is lacking, and that it should either be dropped or changed in some way. They felt that it is tending to become a social club, and a raising organization, and that more emphasis should be put on study groups, and the opportunity to go more deeply into religious questions.

They felt, also, that the U.C.W. is too inspired, that it should enlarge its efforts in concrete help for the sick, the aged, and the unfortunate. The need of tact in approaching the poor who are proud was mentioned, and the group thought advice should be sought from a trained social worker. The U.C.W. should have a definite program for volunteer work in hospitals and for the mentally retarded, was another suggestion.

Junior Farmers Report Major Change in Policy

NAPANEE — Barton MacLean, provincial director of the Junior Farmers for the county, reports that a major change in policy for the organization was formulated at the May directors' meeting which he attended in Guelph last Friday and Saturday.

Until now, the Junior Farmers have been reluctant to accept financial support from businesses and organizations for any of their projects. The directors have decided that now such assistance will be accepted, subjected to the consent of the directors.

The present project is to send a scholarship Junior Farmer to New Zealand and they may seek support for this from firms dealing with agriculture in any form, such as large implement firms. Local branches in the same way, will be allowed to accept help from local firms or organizations.

The time for acceptance of applications to have Century Farms marked has been extended for two weeks, to May 20. As the forms must be in Guelph by May 23, this is the final deadline. So far about 5,000 applications have been received throughout the province, with roughly 50 from this county.

The Junior Farmers of this county feel that there may be owners of eligible farms in the northern townships who have not yet learned that they are entitled to have the farm marked by a plaque if it has been continuously in the family for a century and is now being farmed and the house is occupied. They are hoping the word will be spread by school principals, to whom they have sent the information.

Batawa

BATAWA — The C.Y.O. of Batawa village had a successful car wash project on Saturday.

Congratulations are extended to Pamela and Neil Ackerman, first class winners in the grade 6 competition in piano duets at the Stirling Music Festival on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Noppert and family of Batawa have taken up residence in Stockdale. They purchased the home formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Bates.

Greatest Treasure Chest That Which Holds Memories

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The greatest treasure chest is memory.

It beats a hope chest all hollow.

Things in a hope chest mildew and fade with the passing years. But time increases the value of the contents of memory's treasure chest.

You've stored up a lot of fascinating memories if you can look back and

REMEMBER WHEN—

It was a mark of progress in a small town when it started its second cemetery.

The girl who delivered the valedictory address for the high school graduating class usually wore a gown she had sewn herself.

You first became aware of the problem of inflation when the local movie house jumped its price to 15 cents from a dime.

Only the well-to-do kept goldfish.

You were afraid the neighbors would think you were a sissy if they saw you helping mama hang up the wash on the back yard line. (Mama herself always seemed to have her mouth full of wooden clothespins.)

HAYED CHORE

Another childhood chore you hated was having to scrub out the old tin-lined kitchen icebox.

By the time you learned how to lie in the new hammock without tumbling out, it was time to put it away until next year.

The girl next door liked you better than you liked her. (The girl you liked best always lived on the other side of town.)

As soon as you learned to pump the player piano well, mother started bragging you'd turn out to be another Paderewski.

Any lady who wore a wig was sure to be talked about all over the neighborhood.

Half the old men with false teeth refused to wear them except when they went to church or attended a funeral.

Every ice cream shop had marble - topped tables and wire-back chairs.

Those were the good old days. Remember?

Mao

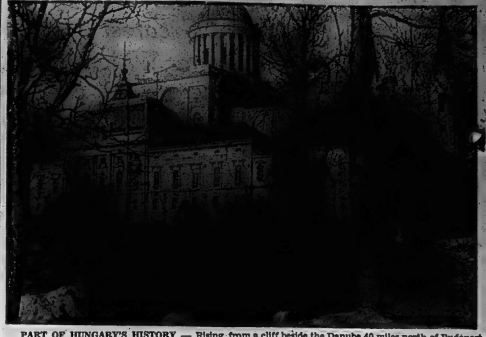
It is the actuarial tables on likelihood of illness.

The view here, based on study of Chinese publications and an analysis of the reports of diplomats and travellers from the mainland, is that Mao has not exercised day-to-day control of the government or party since 1958.



In that year, he stepped down as chairman, or president, of the Chinese People's Republic for the avowed purpose of devoting more time to the larger aspects of policy and problems.

Since then, Mao's absences from Peking have been more frequent and for longer durations. Generally he has sought the peace and quiet of the shimmering West Lake at Hangchow to work over his theories.

The results of his research have generally become apparent in the form of new rectification drives, campaigns to place the party in total control of the army, or movements, such as the one now in progress, to purge intellectuals, newspaper men, youth groups, the army and the party itself of those who waver toward the policies of the Soviet Communist party.

The Chinese undoubtedly timed the announcement of Mao's reappearance to coincide with detonation of the country's third nuclear device.

Though Mao's image as the sage and prophet of Chinese communism has been enlarged and dwelt upon at greater length in recent months, this appears to be linked not to his health but to the current campaign to bring straying intellectuals and others into line.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kenl. Ont.) said the money might be used for patronage. The type of men at the local planning level would decide this.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the ARDA program has been used as political football. He urged the minister to "stay on top" of the new program.

Creditiste Leader Caouette called for guaranteed prices for products of eastern farmers. He said western farmers knew they could raise wheat and make a profit.

There'd be little poverty on eastern farms if farmers were sure of making money from their produce.

Charles - Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste—Roberval) said subsidizing through ARDA would preserve the family farm. That was the important thing.

Tom Lefebvre (L—Pontiac-Temiscamingue)—said there are many rural areas in Eastern Canada in need of development, including his riding.

He hoped the experts assembled to put the redevelopment fund to work would not all be from urban centres. There should be some from the rural areas, men familiar with rural problems.

Hugh Faulkner (L—Peterborough) said the program should be applied to areas like his, where there isn't chronic farm poverty but there are serious problems nevertheless.

WINS DAMAGES

TORONTO (CP) — Nathan Kirshin, 51, of Toronto was awarded $15,664 damages Tuesday against the registrar of motor vehicles in Ontario for injuries suffered Oct. 20, 1964, when struck by a car while using a crosswalk. The motorist was not apprehended.

Palace Thousand Years Old Seat of Cardinal Mindszenty

By JOHN BEST

This is where the Magyar invaders established their first royal capital more than 1,000 years ago.

It's also still theoretically the ecclesiastical seat of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, who since the 1956 revolution has been living in asylum in the United States legation in Budapest.

On the bus ride through ancient farming country from Budapest, you get a glimpse of signs of more recent history. At two or three points along the narrow, winding road Soviet Army camps are visible. And if you look sharply across the top of the wall that separates one such camp from the road, you can see a row of tanks lined up in a shed, chilling reminders of the 1956 uprising which was suppressed by Russian tanks in the streets of the capital.

In Esztergom itself the most striking physical characteristic is the basilica, largest church in Hungary, an imposing structure that rises out of a cliff just above the river.

The church, finished in the 1800s after being under construction 40 years, contains a side-chapel dating from pre-renaissance times, which was transported stone by stone from a spot 300 feet away.

Inside the basilica, whose dome and portico are supported by 72-foot-high Corinthian columns, is a treasure of saints' relics, priestly vestments and altar - ware 700 years old and more.

The hill crowned by the church contains Roman, medieval Hungarian and Turkish remains, having been used by successive conquerors as a fortress and by the Hungarian kings of the early middle ages as the site of a royal palace.

Existence of the palace was unknown until a few decades ago when a large stone fell from an ancient rampart into a garden below. The owner reported it to police.

Investigation revealed two beautiful Renaissance gates, beyond which stood a building in the early French Gothic style. It was the palace of King Bela III (1173-96) which, like many other medieval buildings in Hungary, had been ruined and forgotten during the long Turkish occupation.

The primate's palace is situated in the oldest part of this city of 22,000, at the foot of the citadel hill. Inside the palace, at one end of the building, is the Christian Museum, rich in early Hungarian and Italian paintings, French tapestries and Italian, Hungarian and German glassware.

HONEST MISTAKE

It's possible to make an honest mistake on the way upstairs to the second-floor museum and quarter — as I did—into the cardinal's residence.

The sign on the first-floor says "Keep Out" but since it's in Hungarian, I didn't know this at the time. As a result I became one of the few Westerners who has been in Mindszenty's palace since the Communists took over in Hungary.

Portraits of popes and cardinals looked down from the walls of the dusky corridor along which I walked. As I stood studying one of these portraits, there was a rustle of garments nearby.

From the interior of the palace came a lone nun who wasted little time showing me the way out with a look that suggested she had grave doubts about whether my mistake had really been an honest one.

Living in self-imposed exile in Budapest Mindszenty at 74 is said to be in good health, enjoying a daily stroll in the courtyard of the U.S. legation.

His case presents a difficult problem for all concerned.

On March 4, Vienna's Franz Cardinal Koenig spent almost five hours with Mindszenty, giving rise to speculation that a new Vatican initiative might be under way to end his 10 years of seclusion.

WOULD NEGOTIATE

Afterward, Koenig would say only that the two had talked about the Vatican council.

The Hungarian government has said it is willing to negotiate on the cardinal's status but has indicated it would not agree to restore him to active church leadership.

There have been reports that the Vatican would like to get Mindszenty out of Budapest and to Rome, thereby removing a thorn in relations between church and state in Hungary.

However, some observers doubt that the cardinal would agree to go. They believe he is determined to remain in solitary asylum as a symbol of resistance to the Communist regime.

There are also those who question whether Mindszenty any longer is such a symbol. They hold that time has passed by and that many Hungarians have forgotten or have only a hazy recollection of the erectic figure who once presided over their religious lives.

The cardinal was sentenced to life by the Communists in 1948. He was free for a few days during the 1956 uprising, taking refuge in the legation when the revolt was crushed.

MOST ARE CATHOLICS

Since those troubled times, relations between church and state have become less bitter. They were recently described by a government official as correct.

Unofficial estimates by the government place the number of Catholics in Hungary at 6,000,000 out of a population of 10,000,000. Another 2,850,000 are said to belong to other denominations and the remainder claim no religious affiliation.

There are about 7,000 churches, prayer houses and other places of worship, of which 4,757 are Catholic.

Between 1948 and 1950 the government made a separate agreement with each church group, promising freedom of worship in return for a pledge by the church not to interfere in state affairs. Under the same agreements, the government provides financial support.

Controversy Over Store Hours Widespread, Hottest in Quebec

CP CROSS-CANADA SURVEY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

Last year, two major food chain stores in Greater Montreal waged a stormy battle through the courts against a decree of the Quebec labor department which would have forced them, and all other food outlets, to remain closed Mondays to 1 p.m.

The stores won the battle when Quebec Superior Court declared the decree illegal, but the court's decision did not end the controversy and struggle that had developed between competitive retail interests in the province in recent years.

For one thing, the Retail Food Stores Parity Board, which had the power of administering the decree, is appealing against the Superior Court decision. For another, the government has set up a three-man commission which will conduct public hearings across the province during the next six months into the whole question of store hours, which have become a burning issue in both big and small communities.

In other provinces, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows, the issue does not appear to have reached the same controversial heights, though there is clearly a developing struggle in major metropolitan areas in which a number of municipalities are grouped together and where there are strong forces of small businesses opposing the big chain stores.

LOCAL OPTION COMMON

In all provinces, with the exception of Newfoundland, which has a government commission studying the situation, legislation—if it exists at all—usually permits each municipality to determine its own store hours.

However, though a province may leave it to its municipalities to decide for themselves what business hours they will permit, it is possible that its labor code allows for decrees which limit the working hours of employees.

These, in fact, were the circumstances under which Greater Montreal food outlets were ordered last year to shorten their business hours, including staying closed Mondays to 1 p.m.

The decree was made under the Collective Agreement Act at the request of the Quebec Food Retailers' Association, a body mainly composed of smaller merchants. The two chain stores are not members.

Such a decree is granted when a body of merchants in a particular kind of business legislates to the department of labor that it has reached a uniform collective agreement with the unions on work conditions.

The Superior Court held that the decree was improper since its terms had the effect of regulating trade and commerce under the guise of controlling working conditions. The judgment said that while the employees were prohibited from selling or delivering on Monday mornings, their employers could, under the terms of their collective agreements, give them other work to do during that time.

So food stores in Montreal and suburban communities on Montreal Island have returned to operating within the times laid down by the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation, which regulates business hours for all Montreal Island municipalities.

Under the island bylaw, all stores, with certain specific exceptions, must close between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. except Thursdays and Fridays when they may remain open to 10 p.m.

Like Quebec, Ontario permits each municipality to determine its own hours, although there are some minor stipulations.

W. H. Palmer, Ontario deputy minister of municipal affairs, says the government has no intention of changing the arrangement.

Hours have been a sore point in many Ontario communities since the introduction of shopping plazas and the development of suburban shopping shortly after the Second World War.

Smaller merchants have complained that chain stores in plazas have broken local bylaws and willingly paid the fines when charges have been laid against them, forcing other merchants to follow suit or have the bylaws changed.

Until recent years, the most common municipal bylaw in Ontario had retail stores, other than corner groceries, close daily at 6 p.m., except Friday when they could stay open until 9 p.m., and Wednesday, when they had to close at noon.

CLOSED MONDAYS

Subsequent changes in many communities in recent years have permitted late Thursday opening and Wednesday opening to 6 p.m., with the introduction of all-day closing Mondays.

Few communities have wiped out local bylaws altogether, letting merchants set their own hours according to the demand for their wares, though apparently there is considerable opinion in favor of such a move.

Newfoundland is the only province with legislation which sets retail store hours, and this now is under review by a select committee of the provincial legislature.

The Shops' Early Work and Closing Hours Act of 1962 applies to all areas of the province except for two or three communities which have exercised their right to opt out.

As a result of the uniformity which the act enforces in most of the province one of the most contentious features of store closing hours in some other province does not exist. This is the difference in hours which may exist between downtown shopping areas and the suburbs, and between municipalities and areas not organized in municipalities.

But standard hours do not suit everyone, and it was because they felt their businesses would be better served if they decided their own hours that, some Newfoundland communities opted out.

CONFLICT IN VICTORIA

In British Columbia, the 1958 Municipal Act gives individual municipalities the power to set their own regulations for the opening and closing of retail stores.

No plans for a change in the act have been announced and there has been little or no controversy over regulations.

In Victoria, there was some conflict after the passing of the act between small businesses and the larger ones which could afford to remain open longer and lobbied in the municipalities for unlimited hours of opening.

That is what Victoria now has—any retail store may set its own opening and closing hors. But the trend set by department stores has been to close at 6 p.m. Monday to Wednesday or Thursday, and stay open until 9 p.m. Thursday and/or Friday.

Most of these stores say that to remain open to 9 p.m. all week is not an economic proposition.

There is no retail store hours legislation in Alberta, except for the Lord's Day Act, and the government is not considering introducing anything more.

Municipalities make their own regulations.

In Edmonton, stores may open not earlier than 8 a.m. and must close at 6 p.m. each week-day, except Thursday, when they may stay open until 9 p.m. They also have to close at 1 p.m. Wednesdays.

The bylaws in suburban municipalities are generally less restrictive.

BYLAW UPSET

In May, 1965, the Alberta Supreme Court ruled that an early-closing bylaw in Calgary was unacceptable on the grounds that it was discriminatory.

"A city has no power to pass discriminatory legislation unless such power appears clearly in the enabling statute," the judgment said.

The early-closing bylaw had applied to all nights except Thursday and Friday. It allowed drgatores to remain open past 6 p.m., but restricted them to the sale of certain goods. It had also allowed community grocery stores with no more than 2,000 square feet of main floor selling space to remain open after 6 p.m.

The bylaw was passed in August, 1964, after some retail groups protested that other merchants, such as drugstore operators, were selling a wide variety of items at night, ranging from television sets to cameras, radios and sports equipment.

In Manitoba, the Shops Regulation Act empowers municipalities to pass bylaws regulating store hours. The only specific limitation is that stores must close Remembrance Day, Nov. 11.

Most of the 71 municipalities in the province stipulate that stores must close between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m. Some allow one evening — usually Friday or Saturday — on which the stores may remain open to 9 p.m. or 10 p.m. Many corner stores do close one week - day each week, usually Monday.

NO WINNIPEG RULE

In Greater Winnipeg and some municipalities surrounding the metropolitan area there are no regulations, and many stores remain open to 9 p.m. three nights a week. Some local merchants now are circulating a petition in an attempt to limit this late night business.

Charles Cook, president of the Winnipeg Retail Merchants Association, says he is in favor of the petition.

"It would get down semblance of order into marketing. It's just sound economics."

Since last year, Saskatchewan has permitted municipalities to make their own bylaws, with the one restriction that late-night shopping can only be permitted Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays Until last year, night shopping was only permitted Saturdays.

In hamlets and rural communities, councils have introduce bylaws, but otherwise stores may stay open 24 hours a day if they wish.

The change for urban centres last year followed a study by the municipal affairs department.

The department's solicitor, P. E. Johnson, says the study indicated that most people favor night shopping, but they would prefer other nights than Saturday as that is a night they want to stay home.

Variations within the one provincial stipulation are up to individual councils.

Regina, for example, has no night shopping and stores are closed all day Monday but Saturday, on the other hand, has night shopping Thursdays and a half-day closing Wednesday. In neither city are suburban hours different.

Though the hours have not prompted any special controversy, chain stores are in favor of night shopping, while smaller merchants are strongly opposed.

In both New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island there is no provincial legislation covering store hours and none is planned.

In New Brunswick, some municipalities have bylaws, but in others, including Saint John, merchants have set their hours by mutual agreement. In both Saint John and neighboring Lancaster stores close at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 9 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays Saturdays they close at 5 p.m.

In Fredericton has no bylaw and none is planned.

But Moncton has a bylaw, passed some years ago at the request of local merchants, under which stores may remain open until 9 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays, but must close at 5 p.m Saturdays.

County councils have no regulations.

In Prince Edward Island store hours are fairly uniform and in each community seem to operate through gentlemen's agreement.

Says John J. Butler, city clerk of Charlottetown: "Nobody as far as I know has ever proposed any legislation to limit the hours the stores may stay open. They sort of agree among themselves. You start stepping on a ot of toes when you propose that kind of legislation."

UP TO MUNICIPALITIES

Existing legislation in Nova Scotia permits each municipality to make its own bylaw governing store hours.

The hours vary from town to town, but generally there is only one late night opening and that is Friday to 10 p.m.

Store hours have been a source of vexation in a number of the province's cities and towns, in particular Halifax, Dartmouth and Sydney.

Again, the dispute has usually been between small merchants in favor of limited hours and large chain stores and shopping centres which favor longer hours of business.

In one case, merchants in Dartmouth put pressure on the city council to pass a bylaw restricting late opening to Monday, Tuesday and Friday days after a chain store was established in the city and stayed open to 10 p.m. every night.

The store has remained open in defiance of the bylaw and the case is still before the courts.

In Sydney, rows over the hours of business for retail stores ended with the city withdrawing all restrictions.

Says City Solicitor Michael Whalley: "Before we repealed the bylaws we did a survey of other places in Canada and found this seemed the best answer. And it was, after a fair ter, it found its own level and now I think everyone is happy."

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The handsome St. Michael's quarterback tucked the ball under an arm, lowered his head to chest level, and zipped through the opposing line for a 54-yard gallop and a touchdown.

He was the driving force of the team and led it to championships. Later he starred with city football squads.

DICK - FITZPATRICK

He was one of the most versatile athletes this city ever produced. By professional standards of today he would not have made the second ranks of his era.

But love of sport and natural ability with desire for perfection as far as possible is unlimited, ranked him with the amateur best of his day.

It is twenty years, or thereabouts since Dick Fitzpatrick's name graced the rosters of hockey, football, softball and baseball teams of this city. And I do not know of a more popular athlete to wear the accoutrements of sport here.

In hockey he wore the goalies' pads, or could play "up front" with equal ability. The famous "Toots Helway" Juniors who hold reunions every year can vouch for that. Dick is a charter member.

His puck-chasing ability drew college scouts attention and Dick was awarded a hockey scholarship at Clarkson College, Potsdam, New York.

His summer loves were softball and baseball. He was highly regarded as a baseball pitcher. He was a member of the well-known Columbian Squires softball team which won an Ontario Junior championship. That was Jack Boyle's club which had such stars as Don Boyle, Vern Goyer, Red Carson and others on its lineup.

He was blessed with good looks, (and still is), with a personal charm of his own. He made friends easily. He was the kind of guy older men would like to have him call "Dad".

Twelve years ago Dick left this city to seek his fortune in the faraway places. The world beckoned opening a wide vista of opportunity. Hotel management held out a strong appeal.

Dick applied himself to the new life with the same spirit and desire to win that characterized his athletic endeavours. It was not easy. He discovered that success does not come to him who waits. He realized the truth of the old adage "Opportunity knocks but once."

Fitzpatrick clutched it by the forelock. Success came slowly but it came surely. Within a few years he was appointed executive in charge of hotel and convention sales at the Miami Beach Hotel, Florida.

Later he was named convention manager, sales representative and national convention manager of the famous Americana Hotel in Miami Beach.

Success carries its own reward. Fitzpatrick's rapid climb in his chosen profession drew the attention of hotel executives in such places as Las Vegas, the gambling oasis in the Nevada "desert".

The result? The announcement that Richard C. Fitzpatrick has been named national sales manager of the famous Las Vegas Strip hotel the Caesars Palace. The announcement was made by Nathan S. Jacobson, president of the 700-room hotel. Dick has already taken over his new duties.

In a personal letter Dick writes "It seems like 40 years since I saw the old gang in Belleville whereas it is only twelve. This hotel is somewhat larger than the Queens, Quinte and Belvedere back home, but I know I am going to like it. Please give my very best regards to all my old friends and sports buddies in Belleville. Who knows, maybe I'll even get back for one of those oldtime hockey games with Toots, Junior Barrett and the gang. I sincerely hope so."

Mud Hens Take Two From Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Short, stubby left-hander for Rochester Red Wings, won 12 baseball games while losing only four last year—but he's wondering what he has to do to come up with his first 1966 victory in the International League.

So far, he's 0-2 after losing a seven-inning heartbreaker 1-0 to Toledo Mud Hens in the Ohio city Tuesday night. Toledo also took the second game—6-3.

In other action, Columbus Jets slammed the visiting Syracuse Chiefs 7-3 while Jacksonville at Toronto and Richmond at Buffalo were postponed because of cold weather.

Sinden Moves Up As Bruins' Coach

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins turned to youth and named 33-year-old Harry Sinden as coach Tuesday in a bid to end seven years of frustration as also-runs in the National Hockey League.

Sinden, who directed the Oklahoma Blazers to the Central Professional League playoff championship, was promoted to the post of the NHL's youngest coach as veteran Milt Schmidt voluntarily left the bench to move into the front office on a full-time basis.

"I have never seen a young man who has got more out of a hockey team," Bruins president Weston Adams said. "No body is more qualified."

Sinden, a Toronto native who lacked ability as a defenceman to play in the NHL, was a member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1960. He became a playing coach in 1962 with Kingston in the old Eastern Pro League.

He led Minneapolis to third place finishes the next two years in the Central League before moving to Oklahoma City, where the inexperienced Blazers finished four points out of first place this year, but won the playoffs.

SHOOTS FOR PLAYOFFS

Admitting that Schmidt, one of hockey's great players, was his idol when he was young Sinden said:

"We have many young players ready to blossom and naturally we'll be shooting for that playoff spot. However, there's a lot of work to be done and I take the job with mild optimism."

Asked what type of team he would like, Sinden smiled and said:

"I'd like to have a team that skates like the Montreal Canadiens, checks like the Detroit Red Wings and is mean like Toronto. Of course, it would help if we came up with a Bobby Hull in the draft."

Schmidt, 48, has been in the Bruins organization for 21 years. He coached the team 10 of the last 11 years.

Schmidt emphasized that the decision to retire from coaching to become assistant general manager under Hap Emms was his alone.

"I'm going to step right in and learn all the organizational work. I consider this a wonderful opportunity — a chance to move up as general manager. After all, Hap is 62 and doesn't want to stay in the job forever."

Sinden will be succeeded at Oklahoma City by Murray Davidson, a 26-year-old defenceman who will be playing coach of the Boston affiliate.

CONGRATULATES SUCCESSOR — Harry Sinden, right, player coach at Oklahoma City the past season, is congratulated by Milt Schmidt after he was named coach of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League in Boston. Sinden, 34, will be the youngest coach in the NHL. Schmidt resigned to devote full time to his duties as Bruins assistant general manager. (AP Wirephoto)

Plan Major Pro Soccer

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans were announced Tuesday for a major professional soccer league involving leading U.S. and Canadian cities and beginning play in the fall of 1967.

Robert B. Hermann of St. Louis, president of the North American Professional Soccer League, told a press conference 11 cities have committed themselves to the league and five others are on the pending list.

The 11 cities:

Atlanta, Chicago, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Diego, San Francisco, Hartford, Conn., and Boston.

The five cities considering league participation but not committed are Vancouver, Toronto, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Miami.

Hermann, a packaging company owner, said the schedule and other details will be worked out later.

Amerks Trounce Barons 7-0

TORONTO (AP) — Rochester Americans have thrown their hat tricks into the ring and need just one more victory to win their second straight Calder Cup.

The Americans, winner of the American Hockey League's Western Division crown, got three goals from Mike Walton at Toronto Tuesday night and trounced Cleveland Barons 7-0 for a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven final.

A Rochester victory Friday night at Cleveland would end the series.

Rochester, down 2-1 in games, had tied the series Sunday when Jim Pappin turned in a hat trick in the Americans' 3-1 victory at Buffalo, N.Y.

Wills Pilfers Three ★★★★★

Dodgers Top Robbers; Steal 6 Bases

★★★★★ Koufax Wins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers appear ready to steal the National League pennant again.

Maury Wills and two Dodger team-mates ran all around Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday as Sandy Koufax pitched a 6-1 victory.

Wills stole three bases, Lou Johnson two and Ron Fairly one.

Koufax pitched a strong six-hitter, striking out 10 and winning his fourth game in five decisions.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago 8-0, Cincinnati Reds swept a doubleheader from Atlanta Braves 8-3, 8-0, San Francisco Giants edged Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 in 13 innings and New York Mets bested Houston Astros 7-4.

The Dodgers had stolen 21 bases in their first 25 games but the six against the Phillies accounted for their biggest one-game haul. It was Wills' second three-steal game and pulled his season's total to 11.

PROVIDE EARLY LEAD

Fairly's two-run double was the big hit for the Dodgers in the first inning as they gave Koufax a 3-0 lead against Chris Short. That was all Sandy needed.

MAURY WILLS

Orlando Cepeda, acquired from the Giants just two days earlier, poled his first homer for St. Louis and three other Cardinal homers made it easy for Bob Gibson, who pitched a six-hitter. Gibson, Mike Shannon and Curt Flood hit the other homers.

Jim Maloney and Milt Pappas pitched the Reds to their sweep over the Braves, who managed just seven hits in the doubleheader.

Maloney, out two weeks with an arm ailment, gave Atlanta a pair of first inning runs in the opening game and then shut them out on one hit until the eighth when Don Nottebart came in to finish up. Pappas hurled a four-hitter in the nightcap.

Pete Rose had three hits and Tony Perez and Leo Cardenas drove in two runs apiece in the second game after the Reds pumped 14 hits including a two-run homer by Deron Johnson to win the opener.

San Francisco won its ninth straight by rushing across a run on a force out in the 13th inning against the Pirates. Two singles and an error loaded the bases and then Tom Haller scooted home with the winning run as Leo Gabrielson beat the relay on an attempted double play bouncer.

Parsons Blank Kingston

Parsons whitewashed Kingston Hungaria 5-0 in Kingston and District Soccer League match, at the Fairgrounds.

The victory evened Belleville's record at one and one.

Parsons next start is also at home against the German Sport Club, next Tuesday, at 8:30 p.m. All home games are at the Fairgrounds.

Despite the cold, action was very fast with the winners scoring two goals in the first half and adding a trio in the second.

Parsons applied early pressure and after 25 minutes, Pete Evendon flashed off a three-way play with Bob Main and Joe Iasenza for the first goal. Bob Main made it 2-0 after Sathey Madeiros' setup, scoring on a hard drive.

Belleville continued to press in the second half and Bob Rutherford made it 3-0 on a penalty shot after a Hungaria penalty shot after a Hungaria goalmouth.

Pete Evendon converted a cross pass from Main with a quick corner shot for the 4-0 score. Hungaria battled back to carry the attack but Bob Rutherford broke down the middle, got free of two guards and fired a strike for the last Parsons goal.

"God Help Oshawa In Next Game"

Kings Get Message

By JOE DUPUIS

TORONTO (CP)—"We've just had a revival meeting," the team manager said.

"We've given our lads the message—God help Oshawa in the next game."

The manager is Bill Hunter and the lads are the Edmonton Oil Kings, tilting with Oshawa Generals for the Memorial Cup and the Canadian junior hockey championship.

The next game be referred to goes tonight at 8 EDT, and so far the Generals—leading the best-of-seven series 3-1 — don't appear in need of heavenly help.

For one thing, after losing the first game 7-2, the Oshawa club stormed back to 7-1 and 6-2 victories; for another, Bobby Orr is reported recovering quickly from his groin injury.

Orr is the sparkling defenceman who usually scores more goals than the Generals.

'CAN KEEP ROLLING'

Even without Orr, says Oshawa coach Sep Goldskin, the Generals can keep rolling on all-around hustle.

"If I hadn't played my rookie kids all year—the guys who usually sit on the bench—we wouldn't be here."

Goldskin has been saving Orr, using him on power plays to give the injury time to heal.

Now, "Bobby is able and ready to play a full game if we feel the need to call on him."

McLeod was replaced by standby goalie Jim Knox for the last two periods of Sunday's game, after fanning on four goals. Edmonton won't decide whether he'll play until just before game time.

"I know I've been lousy," McLeod said Tuesday. "But some of our players haven't been using their heads either."

ACCEPT THE CRITICISM

Al Hamilton and Bob Falkenberg, key defencemen for Oil Kings, said the players accept the criticism.

"We talked about it and our morale is real good now," Hamilton said.

Falkenberg explained his team's problems this way:

("We were really fired-up for that first game and, of course, Oshawa didn't do anything."

Over-confidence set in and from there it was all downhill.

Now, says Hamilton, Oil Kings can win the series only if they can stop the Generals' top line of centre Danny O'Shea and wingers Wayne Cashman and Chris Hayes. This line has scored three-fifths of Oshawa's 13 goals.

"If we can stop them, Oshawa's dead," Hamilton said.

Fifth game is set for Saturday night.

Wanted, Coaches For Minor Softball

The Belleville Minor Softball Association has a serious problem.

Their minor softball schedules are slated to open this coming Monday, May 16.

But it's pretty tough for a team of 10 or 11 year-old players to operate without adult assistance.

Coaches are the problem and the B.M.S.A. is asking for your help. They're a number of coaches now but more are necessary.

Seven coaches are needed for the young teams. Two peewee coaches, one squirt (East Hill), two tyke (East Hill), and two tyke (West Hill) are needed as quickly as possible.

Anyone interested is asked to contact either the Recreation Centre, Keith MacDonald of the B.M.S.A. or any other of the minor softball officials in the city.

Seventy Named For Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Seventy horses have been nominated for the 107th running of the Queen's Plate at Woodbine racetrack Saturday, June 25.

Hopeful owners on May 1 paid $100 each—a total of $7,000—to keep their three-year-olds eligible for the Plate, North America's oldest continuously - run horse race.

Last year Whistling Sea, owned by Paul Olivier of Calgary, won the Plate and gave Western Canada its first Queen's Plate victory.

OPERATE ON CATCHER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles announced Tuesday that catcher Charley Lau will undergo surgery on his ailing right elbow and that pitcher Steve Barber will miss his next starting turn because of a sore shoulder.

Victoria Western Champions

PORTLAND (AP) — John Henderson made 40 saves and Victoria's front line accounted for four goals as the Maple Leafs overwhelmed Portland Buckaroos 5-1 Tuesday night to win the Lester Patrick Cup.

Victoria took the best-of-seven Western Hockey League final four games to three.

It was a reversal of last year's cup playoff, in which Portland won the final game in Victoria

Henderson suffered a leg injury with about two minutes left, but stayed in the game and got a standing ovation from the crowd of more than 10,000.

Dick Lamoureux, Larry Keenan and Mike Labadie formed a front line that mowed down the Portland defence. Together they counted for seven assists and four goals.

Keenan, who had not scored in 12 playoffs, and Labadie each got two goals.

Art Jones counted for Portland in the second period.

Milan Marcetta added the final Victoria goal.

PUTTING GREEN'S TEXTURE DETERMINES AMOUNT OF 'BREAK'

A factor that many golfers overlook, when trying to determine the line a putt will take, is the texture of the grass. Those golfers, who know that the texture affects the distance a putt will roll, fail to realize that it is also the texture which determines how much the putt will break.

As shown in the illustration, a putt will hold its line much better on a thick, "heavy" putting surface. When the grass is cut extremely short, you can count on the ball breaking when there is sidehill terrain.

The variety of the grass in question also affects the amount a putt will break to the side. Generally speaking you can expect putts to take more break if the blades of grass are thin, and less break if they are thicker.

Eight Hits In Ten

Senators' Valentine One-Man Attack

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"I was varnishing the window seat."

League games ended 3-2, Baltimore Orioles edging Chicago White Sox in 12 innings, Kansas City Athletics trimming Boston Red Sox in 10 and Detroit Tigers cupping Cleveland Indians in nine. Ralph Terry whacked out New York at Minnesota.

Valentine's lusty performance provided more than enough support for Pete Richert, who stopped the Angels on three hits.

Valentine tripled and scored in the first inning and triggered a two-run eighth with a double.

Brooks Robinson singled in the 12th inning and scored Baltimore's winning run as Ross Snyder grounded into a force out. J. C. Martin's passed ball put Robinson at third. Another Robinson, Chicago's Floyd, ignited a two-run rally in the seventh that tied the game 2-2.

Bill Freehan singled in the Detroit ninth and raced home on Willie Horton's pinch - hit double. Mickey Lolich limited Cleveland to three hits before departing for Horton.

Kansas City won in the 10th inning when Ozzie Chavarria reached first on Mike Ryan's passed ball on the third strike, stole second and scampered all the way home as Hank Camperis beat out a hit to third.

Valentine leaded four hits for the second straight game Tuesday night, spraying Washington Senators to a 4-1 victory over California Angels.

Rapping eight hits in his last 20 times at bat, Valentine has raised his average 71 points, from .229 to .300. He battered Angel pitching for three singles and a homer Monday night, then came back Tuesday night with a single, two doubles and a triple.

In the last three weeks of March, during spring training, Valentine was hit by baseballs five times. And he collided with a catcher and a wall on separate occasions.

"It's better those things have happened now than in the season," Valentine philosophized at the time.

Lead Cup Series 2-1

Beavers Shade Miners 2-1

CALGARY (CP) — A goaltender earned praise, a dispute over officiating appeared to cool, and Sherbrooke Beavers took a 2-1 lead Tuesday night in the best-of-seven Allan Cup senior hockey finals.

The praise was for Beavers' Serge Aubry who made 34 saves in helping the defending champions stop the Miners 2-1 before 5,500 fans at Calgary Corral.

The Miners won the opener 6-3 May 5 and the Beavers came back 3-1 May 7. Fourth game is Thursday night.

Sherbrooke playing - coach Georges Roy said Aubry "played a great game."

Coach Roy Kelly of Drumheller conceded Aubry was "hot" but doubted the goaltender could remain consistent for seven games. "We'll be back and we'll get our chances."

SCORES WINNING GOAL

The Beavers took the win on the strength of a goal by forward Jim Beckman in the second period.

Gilles Cartier of Sherbrooke opened scoring in the first period with his third goal of the series. Owen Malloy replied for the Miners 40 seconds later.

The teams fought through a scoreless third period, with Aubry stopping several good drives. Miners' goaltender Al Rollins handled 32 shots in the game.

Roy dropped his threats to withdraw from the series unless game officials Jules Swick of Saskatoon and Johnny Kotzma of Torfton, Sask., were changed. He had complained they ignored rough play by the Miners in the second game.

"Sure, they handled the (third) game good. Everybody knew they were going to be strict and the guys were careful. Swick did a good job. He kept his eyes open," Roy said in the dressing room.

Lost $70,000

TV No Gold Mine For Hawks

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League lost $70,000 on color telecasts of the Stanley Cup games, Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Tuesday night.

The color telecasting was "not a new-found gold mine" to the league, he said, "and it won't be for a long, long time."

Campbell, in a telephone interview with The Canadian Press, said Detroit Red Wings made money on the $50,000 that the National Broadcasting Co. paid for each game. Montreal Canadiens had to split the television take with the five other clubs in the league because the game televised to the United States from Montreal was for export "and belonged to the American teams."

All of the NBC-owned-stations and some 60 per cent of NBC affiliates carried the four playoff games. Two were from Chicago, one from Detroit and the other from Montreal.

"It was an excellent pioneering effort and worth every cent of it," Mr. Campbell said in defending the loss in dollars to Chicago.

"The exposure we received was tremendous, especially in the new franchise areas," he said. The NHL will expand from the current six teams to a 12-team two-division league in the 1967-68 season.

TRENTON (STAFF) — Six teams are listed as definite starters in the Trenton Softball League. At a meeting at the fire hall last night, the four spots left open for more entries with the deadline set for May 21. Tentative date for league opener is May 30.

Glen Miller, Dunbar Newspride, Frazer Seats, Belleville Quints' Machine Juniors, Rushnell's Red Sox and RCAF are the six teams so far. A Tyrrell Jr. team is listed as a "possible". A team representing the RCAF Corporals' Club had been expected to enter the league but president Jim Wallace said last night he had been informed the Corporals would not be in.

The Trenton Umpires' Association is holding a clinic at the air station's recreation centre, Thursday, Wednesday and Friday nights next week. All the umpires will be attending and coaches, managers and players are also welcome to take part. Starting time each night is 7 o'clock. In charge of the clinic are association president Joe St. Pierre, Jack Mainloff, Bill Jensen and John Roy. All four attended an OASA clinic at Camp Borden, last week.

Sydney Chaplin Delighted To Work With His Father

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—There is no other Chaplin on the set of The Countess from Hong Kong and his name is Sydney.

He looks like some of the late comedian who was subjected to living in the shadow of his brooding, the great Charlie Chaplin. But young Sydney, unlike his uncle, has been able to hold and retain his own career.

During the final days of The Countess from Hong Kong, Charlie Chaplin was directing his son and Sophia Loren in a beach scene.

"Keep it warm, charming," the director instructed Miss Loren, who wore a pout and a skimpy sarong. She was evidently of the strains of a long and difficult film with a dictatorial director. But, brogue that she is, she kept the scene warm and charming.

Afterwards, the Italian star retired to her dressing room while the elder Chaplin stopped down for lunch to greet Jules Stein and his wife. Stein is the board chairman of MCA, which is sponsoring the film.

Sydney Chaplin came over for a chat. Like most of the Chaplin brood, he has dual heritage in time (42 years). Unlike his father, he is a strapping fellow, deep-voiced and muscular.

"What is it like to work with my father?" he mused. "Immensely stimulating. He can be tough, but of course, how can you argue with him? He is always right."

Sydney, like his brother Charles Jr., was the son of Lita Grey Chaplin, the two boys have eight half-brothers and half-sisters from the comedian's marriage to Oona O'Neill. Although his parents separated early in his life, Sydney indicated he has always been close to father.

"I've always been able to go to him for advice on matters concerning my career," said Sydney, "and he has always been of great help. But he never urged me to be an actor. He never tells his children what to do. He lets us decide for ourselves."

Sydney made his film debut under his father's direction in Limelight, (1952), Charlie's last film in Hollywood.

"I've made a few movies, mostly flops like Land of the Pharaoh," he said. "I've been living good most of the time in Broadway apartments.

"I was two years in The Bells are Ringing (with Judy Holliday). I was a year in Funny Girl — a miserable role (as Barbra Streisand's husband). Even Subways are for Sleeping lasted eight months."

Private investors shows he has found time to open a Paris restaurant which is favored by the American business set and named it "Loupy food, but the company is great," said Sydney.

Says Aces Will Stay In League

QUEBEC (CP)—Gerald Martineau, president of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, said Tuesday his club will continue to be part of the AHL next year.

The announcement ended several days of rumors that the Quebec franchise would be sold to American interests after the Aces were eliminated in the Calder Cup semi-finals by Rochester Americans.

"The Quebec Aces will continue to operate in Quebec," Martineau said, adding that he had no comments to make about Bernard Geoffrion's resignation as coach of the club.

Martineau said he has "two or three candidates in mind" to succeed Geoffrion, including Phil Watson, a former National Hockey League coach.

Law Says Play In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Each National League baseball team is being served with legal papers binding them to play their 1960 road games against Atlanta Braves in Atlanta.

Teams previously served papers are Pittsburgh Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies, Houston Astros and New York Mets.

Calm and Balanced Survey Given on Flying Objects

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Earth is not being visited or invaded by creatures from other planets. At least that was the consensus of the experts on Tuesday night's CBS Reports, a calm and balanced survey of unidentified flying objects.

The program, UFO: Friend, Foe or Fantasy, gave a hearing to widely assorted views.

There was a Michigan farmer who found a space saw the outline of something like a space ship that glowed red and later had blue and white lights on either side. It subsequently was seen by members of his family, neighbors and a policeman. The farmer obviously was not satisfied with the official explanation: Marsh gas.

There was a former U.S. marines officer, Donald Keyhoe, who is convinced that "we are being observed" by representatives of a highly superior civilization arriving in interplanetary space ships.

There was a woman who claims she was taken on a visit to Venus.

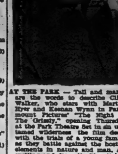
LEANS TO SCIENTISTS

But the program gave the greatest weight to scientists and military observers whose radar, space-tracking equipment and special cameras are designed to sweep the skies and probe deep into space. They reported that they had found absolutely no evidence of extra - terrestrial visitors.

None of the scientists, however, was prepared to say that there was no life on other planets and none was willing to state that there was no possibility of space visitors. They said it just was not probable.

One of the most interesting film demonstrations consisted of motion pictures taken by a British couple on their first plane trip. They filmed a black, sausage - shaped object over their plane window which suddenly seemed to wheel and disappear. It looked like a space ship. Subsequently a professional cameraman made the same trip under similar circumstances and filmed the same thing—identified as a reflection of part of the plane in which he was riding.

There are, reported the head of the Dearborn, Mich., observatory, about 500 out of 10,000 reported sightings of UFOs that have not been explained. The others, scientists say, are natural phenomena, clouds, birds, balloons, "sundogs" — reflections from ice crystals—and allowing up to a variety of illusions, mirages and often, a bit of self-delusion.



Even so, narrator Walter Cronkite observed cautiously, we are on the threshold of interplanetary exploration ourselves and suggested that it was best to keep an open mind on the subject.

'Wearproof' Engine Does Not Exist

By EUGENE B. MILSON

Ever hear of a 'wearproof' engine? Some car owners seem to think all of them are, judging by the quick brush-off usually given to the lube system and its needs. Meanwhile, engine rebuilders keep busier than ever.

Good lubrication is not just a matter of selecting a good quality oil in the right grade, and adding a quart when it's needed. Several other factors are involved.

Oil pressure has to be adequate, the crankcase ventilating (or breathing) system must be kept clear, and you just can't cheat on oil and filter change schedules.

Oil changes are especially important in colder weather. That is when more raw gas and more water find their way into the crankcase to dilute the oil.

Engine lube is also affected by the way the engine is used. If you don't drive enough to really heat up the engine to a good operating temperature, it can't burn off the harmful combustion by-products that contaminate oil.

That's why a weekly run on the open road is a healthy practice for the car primarily used as a store, school, or station bus.

C. McC. asks: "What would cause our electric windshield washer to spurt and squirt sticky?"

Nozzles may be bent or clogged, hosing could be kinked or restricted, motor or pump operation might be faulty.

From S. K.: "My engine clatters when first started in the morning. All the dealer tells me is that this is normal with hydraulic valve lifters. Is that right?"

More or less. When the engine is off, oil may drain from the lifters and then be noisy, after the engine is restarted, until they refill.

I. M. writes: "If the brake lining on one front wheel is a different type than on the other wheel, won't this cause the car to pull to one side?"

Yes. And it can also happen if one lining is newer than the other.

From L.B.: "When my engine gets hot, there's a buzzing noise from the radiator. My brother says it's just the water boiling under pressure.

That's a close guess. But the buzz is probably vibration of the radiator cap valve as it permits excessive pressure to be released.

Found Nothing Wrong With Car's Steering

MILTON, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto consulting engineer told an inquest Tuesday into the death of Mary Hayward, 35, of Burlington, Ont., that he could find nothing wrong with the steering or any other parts of the front end of her 1964 Corvair automobile.

John Hastings, hired by the Crown to investigate the mechanical fitness of the car, said he tested the parts at the General Motors' laboratories at Detroit.

Mrs. Hayward died Feb. 12 of a blood clot in her lungs, eight days after her car collided with another on a four-lane section, seven miles northeast of Hamilton. She was on her way to Milton to have the steering checked after expressing dissatisfaction with wheel-alignment changes the week before.

Dr. John Turvey of Milton testified the first words the woman spoke to him as he treated her in the wrecked car were: "Something must have happened to me last week when I said the steering was wrong."

Mrs. Hayward's husband, William, testified that his wife repeatedly complained about the car's steering, although he was unable to find much to complain about.

"You would drive for miles and nothing would happen, then all of a sudden it would want to go someplace," Mr. Hayward testified.

Question Was Not Resolved

PICTON (Staff) — How many conventions should a County Councillor be entitled to in a year?

The question was never officially resolved at County Council meeting this week. Deputy-Reeve Donald Thompson of Picton moved that all members except the Warden be limited to attending one convention a year unless they pay for any others.

The motion was defeated 5-3 with three abstentions.

CONSIDERS ACTION

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is considering what action can be taken this year to introduce legislation curbing handsome, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday.

County Would Have to Bear Part of Cost

PICTON (STAFF) — Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, told Mayor H. J. McFarland during a recent meeting that flashing warning signals could be installed at the Johnson Street crossing if the county paid part of the cost.

Reeve Bernard Hepburn told County Council that Mr. Gordon said CNR representatives will be in the county soon to review the problem.

Deputy - Reeve Vincent of Hallowell said that when the officials come, his township would like to see them.

This was a reference to the fatality last fall at the crossing outside the Hallowell Township Garage.

Still on the subject of safety, Warden Hepburn said his township feels there is a safety hazard at the County Road 19 entrance to the new Ameliasburg Central School, Keele.

Council passed a motion to authorize the immediate action be taken by the County Engineer to investigate the traffic safety conditions near the school, and the cost of putting the road in a safe condition, and report back to the next meeting.

Computer Will Be Used by Several Boards

PICTON — The Picton Separate School Board and 10 other Separate School Boards have formed the Tri-County Standardized Testing Association. This Association allows the individual boards to rent at economical rates the facilities of a computer based in Chicago.

Effective September, 1966, the schools of these boards will have complete standardized testing programs to measure achievement and abilities. The machine scoring and computer analysis will save thousands of hours of teacher-time and enable the teachers to concentrate more on the individual aspect of remedial instruction.

The computer makes possible growth analysis and the establishment of local norms. Bitrich, with a specialized personnel in statistics, this was not possible.

Once the program has been in operation for a few years the teachers and parents will have more objective data with which to give academic and career guidance. It is believed that the Tri-County Standardized Testing Association is the first organization in Ontario elementary schools to use the computer as an educational instrument.

Will Cost $54,000 to Extend Sewers

PICTON (Staff) — The County Home and Welfare Committee has been advised that it would cost an estimated $54,000 to extend Picton sewers to the County Home on Main Street. The estimate was made after surveys by J. D. Lee of Kingston, consulting engineers.

But the Homes for the Aged Branch of the Ontario Department of Health has not yet informed the county whether it can go ahead with the proposed extension, County Council was told this week.

Committee chairman Donald Bond said that in the event approval was forthcoming, the department would pay 30% of the cost.

Noble Drew, a department representative who met with the committee earlier this year, indicated that the department might prefer a new home for the aged, but if not the extension was considered too high.

The county decided to seek the sewer extension, and the town of Picton agreed, after it became evident that its home's septic tank had become inadequate.

Mr. Bond said that "probably for the first time in several years, the home is now packed to capacity. I don't think we have any more room at the present time.

The Milford and District 4-H Calf Club will hold a meeting at the South Marysburg Central School on Thursday, May 19th. Feeds and Feeding of Dairy Cattle will be the topic for discussion.

The 4-H Corn and Barley Clubs will hold their meeting on Monday, May 30th, in the Board Room of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Picton. The club leaders will lead a discussion on cultural practices and weed control.

Accused Expressed Deep Concern Over Mental Health of His Wife

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—William Dalton Barber, 35, on trial for capital murder in the June 3 death of his wife, Marjorie, 32, expressed deep concern for her mental and physical health hours before her death, a witness testified Tuesday.

Lawrence Brown, administrative assistant to the president of Algoma Steel Corp., said Barber, an assistant to the vice-president, operations, came to his office about 4 p.m. Dec. 2 and said he feared his wife was a maniac depressive.

Mrs. Barber was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in the bedroom of their $45,500 home here in the early morning of Dec. 3.

Mr. Brown testified that Barber told him his wife often rushed out of the house in the evenings to go for a drive. Her attitude toward her husband changed completely between the time he left for work in the morning and the time he returned in the evening.

Barber said his wife had become abusive and vicious in front of other people and friends were no longer inviting her to their homes, Mr. Brown said.

HAD BEEN DEPRESSED

Barber told Mr. Brown that he had talked with his wife's sister and learned there was a history of depression. When she had been young the sister said she only way to get her out of these depressions was to strike her.

"Dalton told me this was something he could never do," Mr. Brown said. He said the last time he had seen Mrs. Barber was that last Aug. 30 and that time she was in good health and perfectly all right mentally.

Mr. Brown said that when the two parted, Barber "reassured me he would not strike his wife."

When Mrs. Barber was found dead, Barber lay unconscious across her feet. The two were discovered by a doctor responding to a telphone call from Barber.

John B. Barber, brother of the accused and a vice-president of Algoma Steel, said he was present when police interviewed his brother at hospital Dec. 6. Mr. Barber said he interjected during the questioning that it was impossible or possible for Dalton to have carried his wife into their house when he found her unconscious in their car as he said he did.

"I felt that Dalton was in a confused state when he gave police this statement and was reaching for things — drawing more on his imagination — and this was not characteristic of him at all."

Special Crown Counsel G. J. Caldbick of Thamins asked the witness what he did at the Barber home early Dec. 3 when he found the 2-ft-6-in carbon monoxide midnight.

Mr. Barber said he checked the house and grounds with police officers and discovered the motor of the car in the attached garage was cold, while the motor of the other Barber car in the driveway was warm.

Mr. Barber described his brother as a quiet, passive, well-read person who had done some brilliant studies at the company about five years ago.

Want Teaching Of Bible in Schools Upheld

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The commission on religious education in schools will be asked by the Ontario Council of Women to "reject any proposal to discontinue the teaching of the Bible in the schools of the province."

A presentation to the commission, appointed by the minister of education, was introduced on Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Council of Women which represents more than 100,000 Ontario women.

The submission suggests that not withstanding its critics where overzealous teachers have violated regulations, "there is reason to believe the majority of the people of Ontario would favor the retention of religious education in the schools."

Don recommendation approved by the council to be presented to the commission says the teaching of religious courses should be given by qualified persons and the courses should adhere strictly to regulations of the education department.

John Fisher, commissioner of the centennial commission, said in a speech at a banquet that "the practical female approach when harnessed to the centennial will make it a success."

He said women can play an important role in the celebration of the centennial. In this way, Mr. Fisher said, Canada's centennial will "not be only a government program but may be an act of faith and participation from all Canadians."

Better Relations Between China, West Needed

--Pearson

By RON LEBEL

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson called Wednesday for improved communication between the West and Communist China to avert a Chinese miscalculation in Viet Nam that could mean all-out war.

In a major address and in a press conference, he expressed concern that China threatens world peace because it is isolated and developing the hydrogen bomb.

He stopped short of advocating United Nations membership and diplomatic recognition for China, but edged closer than ever to it.

Addressing 600 Columbia University benefactors at a formal dinner, Pearson said he asks himself whether it would not help the West to understand China if Peking became involved in the international community and the UN.

KNOWS PROBLEMS

He knew the difficulties, especially the difficulties that the Peking regime itself has created in laying down terms that others cannot accept."

This was an apparent reference to Chinese Communist insistence that Nationalist China must be expelled from the UN.

"But the whole question remains urgent: we simply must continue to shelve it very much longer."

Pearson said the U.S. and the West have a responsibility to end China's isolation, which "could be as dangerous as the racial and cultural hostility."

NEED COMMUNICATION

Diplomatic agreements required "meaningful contact and communication" to allow both sides to analyze correctly each other's motives, fears and aspirations.

Chinese leaders seemed to fear that U.S. forces would remain in South Viet Nam and also in Thailand, contrary to regions of Chinas, regardless of assurances or negotiations.

"Such a fear . . . may be a merely tactical move to strengthen their own position with the Chinese people—fear is a great cement—or it may be based on a genuine but dangerous miscalculation that could mean all-out war."

Pearson expressed the hope Chinese leaders will soften their "fanatical" ideology under external and internal pressures, as Russia has done in Eastern Europe had in the last 10 or 15 years.

Earlier the Chinese threat dominated the prime minister's 45-minute talk with University-General U Thant and a subsequent press conference at UN headquarters.

He told reporters international action is needed to control the use of nuclear plants, by 1970, at least 16 small and middle powers would have nuclear power plants in operation which could easily be used to produce nuclear bombs.

China's third nuclear test Monday proved she was "get-

Haiphong Missile Base Hit

By JONATHAN FENBY

SAIGON (Reuters) — U.S. fighter - bombers Wednesday made their closest raid ever to the major North Vietnamese port of Haiphong, as two flights of navy planes hit a surface-to-air missile site, a U.S. military spokesman said here today.

The closest previous attack to Haiphong was 12 miles.

Three missiles were fired from the site before American bombs struck. None of the planes was hit. But near the North Vietnamese town of Doing Hoi an F-105 Thunderchief was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and its pilot was reported missing. By U.S. count, it was the 208th U.S. plane lost in raids on North Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, official figures released today showed American deaths in Viet Nam totalled 82 last week and exceeded South Vietnamese fatalities for the second time.

South Vietnam reported, 61 troops killed and 22 missing in action.

The Viet Cong left 456 bodies on the battlefields in the same period. Another 131 guerrillas were captured.

About 80 miles northeast of Saigon, U.S. paratroops attacked an estimated 200 to 250 Viet Cong.

Paratroops found 14 dead insurgents.

U.S. marines launched two new operations in the northern part of South Viet Nam, supported by massive artillery and air barrages.

Twenty helicopters airlifted a large marine force 18 miles west of the coastal city of Quang Ngai the marines to begin an intricate Viet Cong tunnel network.

A spokesman said 47 guerrillas had been killed and 15 captured so far while American losses were light.

Near the old imperial capital of Hue, marine units were in their sixth day of operation Wayne and reported five Viet Cong killed.

U.S. Moon Vehicle Is Tested

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)— The surveyor vehicle for unmanned, soft moon landings has made its first descent while out the aid of parachutes, clearing the way for its first lunar mission May 30.

The spacecraft landed successfully Wednesday at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamogordo after a 36-second descent which began with Surveyor's release from a balloon at an altitude of almost 1,000 feet. Tests had been under way at Holloman for more than a year but previously parachutes had been used to assist Surveyor in part of the descent.

The National Aeronautics and Space administration will not commit men to moon journeys until more is learned about the lunar surface. Surveyor would send back this data.

History's first soft landing on the moon was made Feb. 3 by Russia's Luna IX. NASA officials have conceded that Luna IX gave Russia a lead in the unmanned phase of the moon race but not necessarily the overall edge.

Because of the complexity of the mission, seven identical Surveyors are being built in hopes that at least one will succeed before the end of 1967.

Rehabilitation Is Proposed By Voluntary Imprisonment

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A California psychiatrist wednesday suggested a national system of "voluntary imprisonment" to improve rehabilitation of criminal offenders.

It would work much like the present system employed in mental hospitals, whereby patients may seek "voluntary admission", as distinguished from involuntary commitment, said Dr. Lewis Barr of the University of California at Los Angeles.

He told the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association:

"Let us assume, for example, that a man is caught re-headed in the performance of a criminal act and conviction is a foregone conclusion.

"Instead of forcing him through a trial, he could plead guilty and request a rehabilitative imprisonment for a minimum period of time, arbitrarily six months.

"At the end of this time," Barr said, "his case would be reviewed by a board of experts and, if he seemed rehabilitated, he be referred back to the court for appropriate disposition — discharge, probation, or additional sentencing.

"If he was not considered rehabilitated, he would have the course to volunteer for an additional six months, or to request leaving the voluntary program and asking for a specific sentence by the judge—the final decision would always rest with the judge."

The psychiatrist said such "voluntary prisoners might also be allowed to retain their civil rights as a further stimulus to join the program.

Quebec Report Urges End Of Divided School Control

QUEBEC (CP) — Increased flexibility in the collaboration between schools and the church and a uniform rate of real estate taxation for educational purposes were among the major recommendations in the final part of the report of the Parent royal commission on education in Quebec released here Wednesday.

The recommendations were included in two volumes which are actually the fourth and fifth volumes of the whole report. The first volume released Wednesday dealt with denominational and non - denominational school affairs and the second with education financing.

The first volume of the report was made public in 1963 and the second and third volumes in 1964. The commission, set up in 1961, was headed by Msgr. Alphonse Marie Parent. The final two volumes contained 530 pages.

Volume four contains 74 recommendations. The commission recommended that the present Roman Catholic and Protestant committees be eliminated in favor of a united neutral body.

It also recommended that parents and the government have increased control over school boards.

The neutral bodies, would, if adopted, have all schools—Catholic, Protestant and non - denomination—under their jurisdiction.

Under the new system, local school organizations would be reorganized and special education service for Indians would be created.

Volume five recommended a uniform rate of real estate taxation for education purposes which would allow all to pay according to their ability. The commission's report said state grants to local authorities should be generally fixed in inverse ratio to the financial assets of each, keeping in mind the educational facilities each must furnish.

"Raising the quality of educational service in a number of areas throughout the province in such a way as to ensure everywhere an adequate level of instruction must obviously be accomplished without increasing the tax burden of those who are least able to afford it," the report said.

The report recommended that all real estate taxable for school financing should be taxed at 100 per cent of its real value and that a provincial office be set up to supervise the standardization of the evaluation.

After that, the report said "... a general school tax rate on landed property applicable by all school municipalities in the province should be fixed by the provincial authorities."

70,000 People Without Homes After Quakes

MOSCOW (Reuters) — About 17,700 dwellings in cities were made homeless by recent earthquakes in the central Asian city of Tashkent, Pravda said today.

Most of the homeless, who could number about 70,000, lost their dwellings in the first big shock April 26, which killed seven persons, Mosc o w s a i d crumbled when new tremors shook the city two days ago.

The Communist party newspaper said about 12,000 families were living in temporary tent villages, nearly 2,300 had moved into new apartments, 1,100 were housed in public buildings and nearly 1,400 had moved in with other families.

CBRT of Non-Ops Plans Strike Vote

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Charging "inexcusable delays in conciliation procedures," the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers has called a strike vote among its 23,000 non-operating railway members.

A joint statement Wednesday by President W. J. Smith and J. A. Pelletier, secretary of the union's joint protective board, said members will be asked to empower CBRT negotiators to call a walkout whenever they feel it necessary.

Mr. Smith said in an interview the CBRT has been waiting for two months for Labor Minister Nicholson to appoint a chairman for a federal conciliation board that will study the union's wage dispute with the railways.

Contract demands, featuring a 90-cent hourly wage increase, were served on the railways six months ago.

MEMBERS RESTLESS

"Our members are becoming understandably restless and impatient with this long delay," Mr. Smith said. "Their patience won't last much longer."

He added that it might be difficult to hold the membership back from strike action once the vote is completed. The vote will be mailed Monday and will take until mid-June to count.

Most of the CBRT's members are CNR workers. Others are employed by the Ontario Northland and Northern Alberta Railways and at Jobt. CNR-CPR terminals.

The CBRT is one of three non-operating railway union groups now awaiting conciliation board procedures.

Boards for the other two groups have already been established under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice Craig Munroe of Vancouver who will open hearings in Montreal later this month.

DECLINED INVITATION

The CBRT, however, refused to join in an invitation to Mr. Justice Munroe to lead its conciliation board. The judge announced the chairmen he would not consider appointment to that board in light of the union's decision.

Mr. Smith said the move to call for a strike vote was taken at a meeting here of the CBRT's 15 - member joint protective board, made up mostly of the general chairmen from across Canada.

Chief complaint of the CBRT and the other non-op unions is that wage increases negotiated two years ago fell far behind the general advance of the economy.

During negotiations with the CNR earlier this year considerable progress was made on non-monetary items. However, the talks ended in deadlock over wage increases, shift differentials, job security, vacations and health and welfare benefits.

Say Weekend To Be Warmer

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario started another May-time cold spell today but an optimistic weatherman says it won't last through the weekend.

Showers that at times developed into wet snow spread across southern Ontario, but Friday is expected to be clear and sunny with temperatures a few degrees higher.

Secrecy Covers Brezhnev Visit To Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (Reuters)—Official secrecy still surrounded the visit to Bucharest of Russian Communist Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev today, but diplomatic observers said a speech during the weekend by his Romanian counterpart might have promoted his dash from Moscow.

Diplomatic observers believed the speech by Romanian Party Chief Nicolae Caosescu, which described military blocs as an anachronism, may have caused the Soviet leadership to seek clarification of Romania's policy line.

The speech also criticized the Comintern—the Russian-led international Communist organization of the Stalin era—and appeared to criticize the Soviet Union over Bessarabia, which was ceded by Romania in 1940 and incorporated in the Moldavian Soviet Socialist Republic.

Hamilton Praised For Idea

By JOHN McLEAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government is fast finding out what it feels like to be praised for passing out cigars and then be told you're not the father.

The cigars in this case involve a $20,000,000 idea the government is establishing to fight rural poverty, a move generally applauded by all parties.

And the father—in the minds of opposition speakers in the Commons—is the former Conservative government in general and former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton in particular.

The phrase that kept cropping up Wednesday as the Commons got into its second day of debate on second reading of the fund bill was ARDA — the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act, introduced by the Conservatives in 1961.

OFFER BIG SUPPORT

Here's how several MPs worded their support for what the government has formally called the establishment of a fund for the economic and social development of special rural development areas.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West): "... Another batch of the foundations laid by the former government and particularly by the hon. Member for Qu'Appelle."

Peter Noble (PC — Grey North): "Action in this field is the brainchild of a man of vision in the Conservative government. . . ."

Hugh John Flemming (PC—Victoria-Carleton): "I think it is proper to pay some tribute to the Hon. Member for Qu'Appelle in relation to this whole idea. . . ."

But one member, Jack Horner (PC—Acadia) saw a socialistic threat in the new legislation.

He said members of political parties have been travelling across this country for years telling farmers we must maintain the family farm, yet we find ourselves faced with a bill which would establish what might be termed state farms."

What bothered Mr. Horner was the idea of the government buying up uneconomic farm units and turning them into a type of collective farm to be run by government agencies.

SAYS NO COMPARISON

He hoped the farms would be sold back-enlarged and improved on to farmers, where could be no comparison between privately - owned farms in Canada and state-operated ones in Russia.

Annual Pay for Auto Workers, Same in Canada as U.S., Goal

DETROIT (AP) — President Walter P. Reuther will give his 1,483,000 united auto workers the go signal next week to begin drum beating for two union goals in 1967 contract bargaining.

1. Annual salaries, instead of hourly wages, for production workers.

2. Equal pay in Canadian and U.S. auto plants.

Mooy money, whether in salaries or wages, will be a priority target, too.

"The troops are restive, and we can't refuse to divert as much from the pay envelope to pension and fringes as we did in 1964," said a UAW executive board member.

Since the writing of current three - year contracts, making retirement at age 65 on $400 a month a possibility, the auto industry has experienced two back-to-back years of record sales and profits with the big three — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler leading the way.

The UAW figures that dividends of General Motors stockholders ($3.05 a share) were up 18.1 per cent last year on a profit increase to $2,100,000,000, which the union calculates was 22.5 per cent greater than that in 1964.

"So," the executive board member said, "the boys in the shops don't want anybody—and that includes L.BJ.—talking to them about limiting their gains to only 3.2 per cent next time around."

At the four-day union convention beginning next Tuesday in Long Beach, Calif., there'll be a lot of sound and fury to set the stage for rousing the membership next year.

But actual contract goal-setting will come at a special pre-bargaining convention next year, probably in Detroit.

The 36-year-old Reuther and his two vice-presidents, Leonard Woodcock and Gil Greathouse, appear certain of re-election. So does secretary-treasurer Emil Mazey and the remainder of the executive board.

A long-time squabbler with international headquarters, 38-year-old Calvin R. Conway of Flint, Mich., has announced he will oppose Reuther. No one, including officers of his Chevrolet local 659, gives him the slightest chance.

Site Selected at Napanee For New Regional Jail

Planning Group Told Action Needed Here

Speaking at a May 3 meeting of the Belleville branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada at the Quinte Hotel, Graham Emslie, director of urban renewal for the City of Hamilton made several observations on Belleville.

He said there was a need for immediate action concerning urban renewal in the city where "You cannot tell if you are in the back lane or in front of the houses."

He said an effective, updated official plan and building by-laws are needed, also public housing programs to clear away "the blight" is necessary and of prime importance is the beautification and development of the Moira River.

In a question and answer period, Mr. Emslie explained the assistance available in the city's rehabilitation Federal and Provincial Governments for studio, residential, as well as for land acquisition and construction programs. He said it was the usual thing for the Federal Government to pay 50% while the Provincial Government and the municipality each pays 25%.

E. Toogo, executive director of the Ontario Association of the Community Planning Association explained the cost to downtown merchants for the New-ish Plan of Redevelopment as carried out by merchants in Niagara Falls, that the increase in cost at approximately $4 per foot frontage for redecorating store fronts. An increase of 22% in business has been noted in some areas where the plan has been used.

City Anglicans Will Hear Special Speaker

An important figure in Anglican World Missionary circles, in the person of the Revered Paul F. Chidwick will be in Belleville on Sunday. He is the Warden of Trinity College, Nairobi, Kenya, to which College the contributions to the A.W.L. from the Diocese of Ontario are directed. Born in Toronto, he is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver. After further study at Cuddesdon College, Cambridge, he became a missionary of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge in August 1962 taking up his present position in November of that year.

Trinity College provides an opportunity for African clergy in the Province of East Africa (Kenya and Tanzania) to study and discuss in some detail the many ethical and pastoral problems which the Church faces today.

The Reverend Paul Chidwick will be the special preacher at the service at 8.30 a.m. at St. Thomas' Church and at the service at 11.00 a.m. at Christ Church next Sunday, May 15th.

The site of the proposed four county regional jail to serve the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac, has been chosen and tenders for the $2,250,000 complex will be called in the near future.

The new regional jail will be built just north of Napanee on a 26 acre site along Highway 41. The site is almost directly opposite from the new provincial police headquarters.

The jail site will be purchased from Vernie Kimmett. A deposit of $1,000 has been paid and on the purchase price of $23,605 with the option period to run to October 30th.

A special property committee headed by Fred Beckett of Hastings, chairman of the regional detention centre board, selected the site after looking at several properties in the Napanee area.

SERVICES - FROM NAPANEE

Other committee members are Dr. E. Stapleton of Prince Edward county, Erwell Huff, Lennox and Addington, and O. F. Goodfellow, representing Frontenac.

Sewer and water services to the jail site will be extended from Napanee unless Napanee town council disapproves. Cost of the services is estimated at $26,000 all of which would be paid by the jail board.

Fifty percent of the cost of the new central jail will be borne by the province of Ontario with the balance being paid by the four counties involved.

McFarland Has No Knowledge Of Any Deals

TORONTO (CP)—Three officials of H. J. McFarland Construction Co. Ltd. told the jury of 11 companies charged under the Combines Investigation Act, testified in the Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday that they had no knowledge of their company doing business in any "illegal arrangements."

H. J. McFarland, accountant Douglas F. Forbes and chief engineer Carl A. Hynd, said they knew of no illegal deals between the McFarland company and any of the other four companies.

The companies are charged with conspiring to prevent or lessen competition in the sale of road surfacing materials.

Mr. McFarland also denied any knowledge of officials from the other companies, except three with whom he was acquainted "on a social basis."

The Crown completed its case Wednesday morning. The three McFarland officials were the only witnesses called for the defence before a motion for non-suit was filed.

The trial, being heard by Mr. Justice J. R. Evans, resumes Monday to consider the defence motion.

Man at 103 Seen Ready to Pop Question

LONDON (AP) — William Chapman announced today that he is going to get married at the age of 103.

"I'm not saying who she is," said Chapman, "but I've already got an engagement ring and I plan to put it on her pretty soon."

"She's a dear little thing and I enjoy her company," he told reporters.

Chapman, a soldier in the Boer War and in the First World War, runs a boarding house in Westcliff-on-Sea, on the Thames Estuary 25 miles from London. He still leads an active life.

His secret of longevity:

"I do unto others as I should like them to do unto me."

Zwick's Island Park Closed This Year for Improvements

Belleville's Zwick's Island will have a brand new look for the 1967 Centennial Year, but in the meantime city residents will be forced to get along this summer with one less spot to enjoy cooling bay breezes.

The reason is that while work won't be completed until 1967 the park will be more or less out of bounds for local residents as heavy contractors are hard at work levelling the park area in preparation for drainage, laying of irrigation pipes and seeding.

Excavation is also underway for the foundation of the picnic pavilion on the Island knoll, renovations are going ahead at the park canteen building and the children's wading pool has likewise been started.

But Parks Board Chairman Ald. Don Williams doesn't expect much public ire from the park this year.

"Actually," he says, "we are preparing for next year. We're not to give the new seeding a chance, so public use of the park is not to be permitted."

GRADE 20 ACRES

Tatham Company Ltd. was awarded the grading and seeding of approximately 20 acres of park area, as well as construction of roadways.

Lightfoot Construction will build the children's pool, renovate and enlarge the present canteen building, and build the picnic pavilion atop the Island knoll.

Underground pipes will be installed under the 20-acre park area to allow irrigation of grass and lawn area. Raw bay water will be used for irrigation purposes, to keep the grass area green and fresh.

The Zwick Island development program now underway west of the bay Bridge, has been designated as the city's Centennial project, part of the cost of which will be borne by the provincial and federal governments. The city will receive a grant equal to one-third of that from each of the senior governments, the balance of the cost to be raised locally.

ABOVE ESTIMATE

Total cost of the Island Centennial project is $1,400,000 — approximately $44,000 higher than was expected.

Original estimates set the cost at about $109,000 a cost which with contencial grants, would have worked out to be the paying last year one third of the total.

But tender prices came in considerably higher than was expected and to this had to be added consultants' fees and other costs.

The city parks board is supervising the development program.

Realtors Hear CMHC Speaker

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation manager Mr. Jack Raine of Kingston was speaker at the monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Real Estate Board held in Johnny's Restaurant. Eric Carter, C.M.H.C. inspector for this district, was also in attendance. Mr. Raine said the National Housing Association was not just concerned with houses construction but was interested in many fields, the largest division being urban renewal and public housing. A lively period followed, with Mr. Raine very ably answering questions ranging from the shortage of mortgage money to resale of existing houses for public housing.

These two prominent engineers will become honorary doctors of laws.

Land Owners To Be Assisted In Plantings

Areas in the Counties of Renfrew, Simcoe and Waterloo have been selected for service under the Forestry Assistance Program as of 1966, through the Department of Lands and Forests, Service Forester Ross Lyons said this year as forest land owners are assisted with planting open spaces, idle land and improving conditions in existing forests.

Service will be extended to eight other areas in 1967; seven more in 1968 and six in 1969. Included in the list of 1967 management areas are the south part of Renfrew County in the Tweed District and Peterborough County in the Lindsay District. Two of the areas designated for 1968 and 1969 are the Tweed Management Area including the central parts of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and the Belleville - Madoc Management will receive the service in 1969.

Rescue Boat For OPP Is Badly Needed

Council members adopted a suggestion from Reeve Bernard Hepburn this week to obtain such a craft, when the Reeve related a part he played in a boating mishap last weekend.

The council instructed the clerk to request the provincial police through the attorney general's department to supply a boat for the local detachment. Reeve Hepburn said that he felt the boat should be mounted on a trailer and be available for use in any of the waters in the county, including East and West Lake.

Reeve Hepburn was involved in assisting in the rescue operation of two local youths last Sunday. He said that the problems of communication plus the fact that finding an available boat also created further problems, resulted in a teen-aged girl being exposed to biting winds on a lonely shore for close to three hours. The reeve said, similar incidents have happened many times before. Police have previously been trying to find local residents with a suitable boat who is able and willing to assist.

The weekend boating accident Sunday, the first so far this season, is the second local tragedy to be thinking along the same lines when this news was released. Several provincial citizens noting that the Picton area waters are the busiest haunts for pleasure craft during summer months, expressed the thought that a rescue boat should be stationed with the Picton O.P.P. The nearest rescue boat at present is stationed in Belleville.

Aluminium Co. Plant in Que. To Be Enlarged

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage announced Wednesday that Canadian British Aluminium is to begin immediately a $40,000,000 expansion program at its crude aluminum plant at Baie-Comeau, Que.

Expansion of the plant, which has cost some $85,000,000 to date, is to increase the annual capacity by 12,000 tons to 115,000 tons before the beginning of 1968.

When in full operation, the plant should have a production capacity of 175,000 tons a year.

Drove Down Railway Track

Donald Richard Stapley, 35, R. R. 6, Belleville, was fined $150 and prohibited from driving for six months by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today, when he was found guilty of impaired driving.

Police testified that at 10:30 a.m. April 13, 1966, they were contacted by CNR policeman Fred Howard. A cruiser was dispatched to an area just east of Belleville near the CNR tracks.

Police said that Howard reported a car had driven down the railroad tracks for 45 feet at 3 a.m. that morning, causing two trains, Numbers 16 and 300 to be delayed for 25 minutes.

Police testified, "They were very fortunate they weren't hit by the train. One of the passengers in the accused vehicle flagged the train down."

Subsequent investigation revealed that Stapley had consumed a quantity of beer, wine and gin between 8:30 p.m. the evening before and 3 a.m.

Stapley had travelled west on the 2nd Concession of Thurlow, missed a turn, pulled into a Zarpet's yard and turned around. Then he drove north across the first set of tracks, just east of the coal chutes, and turned left along the second set.

Police said "the indication is that he had straddled the tracks. The train crew assisted in getting the vehicle off the tracks."

Acting Crown Attorney John Lennox called for a substantial fine and suspension. "In view of the driving record, I believe the main thing to be considered is to get this man off the road.

It's only by the grace of God he didn't kill himself and his friends."

Magistrate Wills said, "I warn you that if you come back before me for leaving the scene of an accident, impaired driving or driving while under suspension, you'll be going to jail for a long time. Now you just consider that before you take another drink.

"You've had it. This is your last chance.

"If you want to keep your job then keep your car locked up and give your key to someone else if you're going to drink."

Huge Transport Plane Unveiled In Georgia

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The new C5A transport plane is so big that more than twice the length of the Wright brothers' first flight.

The interior was revealed when Charles pushed a button. The nose section lifted and overhead:

Two 94-ton trucks with trailers; two 24-ton trucks hauling 105 - millimetre howitzers; two five - ton trucks with 14 - ton trailers for mobile shop vans; two 54-ton vehicles with 106 - millimetre recoilless rifles mounted; three 54-ton bulldozers; one 54-ton truck and 20 fully-equipped troops.

Officials said there still was room left for 80 passengers and two crews of six in a comfortable section overhead.

The real C-5A will weigh more than 700,000 pounds loaded, take off on a normal jet runway of less than 10,000 feet and have a top runway of only 4,000 feet, if necessary.

Liberal Leader Puts LCBO Under Attack

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson charged Wednesday that the Liquor License Board of Ontario is ignoring serious offences and paying too much attention to minor ones.

He told the legislature "there may be implications of politics, I am not sure." But it is true that many of the board's inspectors need the qualification of being a Conservative to get their appointments."

Mr. Thompson accused the board of playing favorites in the case of a Toronto hotel which a magistrate called "a den of prostitution."

The Liberal leader said prostitutes and waiters in the hotel combined to hoodwink customers into paying large amounts for glasses of water. He said the girls and waiters would split the proceeds at the end of the evening.

When the owner of the hotel appeared before the board, Mr. Thompson said the case was remanded until June because there was a chance the hotel would be sold.

Mr. Thompson cited as a contrast another case where a hotel had its licence suspended for a week because it served liquor not accompanied by food.

Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the LLBO, said the board was playing no favorites. Provincial Secretary John Yaremko said there is no firm rules about penalties, it is all "a matter of discretion for the board."

Wax Models Replaced by Dainty Girls

LONDON (AP) — Henry Moss replaced the wax models in his shop window Wednesday with scantily - clad girls and stopped traffic in Carnaby Street, the home of British "mod" fashion.

Motorists and pedestrians gaped and halted as Diane Lasse, 18, and Jane Bond, 19, stepped into the window clad in panties and bras.

Cheers turned to boos when the pretty models started to dress. But after donning pants suits, they stripped and put on evening dresses.

With the 15 - minute street blocked by cars and about 300 persons, police moved in to get traffic moving.

Moss said he is paying the girls £2 ($15) a day "plus bready to keep them warm."

Red Blankets Will Be Used To Measure Gap

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Dominion Observatory seismologists will be using blankets to extract information from the earth's crust in the Northwest Territories this summer.

The bright red blankets will be used to measure distances between explosive blasting sites and electronic recording stations that measure shock waves travelling through the earth.

The surveys and mapping branch of the mines and technical surveys department came up with the idea to solve the key problem of getting measurement between the blast sites and recording stations hundreds of miles away.

It's a case of spreading blankets on the ground at each recording site and then taking aerial photos of them with aerial mapping photos of the region to pinpoint the location. From the underwater blasting sites, the aerial photos will show the marker buoy and, through triangulation, the lake for identification.

A 30-man observatory field party will be in the Yellowknife region this August for seismic studies of the ground under the experimental seismological survey, a joint Canada-U.K. project.

Results will be used to locate the research and development station which was set up both for earthquake studies and to investigate the possibility of identifying underground nuclear tests.

The group will set up recording stations at nine sites and set off 19 one- and two-ton dynamite charges at the bottom of lakes in an area 300 miles wide and 300 miles wide, including Athabasca, Great Bear and Great Slave lakes.

Paper Claims Govt. Holding Two Reports

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the provincial government is withholding two reports showing serious neglect of disturbed and deliquent children in Ontario.

The newspaper says one report, made last December by officials of the attorney-general's department, says the Metropolitan Toronto juvenile and family court is understaffed.

The other report, the story says, was delivered in April to Health Minister Matthews' mood and shows that only a small part of the province's emotionally disturbed children are being helped in schools or elsewhere.

Bodies of Two Persons Found In Single Grave

PIEDMONT, Que. (CP)—The bodies of two persons were found in this community, 30 miles north of Montreal, Wednesday through information given by a man who broke jail with Lucien Rivard, provincial police said.

The bodies, found in a single, shallow grave, were identified by be those of Andre Paquette, a man implicated in a $1,400,000 Montreal mail truck holdup in 1964, and his girl friend Alice Blouin.

Police said the search for the bodies began last December after Andre Durocher led them to the scene.

Durocher, who escaped with convicted narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard from Bordeaux jail March 2, 1965, pleaded guilty in a Montreal court Wednesday to several armed robberies and thefts which netted more than $1,200,000.

He is being held as a material witness pending a corner's inquest into the deaths.

Police said there is no connection between the Piedmont graves and discovery late last year of four lime-covered bodies in swampland graves in an area 30 to 50 miles south of Quebec City. Three other bodies are still being sought.

The lime victims were apparently slain in an undeworld attempt to suppress investigation of an arson ring in the province.

Two Policemen Charged After Man Wounded

TORONTO (CP) — Constable Dennis Jacob Ewaniuk, 22, of the Metropolitan Toronto police force, Wednesday was remanded a day on a charge of criminal negligence in a shooting incident in downtown Toronto.

Constable Michael Anthony Hawker, 25, who owned the 7.65 mm pistol was charged with carrying it illegally.

Police said the two, who were off duty at the time, were examining the gun in the tavern washroom when one of them pulled the trigger, not realizing there was a bullet in the chamber.

The bullet went through the floor and lodged in the leg of Kell Winsey, 30, a singer at the tavern.

ANNOUNCES EXPANSION

Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec Wednesday announced a $40,000,000 expansion program by the Canadian British Aluminum Co. at Baie Comeau, Que., 205 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Retail sales were estimated at $1,547,822,000 in February, an increase of 19 per cent over February sales last year, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday. The increase followed a 7.5-per-cent climb in January to bring the cumulative total to $2,159,210,000 for the two months, 8.8 per cent higher than last year.

The wholesale price index, which dropped 3¼ points between February and March, fell a further one-fifth of a point in April to 237.9, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

No Mechanical Blame Attached To GM Car

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's supervising coroner said Wednesday he hoped an inquest, in which a 1964 General Motors Corvair was involved in fatal mechanical blame in the death of Mrs. Burlington, Ont., woman, will become a model for future traffic fatality investigations.

Dr. H. B. Cotnam said crashes were often written off as accidents when they were due to mechanical failure. The provincial Coroner's Act makes provisions for coroners to call mechanical engineers to determine if there was human or mechanical failure.

A coroner's jury, which deliberated for 4¼ hours Wednesday, said there was no evidence of any mechanical failure. That flaw in design which could have contributed to an accident in which Mary Hayward, died of injuries suffered Feb. 4 in a collision with another automobile. The jury suggested that the uneven condition of the road may have been a contributing factor in the accident and that over-inflation of the front tires may have also contributed to the sensitivity of the steering causing Mrs. Hayward to overcompensate for the car's movements.

"We also feel that a possible mechanical failure in the steering cannot be ruled out as the cause," the jury said.

STEERING A WORRY

Mrs. Hayward's husband, William, testified that after that she had complained repeatedly about the steering and was on her way to have it checked at a Milton garage when the accident occurred.

"The jury can find no evidence of mechanical fault in this vehicle that contributed this particular accident," the verdict continued.

While there is some suggestion of instability, evidence does not confirm that this instability existed any more than might be experienced in any make of vehicle of this age and mileage."

The jury said it believed the woman would not have received fatal injuries had she been wearing the car's seat belt. Mrs. Hayward died Feb. 11 of a blood clot which formed in her lungs.

James Musser, chief research and development engineer for General Motors of Detroit, returned a practice of weighting down the front end of the Corvair which was suggested by several witnesses as "worthless."

NATO Exercise Nears Its End

MARVILLE, France (CP) — Supersonic aircraft screamed into the skies today in the final workout of a three-day NATO exercise in which Canada took part for the first time.

Canadian pilots made no rash predictions of victory in this highly - specialized phase - reconnaissance operation in which the French Air Force, "flying in its own backyard," has a habit of catching the prizes. The winners will be announced in a week or so.

"It is simply a matter of reading the map," said Flt.-Lt. Bruce Arnott, 24, of Toronto, who pilots a CF-104 at 500 or more miles an hour.

Hundreds of jet reconnaissance aircraft streaked across Belgium, France, Germany, the Netherlands and Britain in Exercise Royal Flush.

Ford Reports Auto Sales Up

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors sales reports, to be released today, could bolster the end of a month-long slump in auto sales.

Ford division of Ford Motor Company punctured the trend of declining sales Wednesday when it reported customers bought cars in record volume during the first 10 days of the month. The company's Lincoln-Mercury division was to make its report today.

The crucial question was whether the other three manufacturers would report a similar upturn.

Last month auto sales dipped below those of a year ago and Arjay Miller, Ford president, said one of the factors was "harassment" of the industry on the auto safety issue.

City Budget

Alderman Joss' recent arguments against items of expenditure by city council were reasoned and cogent. His contention, briefly, was that some budgetary items related to areas outside the scope of city expenditure, and more properly should be met by private enterprise.

In this category he listed $4,000 for the Chamber of Commerce and $5,000 for the purchase of antique lighting for Hastings County Museum. While acknowledging the excellent work of the Chamber, he felt that as an organization of business and professional men it should stand on its own. Similarly, in view of work required to be done on city streets, sidewalks, and lights, he thought the $5,000 being spent on antique light should be met privately.

The alderman was critical of other, higher, expenditures. The sum for the municipal commission, he noted, had been raised from some $10,000 two years ago to $23,000 this year, and he was of the opinion the time was coming when the commission "must come prepared to detail how it is spending the taxpayers' money better than it has in the past."

Alderman Joss also opposed the $30,000 set aside for provision of a day nursery. This item we supported in a recent editorial, and do on the ground that it is a useful investment in the young people of the city. It will enable children to meet with other youngsters, under trained supervision, and afford outlets for their energy that they likely would not enjoy at home. This is particularly true of children of working mothers who, increasingly, are becoming part of the work force.

Alderman Joss missed little in his criticism of budget expenditures, down to the $600 being spent on new chairs for the council chamber. He was also critical of a $20 annual increase in houses assessed at around $7,000.

While many may agree with the alderman, the missing link was widespread support for his platform. Aldermen Keegan and Dr. J. R. Scott spoke in support, but five others opposed him. Mayor Jack Ellis noted the budget had been discussed thoroughly during the seven-hour budget meeting last week, and all items given a complete hearing.

That being so, the only conclusion that can be reached is that the majority of citizens are in favor of such expenditures. Or is it that the people of Belleville are not following the proceedings of council, or else do not care how their money is being used?

This newspaper is always open to expressions of opinion by affairs from members of the public. If there is widespread opposition to the budget provisions, people must be keeping quiet about it.

Hospital Day

This is National Hospital Day, when it is appropriate to dwell on the never-ending task of caring for the sick. Its theme, "Heads, Hearts and Hands," acknowledges the great debt we owe to the doctors, nurses, technicians and others who carry on the work of Canada's hospitals.

In all there are some 220 hospitals with 84,000 employees, plus another 16,000 part-time workers. There are 48,000 hospital beds, and by the end of the year 14,200,000 total days of hospital care will have been provided for adults and children.

Also an integral part of our hospitals are the 3,800 trustees who play a vital role in their administration, and the 70,000 women of the hospital auxiliaries whose personal touch and practical assistance mean so much to patients.

Today is also the anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, whose service and devotion to the ideals of the nursing profession in its infancy paved the way for the great work its members perform today in the healing of the sick.

War of Words

The language which the Communist parties of the world use to denounce each other becomes more picturesque with each succeeding ideological split.

The latest tiff is between Cuba and Yugoslavia. The latter, according to the Castro regime, is "a tool of United States imperialist policy."

That sally was mild enough, for Yugoslavia has been practising its own brand of communism for years and enjoys good relations with the west.

But the Cubans went on to accuse the Tito government of betraying the communist cause, "of splitting revolutionary unity, of defamation, intrigue and limping vacillation."

"Limping vacillation" is a fine turn of phrase. In the Cuban communist dictionary it might be the equivalent of placing one's enemies (in this case Yugoslavia) on the slowest boat to China (with whom Havana is also at cross-purposes these days).

Huge Biographical Task For Centennial Project

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

THURSDAY, May 12 — OTTAWA OFFBEAT — Huge BK JbS OTTAWA — It's only fitting that Parliament, which started all the Centennial fuss, providing publicity funds for Expo '67 and assorted celebrations across the land, should be coming up with its own project for the big birthday binge.

It's only one of many, but perhaps the most personal, made to order for Parliament's particular interests.

Assigned to that tiny and unobtrusive department of the Public Archives, it is to be a Directory of Parliament.

Back to Confederation.

Is it will go thumb-and-biographies of the 600 or so Senators and the nearly 3,000 MPs who have sat in Parliament since 1867.

It isn't going to be easy.

For the researchers at the Public Archives are discovering that some of the MPs have become almost legend, lost in the mists of the last 99 years.

Even those of more recent times seem to have vanished.

Their names appear in old Parliamentary Guides. But where are they now? What became of them? Are they still alive?

Some strange tales have been coming to light as the Archivists track through the dust of the dead files of yesteryear assembling their Parliamentary manuscript.

THREE-HOUR MP

Like that of the oddest of all Commons Sessions, the Sixth Sitting of the Fifteenth Parliament, and the MP who made history as the only representative ever to be elected to the political party of House record.

That was the First-Year-of-War session that opened January 25 of 1940 and in less than three hours was dissolved.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King wanted a strong majority mandate for the crises he knew would confront the nation in the years of battle ahead, and he called back from its Christmas recess New Year holiday what had been essentially a part-time Parliament to inform it he was trading it in at the polls for a war-time Parliament.

Among those who made the long journey to Ottawa for this briefest of all Sessions was the Rev. Walter G. Brown, who, the winner of a recent by-election, came down from Saskatoon to represent the United Reform Party.

Although he was nominated and came out a winner again in the general election that followed, he fell ill shortly after returning from that Three-Hour-Session, and died before he could return to Ottawa for the new war-time Parliament.

Then there was the mystery of what happened to Frederick C. Betts, elected Conservative MP for London, Ontario, in the 1935 campaign.

In to late summer of 1938 he

X-Rays Do Not Always Show All Things Wrong

By JOSEPH G. HOLNER, M.D.

Sometimes I wonder if we wouldn't get along at least as well if we discarded the expression, "X-rays were negative." Not that the phrase isn't explicit when properly understood, but it has come to be a cliche, and like most cliches, it has generally lost its pure original meaning.

A negative finding is an X-ray picture that means that everything is all right; it just means that the X-ray didn't reveal anything wrong. Indispensable as the X-ray is, it can't do everything or see everything.

An X-ray indicates the density of tissues through which the rays pass, bones, being dense, appear as heavy shadows. Fleah, fat, and other tissues, are lighter shadow. From this fact we can deduce a great many things — but not everything.

An X-ray of a gall bladder isn't of much use unless a dye is allowed to filter into the organ first. The same is true of gastro-intestinal X-rays. A barium drink or barium enema fills the intestine with a solution through which X-rays do not pass easily, and a sharp outline of the intestine results. Often dye is introduced into the bloodstream to make blood vessels visible.

In the common and very valuable chest X-ray, of the lungs is less dense than surrounding flesh, so an irregularity or crater in the lung becomes visible. Calcified spots (healed areas) will show.

X-ray won't begin to show early cancer of the cervix, but a Pap smear will. X-ray doesn't show diabetes, or anemia, but blood tests will.

So accept X-ray for the things it does so well; don't use the phrase "X-rays were negative" as meaning that everything is all right. Some other test may be necessary to make visible whatever is wrong. That, indeed, is the reason for exploratory surgery at times.

One letter before me asks: Will cancer show up in an X-ray? We are in close contact with a person who says he has several spots on the lungs and it is hopeless cancer. Could the spots be TB and should we be checked? — Mrs. J. C.

In such a case an expert at reading X-rays would have little difficulty in distinguishing between the characteristics pattern of the two diseases. A question test, however, would make things quite definite. Cancer and TB could exist at the s a m e time!

A man with ear trouble asks: Why don't they ever seem to take X-rays of ears? Won't the inner ear show? — E. K.

X-ray in some instances can be useful, but the heavy bone structure of the skull makes it difficult, and conve tional methods of examination give more information.

To get back to "negative," and "positive," a married woman writes:

I was given a urine test which the doctor said proved positive. What does this mean? That I am positively pregnant? — Mrs. H. F.

It's difficult to tell. It could have been a pregnancy test, or a test for diabetes, or for venereal disease, even. It depends on the test. He probably meant that the urine test for pregnancy indicated you were pregnant.

That's why I think these terms are getting out of hand.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are roasted, salted-in-the-shell peanuts healthful? My friend says yes, I say no — A. P.

Peanuts are high in protein and fat, hence if you eat t o many of them they'll be fattening. Some of the fat will be removed by roasting. The answer is yes.

Strictly Personal

Where Good Intentions Fail

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

It is not what men do at their worst that makes tragedy, but what men do at their best, with good intentions, or what men find they must do in spite of their intentions, that creates the most misfortune in the world.

The trouble with the escalation in the arms race is t h a t nations cannot forsee the ultimate consequences until it is too late — like the man who jumped off the roof of a 50-storey building, and as he passed the 10th floor, called to someone looking out the w i n d o w, "Everything's still OK!"

Most flower names seem so appropriately "floral" that it always comes as a surprise to recall that these lovely words are just adaptations of the commonplace names of botanists—such as Fuchs, Begon, Camellia, Magnol, and Poinsett.

A fanatical man who believes the world is flat has more impact on society than a reasonable man who knows it is spherical; and the reason that fanatics are often triumphs over sense is that those who hold a position passionately are t h e ones who take the trouble to arm themselves with persuasive arguments however wrong they may be.

Why is it generally the same women who are always busy "helping the house" who rarely invite anyone over to enjoy it?

Being entertained by others isn't "free," even when we don't pay for it, as on television — for the price we pay in being p e r petually entertained by professionals is the atrophy of our own native ability to entertain our selves, as we can see Japanese being to our children.

"Nobody's perfect" is a useful maxim to apply to others, in softening our harsh judgments of their conduct; but a bad maxim to apply to oneself, where it only serves as an excuse for moral laxity. (I once heard of a judge who passed a case and h a d anything to say on his behalf before sentence was passed; the judge replied, and re plied, "Nobody's perfect.")

It's curious that a French accent in English is considered "comical" — especially since Italian is by far the more beautiful language of the two.

The best definition of a "materialist" I have heard is that he reverses the objects of loving and of using: we are meant to love persons and to use things, but the materialist uses persons and loves things.

One of the finest of psychological paradoxes was expressed by Ira Wallach, when he said: "You know you're in trouble when no trivial can kill a man."

Highway Safety

Christian Science Monitor

Safety on the highways depends on many things: The design and manufacturing of safer autos; periodic auto inspection laws; improved vehicle and pedestrian traffic control and enforcement; better driver education and licensing procedures; periodic driver re-examination. But central to it all remains the willingness to tackle and solve the problem of the drinking driver.

Chamber President Replies to Ald. Joss

Editor,
The Intelligencer,
Alderman Joss' remarks concerning the city budget made certain references as to the appropriateness of a grant made by Council to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce is not a selfish business men's organization for the promotion of their own interests. The Chamber devotes its membership time, industrial, commercial and professional men who share in common a community conscience. The aims and objectives of the Chamber are to work for a better city for all its citizens. Our consumer protective bureau and tourist information centre are two examples of the Chamber's activities which benefit the whole community.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce was formed through the efforts of the Mayor of Belleville, Nicius Holden, in the year 1883 and has received financial support from the City of Belleville since the date of its inception. The grant of $4,000 in 1966 for operational expenses is far less than the support we received from the City two years ago.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce offers the same services to this community as the hundreds of Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade do from coast to coast.

The town of Trenton supported its Chamber of Commerce this year with a grant of $5,000 and the city of Kingston made a grant of $8,000 to its Chamber. Other communities recognize the benefits derived from the work of an active Chamber of Commerce.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is most grateful for the support it receives from the City of Belleville and its citizens. The benefits of the Chamber activities and the support given to our projects makes all of us who are associated with the Chamber proud that we live and work in Belleville.

Yours truly,
Fred B. Deacon,
President — Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

P.S.
The Chamber is pleased to count among its members, Black Diamond Cheese Ltd., and while we differ with Alderman Joss' assessment of the need of Council's for financial support, we appreciate the support of his firm.

Never On Sunday

Montreal Star

The ways of the East are fo ded. inscrutable. Frank Tuoy, a British author, reports on a recent visit to China. Wondering how the regime's proclaimed religious tolerance was faring, he asked to go to church in Peking. "I am sorry," his guide said, "that is closed." Moreover is Sunday and all the churches will be closed.

Boredom Can be a Challenge

St. Catharines Standard

It was bound to happen that someone would eventually say a good word for boredom. It has come from an English schoolteacher who set out to write the story of his first 12 years and realised that the incidents he could remember would barely have filled 12 months. What of the rest of the time?

The adult looking back thinks of his childhood as packed with good times and bad times. What he forgets is the long spells of nothing-in-particular, one might call them boredom, in a palatable form, which parents and teachers.

But is it not in these preponderant periods of tedium and routine, not in the highlight days, that character and personality are largely formed? If so, it is our reaction to boredom that sets the lines of our development.

The key word is "reaction." The young Tolstoy escaped from the boredom of the daily round by contemplating the problems of moral philosophy, surely an influence on his career as a writer. The boy Chatterton found refuge from a dull school life in composing verses that made him famous. Many m o d e r n youngsters, finding time heavy on their hands, have turned to building a radio set or to some other constructive hobby project, and gone on to become engineers and scientists.

This brings up another point. If the foregoing is valid, those books on telling of the big events the supposed key or turning points in their lives, may be misleading as to character studies. We are asked to assume that it was their major experiences that chiefly formed their characters, that without them there would be no recognizable personality. But was it not the character that reacted to the events formed before they took place? Would it not be those long, largely unrecorded stretches of their early lives scarce in memorable incidents and experiences?

The high degree of uniformity in school and home life necessarily imposed on children cannot but bring dull, repetitive patches, and it is to be hoped that most of childhood growth and development as separate individuals takes place during those child fights dull routine does he really "drown within himself and find something positive and personal enough to break the pattern of boredom. So hail to boredom, provided you fight it..

By RETA LAWRENCE

The third annual dessert bridge and euchre party by the Women's Progressive Conservative Association of Belleville bore testimony of its ever increasing popularity. Over 240 ladies, in their spring finery, congregated in St. Thomas' Parish Hall on Wednesday afternoon. They came to partake of delicious desserts and enjoy an afternoon of cards with the added inducement of fine prizes.

In the entrance corridor a provocative table of homebaking and one of homemade candy proved to be most interesting to the guests.

The centre table, the length of the hall, with white linen, a centre of yellow and white chrysanthemums and yellow candles in silver candlesticks, was well stocked with desserts which were a tribute to the creativity and culinary intelligence of this active group. Many floral pieces around the hall seemed to welcome this unusually fine day.

Code's Equal Pay Section Is Approved

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) The Ontario Council of Women Wednesday approved four amendments to the Human Rights Code to combat discrimination against women in employment.

The amendments were contained in a brief that had been presented to the provincial government last Sept. 16 by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario.

The 37 delegates at the council's annual meeting supported the brief's call for enforcement of the code's equal pay section being handled by the wages section of the department of labor other than the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

Other amendments approved included:

—Qualified labor inspectors should investigate infractions in the code.

—Reporting such infractions should be done by inspectors or persons other than the individuals concerned.

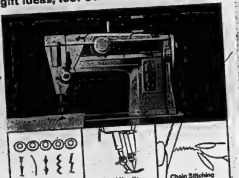
—Definite monetary penalties should be assessed when an employer has been found to violate the equal pay legislation.

The council voted to ask Premier John Roberts for immediate action on the brief.

In other business Wednesday, the council passed a motion to ensure that qualified women are represented on the council of regents and boards of governors of proposed community colleges in Ontario.

Only one woman, Miss Mary MacAulay of Toronto, now is on the council of regents.

FAMILIES CHANGING



MONTREAL (CP)—The extended family unit is giving way to the "nuclear family," Prof. David Denzig of Columbia University said here. "Married people move away and set up their own family and parents and relations are excluded, creating an instability." This is a cause of high divorce and re-marriage rates, he said.

Retreating Into Shell Is Bad for Young Folk

DEAR DORIS: My boy friend doesn't like to mix with other people; he thinks someone else is going to take me away from him. There is a reason for this: As a child he wasn't treated well at home.

As a result he is very cold to other people, with the exception of me. He tries to cut me and himself out of circulation. How could I get him to mix with people of our own age? — BETTY.

DEAR BETTY: What is "your own age?" If you are mid-teeners, you your-self can't socialize this rude without too much of a drain; and it is not healthy for him either.

A young fellow whose early years were unhappy may tend to retreat into his shell. When he finds kindness in you, he hangs on for dear life, and wants you to share his shell.

It won't do. And drawing him out is a task for a skilled group worker. Supervised co-ed activities at a Y. (M. or W.) might do it. Or if you could find one couple to date with, this association could help them emerge, bit by bit.

DEAR DORIS: This letter is a progress report of the 20th Club of Kingston, which is now in its fifth year, and still growing. We have made so many wonderful friendships, it seems hard to realize there were ever lonely times in the past.

On our fourth birthday we had a dinner dance with the mayor of Kingston and his wife as our special guests. They enjoyed it so much, they came to our Easter dance, in an unofficial capacity, and danced with us and had fun.

Compliments continue to us on the effects the club is having on both morale and health. One of our newer gentlemen members told me last night he is looking forward to each Friday night get-together on Sundays, and he hasn't experienced such a feeling of belonging, or being needed and wanted since 1950.

Although not a "lonely hearts" club, we have had well over 50 marriages that I know of, and business is still good. We have had two marriages of Belleville and Kingston members. — MRS. ROBERTA HOLMES, President, 20 Club, Kingston, Ontario.

DEAR ROBERTA: Three cheers! Just proves what can be done. I'm glad to read you will answer any enquiries about how to get such groups going, and will be glad to forward letters from readers.

Would any other readers with similar sociable clubs for 30-and-over folk care to tell us about them?

DEAR DORIS: I don't know what's wrong with me but I think I've lost interest in my profession of hairdressing. After I took my course and started working I found out I was allergic to the shampoos, it doesn't matter what kind it is.

Well, I went to a skin specialist and he said it was eczema and to take a week off work. I finally had to quit my job. I'm scared to touch anything in a salon because I know what'll happen.

The specialist also added that if it came back I would have to quit hairdressing. If the trouble with my hands has steered my thoughts away from hairdressing, should I take something else up? I've thought of typing but again I don't know. I still have the eczema, after a month of not working. — MIXED UP AND CONFUSED.

DEAR MIXED UP: If the specialist says so, you'd better quit.

Fortunately, the good Lord gave us more than one talent to work with. A girl with capable hands might excel as a seamstress or milliner or lab. technician or typist. The counsellor at your National Employment office could get you pointed in the right direction.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: We are four teen-age girls. We have dates with teen-age boys. We are not engaged.

1. What presents should we accept?

2. If they gave us earrings, necklace or watch, should we return them? Some mothers say we should. These boys do not work.

3. When a girl gets married, should she return any jewelry that she accepted from other boys before? — FOUR TEEN-AGERS.

DEAR FOUR:

1. Inexpensive, perishable ones, such as flowers, candy, books, records. Nothing too personal nor too costly.

2. Yes. Possible exception might be the costume jewelry type earrings which are quite expensive. But how would your unemployed admirers provide even these?

3. No, it's highly likely the giver will have long since vanished into the Limbo of Lost Lovers. But if it's something her husband tends to resent, best leave it back home with mother.

DEAR DORIS: I am being married a second time. I'd like to tell all the new widows and widowers to take heart; maybe you will find someone as wonderful as I have.

He is handsome, kind and patient. We don't get to see each other too often, but he is always there when I need him. Whenever he comes in he gives me a kiss on the cheek or forehead but it's usually over the head of a couple of children who have him by the arm.

But when he brings me home and we kiss goodnight he puts his arms around me and gives me a kiss that puts me on cloud nine for hours. I know I loved my first husband but I was only 19 when I got married and now at 34 I think I appreciate a man's love so much more.

If you can just help me over the wedding reception, everything will be roses. — SECOND WEDDING.

DEAR SECOND: I'm sending you the ideas you need. Lucky you! A mature love can keep you on cloud nine for life.

* * *

Confidential to C.S.: My medical adviser has not had your complaint from any over-forty patients, although he says a craving for the smell of mothballs and the taste of popcorn is not uncommon at all for expectant mothers.

In both pregnancy and at the menopause, many women are more prone to unusual fancies than usual. It does not suggest any lack in your diet, nor is it likely to turn into anything serious.

DEAR DORIS: My son is to be married in a city 250 miles away. He has not lived here for six years.

I wish to know where my husband and I should invite to the wedding. We do not wish to look as though we are out for gifts! I do not think many people would be able to afford to make the trip from here. — GROOM'S MOTHER.

DEAR G.M.: Close relatives who have watched Sonny grow up won't think you are out for gifts. They'll be hurt if they are left out, and might well make up a few carloads to see him married. This goes for close friends too.

Of course the more distant will settle for an announcement. The invitation list is made up in consultation with the groom, and keeping in mind the number of guests to be invited altogether.

LIEUT. LARRY GEORGE MILLS AND MRS. MILLS

Mills — Bannon

Holy Rosary Catholic Church, Belleville was the setting on Saturday May 7, at 11 a.m. for a lovely spring wedding when Margaret Amy Ruth Bannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bannon, Belleville was united in marriage to Lieut. Larry George Mills of Camp Petawawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mills, of Belleville. Rev. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A - line styled floor length bridal gown of white silk organza with the upper portion of the bodice and sleeves enhanced with Venice lace bolero effect, studded with pearls and crystals. Matching lace adorned the hemline of the dress and edged a sweeping train of silk organza. A shoulder length three-tier veil was caught by a headdress of three silk organza roses adorned with beaded Venice lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, Shasta 'mums with trailing ivy.

Miss Betty Bannon, sister of the bride as maid of honor wore a pale pink A - line floor length gown of floral shantung fashioned similarly to the bride's dress and highlighted with lace interest. Her headdress was a circle of pink Shasta 'mums and she carried an attractive arrangement of matching flowers. The bridesmaids Miss Nancy Mills of Kingston, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Dawn Little of Toronto were attired identically to the maid of honor. The little flower girl was Miss Claire Bannon of Toronto, cousin of the bride who wore a white terylene floor - length A' - line dress enhanced with a pale pink ribbon tied in a bow at the waistline and extending to the hemline of the dress. All attendants wore circlet headdresses of pink Shasta 'mums and handmade lace gloves given to them by the bridegroom as a gift.

Mr. R. W. (Hunker) Crawford of North Bay attended the bridegroom and Mr. Robert Folwell and Mr. William Latchford of Belleville were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Belleville Shrine Club where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a three shaded blue ensemble with blue flowers on white silk dress and matching coat with dark blue lining, dark blue and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations tipped with the darkest shade of blue. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a two-piece pink silk knit suit enhanced with Guipure lace overlay, with a petaled pink hat, black accessories and a corsage of pink tipped carnations.

Upon their return the couple will reside at 1397 Coldrey Avenue, Ottawa 3, Ontario.

Consumer Buying Habits Blamed For Some of Rise In Prices for Food

By JEAN SHARPE
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Members of a panel on the price spread between producer and consumer and the causes for recent price rises in food products all say: "It wasn't me."

The panel, held Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Consumers' Association of Canada, included representatives of consumers, as fruit and vegetable growers, grocery products manufacturers, milk distributors and the provincial department of agriculture.

The CAC invited representation from food retailers, but was turned down.

Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures show the food price index for Canada has risen from 133.7 in October, 1965 to 143.4 in March, 1966.

Each panel member discussed his group's problems and blame for the rises went to North American livestock shortages, U.S. weather and labor conditions, Canadian labor costs and the consumer buying habits and retail pricing methods.

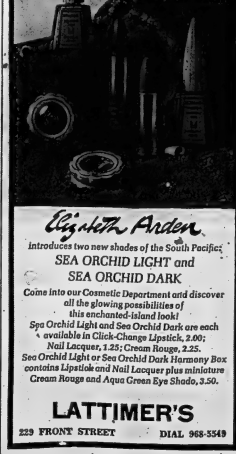
D. E. Williams, chairman of the Canadian Food Council, suggested that retail competition had been keeping prices down and that pressure from retail had finally forced overdue rises.

Panelist Mrs. W. A. Brechin, chairman of the consumer problems committee for the Ontario CAC, said almost every letter her committee receives mentions the price increases.

CONSUMERS BLAMED

Even Mrs. Brechin blamed consumer buying habits for some of the rise. She said shoppers here prefer convenience foods rather than less expensive version of the same foods and force the less expensive off the shelves.

Barney G. Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association, said a variation of three per cent over or below normal production will cause a glut or a big demand. He said these price fluctuations do not show at producer or consumer level, as he believes they should.



T. L. Davies, president of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association said dairies are not responsible for an unreasonable amount of the increased price of milk. He said farmers get about 39 per cent of the milk dollar.

Today the CAE will introduce an emergency resolution asking its national organization to urge the government to investigate price rises and whether they are justified by their return to the producer.

Silver Ribbon
Cherry Supreme
DESSERT and PIE FILLING

Silver Ribbon Cherry Supreme is the newest idea in desserts. It's both a wonderful ready-to-serve, right-out-of-the-tin dessert of rich, plump Montmorency cherries or just about the best-tasting pie filling you'll ever eat.

Silver Ribbon cherries are separate and full round in a fine rich sauce that doesn't kill the cherry flavour. There's none of that goosy flavoured thickening or mashed up fruit.

Cherry Supreme is prepared to perfection by the Baxter people of Bloomfield, who know how to keep that fruit-fresh look and flavour that's sure to please the whole family.

It's extra good because it's "Baxter-Good" and it's so easy!

Ann Landers
Adopted Babes Blessing, Not Taken in for Pity

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are the proud parents of two beautiful children — a little boy three years old and a 10-month-old baby girl. We adopted these youngsters through the Tennessee Department of Welfare.

Not a week goes by that someone doesn't say, "It certainly is wonderful of you to take those poor little children into your home, God will bless you some day for your kindness."

The remarks are invariably made in the presence of the children who are too young to understand, but one day soon they will.

How can we make people realize that these children have merely become a house and lot? — ANN LANDERS' God has already blessed us a hundredfold! Please provide us with an answer that will assure our children that we love them and we did not take them into our home because we felt sorry for them. Thank you. — MRS. FURIOUS.

DEAR MRS.: Children are given the warm feeling that they are wanted and loved by the way they are treated and not by listening to their parents talk to friends.

I do feel that you should respond to your ignorant acquaintances, however, not to reassure your children, but to educate the dods. Tell them — as you told me in your letter — that God has already blessed you, and that the children have enriched your lives beyond your ability to describe it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My letter is to let you know I am with you all the way on this tipping nonsense.

You said, "People who do not believe in tipping should (1) park their own cars on the street — if they can find a space, (2) eat at home, (3) carry their coats and hats around all evening.

If enough of us who are against tipping will take your advice, Ann, the restaurant, hotel and tavern owners, the parking lot tycoons and others will surely feel the pinch and do something drastic — like pay their employees a living wage. — TIRED OF BEING BLIND.

DEAR TIRED: You make an excellent point, but your solution would not ease the burden of the customer. The increased cost of doing business would be passed right along to you and to me in the form of higher prices. As for me, I'd prefer higher prices and no tipping, but the prospects of getting it are mighty slim.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The confidentials at the foot of your column have always intrigued me. You once explained that those messages are abbreviated because you have been asked not to print the letter — just the advice.

Although some of the confidentials are fairly obscure I can often guess what the letter was about. And now I wonder if you would do something I don't believe you've ever done before. Will you let a reader supply a confidential? I'm aching to say something to the three daughters who want their 80-year-old mother to move in with one of them. They are afraid if mama goes to an old folks' home the neighbors might think the daughters didn't want to take her in.

Here is my confidential:

Confidential to Three Daughters: Let your mother go where she will be comfortable. You have given her no little of your time and attention through the years that she knows how you really feel. I hope your mother leaves her money to charity or to some old man she met last week. — ALSO INDEPENDENT AND UNWANTED.

Women Jurors Want Panel to Hide Skirts

WEST GREENWICH, R.I. (AP)—Women jurors in Rhode Island say they'd like a wooden panel in front of the jury box rather than a rail.

Their skirts are just getting too short.

Superior court Judge Florence K. Murray, the state's only woman judge, said the court passed out questionnaires to 700 jurors during the last eight months.

We asked them if there was anything they wanted to make known to us, if they had any suggestions," Judge Murray said.

The one suggestion that showed up with some recurrence was that the women wanted a panel put in front of the jury box because their skirts have grown shorter."

Judge Murray reported the finding to the state's judges at the annual meeting of the judicial conference of Rhode Island.

Judge Murray said the judges who heard her report—about 30 men—"just considered it was amusing."

The Experts Say
Children's Party Needs To Be Well Organized

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—The first ingredient of a successful party for little aged seven to 10 is probably two grown-ups. While one keeps the entertainment moving and youthful exuberance curbed, the other can calmly take time to scrape the ice cream or attend to physical and emotional crises among the guests.

The second ingredient is a flexible but definite plan.

"Any party needs to be well organized," says Jamey McCarrick. The adults need to know where they're going. The children should have a good deal to say about some of the planning, but not all of it. At that age they like surprises.

Miss McCarrick is a Brownie pack leader and a trainer of Brownie leaders. She works with another woman at once-a-week meetings of 36 Brownies and trains all around Toronto leading to leaders about how to work with their girls.

Miss McCarrick concedes that Brownie parties are different from neighborhood parties in several ways, but rules of thumb will apply.

Brownie parties often have themes. Food, costumes and decorations and games may be patterned on those of another country. At Christmas, Brownies take gifts to be given to poor children or hospitals.

The Brownie routine provides the necessary change of pace from quiet times to active or exciting games.

"Our Brownie meetings usually last one to 1½ hours, and we find that's long enough.

"As far as food goes, it needn't be elaborate if they've just had dinner or are going home for their meal. We have ice cream and elaborate cookies and what we call in our pack a pink drink—something partyish."

Miss McCarrick says a librarian can be your best friend if you want help finding books of games, records of singing games, a bit of background on what games children play in other countries.

If you have the party indoors, dressing up and playing charades is one active game that's fairly safe.

"Kids that age love dressing up and they love acting. Even though they're not very good at it."

Miss McCarrick suggests several games which have the best of competition and take some preparation, but nothing major.

STAGE COACH POPULAR

"Our pack has a favorite game which we call Stage Coach. It's an old game. You do need to make up a story ahead of time, unless you're a very good story-teller.

"A father takes a family travelling in a stage coach. Each child is given a part—the wheel or a wig or the father. The children are seated in a circle and if you name the part she is playing, she stands up, turns around and sits down. If you say 'stage coach,' everybody stands up, turns around, changes places and sits down.

"There are several compositions you could organize with things around the house.

"We just cut tell children with things in them such as sugar, flour, cornstarch and let the Brownies guess what they are.

"You can make little cotton bags and get spoons and erasers and spools—ordinary things—in them. The children try to guess what they are by touching them.

"Or you can make a collection of about 20 of the same sort of things. Put them on the floor and have the children form a ring around them. Everyone has a good look at them, then they all turn around. You take something away. We ask 'what has the magpie taken?' and the children turn back and try to guess."

LEARNING numbers can be a game for the small fry. Hand paper and pencil to each child and have him write down the numbers from 1 to 10 in mixed-up order. Then change papers and have each child draw a line correctly, back and forth, from 1 through 10, in order. First one finished shouts "Thanks" and is the winner. (Thanks to Mrs. E. Oldale, Belfast, M. Y.)

C.W.L. COUNCIL

MARMORA — "The personal sanctification and dedication of every member is essential in the C.W.L. to carry on the work of the lay apostolate" said Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Stoco, Kingston Diocesan president of the C.W.L. in her address on "The Lay Apostolate" to 90 members of Marmora Council and guests from Madoc and Stoco, on May day evening.

"Bake sales and bazaars are necessary," she admitted, "they are our way of helping out in the parish, but these are not the essential work of the C.W.L. The real core of the C.W.L. is something else". Mrs. Kelly stressed the C.W.L. motto "For God and Canada" — "for God" meaning zeal for the needs of God, and recognized that we could accomplish this by daily Mass and Communion or by our work during the day. For "Canada" meaning zeal for the people, for the well-being of our fellow man.

She outlined the work of conveners in the parish councils adding that any parish council with active conveners cannot help but do the work of the lay apostolate.

Student Could Give Some Tips to Commission

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—A 23-year-old girl attending the University of Ottawa may be able to give some tips to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism before long.

She's Monique Ouellette, first female president of the student union at the university, whose student population is approximately 3,200 French - speaking and 2,000 English-speaking.

It isn't that the two groups don't get along, she says. Each just ignored the presence of the other.

"They aren't profiting from the richness of being together on the same campus," says Monique, a tall dark-haired native of Montreal.

She's in her third year of an honors political science course and hopes to go on to an M.A. Her thesis will be on "Federalism and Education."

Better understanding between the groups was part of her platform, and she thinks her election shows the students want it too.

"The French and English mentalities are completely different. The French are deductive. They like to establish basic principles and work from them. But the English like to play it by ear and then work out the principles."

LACK REPRESENTATION

Monique was the secretary of last year's council, which passed resolutions to improve first-year courses in both languages so that students would "really learn the other's language, and learn to understand their mentality by understanding their literature."

She also hopes to work for closer relations between the students' representatives and the university governors.

Another problem is the group of 1,500 students from Quebec province at the university who are in limbo as far as national university representation goes.

"Quebec university students left the Canadian Union of Students (CUS) to form the Union Generale des Etudiants de Quebec (UGEQ). Now, a student can live in Quebec, work there in the summer, get his scholarships and bursaries there, but have no say in the education policies UGEQ is pressing for because he attends university across the river in Ontario. And Ontario universities belong to CUS."

She'll have time to think about these matters this summer, because the union president is expected to stay at the university and plan next year's program, at a salary of $65 dollars a week.

Monique isn't in it for the money, though. To take the presidency with its summer residence requirement, she turned down a job with the federal government at exactly twice the salary.

BERMUDA GOLF HAT

In the pro shop at one of Bermuda's loveliest courses, an airy tulle golf hat can be purchased to be worn on windy days.

It is especially designed to keep hair beautifully coiffed while golfing on that heavenly island, even in the breeziest weather.

Since North America is no second-rater when it comes to wide open windy courses at this time of year, we are left with two choices.

Ladies, we can wing our way to Bermuda and pick up half a dozen in assorted pastel shades, or we can purchase 2-3 of a yard of net tulle in any of our favorite colors, some narrow elastic, and make one for ourselves.

Briefly, the instructions are to cut a 26" circle of net, draw in the edge with the elastic, (binding is optional) tie a small ball of leftover nylon tulle scraps into the crown to form a pompom and take off for the first tee!

There is also a second, slightly fancier method, and the patterns and complete instructions for both types are yours for the asking — in the hope that a hint from you will be ours for the asking . . . and we're asking!

LOW COST CASSEROLE DISH

When members of parliament returned to their constituencies during the Easter recess their voters nagged them about the high price of food in Canada.

I am no M.P. but you are nagging me too. I have been on the beat-the-cost-of-living bandwagon for months. With a fresh one-pound package of wieners in hand I continued my cost-lowering campaign and girls, this casserole will freeze so I have doubled up the recipe.

MAC AND FRANK CASS

(may be frozen — total recipe serves 8 people):

NOTE:

I divided this into two casseroles — one for the current meal and froze the other in a freezerproof ovenproof dish and sealed it and froze it.

3 cups uncooked macaroni shells or elbows (or other macaroni shapes or broken noodles), 6 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/3 cup cooking oil or melted margarine, 1½ cup flour, 2¼ teaspoons salt, 4 cups hot milk, ¼ pound old Cheddar cheese (2 to 3½ cups when shredded on grater), ¼ teaspoon accent, ½ teaspoon onion salt, 1 pound wieners, sliced cheese (for topping), paprika.

Cook the macaroni in the boiling water with the 1 teaspoon salt 15 minutes. Drain through colander.

Meanwhile in a very large pot heat the oil or margarine and stir in flour and second amount of salt. When blended stir in the hot milk until thick and smooth. Add the grated or shredded cheese, accent, onion salt and drained macaroni. Turn into 3 medium-sized casseroles — one should be freezerproof like corningware. Now cut wieners in halves crosswise. Erect them like a picket fence around the edges, pushing them, cut side down, until they touch bottom. Cover exposed top with thin slices of Cheddar cheese. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Bake one of them for current meal at 350 deg. Fahr. for ½ hour. Cover and freeze one like the other and freeze for a future meal. Bake frozen casserole direct from freezer uncovered at 350 deg. Fahr. 1 hour.

We all thought these flavors blended exceptionally well.

UterineCancer Can Be Cured Says Doctor

HAMILTON (CP)—Dr. June Scudamore, chief of the Hamilton General Hospital's cytology department, said Wednesday early detection of uterine cancer results in almost 100-per-cent chance of cure.

Dr. Scudamore, one of several doctors addressing a female audience following a cancer film, said PAP smears should be done in a doctor's office, not in a hospital or cancer clinic. A PAP smear is a simple test to determine if cancer is present in the cervix.

The audience was also told by the doctors' panel that every woman over 20, married or single, should have a PAP smear at least once a year. The tests should continue until after the age of 60.

They also learned that a mother of eight children is more prone to cancer than a woman who has had only one or two, especially if she had several children before she was 21.

Body Shops Prepare Woman for Bikini Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Body maintenance shops are getting ready for the bikini season, re-shaping women who have the fleetness for physical fitness.

From California to Maine, trained spas work at renewing a woman's body and rekindling her spirit in luxurious surroundings.

It's part of the beauty people's scheme to show a woman how attractive she can be if she tries—really tries—with herbal baths, soothing saunas, needle showers, scientific body massages and exercise.

"Anyone can do anything to their figure they want to if they work on it," says Miss Marjorie Craig, who puts a coterie of women through their paces at Elizabeth Arden's pink salon on Fifth Avenue.

For the woman dedicated to getting into beautiful shape, it can cost $1,100 for two weeks at the Neiman-Marcus Greenhouse in Texas, $385 a week at Palm Springs Spa in California or $475 a week at Hambletonian Spa, Goshen, N.Y.

The Elizabeth Arden Maine Chance Farms in Maine and Arizona charge about $800 a week.

Elizabeth Arden also offers a day of instant morale—and chiffering for $50 at salons from Honolulu to Paris.

For teen-agers, the Greenhouse will open its doors this summer for two weeks of instruction on makeup, care of the hair, the proper way to walk, talk and sit, planning a wardrobe and acting as hostess. It costs $975 for two weeks, $500 for one.

"If you want to look good at 50, you must start at 15," said Miss Philomena Morgan, 25, who blushes faces at the Arden emporium on Fifth Avenue.

It is a profitable business for the beauty firms and helps them sell a variety of cosmetics never known to Cleopatra.

A woman at Elizabeth Arden may use 36 different preparations from the Arden collection of 450 during a single day—everything from cleaning to foot creams.

Four of the six "definites" will play at O'Keefe Centre; the other two, requiring more intimate surroundings, have been booked into the smaller Royal Alexandria Theatre.

The six are:

Showboat: a brand new production of the great American classic with music by Jerome Kern, lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, based on the novel by Edna Ferber, will open at O'Keefe Centre on October 3, for two weeks. This presentation by the Music Theatre of Lincoln Center, will star Barbara Cook, Constance Towers, Stephen Douglass, David Wayne and Winston Warfield.

Fiddler on the roof: Now in its 8th week on Broadway, the winner of the 1964-65 Drama Critics' Circle Award, will play at the Centre for two weeks starting November 7. "A big, fat hit, this musical is a spellbinding, glorious re-creation of the wonderful world of Sholem Aleichem," says Cue Magazine.

At the drop of another hat: A crisp new edition of the non-sense-revue - - with completely different material - - in which these witty and inventive entertainers, Donald Swann and Michael Flanders, co-star with their grand piano. After a long London run, this successor to "At the Drop of a Hat" will be seen for two weeks commencing November 28.

Man of La Mancha: Arriving here on January 2, 1967, the Cervantes Don-Quixote musical has been described by Life Magazine as "an extraordinary, rule-defying hit that reveals some telling facts not only about popular entertainment but about the temper of our times. . . the season's most outstanding musical - - a metaphysical smashero."

The Odd Couple: One of the funniest comedies in hit Broadway in many seasons, Neil Simon's play has been staged by Mike Nichols and has been convulsing New York for more than a year. Television's Lonesome George - George Gobel - will play the lead for four weeks starting September 12. This one will be seen at the Royal Alexandra theatre.

Generation: Another Broadway long-runner (31 weeks at current count), this is a salty comedy concerning a midwestern advertising executive who visits his "advanced" daughter in her Greenwich Village loft menage. With Robert Young as star, "Generation" will be seen at the Royal Alexandra for four weeks starting December 12.

Mr. Walker also listed four attraction for which negotiations have not been completed but which he said were "likely starters."

You Never Can Tell: The Bernard Shaw comedy, direct from a long run in London with one of Britain's foremost stars, Ralph Richardson, and a cast of leading players.

On A Clear Day You Can See Forever: One of Broadway's brightest musicals of the current season, this one has book and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner and music by Burton Lane.

Robert and Elizabeth: A hit musical from London, based on the popular play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street, "telling of the romance of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett.

Barnum: Alexander Cohen promises a new musical about the greatest showman who ever lived with, naturally, a circus background.

Other attractions which have been booked for the 1966-67 season, Mr. Walker added, will include the Canadian Opera Company, opening September 19; the New York City Ballet, opening October 24; The Metropolitan Opera National Company, making a return visit for the week of December 12; the national Ballet of Canada, presenting its celebrated, colorful "Nutcracker" opening December 26; the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, Folkloric of Mexico; the Red Army Chorus: a new production of "The Desert Song" and a return visit by Harry Belafonte who still holds the box office record for any single entertainer at O'Keefe Centre.

The showgoer series consists of ten attractions, for which subscribers pay prices lower than the normal box office scale (from a minimum of $16.00 to a minimum of $62.00). As they have discovered during the Centre's first six years of operation, Showgoers enjoy many advantages over casual or move-and-then theatre - goers. They have the same seats for every attraction in the section of the theatre they choose. They never have had to stand in line at the box office, and they hear all about non - Showgoer attractions at O'Keefe Centre before anyadvertising is done and are able to order tickets before the sale is open to the general public. They can also order tickets by telephone — a privilege not extended to others.

The Showgoer series is a project of O'Keefe Centre in cooperation with the Theatre Guild-American Society whose members — all leading producers — have pledged to give their finest attractions to the subscription program.

One hundred thousand brochures outlining the 1966-67 Showgoer series, with full instructions on how to become a subscriber, were mailed last week. All present Showgoers will automatically receive a copy as will those who are on O'Keefe Centre's mailing list. The brochures will also be available at the Centre, in travel racks and at all Shell Service Stations in the Metropolitan area. They may be ordered by mail from the Showgoer Secretary, O'Keefe Centre, Front and Yonge Sts., Toronto.

OMSIP enrollment period extended to May 16th

Ontario Health Minister Dr. M. B. Dymond has announced that residents of the Province may still receive full Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan coverage and benefits by July 1st providing they enroll in the Plan before May 16th.

"The Plan is a success," declared the Minister. "The number of applications received already cover more than 1,100,000 of our citizens."

Dr. Dymond added, however, that a large number of residents had indicated they would join OMSIP but for a variety of reasons had been unable to send in their application in time. The OMSIP open enrollment period has therefore been extended by two weeks in order that these persons may qualify for coverage from the day the Plan goes into effect on July 1st.

"The May 16th deadline is final," added the minister. "This enrollment deadline cannot be extended any further because it takes time to process such a flood of applications even with the most modern equipment available."

The extension of the open enrollment period means that those residents who have already enrolled, and those who enroll before May 16th, will be protected by OMSIP, beginning July 1st.

Ontario residents who enroll after May 16th will have to undergo a minimum three month waiting period before they are entitled to OMSIP coverage and benefits, said Dr. Dymond.

OMSIP head office is located at 133 St. Clair West, Toronto. Applications are already being processed by modern micro-photo methods and computers.

Notification of acceptance to be sent out shortly

People who have already enrolled in OMSIP need not apply a second time.

Dr. Dymond stated that their applications are now being processed, and their notification will arrive in the mail very soon.

The second enrollment period (deadline May 16th) is for people who missed the first deadline.

OMSIP PROVIDES COVERAGE REGARDLESS OF AGE, INCOME, OR HEALTH

OMSIP has been established to provide adequate insurance coverage for the payment of doctors' bills, and to make this coverage available to all Ontario residents regardless of their age, income, or state of health.

Enrollment in OMSIP is voluntary.

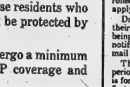
The Plan is intended for individuals and their families and does not provide group coverage. (Group coverage is where a number of individuals collectively purchase insurance through their place of employment, union, etc.)

Everyone who has lived in Ontario for the past 3 months is eligible to join, except those who are entitled to physicians' services under another Act.

Members are free to choose their own doctor. If a member travels outside the province, and requires care, OMSIP will still pay the doctors' bills up to OMSIP established rates.

People who find they cannot continue to pay for all or part of their OMSIP contract because of unemployment, illness or disability, may apply for temporary assistance in paying their fees.

Payment system is flexible



Doctors' bills are paid for you by OMSIP in either of two ways.

Your doctor may submit his bill directly to OMSIP. This is the most convenient method for everyone and it is hoped most doctors will use it.

Or your doctor may prefer to bill you directly. In this case, two courses of action are open to you.

You may pay the bill and submit the receipted account to OMSIP, or you may submit the account to OMSIP prior to paying the doctor.

In either situation when the doctor bills you directly, you will be paid the amount of the established OMSIP rates. These rates are based on 90% of the current schedule of fees listed and prepared by the Ontario Medical Association.

Legislation approving the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan—OMSIP for short—was passed in the Ontario Legislature on Feb. 18th of this year. Coverage commenced April 1st for social assistance recipients. Coverage will begin July 1st for those who have already enrolled, or who enroll now before May 16th.

OLD AGE PENSIONERS

Many old age pensioners have automatically been enrolled in OMSIP but most must fill in and submit an application.

Those who will get automatic coverage are pensioners who are presently receiving benefit under the Ontario Old Age Assistance Act, or those pensioners who have been declared eligible for coverage by the Ontario Department of Welfare. Those pensioners have already received their OMSIP registration cards.

All other pensioners must complete and submit an application to receive OMSIP coverage.

If you have not received an OMSIP registration card, or have not already sent in an application form, you must apply before May 16th for coverage when the Plan starts on July 1st.

Many qualify for full or partial assistance

Since the aim of OMSIP legislation is to provide adequate medical insurance for Ontario residents, full or partial premium assistance is available for those who require it.

Automatic fully-paid coverage

Many residents and their dependants have automatically received fully paid coverage under OMSIP. These are people who are already receiving benefits under the following Acts:

- The Blind Persons' Allowances Act
- The Disabled Persons' Allowances Act
- The General Welfare Assistance Act
- The Mothers' Allowances Act
- The Old Age Assistance Act
- The Rehabilitation Services Act

Automatic fully-paid coverage is also provided for old age security pensioners and their dependants declared eligible for coverage by the Ontario Department of Public Welfare.

Fully-paid coverage on application

People resident in Ontario for the past 12 months and who had no taxable income in 1965 get full assistance.

This means if these people make out their application form now, before May 16th, they will get OMSIP protection, fully paid for by the government, starting this July 1st.

In addition, many who have been resident in Ontario for the past 12 months will be eligible for partial assistance, depending on their taxable income and number of dependants. (See below).

ILA Denies Responsibility For Ordering Workers Back

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) has denied responsibility for ordering its 4,350 striking members back to work "in view of the present attitude" of the Shipping Federation of Canada, an ILA spokesman said Wednesday night.

The union was served with three injunctions late Tuesday "which prohibits interference with the work of three companies. The injunctions were issued by Mr. Justice Harry Batshaw at the request of lawyer Julien Chapman, who represents Canada Steamship Lines, Clarke Steamships and Agence Maritime.

The strike began Monday when 3,500 longshoremen in Montreal walked off the job. About 750 longshoremen in Quebec City and Trois - Rivieres stopped work Tuesday. The dispute, which is said to involve parking problems for union members, is thought to be principally due to demands by the union on a proposed new working agreement.

DENOUNCED FEDERATION

The ILA spokesman denounced the federation for seeking the injunctions "instead of trying to solve the problem."

He said the union wants to remind the federation that "injunctions don't unload ships."

The strike has affected shipping in Montreal harbor.

Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill said in Ottawa Wednesday settlement of the strike is a "matter of national urgency." The strike had come at a time when Canada has to move large quantities of wheat through St. Lawrence River ports.

The ILA spokesman said union representatives would appear in court here for the injunction hearing Friday, the day that the injunctions expire. The next step would be a meeting of the union executive Friday night and a general membership of the membership Sunday "if we have anything to present to the membership at that time."

MEETING SCHEDULED

Meanwhile, ILA leaders from Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres and representatives of the federation were to attend a meeting with conciliator Judge Claude Prevost in an attempt to settle the contract dispute.

The spokesman said the meeting had been planned before the walkout and was not directly concerned with it although the contract dispute is a major factor.

Judge Prevost was named to the conciliation post earlier after negotiations on a working agreement, to replace one that expired last year, broke down.

A port spokesman Wednesday estimated the strike is costing about $2,000 a ship a day to the industry.

Nine Injured By Mysterious Explosion

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—An explosion of unknown origin injured nine persons, including four children, when it toppled a house here Wednesday night.

In hospital with serious burns are Mrs. Ilene Smigelski, 27, and her daughter, Sheri Ann, 2. Mrs. Olive Schroeder, 34, of Wierton was taken to hospital with fractured ribs, and Jim Smigelski was treated for minor injuries.

Treated and released were Wilf Schroeder, 36; Mrs. Terence Swain, 41; Vincent Swain, 13; Sandra Swain, 16; and Lee Ann Smigelski, 3.

The Smigelski family lived on the ground floor of the building and the Swains lived upstairs.

The blast knocked out the walls and brought the roof down. A small fire started by the explosion was quickly extinguished.

Peking Mayor Not Present At Ceremony

TOKYO (AP)—The absence of Peking mayor Peng Chen, one of China's most powerful men, from ceremonies honoring visiting Albanian and Rumanian delegations added to speculation today, that he may be in disgrace.

Peng, 67, No. 8 in the Communist party hierarchy and a member of its ruling politburo was absent from banquets given for each visiting delegation and did not go to Peking airport Wednesday to see Albanians off or to greet the Rumanians.

Tokyo students of Chinese affairs, diplomats, newspaper men and scholars are wondering whether Peng has been caught up in the current "anti-party" purge.

PARTY CHAIRMAN

Mao Tse-tung made his first announced public appearance in six months at the banquet for the Albanians Tuesday, and nearly everybody else who is anybody in the Communist party appeared. Albania is Peking's only Communist ally in Europe.

Peng's absence from the functions suggests that he could be under suspicion because of one of his vice-mayors, Wu Han, and two communist party newspapers in the capital have been under sharp attack for their wobbly approach to Maoism.

Tories Split On Dief's Plea For House TV

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's proposal to televise Commons sittings was the approval of one of his party's MPs Wednesday and the disapproval of another.

Richard A. Bell told the Young Progressive Conservative Association in his riding of Carleton live television coverage would tempt the members to spend their time acting for the audience.

David MacDonald, a United Church minister who represents the Prince Edward Island ridings of Prince, told the same group newspapers have free access and television should have equal rights.

Television is a national unifying force and parliamentary coverage would help develop public interest in the institution, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested Tuesday Commons proceedings should be televised live for a half hour daily.

Fulton Objects to Headline Used by Morning Paper Of Testimony at Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Davie Fulton told the Commons Wednesday that by his account the Gerda Munsinger inquiry said that then Prime Minister Diefenbaker's judgment to keep Pierre Sevigny in the federal cabinet had been "vindicated."

Mr. Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, spoke on a question of privilege, objecting to the headline and first paragraph of a Toronto Globe and Mail report Tuesday of his testimony at the inquiry Monday.

"In my evidence I repeated that in arriving at a decision on this point of a security risk the prime minister would properly take into account the factors of Mr. Sevigny's character, loyalty, war record and family reputation; and that in my estimation on the basis of all these considerations, including the absence of any breach of security before or after December, 1959, the judgment to keep him in the cabinet was vindicated."

The headline on the story, Fulton felt Sevigny A Security Risk But Stayed In The Cabinet Two Years, creates a "false and misleading impression," said Mr. Fulton.

And the first paragraph is "simply not true and is contrary to the position" taken in his evidence, he said.

The first paragraph said: "Z. Davie Fulton acknowledged yesterday that he remained in the Diefenbaker cabinet with Pierre Sevigny for two years believing that Mr. Sevigny was a risk to the security of Canada."

Mr. Fulton said he checked the story against the transcript of his testimony.

He said that in his evidence he referred to the definition of a security risk and said that in assessing such a case account would have to be taken of a person's character, his loyalty to his country and the possibility of his succumbing to blackmail.

Mr. Fulton said he testified that Mr. Sevigny was not a man likely to submit to blackmail.

"I said that both after Mr. Munsinger left Canada in February, 1961, I received no indication from the RCMP of any continuing concern with respect to security and that if I had, I would have raised the matter again.

"It should also be added that evidence was given before the commission that while Mrs. Munsinger was in Canada after her association with Mr. Sevigny was known, the RCMP officer in charge of the surveillance reported to his superiors that in his judgment there was no reason to continue surveillance from a security point of view."

He said he brought U Thant up to date on the International Control Commission for Viet Nam, which could be a "useful mechanism" when the time arrived to help settle the Vietnamese conflict.

The two also discussed economic sanctions against Rhodesia and U Thant's visit to the Expo 67 site in Montreal and to Windsor University convocation May 27-28.

sistance were not the only ways the problem of farm poverty could be changed.

A farmer who found himself operating an uneconomic unit had two avenues open to him. "He can acquire a better education through one means or another . . . or he can borrow money and enlarge his unit and intensify his production."

Forestry Minister Sauve and other government spokesmen have already agreed that education is necessary to the farmer but they have pointed out that the main purpose of the new legislation is to get away from a program of social welfare.

Caught in the middle of a short day — the Commons sits only from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Wednesdays — the government has scheduled a third day of debate on the measure today.

U.S. Too Big To Be Loved Says Pearson

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States is too big, too strong and too rich to be loved by other nations, Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday night.

His dew laughter from 600 persons at a Columbia University banquet with this comment:

"You can acquire respect but not affection. You are too big, too strong and too rich to be loved."

He said Americans should not expect material gain or popular gratitude when their government assumes ever greater participation in international affairs.

Such involvement was the price of power.

Rome's Greatest Spectacle Unfolds for All Once Weekly

By KENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Once a week, in the biggest church in Christendom, Rome's greatest spectacle unfolds in a drama of color, light and sound.

It used to be reserved for only the noble and the powerful of the world. But since the Second World War millions from around the globe and every walk of life have shared it.

It is the weekly general audience held by the supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church. Anyone of any faith or no faith—can go.

Fewer than 1,000 persons a year speak face to face with the Pope in private audience. Most of these are Roman Catholic bishops and cardinals with church business or visiting notables from foreign countries.

Yet each year 500,000 tourists see and hear the Pope in a weekly meeting.

Ten months of the year the pope's weekly visit with his 10,000 guests unfolds in the splendor and baroque richness of St. Peter's Basilica.

Each summer the setting switches—usually from the middle of July until September—to Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles south of Rome. There a glass-walled audience hall built 15 years ago near the papal summer palace holds the throng in an oblong of austere modern decor.

General audiences, almost unknown in the 1800s and impossible in the war years, were made a fixture in the post-war years by Pope Pius XII.

The personal warmth of Pope John XXIII attracted hordes to the general audience, and the buildup has continued unabated with Pope Paul.

Admission to a general audience is by ticket, free of charge. Countries which have diplomatic relations with the Vatican get their tickets at their country's embassy in Rome.

Americans apply at the American audience office near the Trevi Fountain where the U.S. bishops have installed a fulltime staff to do nothing but handle requests.

NO RESERVED SEATS

Tickets are numbered and marked according to section. But the chairs and wooden benches inside—for those whose tickets entitle them to a seat—are unmarked. Thus those who arrive earliest on audience day get the best places.

Vatican gendarmes pay little attention to camera fans for this rare picture-taking chance. Nor do they care any more whether a woman's head is covered with a veil. But the bare female arm still bothers them, and many a woman in a sleeveless dress had been moved to tears of frustration or anger when she is turned away at the door.

Stationed in coats previously throughout the throng are 100 plainclothes Vatican and Roman gendarmes.

"We worry more about excited, shoving nuns and the possibility of the Pope being crushed in a stampede than anything else," one of them remarked.

No two audiences are exactly alike. Sometimes the Sistine choir is there, sometimes a children's choir from France or Germany.

Suddenly there is a commotion in the crowd. All the lights in the great basilica blaze, bathing the 90-foot twisted bronze columns of the canopied concave altar in a brilliance that makes them seem antique gold. The dazzling sight draws a gasp from the crowd. The Pope is coming at last.

He sways slightly in his chair, which is borne on long poles by eight liveried attendants. It is his portable throne. Though he prefers walking, he uses it so that all may see him. Invariably he is smiling as he lifts both arms in greeting, now and then moving his right arm in blessing.

He is wearing a short red cape, trimmed in white fur, over his white cassock. Hanging around his neck and down across his chest is a richly embroidered stole worked with golden threads and depicting saints Peter and Paul. The simple white zucchetto, or skullcap, is on his head.

He climbs the carpeted steps to the altar but before sitting on the throne he walks completely around the altar and the four columns so that all may see him.

In the first minutes the Pope is at his best, speaking informally and pointing out certain special groups. He mentions there are newly ordained priests in the crowd. Next he mentions the newlyweds and points them out. They are seated in a group, sometimes as many as 300 couples. Honeymooners get special treatment every week and a present from the Pope—something not generally known. Usually a rosary for the bride and a religious medal for the groom, both blessed by the Pope.

"Now, beloved friends, we wish to turn to our principal theme today," says the Pope. The pontiff's discourse, always in Italian, lasts 10 to 15 minutes.

When the Pope is finished a French - speaking monsignor mentions the French groups present. The Pope speaks for them briefly in French, summarizing the Italian discourse he has just finished. The same thing is repeated in German, Spanish and English.

Almost one hour has passed by the time the Pope, descending the stairs and waving in response to the applause, again takes his place on the portable throne and is carried way down the nave of the basilica and out to one side.

First Director of CBC National News Is Commissioned to Write Its History

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—If Dan McArthur draws deeply from personal files, such as the one on "skullduggery," his history of the CBC national news may have to be printed on asbestos.

The files hold, among other things, a memo-by-memo account of the battle to build an unfettered, objective news service for the CBC. McArthur, who organized the CBC radio news service in 1940 and spent the next 13 years as chief editor, has been commissioned by the CBC to write the story of the 1940-53 period.

(CP Photo)

HE'S GOT THEM ON HIS LIST—The personal files of Dan McArthur hold, among other things, a memo-by-memo account of his battle to build an unfettered, objective news service for the CBC. McArthur, who organized the CBC radio news service in 1940 and spent the next 13 years as chief editor, has been commissioned by the CBC to write the story of the 1940-53 period.

The other things are etchings and sketches, cartoons, poetry, doggerel and photographs.

"Who's this?" asked a reporter.

"Me," snarled Daniel Carman McArthur, now 68 and unhappy to concede anything to age.

The pregnant files also produced a poem written in the 1880s by Bliss Carman, McArthur's godfather. Typed neatly on toilet paper, it is dedicated to "The Prince of the Bohemians."

The prince was Peter McArthur, Dan's father, better known in Ontario as the bucolic "Sage of Ekfrid" who wrote two columns weekly for years for the old Toronto Globe and contributed to other publications as well.

BORN IN BROOKLYN

Dan McArthur was born among the Bohemians in a Brooklyn flat Aug. 12, 1897, started school in London, England, and was raised through adolescence in an ivy-covered log cabin near Appin, Ont., not far from London.

He learned to etch, sketch, write, tap maple sugar, have good times and live a zesty, effective life.

He organized the CBC radio news service in 1940 and spent the next 13 years in Toronto fighting, as chief editor, for its integrity.

Now the CBC has commissioned him to write the story of the 1940-53 period. It was an era that imprinted upon him the level-eyed, set look of an admiral about to order a barrage.

The determined look isn't deceptive. But it isn't the whole man.

"He'd be sitting on a train looking surly," recalls a friend, "then without a word he'd take out his concertina, start playing, and all hell would break loose."

McArthur excelled not only on the concertina but in composition of limericks. On one occasion he entertained a group of friends for an entire evening with a combination of the two.

FEW PUBLISHABLE

He has the reputation of having composed limericks rhyming the names of any Ontario town his friends suggested. Among the known efforts were verses for Pickering, Brantford, Guelph and Mount Brydges, none publishable.

A publishable, and non-typical example:

The people who live in Omemee
Lead lives that are quiet and dreamy
Their voices are low
Their movements are slow
Their complexions are peaches and creamy.

If most of his limericks are unprintable, so were his reactions, as editor, to attempts to tinker with the news. His gamy memos are cherished as morale-boosters by CBC executives and newspaper men.

A mild passage from one describes the personnel and administration department as "that lumpus growth that now covers the whole CBC like a green mildew."

A CBC man, recalling the memo with nostalgia, said: "If they'd listened to Dan 12 years ago, there wouldn't be the crisis there is today."

He was referring to the controversy between Toronto producers and Ottawa management over This Hour Has Seven Days.

FIRED FOR VULGARITY

Such battles are familiar to McArthur.

He entered radio with the old Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission in 1933 at $20 a week with a program on which he and Robinson F. MacLean clipped news items, adapted them to verse and delivered them with music.

The CRBC fired him and MacLean for "vulgarity"—the result of a light-hearted poem on the bathing problems of the people at St. Genevieve de St. Pierre when the water pipes were frozen.

"There never was a very good rapport between Ottawa and Toronto," McArthur says.

The CBC was young and intimate when he came into it in 1940 but even then there were problems.

One was the late Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, minister of national war services, who tended to look upon the news department as a mouthpiece.

The problem of Gen. LaFleche was compounded by the late Dr. Augustin Frigon, then CBC general manager.

"Frigon's attitude," says McArthur, "was simply to bow to authority."

USED THREATS

When efforts were made to suppress—CBC coverage of anti-conscription riots in Quebec "as a public example," McArthur argued that any restriction should apply to all news media.

In this way, he fought off a civil service approach to a news situation.

Gen. LaFleche once went into the Montreal newsroom to try to keep a story about ructions in New Brunswick mental hospitals off the air. McArthur recalls that the late Premier Maurice Duplessis also had "a fussy slant on newsmen." He felt $200 would handle anything.

The editor kept a detailed record of attempts to compromise the news service and he used it to good effect at times. Threats to publish it usually cowed politicians and bureaucrats.

Dr. Frigon, an engineer, could never quite grasp the principles behind McArthur's resistance to any interference with the news.

It was the classic CBC confrontation: McArthur the producer in Toronto fighting off Frigon the administrator in Ottawa.

COVERED FARM BEAT

Stubborn, shrewd, efficient and irreverent, McArthur one way or another usually made his points.

"The CBC can thank him for most of the good things in the news department and the bad things are mostly monuments to battles he lost," says a magazine editor familiar with those days.

McArthur came to the CBC with seemingly weird credentials.

A 1921 graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, he worked as a farm reporter for The Globe ad The Farmer's Sun in Toronto.

He studied art and wrote advertising briefly in New York, and was publicity director for the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto from 1925 to 1932.

For the next three years, he was Canadian agent for Chilean Nitrate, a company that sold fertilizer. A high point of this job was the free Buick that went with it.

In 1931, Chilean Nitrate pulled out of Canada, leaving McArthur jobless with wife Dorothy and five children — four girls and a boy. They later had a fifth daughter.

Who's Who doesn't say what he did for the next three years but they were active. At one point, he wrote advertising for five competing chicken hatcheries.

He held the radio job and sold cartoons to the Canadian Countryman, a sideline for almost 30 years.

Even a depression couldn't repress the music and hijinks of McArthur and his concertina.

Ad Astra, a poem he and the late Jack Charlesworth wrote in 1933 about the Toronto Star, caused a sensation in the city.

The Star, using features to boost circulation, was publishing the love letters of Charles Dickens, his Life of Christ and the diary of Edith Cavell, the British Red Cross nurse executed by a German firing squad in 1915.

Ad Astra's first verse spoofed the circulation drive this way:

To Hindmarsh and Knowles, Mr. Atkinson spoke:
If we don't sell more papers, we'll surely go broke.
I've three super-salesmen who say they can sell,
They're Jesus and Dickens and Edith Cavell.

J. E. Atkinson was The Star's founder and publisher, H. C. Hindmarsh its vice-president and Veron Knowles its managing editor.

GOT STEADY JOB

The poem attracted so much attention that McArthur soon found himself steadily employed again, this time writing promotional copy for the Maclean Publishing Co.

"A job was a job," he says, with some distaste.

But he threw himself into the challenge of building the CBC news department with energy and determination.

With the advent of television in 1953, he came to Ottawa as director of special program projects and retired in 1962.

The walls of CBC headquarters are bright with his water colors. His study has sketches and paintings of his god father, Bliss Carman and others of the day.

Illustrator C. W. Jefferys immortalized the McArthur log cabin, now part of a pioneer village at Doon, Ont., near Kitchener.

It was built of black walnut logs on 50 acres of land cleared by his grandparents near Appin.

Dan McArthur's father was raised on the scriptures, read in the Gaelic. A Presbyterian minister recognized his thirst for books, talked his parents into letting him join a library, and started a brilliant career.

EDITED MAGAZINE

Truth, a forerunner of The New Yorker, was the first color magazine printed in New York. As editor, Peter McArthur published Stephen Leacock, O. Henry, Duncan Campbell Scott, Archibald Lampman and Carman.

Like Thoreau, he returned to the land in 1908, renovating the log cabin and living there until his death in 1924 as "The Sage of Ekfrid."

His poetry and columns were gentle and humorous. In one, he asks Providence on behalf of Dan "to pound his father's failings out, his mother's virtues in."

The elder McArthur contributed to Punch, The Atlantic Monthly, Saturday Night and other top magazines.

Dan's published work has been limited to a history of the 58th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, with which he served in the First World War. The battery celebrated its 50th anniversary at Guelph in April.

You just can't buy a better beer!

Ask the Official Analysts

They'll tell you that in the past few weeks Dow has come through the toughest tests of any beer in the entire history of brewing.
And it came through with flying colours for brewing methods...quality...purity...and taste.

Ask our competitors

Sure they're proud of their own products. And rightly so. But even they can tell you that Dow has always met the highest industry standards for quality of ingredients, processes, and the care with which Dow products are brewed.

Ask the Dow drinker

He'll be happy to tell you why he's loyal to Dow. And don't be surprised if he talks about great taste, and refreshment, and a real out-and-out beer-drinking enjoyment no other brew can match.

Ask us

As far as we're concerned the headline says it all: You just can't buy a better beer, so next time, make yours Dow. There couldn't be a better time for you to swing to Dow. It'll pay off in pleasure and satisfaction for you. We promise.

Ask yourself

Next time shouldn't you make yours Dow?

Major Unity Move in Brussels May Effect British ECM Bid

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's bold and brassy speeches about possibly joining the European Common Market are essentially shouts into a canyon where there is no echo. The more Britain talks of joining a modified Common Market, the less modified the Common Market becomes.

The Brussels decided to end internal bickering among the six members over farm financing and to fix a date for elimination of remaining internal industrial tariffs is a giant step in establishing the strong economic unit envisaged by the Treaty of Rome.

It doesn't establish the political unity which formed part of the original dream of a Europe so highly integrated that it no longer could entertain thoughts of the kind of aggression that caused two world wars.

To the extent that these member countries agree, the Western world will rest easier. At time passes, "maintenance of this developing economic unity will become so vital that each member 'country will become less inclined to allow political differences to lead to a military showdown.

MAY HURT BRITAIN

Nevertheless, the Brussels decision may make British exporters sigy. In the past British diplomacy bedeviled to some extent by cross-border differences among European neighbors and competitors. It would be to the benefit of the British economy if she could have some free and easy relationship with the Common Market while retaining her old tariff preferences with the Commonwealth.

But the compromise Britain seeks becomes steadily less available. The few whispers from Paris which hinted that President de Gaulle might be more receptive to a fresh British application to the Common Market appear to have been magnified by over-eager British officials.

There is no open urge from either Paris or Brussels that Britain attempt to renegotiate and certainly no suggestion that the Common Market would be prepared to modify its policies in order to win Britain.

The situation would suggest, instead, that either Britain throw in the sponge and openly plead for membership on Common Market terms — ditching Commonwealth preferences — or attempt to form a stronger association with other trading partners, including Canada, United States and Australia.

It is unlikely that either Canada or the U.S. would be prepared to entertain construction of a special Anglo-Saxon trade bloc since this would undermine the multilateral policies which these governments pursue. Unless planed against as economic wall, Britain is unlikely to sacrifice Commonwealth links.

For the moment Britain may be able only to sit and watch or continue to make loud noises which bring no Brussels response. The one bright hope is that the Brussels agreement may make the Common Market more responsive to the Kennedy round of world tariff bargaining, which now has reached a critical stage.

Munsinger Case Damages Soviet-Canadian Relations

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda today charged that the Gerda Munsinger case is being used to "cast a shadow on the Soviet Union."

The newspaper of the Soviet Communist party said in an Ottawa story the case is perpetrating the "myth" of Soviet spies in Canada.

"It is clear to every sober-minded person that all this cannot promote better relations between the Soviet Union and Canada," Pravda concluded. The article was apparently the first reference to the Munsinger case in the Soviet press.

The newspaper accused "some members of the cabinet" — it did not name them — of being involved in trying to use the scandal for anti-Soviet purposes.

"It is curious," the article said, "that in this they were willingly helped by the FBI."

Pravda repeated its charge, made many times in the past, that "certain circles in the United States" are interested in promoting anti-Soviet feeling in Canada.

The newspaper, which serves as semi-official spokesman for the government, maintained that not only is the Munsinger case being used in an attempt to worsen Canadian-Soviet relations, there is another motive behind it—to intimidate common Canadians from having contact with the "Soviet people." Pravda mentioned Soviet exhibitions in Canada, reasoning that attendance at these could be affected.

"An attempt is made to convince the Canadian citizens that notes are waiting for them at almost every corner."

Pravda took the position that the Canadian government has serious economic and social problems to deal with, "but the government puts aside serious problems for a so-called national security case."

Govt. Still Searching For 'Perfect Way' to Get Children Into Schools

TORONTO (CP)—John Yaremko, provincial secretary and citizenship minister, told the Ontario legislature Wednesday the government is still searching for a "perfect way" of assimilating non-English speaking immigrant children into the province's regular schools.

In other business:

—Allister Johnson, (PC—Parry Sound), chairman of the publicly - owned Ontario Northland Railway, was unable to explain to a legislative committee why copies of correspondence concerning railway business were sent to Harry I. Price, a Conservative party fund-raiser.

—Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson told the house reporters should be allowed to record proceedings of the legislature on television and radio.

—Mr. Yaremko said the government is not considering making the office of legislature Speaker permanent.

—Mr. Johnson said the ONR rents sleeping cars from the CNR rather than buy its own at $240,000 each.

Mr. Yaremko, speaking during consideration of his department's estimates for the 1966-67 fiscal year, said "the problem of finding the perfect way of bringing immigrant children into the ordinary stream of school life has yet to be decided."

He said the matter is under study. However, "the short-term future will tell us what the happy medium" for such integration will be.

Stephen Lewis (NDP—Scarborough West) said the English-language course the government provides to newcomers "is in some respects enviable" but that failure rates are unduly high.

He said only 10 per cent of persons taking the English course completed certification.

Bishop Pike Considering Teacher's Role

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal (Anglican) bishop of the diocese of California and a storm centre of religious controversy, is considering a contemplative life and the role of scholar-teacher. He wants to resign as head of the diocese.

Bishop Pike, 53, also would like to become a part-time bishop, a man who is a bishop but who earns his income outside the church.

Bishop Pike, in a statement Wednesday, said if the church's House of Bishops approves his resignation proposal, he will become a member of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif.

He said the church is torn by conflict between the "in-group cish" feeling and the concept of Christianity as a cause. He said this has led to the church's decline and he wants to explore the conflict's roots "with the aim of presenting the faith in a way which is more relevant to contemporary man."

Hungarian Economists Oppose Trend Toward Self-Sufficiency

By JOHN BEST

BUDAPEST (CP)—One of the men closely associated with Hungary's economic reform program would like to see some sort of link between trading blocs of the Communist and Western world.

Prof. Imre Vadja of the University of Budapest holds that the tendency for countries and groups of countries to become more and more self - sufficient "has to be abandoned and fought against."

"It is a barrier against common progress and coexistence."

The scholarly-looking professor concedes, however, that the idea of co-operation between the trading blocs of Western Europe and the council of Mutual Economic Assistance (Comecon), the loosely-knit Soviet-bloc trade and development agency, is "wishful thinking and nothing else" at the moment.

He emphasizes that his is "purely a personal view" and that he has had no consultations about it at an official level.

Prof. Vadja is well known in the international community of economists. He speaks and writes English and produces many essays on economic themes for both Hungarian and foreign publications.

A major concern at present is the economic reforms due to go into general operation in this country in two years.

FITS PATTERN

The program contains many of the ingredients that characterize other such programs in Eastern Europe.

It provides for increased independence for individual factories, more emphasis on profit, greater material incentives for both plant managers and workers, and overhaul of price structure to make prices more closely reflect real costs.

The reforms would be an important preliminary to any future move to bring about a form of co-operation between trade blocs of East and West.

Vadja says that at an East-West conference of economists one time he put forward his idea of co-operation between Comecon on the one hand and the European Common Market and European Free Trade Association on the other.

"The response was sympathetic. But . . . there were a long series of buts."

In any case, it would be premature to deal now with questions about the possible extent of such a plan.

"The problem now is primarily one of principle . . . whether there are to be contacts, mutual recognition of the existence of the other trading group."

SHOULD HOLD TALKS

Talks should be held between the parties concerned to see "whether lines of co-operation and co-ordination could be worked out and in what fields."

His own feeling was that these could include tariffs, financing, liquidity and great development projects.

"These are better suited for talks on an international level than on a bilateral level."

It would be better to have an "open dialogue" between two trading groups than the present system where individual countries watch one another closely to see which may be trying to close a deal with some country on the other side of the East-West border.

"There are no institutional contacts at present but behind the scenes the same forces are acting on either side."

Prof. Vadja says cohesion of trading groups, carried to the point of self-sufficiency, would only serve to sharpen the division between East and West.

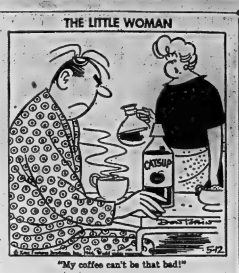
Within the framework of a general agreement, he suggests, enterprises would be free to conclude their own agreements with enterprises on the other side of the East-West frontier.

Recent developments in Comecon countries, giving greater autonomy to factory managers, would enhance the possibility of contacts leading to such agreements. These would be easier to work out at the factory level than at government level where they are usually handled on the Communist side.

EAST UNEASY

Asked whether he thought Eastern European countries could hold their own in open competition with the efficient industries of Western Europe, Prof. Vadja said their present lag in "quite a number of fields" is not necessary.

It was a consequence of former policies now being corrected. "The bureaucratic obstacles to greater efficiency now are being cleared away."



The economist's statements reflect a profound sense of uneasiness in Eastern Europe about the development of closed trading blocs in the West, especially the Common Market. The European Free Trade Association is regarded with less concern in this respect.

The economies of most Soviet-bloc countries have been floundering for a number of years and the present wave of reform is the result.

At the same time all the countries have been hungrily eyeing Western markets, intending to invade them with goods they hope will be competitive. The West would, in effect, provide the spur to ensure such competitiveness.

But it may not work out that way, largely because of the high common tariffs erected by the increasingly exclusive Common Market and because of quotas and similar obstacles raised against East European goods by other Western countries.

Many Eastern economists are frankly worried about the situation. But by no means all would be willing to accept Prof. Vadja's formula. One Hungarian government economist says he doesn't think Comecon should have any dealings with the Common Market because this would mean recognizing the market's supranational character and its political aspects.

Calla Lily Mass Produces Its Blooms

How many blooms can be expected from a calla lily in the course of a year?

Professional florists say that four or five blooms is the about the maximum, but if this is the case a Sidney township woman has a lily which has gone prolific.

Mrs. Walter Savage, living on the 4th of Sidney near Wallbridge, has a lily which is now working on its 31st bloom since Christmas. Fifteen of the blooms have come and gone, one is now in full flower and five more buds show promise of blooming in the near future.

One local florist offered the possible explanation that Mrs. Savage's lily may be an old plant whose new plant growth had not been separated.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Laurier LaPierre says CBC President Alphonse Ouimet and other top CBC officials have shown a bankruptcy of leadership and created a tremendous crisis within the corporation.

Nice Work If You Can Get It, McGill Scientists Live in Sun

By CY FOX

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (CP)—Skin-diving and cruising through the water in glass-bottomed boats are all part of the day's work for a group of casually - attired Canadians in the Bridgetown area.

They belong to McGill University's Bellairs Research Institute, which concentrates on study of the life that abounds in the waters around this sunny Caribbean island.

The studies are part of the research programs of the Montreal university. But they also are designed to help the 250,000 residents of Barbados derive more economic advantage from their marine resources.

The institute has been operating in this balmy setting since 1954. The Canadian and other students who work there have a host of exotic subjects to bring under their scrutiny — huge sea turtles, vast varieties of sea weeds, flying fish, fresh-water fish and sea shells.

To test the direction of sea currents they even stick messages in bottles and watch them float away.

Ottawa-born Dr. John Lewis, 41, who directs the institute's activities, reported that some of the bottles are being returned by people who plucked them from the sea along the coasts of Florida, Nicaragua or British Honduras.

STUDY FLYING FISH

The skin-diving done by Bellairs researchers is one technique of under-water investigation. So are the glass-bottomed boats and under-sea cameras.

Flying fish have been of major interest at Bellairs. The Barbados government, anxious to end excessive dependence on sugar as the country's largest money-maker, wants to turn flying fish, among other things, into a greater source of wealth.

The Canadians have been gathering information about the feeding and migrating habits of the flying fish, so that Barbados' fishermen can know the most effective forms of bait to use and where to go for best fishing results.

How the flying and other fish grow, when they breed and how they can best be conserved are other matters under study at the Canadian centre.

The institute employs local technicians and turns over its facilities to Barbadian students too.

Dr. Lewis parades around the institute in shorts and an open-collar shirt, though he holds the solemn-sounding title of associate professor of marine sciences at McGill.

LINKED BY TRADE

He shares a feeling, common here, that Canada has a special relationship with this lush island cooled by sea breezes.

There are age-old bonds of trade, with sugar and fish looming large in the economic exchanges between the two Commonwealth countries.

There are also bonds formed by education. Many "Bajans" have gone to Canada for their advanced schooling.

But Dr. Lewis says he thinks Canadians in general are "naive" and ill-informed about the West Indies.

McGill has a big research stake in Barbados—a high-altitude rocket project and, next door to Bellairs, the Bruce Research Institute, which is doing much work on such things as weather and the transforming of brine into drinkable, salt-free water.

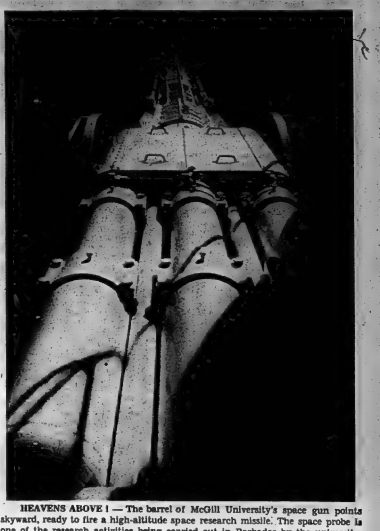
Dr. Lewis has been in Barbados since the Bellairs Institute was founded. It was named for the man whose property bequest made it possible, the late Commander Carlyon Bellairs of the Royal Navy.

Today the institute has two laboratories and living quarters for students and other researchers who use its facilities.

Three fulltime graduate students are doing research at Bellairs now as part of McGill degree courses. Other students from Montreal are due to arrive this summer.

"Any serious student of biology should have experience of tropical forms of life," said Dr. Lewis.

BIZARRE DISPLAY



The institute chief says he thinks there should be more exchanges of students between Barbados and Canada. Canadians generally should take a deeper interest in the affairs of the Commonwealth Caribbean.

"On the whole, Canadians are a pretty provincial lot," he said. "We don't really see any advantage in getting to know the West Indies.

"But there's a big market, among other things, in this developing area, for Canada."

The Bellairs laboratories contain some bizarre displays. A porcupine fish floats in one big tank, sometimes showing its ability to blow itself up to football size. The sea turtle floats around in another tank like a creature from outer space.

At the nearby Bruce Institute, McGill's Dr. Gerald Ward also has some far-out displays. Instruments for catching the sun's energy clutter the Bruce rooftops and machinery for distilling fresh water from the brine includes open - top pipe lines sometimes 100 feet long which look for all the world like big sea-serpents flung across the institute's sun-soaked lawns.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

As a man once told me "You don't have to be a good piano player to become a music teacher".

Tommy Ivan of the Detroit Red Wings, Punch Imlach and Rudy Pilous never played professional hockey. And the appointment of Harry Sinden as coach of the "screw-year shitfreeze" Boston Bruins is a reminder that the former Whitby Dunlop never saw action in the National Hockey League.

Some will say it's a triumph of brain over brawn, but the fact remains that one of Wren Blair's ex-world amateur champions apparently has what it takes upstairs if somewhat lacking on the ground floor.

HARRY SINDEN

Even the irrepressible Blair in his prophetic heyday did not foretell that some day in the future, one of his Dunlopian bluelline hustlers would mention a National Hockey League club.

Nor did the uncanny Blairian crystal ball of those boisterous swashbuckling days of yore. "Al" days predict that its swami - owner would rise in the hockey heights and himself take the helm of an NHL entry.

It is a foregone conclusion, reports state, that the chuilless Wren will take over a coaching or general managership of a west coast entry in the proposed NHL expansion plans.

It was back in those rambunctious, beat-'em-don't-join-'em days when western Ontario clubs were the king-pins of senior "A" hockey while we in the eastern jungles had to be content with being masters of all we surveyed in the lowly senior "B" arenas.

At that time Cassius Clay was, as the old darkies used to call them, a pickaninny helping the ole folks pick cotton down around Louisville.

But the Eastern Senior "B" League had a reasonable facsimile in the guy with the curley-cue forelock that usually wound up draped over one eye Veronica Lake style.

Perhaps I had better add that the only similarity was that both could foretell with near uncanny accuracy the results of things to come.

Those of us who were there will never forget a senior "B" meeting in Cornwall when Blair through the desperation of frustration moved the Eastern League apply for senior "A" status.

Previously, after the eastern senior "B"-champions had swept aside all other opposition with ridiculous ease, Blair applied for entry into the Western Ontario Senior "A" group. They laughed at him. They told him to go jump in the lake, or words to that effect and they had no room for upstart "B" clubs.

Blair thundered his defiance at the Cornwall meeting: "We can't join 'em — so we'll beat the hell out of them", he said moving that the league "go" Senior "A". Clubs concurred but Belleville, and it came into the fold a short time later.

"We'll show those western so-and-so's" roared Blair, "that we are not only as good as they are, but that this upstart league will have an Allan Cup and world champion club in its first year of "A" operation".

Cassius Clay never called a truer one than that. The rest is history. Whitby went on to grab all the honors and Belleville followed suit the following year.

But as we noted, never in his wildest heydey of prophesy did Blair call the professional league turn.

Sinden like Blair went onwards and upwards. Harry toiled as player-coach. I believe in minor pro hockey but always lacked that little something or other to reach the NHL ranks.

But "upstairs" it was different. Sinden developed a natural coaching ability and did it the hard way. He coached the old Kingston Frontenacs and led Minneapolis to third place the next two years. He went to Oklahoma City where he transformed an inexperienced club into a galaxy of champions finishing in second but winning the league championship.

Sinden has found his niche in hockey. He has proven his worth in the minor coaching ranks and has been rewarded with the job of mentoring the Bruins. He is the youngest coach in the circuit.

"Bruin authorities believe Harry is the Moses that will lead the Bruins out of the cellar wilderness. He has a fine array of youngsters at his disposal which he believes will enable the Bruins to reach a playoffs spot.

His many friends in this city, I am sure, will join this department in wishing Harry the best of luck in his new sphere of action.

Boss Talks; Aaron Hits; Braves Win

★★★★★ Giants Stretch String

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Bobby Bragan walked out of a clubhouse meeting and proudly proclaimed, "We resolved to start winning." And the Atlanta Braves did just that.

But then it's easy when you have Hank Aaron on your side.

Aaron hammered two home runs and drove in five runs as Atlanta ended a losing string at five games with an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night.

Bragan called a 20 - minute meeting before the game.

BETTER THAN THEY LOOK

"I told them the pitchers are better than they have been pitching and the hitters are better than they have been hitting.

"And I told them the manager is better than he has been managing."

Aaron's two home runs were his 10th and 11th this season and raised his career total to 409, 10th on the all-time list.

He tagged his first of the night over the left field wall with a man on in the first and then reached almost the same spot with two on in the fifth.

Both of Aaron's shots and one by Joe Torre came off Sammy Ellis, who lost for the fifth time in six games.

GIANT STREAK GROWS

Elsewhere in the league, Houston Astros downed New York Mets 6-4, San Francisco Giants stretched their winning streak to 10 games with a 5-1 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates and Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Philadelphia Phillies 5-0.

Barry Latman pitched 6 1-3 innings of two-hit relief as Rusty Staub and Jim Wynn hammered home runs that lifted Houston past the Mets. Wynn's three-run shot in the fifth put the Astros on top to stay.

Gaylord Perry won his fifth straight with a six-hitter and Willie Mays hit his 504th career homer for the Giants.

Mays' two-run homer in the ninth completed San Francisco scoring after a pair of doubles by Tom Haller helped build the Giants' early lead.

Don Sutton pitched Los Angeles' first shutout of the season and contributed three hits to their attack.

B and D League

Has 16-Game Schedule

Final schedule arrangements were completed and details of the umpiring contract were discussed at a Belleville and District Softball League meeting last night.

A 16 - game schedule was adopted after three of the four clubs representated agreed that the proposed 24 - game one would run far too late in the fall.

The clubs voted to decide between 24 or 16. Bloomfield, Ellis Juniors and Trudeau Motors voted for 16 games, the Bobcats for 24. The loop's fifth club, Madoc, was not represented.

The schedule will open on Tuesday, May 24 (the day after the holiday) with Trudeau Motors playing at Ellis Juniors. An opening program is being arranged. This will likely be the first game played under the lights at the newly - renovated Alemite Field.

Other games for the first week have Bobcats at Bloomfield on May 25, Madoc at Bobcats on May 26, Bloomfield at Ellis Juniors and Trudeau Motors at Madoc on May 28. A full schedule will be published within a few days.

Saturday, July 16 is the closing date for the schedule, to be followed by any postponed games which have not been re - scheduled earlier. All postponed games will be re - scheduled from Secretary Doug Reid's office.

All playoffs, both semi-final and final, will be best-of-seven affairs this year.

Starting times are 8.00 p.m. in Bloomfield and 8.15 in Madoc and Belleville. There is a possibility that the three Belleville clubs may have to switch to 8.30 starts. There is a 10.00 p.m. curfew at the Bloomfield park and a 10.30 curfew at Belleville's Alemite Field.

A committee, headed by league President Frank Insley, gave full details of the one - year contract the league signed recently with the Quinte District Umpires' Association.

Two umpires will be used for all scheduled games and either two or three for playoffs. For

Kings Lash Back; Whip Generals

By JOE DUPUIS

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, standing in the need of prayer after absorbing two thunderous defeats at the hands of Oshawa Generals, lashed back Wednesday night to tie the Memorial Cup final at two games apiece.

The Kings flayed the Generals 5-3 to make the best-of-seven junior Canadian hockey final a brand new series after four games.

The Oil Kings took the opening game of the series 7-6, only to see Oshawa win the-next two games 7-1 and 6-2.

Before Wednesday night's game, Edmonton held a closed-doors team meeting and manager Wild Bill Hunter announced:

"We've just had a revival meeting. We've given our lads the message—God help Oshawa in the next game."

The 5-3 victory was personal vindication for Edmonton goalie Don McLeod, yanked mid-way through the 8-2 debacle. McLeod appeared weak on only one goal Wednesday night.

HAD TO FIGHT

It was a stronger McLeod in the nets, Edmonton had to fight back in every period to take the victory.

The Rose of Chris Hayes, Danny O'Shea and Wayne Cashman accounted for all the Oshawa scoring.

Galen Head, Ross Perkins, Rosa Lonsberry, Don Anderson and Dave Rochefort were the gunners for Edmonton.

It was a double loss for Oshawa. High-scoring defenceman Bobby Orr, taking his regular seven shifts despite a groin injury, had the injury aggravated mid-way through the game when he checked into the boards by Perkins and didn't skate during the third period.

Edmonton coach Roy Kinasewich said the Wednesday night victory was "a solid, tremendous team effort."

Oshawa coach Bep Guidolin said: "We blew it—we didn't skate."

The battle resumes at 8 p.m. EDT Saturday, with the sixth

Aggravates Injury

Orr May Be Finished

By BILL SCOTT

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Roy Kinasewich said his Edmonton Oil Kings' 5-3 win over Oshawa Generals was built on "a solid, tremendous, team effort."

The victory leaves the best-of-seven Memorial Cup junior final series tied at two games each. We blew it," Oshawa coach Bep Guidolin said. "We didn't skate. You gotta skate. If you don't, you're dead."

"Don't you think we were dead?" Kinasewich asked reporters. "We couldn't get much worse than in the second and third games."

Kinasewich said his forwards started to get by Oshawa's defencemen, who, in other games, had stopped as many shots as goalie Ian Young.

ORR HURT AGAIN

Oshawa's star defenceman, Bobby Orr, aggravated the groin injury that has hampered him all through the series and left the game in the second period. Guidolin said Orr will dress for Saturday's game here, but probably won't play.

Kinasewich said that after Edmonton was trounced twice by Generals, he and manager Bill Hunter got together with the squad for a thorough blackboard session and it paid off.

"They're getting used to the idea that while they're here they're going to have to live out of a suitcase. They've finally got their feet on the ground. They realize they're not down here for a holiday."

PRAISES McLEOD

"Bad as we played that third beat game," Guidolin said, "and they're really gonna have a job beating us." The Oshawa coach said Edmonton's goalie Don McLeod saved Oil Kings.

Madrid Soccer Champs

BRUSSELS (AP)—Real Madrid came from behind to defeat Partizan Belgrade 2-1 Wednesday night and regain the European Soccer Cup of Champions after six years.

Partizan went ahead in the 55th minute on a goal by left-half Vasovic. But the Yugoslav defence was shattered by Real's superior finishing power and the Spanish team grabbed victory with goals by Amancio in the 70th minute and Serena in the 75th.

Real won the European Cup five times in a row after the tournament was started in 1956. Since then the Spanish team has twice lost in the final.

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—The Spanish soccer team Zaragoza swept into the final of the Inter-Cities Fairs Cup by beating Leeds United 3-1 in their semi-final playoff Wednesday night.

Injuries Plague Twins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—An injury jinx which plagued Minnesota Twins in 1965 is continuing to haunt the defending American League champions this season.

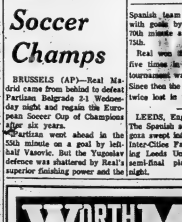
"It looks like it's still hanging around," Twins' manager Sam Mele said Wednesday after assessing the latest injuries which have taken two of the big guns from his batting lineup.

The Twins at west the 1965 pennant despite a series of injuries which sidelined for several weeks such stars as pitcher Camilo Pascual and Harmon Killebrew, four - time league home run king.

But the combination of injuries and a weak hitting attack has kept Minnesota in the second division most of the first month of this season.

Shortstop Zoilo Versalles, winner of the American League's Most Valuable Player award in 1965, has been nursing a sore arm. Mele says Versalles will be out of action for two or three more days.

"A guy runs into an umpire. How do you explain that?" Mele asked.



He was referring to Twins first baseman Don Mincher, who collided with umpire Frank Umont Monday night and suffered a badly bruised muscle just above the knee on his right leg.

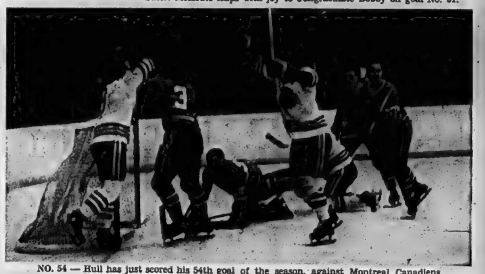
There's no place like home - especially if home is the birthplace of Bobby Hull.

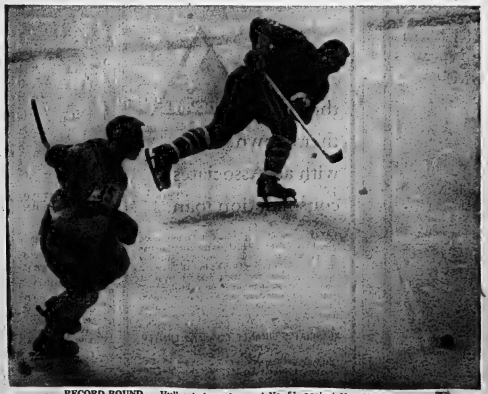
And two attractive Point Anne matrons Lois Akey and Joan Kells make no bones about the fact they are solid fans of the Chicago Black Hawks' star.

Let other people read the record books. Lois and Joan decided to become the only "living records" of the feats of the Point Anne Golden Jet.



They converted sweaters into "sport pages".

With colorful greens, reds and blues backgrounding the name of their hero emblazoned on the front "page" they recorded the scoring feats of Hull goal-by-goal until he reached and passed the coveted "50" record.



Long before Bobby reached the record - equalling "50 - goals" mark, Lois and Joan had the numerals ready and waiting for the special space they had allotted for it.

The "thrill" was not too long in coming.

The proudest moment of their lives came when they sat down to "record" the "51-52-53 and 54" on their knitted record books.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

STRAIGHT LEFT ARM NECESSARY ON DOWNSWING

We are often told, "Keep your left arm straight." Usually this advice relates to someone's backswing. However, it also applies to the downswing.

You will note in today's illustrations that my left arm is straight until well after impact. Then, gradually, my right arm straightens, and my left arm bends, near the finish of my swing.

The left arm must stay straight throughout the downswing if you are to transfer maximum energy to your golf club and if your swing is to stay in a proper plane that will provide square contact with the ball.

Fortunately, the average golfer can maintain a straight left arm on his downswing without too much trouble. It comes naturally — if you properly shift your weight to your left side early in your downswing.

Mechanical "Monster" Misses Again

Bosox In Cellar

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Radatz's fast ball used to hum. Now it's singing the blues.

The tune remained the same Wednesday night as Radatz came in for Boston Red Sox with the score tied in the 10th inning and ended the game—by throwing a single to Bert Campaneris that gave Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory.

It's been like that for the fire-balling right-hander since last season, when the once-invincible Monster first began to lose his effectiveness. Radatz' record sagged to 9-11 in 1965, and his earned-run average climbed to 2.92.

"The Monster isn't a mechanical man," said one American League Slugger. "The guy has been in over 200 games in three years. Add to that all the times he's warmed up in the ball pen. What do you expect out of one man's arm?"

The appearance against Kansas City was Radatz's ninth this season—and the Red Sox have lost eight of those games. He has been tagged for 16 hits in 10 2-3 innings, has struck out only eight, has an 0-1 record and a 4.90 ERA.

The loss dropped the Red Sox past New York Yankees into sole possession of last place.

ALL GAMES LONG

In other games on the rain-shortened league program, Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in 11 innings and California Angels outlasted Washington Senators 7-6 in 10 innings.

Weather "Kills" Attendance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If baseball is a dying game, as some claim, it's being frozen to death as far as the International League is concerned.

Take Wednesday night — a full schedule of four games was played in Syracuse, Toronto, Buffalo and Rochester despite temperatures that skidded into the 30s.

Only 1,433 fans turned out in all four cities.

The biggest crowd, 466, showed up at Rochester where the Red Wings edged Richmond Braves 4-3.

Toronto produced the smallest crowd, 383, to see the Maple Leafs blank Toledo Mud Hens 6-0.

There were 364 at Syracuse where the Chiefs won 7-3 over Jacksonville Suns and 350 showed up in Buffalo to watch the Bisons bow 4-1 to Columbus Jets.

Slater, 27, Blades New GM, Coach

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A 27-year-old graduate student at the University of Toledo and former player for Toledo Blades has been named general-manager and coach of the International Hockey League team.

Terry Slater, a native of Kirkland Lake, Ont., who came here to join the Blades midway through the 1962-64 season and played through the 1964-65 season, is the youngest general-manager in the history of the IHL and one of the youngest in organized hockey.

Slater was signed Tuesday, four days after Civic Pride Inc., the group which operates the Blades, announced the firing of Ken Wilson as general-manager and Edger (Chirp) Brenchley as coach.

Wilson was owner of the team before Civic Pride took over the franchise after the 1964-65 season. He also had coached it until last December.

The team finished last in the IHL last season with a 14-37-1 record.

Football Commissioner Candidates Pared To Five

CALGARY (CP)—The list of candidates for the job of commissioner of the Canadian Football League was pared to five Wednesday from 30 applicants.

Pat Mahoney, head of the committee seeking a successor to G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg, said the five will be interviewed by the committee in Toronto.

The list of applicants was pruned in a four-hour telephone call with other members of the committee — John Gaudar of Hamilton, Les Hyman of Toronto, and Don McPherson of Regina.

Mahoney declined to identify the five or say what experience they had. The applicants were mostly businessmen, but there were some former players and some "well-placed" federal and provincial politicians.

Mahoney said the committee hopes to interview the five remaining candidates in time to make a final recommendation to the CFL's semi-annual meeting in Montreal next month.

Halter retires Dec. 31. Mahoney said the committee hopes the new man will work with Halter for at least three months before taking over the post.

The CFL advertised for a commissioner in newspapers and magazines in mid-April. Mahoney said the salary is open but would be a minimum $25,000 a year and possibly more than $30,000.

CANADA'S MOST BEAUTIFUL
LUXURY TIRE
AT A POPULAR PRICE!
THE SPECTACULAR NEW
"OLYMPIC PREMIUM"

We could make claims (and prove them) regarding the exceptional qualities of the Olympic "Premium." How much superior it is to tires supplied as original equipment on new cars. We could list such items as 4 full plies of DuPont nylon, 10% wider tread, 15% more tread depth, greater skid resistance, greater impact resistance, longer life and on and on. We could even mention that it was designed and developed to the highest quality and safety standards by the world's largest tire manufacturer. These are the facts, and they may or may not impress you.

BUT IT'S NOT THE CLAIMS IN THE AD THAT COUNT — IT'S THE PERFORMANCE ON THE ROAD! And that is where the Olympic "Premium" excels. Mile for mile, ride for ride, dollar for dollar, the Olympic "Premium" is Canada's best tire value and to prove it we've backed it with Canada's strongest tire guarantee.

TWO DISTINCTIVE WHITEWALL DESIGNS ON THE SAME TIRE

Western Horse Body Plans Opening Show

Plans for the season, and especially for the opening show, were discussed at a meeting of the Quinte Western Horse Association Tuesday night.

The club will hold its opening show at Trenton's Bain Memorial Park one week from Sunday, May 22.

Club members only will fly taking part in the show, affiliated to get under way at 12.30.

Included on the program will be club races, western pleasure, pony classes, parade classes, pole bending races, barrel races, English class and others.

Food and drinks will be available on the grounds. This is the second year for a show in Bain Park and the club is hoping for good support. A number of youngsters will be featured in the show.

All in all, the Association is planning three meets for this summer. A second will be held in June and a third in July.

Club members will receive points this season for the club shows and in the past points have been given for performances in district fairs.

There was also a discussion about the Association obtaining club standards, in the fall this would add greatly to the color of the Association for shows and parades.

Major Leagues Cutdowns

Wes Covington Let Go

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major league rosters were down to the mandatory 25 players today following last-minute shifting of several well-known baseball names.

The deadline was midnight Wednesday. Dick Schofield, Larry Jaster, Wes Covington, Chuck Schilling and Tom Cheney were among those asked to pack their travelling bags.

Schofield was sold to New York Yankees by San Francisco Giants. The Yanks made room for the veteran shortstop by sending pitcher Jack Collum to Toledo Mud Hens of the International League on option.

Jaster, a starting pitcher for St. Louis during the first month of the season, was optioned to Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League. The southpaw had a 1-4 record for the Cards.

Covington, 34 - year - old outfielder, was released outright by Chicago Cubs. He had been acquired from Philadelphia Phillies last winter.

Schilling, former Boston Red Sox second baseman, was optioned by Minnesota Twins to Denver affiliate in the PCL. The Twins also cut outfielders Ted Uhlender and Joe Nossek. Nossek was claimed on waivers by Kansas City Athletics while Uhlender was optioned to Denver.

Washington Senators sold Cheney to Hawaii of the PCL. He set a major league record for strikeouts in one game when he fanned 21 in a 16-inning game against Baltimore in 1962.

Jack Hamilton President of Lions Club

DESERONTO—At the Lions Club dinner meeting Monday at Kay's Restaurant, Joseph Reynolds, Mervin Sherman and Eric Gustafson, the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for next year.

Jack Hamilton was elected president. Immediate past-president is Peter Mortis. Leonard Wilson is vice-president, Gerald Lott treasurer, and Eric Gustafson secretary. Lion Tamer is Robert Davis and James Marlow is Tail Twister.

Mervin Sherman and Joseph Reynolds are directors for one year, and Harry Rands and Mark Williams for two years.

Dinner guest of the club was George Lyons, who recently purchased Burkitt's Grocery.

As meetings are suspended for the summer, the members discussed projects which they might undertake during that time. A suggestion made by Lion Gerald Lott will be followed. The Lions will ask for contributions of useable articles for which the owners no longer have need, and will hold an auction sale late in the summer, to add to their funds.

Although this club has only 18 members, some inactive, it does a surprising amount of good. It runs and maintains the Lions Hall, which is used free of charge for meetings of any organization in the town which needs room for dances, banners. It costs roughly $1200 a year for maintenance. They use it weekly for the bingo games from which come most of their finances.

PROVIDE FOR NEEDY

At Christmas, names of families in need are gathered, this list is divided three ways among Lions Club, the Legion, and the Salvation Army, and a Christmas basket goes to each family. Gifts are sent to former residents in Hastings Manor in Belleville. Glasses are supplied to those who cannot afford them.

Members of the Deseronto Lions Club are rightly proud of the support they have given to the Lake Joseph Camp for the Blind. Their allocation of $500 was met last year, and

Clyde Bros. Circus Has Five Clowns

Clowning is one of the oldest forms of entertainment known to man. Long before the circus as we know it today came into existence, minstrels and jesters strolled across the countryside by foot and horseback, bringing laughter, music, and some acrobatics to the nobility of each village. This ability was handed down from generation to generation, as son after son followed in his father's footsteps down the path of entertainment. So it was in Italy too, that this skill to bring smiles to the faces of one and all was carried down through the generations of the Cleverettes family to this day. Now, after hundreds of years of entertaining the crowned heads and the everyday citizens of Europe, they have brought their unusual brand of humor to this country.

Appearing with the Clyde Bros. Circus at the Arena in Belleville on May 20th, the Five Gorellettes, Luigi, Bruno, Pino, Gabi, and Francesco, will have an opportunity to present to audiences here the traditional humor that has been the basis of the clowning art for hundreds of years. Their slapstick happy antics bring howls of laughter from audiences everywhere they play. They are each accomplished musicians, for in order to be funny with music it is necessary to be able to play very well. As they try to present to the audience "Italian Opera," it is evident that this was not exactly what the composer had in mind, but it does make for many rollicking situations.

Since the opening of all the famous European clown acts, the Five Sorelettes close their show with a comical bombing, just another feat to add to the many the litary can do.

they recently donated an additional $200.

The big project in Deseronto, which interests everyone now is Centennial Park. The Lions have already voted $1,000 to purchase playground equipment, and know that further support will be needed.

For years the Lions sponsored the Boy Scouts and Cubs, and one reason for their purchase of the hall was to have a meeting place for the boys. Now the boys have been taken over by the Legion, and the Lions sponsor the Girl Guides and the Brownies.

Church Groups

ST. MARK'S GUILD

DESERONTO — Meeting at the rectory Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Walter Joyce in the chair, the Ladies Guild of St. Mark's Anglican Church adjourned after their business meeting, and had an auction sale, watched a demonstration and enjoyed refreshments. Business and fellowship combined to make it a happy evening.

There were the usual opening and the formal business with the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Carroll Sergeant reading the minutes and presenting the financial report. Thank you notes were read.

Miss Linda Toppings had requested the ladies to cater for her wedding October 15, and after discussion, the invitation was accepted. Further notice, the ladies decided to use their talents to raise funds during May, and turn in the proceeds at the June meeting.

After the adjournment, the Rev. A. P. Dowdell acted as auctioneer for articles brought by the ladies, and the sale added both to the fun and the treasury.

Mrs. Dowdell demonstrated the making of pedestrians out of nylon net, assuring the ladies these were not only practical, but also could be kept sanitary. With lady made ones to take home with her.

Mrs. W. Jackson and Mrs. H. Toppings served the refreshments which brought the evening to a conclusion.

DESERONTO — Monday evening 26 members of the Pentecostal Assembly enjoyed a potluck supper prepared by the women of the congregation. The church family gathering was held in the Lions Hall on Green Street.

Speaking later, the pastor, the Rev. John McEwen, outlined the work laid down for the church for the summer, and asked for the co - operation of all in the street and tent services, drawing attention to the success of such services in the past.

Mrs. Stanley Wagget, chairman of the program, led in congregational singing. Among the selections were duets by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Miller and by Mrs. William Hoag and Mrs. Bryce Moore; a musical selection by Miss Judy O'Colin and a reading by Mrs. Hubbin. There were several other numbers on the program, arranged by the young people.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. Roy Strand, Mrs. Ross Kemp, and Mrs. Kenneth Wood.

Twisted Intestine Cause Of Illness of Marlon Brando

BY BOB THOMAS

Charlie Chaplin Ready to Start Another Movie

LONDON (AP) — Charlie Chaplin has finished shooting his first movie in a decade and says he hopes to start another before long.

"You've got to keep the mental batteries charged," he said Wednesday night, "and there's nothing like actually for doing that. People are telling me I look much better than when I started this movie."

Chaplin, 77, was speaking at a small dinner celebrating the end of studio work on A Countess of Hong Kong. He wrote and directed the film, which stars Sophia Loren and Marlon Brando.

"It's amazing what this picture has done for me," said Chaplin's wife, Oona. "He looks so much younger and he's been working fantastic hours anyone—six and sometimes seven days a week."

Chaplin said he will go to his home in Switzerland for a few days, then come back to London to edit the picture and complete the musical score. He said he plans to spend some time with his family, "then I want to make another picture."

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—A local man was about to call for a psychiatrist when he spotted several bottles of ink-and-soda turned to ink. Charlie Chaplin Ready to Start Another Movie

LONDON (AP)—"I thought to myself: This is the big C," said Marlon Brando.

Fortunately, the recent illness that absented him from the shooting of The Countess of Hong Kong was diagnosed as not cancer but a twisted intestine.

Brando discussed his health as well as his work in the film with director Charlie Chaplin and co-star Sophia Loren during a luncheon at his Chelsea Square flat.

The actor came into the second-floor drawing room of the flat wearing a karate suit. It was at the end of a long day of working in the movie and as a reward he was presented with a large plate of spaghetti.

"My diet," he explained. "I've taken off 15 pounds since I got sick and may soon I'll be down to 165, and then I'll have five pounds to play with."

Brando was taken to hospital last month with what was feared to be appendicitis.

"Eight doctors were all set to operate," he reported. "One said no. So did my own doctor, who's been with me always. You see, my appendix is up here (indicating his mid-section), not where it should be.

"I also have four kidneys and other organs are rearranged. I don't what caused all the confusion.

"When the doctors couldn't find what was wrong, I was in a terrible state. I was sure I had the big C—cancer. But I got better and they didn't have to operate. And with luck and careful diet, I won't need an operation."

Martin Put On Spot by Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Wednesday asked External Affairs Minister Martin whether he had asked Mr. Justice W. F. Spence to head the Gerda Munsinger inquiry because "there were certain interests at stake."

Mr. Diefenbaker, protesting the "unparalleled and unjustified inquisition," demanded production of correspondence about the appointment of the inquiry commissioner.

Mr. Martin, acting prime minister at the time, said he did not speak to anyone because it would have been outside his ministerial responsibility. He was neither justice minister nor prime minister.

The Opposition leader tossed three questions at Mr. Martin. He asked whether Robert Taschereau, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, was consulted before the appointment of Mr. Justice Spence and told that Mr. Spence was wanted as commissioner.

Later he asked Mr. Martin whether he had telephoned Mr. Justice Spence and said: "This is something I want you to do for me."

It was at this point that the external affairs minister denied he had talked to anyone.

Mr. Diefenbaker's final question said:

"Did the minister ask this judge to act because there were certain interests at stake?"

Mr. Martin said he was certain Mr. Diefenbaker didn't want to cast a reflection on the commissioner. He said he would take "strong issue" with Mr. Diefenbaker's remarks if this were the intention.

Criminologists Have Chance To Study Connection of Sadism With Crime in U.K. Murders

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—How can we prevent it happening again?

Crime experts and psychiatrists are pondering that problem as one of Britain's most horrific murder trials passes into history, with the two young sex-slayers of the moors case locked away for life.

Members of the public might react to the sentencer like one commuter on a Kent - bound train who muttered in a frustrated way: "It don't seem enough for me somehow." But criminologists may welcome the fact that abolition of the death penalty offers scope for unchecked research into what makes such killers as Ian Brady and Myra Hindley tick.

Giles Playfair, an author specializing in penal problems, says no attempt has yet been made to investigate how sadism, in the sense of deriving sexual pleasure from inflicting pain, is connected with crimes of violence, and whether statistically-motivated crime is increasing with other forms of violent crime.

"If there is ever to be a guarantee against a repetition of such atrocities as the moors murders," Playfair writes in The Sunday Telegraph, "the only way to achieve it is through the development of the means to detect and effectively treat dangerous or aggressive tendencies before they erupt."

ALL HAVE IMPULSES

Dr. Anthony Storr, a Harley Street physician writing in The Sunday Times, says the seeds of sadistic impulses are latent to some degree in most people and unless society steels itself to examine such examples with objectivity we shall learn neither to detect them nor to prevent them happening."

"It is only by detached inquiry that we can try to establish what are the circumstances which so distort human nature that men and women become capable of such cruelty."

There were psychological clues in the background of both killers. Brady, 28, illegitimate product of the Glasgow slums who tortured cats at the age of 10, seems a classic case of a social misfit turning to crime. The history of Myra Hindley however, the 25-year-old daughter of a wartime paratrooper who had an unsettled but not abnormal childhood, offers fewer clues to the strange, cruel personality she became.

Another important aspect of the killers' mentality only touched upon in the trial was their joint obsession with nazism, particularly in its sadistic physical expressions. Brady bought records of Nazi marching songs from a mail-order firm, studied Hitler's Mein Kampf and read aloud from books of Nazi atrocities—tastes which his girl friend came to share avidly.

READ EROTIC WORKS

Brady and Hindley read the erotic works of the Marquis de Sade, who gave his name to the term sadism, and books with such titles as Pleasures of the Torture Chamber, Kiss of the Whip and History of Torture and Cruelty. Brady said in his defence that similar books could be bought at many bookstores.

Inevitably the question has been raised of greater control over such books. Between January, 1964, and February, 1965, British police seized 36,711 obscene books, 37,119 magazines and 10,329 photographs.

Under the Obscene Publications Act, police have power to impound books likely to "deprave or corrupt." In practice they are careful not to infringe on books that may be of genuine medical, scientific or literary value—although there is no official explanation of how many seedy backstreet stores are able to display books with titles similar to those mentioned in the moors trial.

In its Sunday Telegraph article, Playfair mentions one store that permits browsing among pornographic books at five shillings an hour—reminiscent of the "hooking" technique used by dope peddlers, he says.

STUDY OTHER SOURCES

Fresh attention also is being paid as a result of the trial to the increasingly sexual and sadistic flavor in spy fiction and detective books as well as movies, where it is often disguised as "kinky" humor.

Maurice Richardson of The Observer quotes a detective at Chester who felt there was a dangerous current of perversion in the air. He had seen a store advertising "new line in kinky raincoats" and asked: "Why don't they label them (raincoats) for sexual perversion and be done with it?"

Richardson suggests this kind of reaction may become more widespread as a result of the moors case.

AMERICA OUTPUMPED

The Middle East's oil production outstripped the United States' in 1965 at 8,250,000 barrels a day compared with 7,750,000.

World Population Growing By 65 Million Every Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Among the things that money can't do is grow hair on a bald head. . . . That's why John D. Rockefeller, Sr., one of the richest men who ever lived, wore a wig for nearly a half-century.

Feel crowded? . . . Well, there's no relief in sight. . . . The world population is increasing by 65,000,000 yearly.

Only the surface of a desert is burning hot. . . . Dig down a foot or so and the temperature drops to a comfort able 73 degrees.

One reason you shouldn't use tranquilizers except on medical advice is that, taken in too large a dosage or over too long a time, they may cause heart damage. . . . Researchers have found this to be true in both animals and people.

PROVIDES IRON

Household tips: A St. Louis doctor says that if wives cook food in an iron pot it may help prevent anemia in the family. . . . Gets more iron in everybody's system.

Quips from our contemporaries: Prescribing a special treatment for an elderly man, the physician said, "In a few weeks you'll look 10 years younger." . . . Asked the elderly man cautiously, "will it affect my pension?"—Catholic Digest.

Forgotten heroes: The distance record for walking on one's hands is held by Johnny Hustling. . . . in 1900 he made an upside-down march of 871 miles from Vienna to Paris in 55 days, speeding 10 hours daily on his hands. (For some reason he decided against making the return trip the same way.)

Folklore: When a mirror cracks it's a sign the oldest son in the house will die first. . . . The wider the distance between your ear and cheekbone the longer you will live. . . . When three people with the same first name meet, one of them is bound to be a fool. . . . The best cure for any ailment is to drink water taken from a spring before sunrise on Easter morning.

THOMASBURG — The rummage sale, sponsored by the H-C Group in Thomasburg United Church Hall on Saturday was a success.

A number of ladies from Thomasburg U.C.W. pleasantly surprised Mrs. Fred Agnew at her home on Thursday evening. A social time was enjoyed and Mrs. Agnew was presented with a pair of lamps. Mr. and Mrs. Agnew and family are leaving the area in the near future.

Tweed Lodge was celebrating its 44th birthday, and one of the Charter members, Mrs. A. Baker, was celebrating her 81st birthday.

Bobby Hull Steals Show at Dinner

HONORING "THE GREATEST" — Co-chairmen of the Bobby Hull Testimonial Dinner, Noble Bill Stewart, of the Shrine Club (left) and Sir Noble Ken Poor, of the Alhambra Ilham Caravan, present the guest of honor with a special trophy. A gold puck in the centre depicts Hull's record-setting 54 goals. Hull called the trophy "the most beautiful I have ever received."

Aerial Battle Building Up In Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force today strongly denied Peking's charge that American fighters intruded into China to shoot down a Chinese plane Thursday.

The air force said one of its missile-firing F - 4C Phantoms brought down a Communist MIG-17 over North Viet Nam 20 to 25 miles south of the Chinese border. A U.S. spokesman indicated the Americans think the plane was North Vietnamese, not Chinese.

China's first acknowledgment of any plane losses in the Vietnamese war placed Thursday's air battle northeast of Hatwan, 25 miles north of the border, in China's Yunnan province. It called the incident "an act of war provocation" and said "the debt in blood owed by U.S. imperialism to the Chinese people must be cleared."

An American spokesman said the aerial battle took place 105 to 115 miles northwest of Hanoi over the Red River Valley when three MIGs made firing passes with their cannon at two of three Phantoms.

Maj. Wilbur R. Dudley, 34, of Alamogordo, N.M., spotted a fourth MIG attacking an air force RB-66 electronic jamming plane accompanying the flight, and fired two heat-seeking sidewinder missiles.

Te second missile scored from about 114 miles. The Communist jet exploded and was spotted by Dudley's wingmen spinning out of control to the ground. The other MIG fled and the four American planes returned safely.

It was the 12th MiG reported shot down in the war.

The spokesman said the American pilots did not see the markings on the enemy jets.

North Vietnamese and Chinese aircraft in a r k i n g s are strikingly similar and would be difficult to distinguish at the supersonic speeds involved.

Maj. - Gen. Gilbert Meyers, deputy U.S. Air Force commander in Viet Nam, cast doubt on speculation that the Chinese had committed their planes to DA NANG (Reuters)—United States marines supported by artillery and air strikes killed 175 Viet Cong in a seven-hour battle in central South Viet Nam Thursday, a marine spokesman said today.

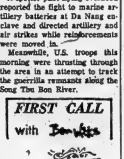
Of the dead 120 were credited to an air and artillery bombardment of a heavily fortified village 18 miles southwest of Da Nang.

One marine patrol was virtually wiped out during the battle, but over-all losses were described as light.



The battle erupted when the 14-man patrol spotted an estimated 300-400 guerrillas concealed in trenches in and around the village of Hoa Thay.

The guerrillas opened fire, pinning down the patrol in rice fields near the village. The marines counter-attacked with grenades and heavy machine-gun fire before losing radio contact with their company post two miles away.

SPOTTED FOR GUNS

A spotter pilot flying overhead reported the fight to marine artillery batteries at Da Nang enclave and directed artillery and air strikes while reinforcements were moved in.

Meanwhile, U.S. troops this morning were thrusting through the area in an attempt to track the guerrilla remnants along the Song Tra Bon River.

Big Crowd Pays Tribute To Pt. Anne's Native Son

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Bobby Hull, the dynamic Golden Jet of the Chicago Black Hawks, temporarily shed his image of a National Hockey League superstar here last night.

He reverted to the simple home-and-family loving boy at the testimonial dinner given in his honor at St. Michael's Auditorium.

Some 325 fans and admirers from the district paid standing tribute on several occasions to the handsome native of Point Anne.

He received a thunderous ovation when presented with the colorful gold, trophy symbolizing his record-breaking feat of 54 goals.

Nor was the applause less when he presented the Belleville Minor Hockey Association "Squirtsmanship Award" to wide-eyed Stephen Gray of 614 Sidney Street.

Bobby as "guest speaker" literally stole the show with the sheer force of a personality that reached out and beyond the head table to the farthest corners of the auditorium.

JUST TALKED

Any resemblance to the conventional "after-dinner-speaker" was conspicuous by its absence. There was no affectation or flowery eloquence.

Effortlessly Bobby just talked. He was as much at home before the dinner assembly here as he is talking to the family over the dinner table.

There was nothing unnatural about the fact that not once did he mention his sensational record-breaking feats.

His only reference to these came when he described his emotions when he scored goal "21" and the reaction of a frenzied Chicago crowd.

And only once did he refer to the Black Hawks and their unsuccessful efforts to win the championship and the Stanley Cup.

He may have had tongue-in-cheek when he said "I do not know where I or the Hawks will be next year. We did not have a good series. The rest of us were tired. I know I was."

"But we gave it a good shot!" Bobby said "and we were not disgraced. The Montreal Canadiens had a well-balanced club and I am the hosiery by letting the best team in the league."

A smile swept across Bobby's face when he said "Maybe if they add six teams to the league next year, they will keep me a little longer."

He drew rounds of applause when he said "We should have had Dennis up there with us to give us some added spark. He played as well as the rest of us — and I hope we will be together again next year."

Bobby paid tribute to the work for crippled and retarded children being done by the dinner-sponsoring organizations the Belleville Alhambra Islam Caravan and the Belleville Shrine Club.

"These fine organizations," he said "are putting a great effort to great causes. I have helped do things for other efforts — but this is the greatest."

"They are doing a wonderful job for children less fortunate than others. Joanne and I are truly thankful our children are healthy and strong."

Family roots are deeply embedded in the Hull structure.

New Plan To Protect Farmers

TORONTO (CP)—A government crop insurance plan to protect up to 80 per cent of a farmer's production from destruction by d r o u g h t, rain, floods, hail, winter kill disease and other factors was announced Thursday by Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

Mr. Stewart said the plan, hinged upon amendments to

Auto May Sales Down 15 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto industry leaders showed concern today over early May reports that buyers purchased 15 per cent fewer cars than they did a year ago.

Some said it was the result of unfavorable publicity resulting from the auto-safety hearings while others blamed it on the Viet Nam war which put into uniform thousands of potential young customers. Still Others said it reflected the higher income - tax deduction rates which went into effect May 1 or that it was caused by soft spots in the U.C. economy.

The unchallenged fact was that General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors sold fewer new cars May 1-10 than they did a year ago. Ford alone set an early May sales high.

The four major auto firms reported Thursday they sold 182,429 cars May 1-10, about 35,000 behind last year.

GM auto sales were off 24 per cent, Chrysler 13.6 per cent and American Motors 27 per cent. Ford was up 15 per cent over the same period of 1965.

HARD WORK AHEAD

Nobody panicked, but as one auto sales executive explained: "The bloom is off the auto sales market. We've had four good

Language Bar Add to CBC's Operation Grief

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC's organizational grief has penetrated the language barrier, the Commons broadcasting committee was told Thursday.

Disquiet over lack of authority in public affairs programming is rife within the French-language television network, a producer testified.

A public affairs supervisor said CBC structure is even more chaotic in Montreal than in Toronto, home of the controversy over the program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Producer Claude Desorcy said matters that should be settled by supervisors in M o n t r e a l often are sent to head office in Ottawa. The process takes a long time to hatch.

Mr. Desorcy produces La Soi de la Semaine, a weekly program ranging somewhere between the English network's Seven Days and Panorama in its treatment of current issues.

CONDUCTED IN FRENCH

His supervisor, Marc Thibault, was the other witness before the committee in a sitting conducted almost exclusively in French.

Mr. Thibault's contribution was an 8,000 - word document analyzing CBC troubles. It left the committee a little better-off less and MPs decided to hold their examination of Mr. Thibault until Monday, when English translations will be available.

Both men said that without imaginative, clear-cut control over public affairs broadcasting, the creative people of the CBC will be stifled and discouraged.

Mr. Desorcy said producers want greater authority with efficient grievance procedures and assurance of "complete confidence" from management in carrying out their jobs.

Producers now feel they are alone in taking the risks essential to win viewers.

LEFT CONFUSION

Mr. Thibault said a corporate reorganization six months ago, more fully applied in Montreal than Toronto, has left the CBC's structure in confusion.

The right of top management to make decisions was inconteatible, but in bypassing middle management to make decisions about programming, head office had created confused and false situations.

In most jobs, existence of serious differences in principle should mean resignation, Mr. Thibault said. But it would be "too easy" to resign.

If major opposition to CBC m a n a g e m e n t had been the standard for resignation, he would have resigned "100 times."

He chose to fight for a new journalism in which public affairs programming could acquire its own soul and carry to the public something "living, dynamic and extremely personal."

Minister Denies Charges

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government practice of appointing members to the Northwest Territories Council ran into trouble from the Yukon Thursday.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) attacked the government in the Commons for continuing what he termed "this colonial system of government."

The charges were denied by Northern Affairs Minister Laing as the Commons gave second reading to a government bill amending the Northwest Territories Act. Clause - by - clause study of the bill begins today.

The bill creates three new constituencies in the territories, all in the eastern Arctic; raises salaries of territorial council members to $5,000 a year from $2,500, and calls for establishment of a special fund for revenue raised in the N.W.T.

Residents of the eastern Arctic, mostly Eskimos, haven't had a vote in territorial elections although they have cast ballots in federal elections since 1962.

The new ridings bring the number of elected council members to seven from four and thus give them a majority over the four members appointed by the federal government.

Mr. Laing said Ottawa did not want to make any great changes in northern government until it received the report in September of the Carrothers commission which is inquiring into how the North should gradually attain provincial status.

Mr. Nielsen disagreed with

What Happened to Spring This Year?

NEW YORK (AP)—A poet once sang that "spring came on forever." Whatever became of it this year?

It's bad weather for bikinis," in the way one New York department store executive understated it, as he noted seasonal sales below expectations.

There's been too much rain in Texas, where some of the cotton has to be replanted. Downpours have raised the Ohio River to near flood stage, and the Chicago River became so swollen that commuter-carrying motorboats couldn't pass under bridges.

Upstate New York this week had its heaviest may snowfall on r e c o r d. Pittsburgh's 2.1 inches set a record. There's still an inch of snow on the ground in Sheridan, Wyo., and Kansas City had one of the latest sleet storms in its history Tuesday.

There's been almost a foot of snow since May 1 in one area of New Hampshire and George Hafellion, manager of a ski club there, says:

"We can, in all seriousness, expect good skiing into the middle of June."

About the only explanation for the state of affairs comes from Joseph Hardin, chief meteorologist at the U.S. weather bureau in Richmond, Va. He blames a overyielding on "cold breaks of C a n a d i a n air masses."

Besides the cotton in Texas, there's a problem with frost bitten apples in Virginia and Pennsylvania, tobacco in Kentucky, tomatoes in Ohio and West Virginia, fruit in New York, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Utah, wheat in Minnesota and Kansas. Losses are estimated in the tens of millions of dollars.

Cold has delayed planting in many areas and, in New York, Erie County agricultural agent Thomas Jorgensen said of farmers:

"They may be planting corn when they should be cutting hay."

Fishermen out for the season's opening Saturday in northern Minnesota will find winter's ice still on the lakes, some of it up to 20 inches thick.

In Idaho two weeks ago, temperatures in the 80s broke heat records. This week lows in the 30s have been recorded. Denver hostesses held patio parties last weekend. Thursday the state was hit by up to 13 inches of snow.

STRIKE EFFECT — Eighteen ships lie at anchor in the St. Lawrence River off Lanoraie, Quebec, 35 miles downstream from Montreal, as a strike of dockworkers continued in its third day. The ships are some of 89 in the port of Montreal that are prevented from loading or unloading cargo because of the strike. (CP Wirephoto)

Music Maker

Former Wallbridge Woman, Mrs. Fred Maggie, Plays Mouth Organ at 106 Years

Born 40 years before the turn of the century and seven years before Canada became a nation, Mrs. Fred Maggie of the Maple Haven Nursing Home west of Belleville, believes in "do it yourself" when it comes to music,

A native of the Arden district north of Kingston, Mrs. Maggie daily plays the mouth organ for amusement as she gets ready to celebrate her 106th birthday on May 24th.

A resident of the nursing home ourside the city for the past seven years, Mrs. Maggie lived at Wallbridge for many years.

She could view river shipping gregs crews in the middle Hastings area and clearly recall the first wood burning CPR locomotive and train to pass through Tweed.

Three-quarters of a century ago she and her mouth organ were in demand to play old time reels for neighborhood square dances.

Now, six years past her century, Mrs. Maggie has given up on many of the old time reels, but still plays favorite songs such as "Turky in th Straw" and "The Bear Went Over the Mountain."

One of a family of 13 children she was the daughter of an American Civil War soldier, who "skipped" his country into Canada about the time of the American Civil War and persistently resisted attempts of relatives to get him to return.

Mrs. Maggie was a young girl of 13 years before her parents got around to registering the births of any of their children.

After the birth of her youngest brother, the attending physician suggested that it was time that the family births were registered. So he sat down at the Sixteen table and registered all 13 of the children's births. That was 92 years ago!

Mrs. Maggie's husband died many years ago. She has one daughter, Mrs. Arthur (Bessie) Clare, who lives at Wallbridge.

Varied Program Much Enjoyed By Large Crowd

A "standing - room - only" crowd was on hand last night at St. Margaret's On-the-Hill Anglican Church to see the annual parish Variety Show.

A lengthy and varied program included such highlights as a medley from the Academy Award-winning, Mary Poppins, sung by members of the junior church choir, a humorous comedy skit entitled "After the Church Supper" presented by the ladies of St. Margaret's AYar Guild, and a genuine, well, almost genuine Country and Western Music Jamboree, featuring hillbilly music and humor.

The evening of laughs, songs and diverse forms of entertainment also included a play put on by the church A.Y.P. group entitled "Mr. Filbert's Claim to Fortune," an accordion solo by Miss Lyn McKnight, and numbers of the Senior Choir, Junior Choir, and Junior Auxiliary.

Anyone wanting to see a show that is entertaining for the entire family will have another chance to do so tonight when the final performance of the Variety Show will be presented at St. Margaret's Parish Hall beginning at 8 o'clock.

Children Subject of Talk To Y's Men

George Burlidge, local funeral director spoke to the Belleville Y's Men's Club at its weekly meeting on the problem of dealing with the problem of giving emotional help to children in times of grief.

The speaker emphasized that children face grief with a limited amount of experience of life and the denials that life brings. Therefore they find it difficult to adjust to being denied the presence of one to whose love they depended. Their greatest need is to find understanding and security from those around them in an atmosphere free of hysteria and denial.

At such times children have questions and doubts. The meaning of death and the beliefs of the family about what happens after death must be clarified in terms easily understood by a grieving child and absolute honesty is essential. To avoid facing facts honestly and explaining them frankly is damaging to children who are sensitive to deceit.

The speaker finished by pointing out that it is important that the child be allowed to see and participate actively in every day activities. Nothing is more healing than to know that life goes on.

The Y's Men received with regret the resignation of their president Jim Barton who in September will begin a term as Lieutenant Governor of the Belleville Quinte Kinsmen Club. Y's Men's Club. Y's Man Glen Salter succeeds Jim as president of the local group.

William Gault Elected Head Traffic Club

The annual meeting of the Quinte Traffic Club was held Wednesday at The Sun Valley Motel and the following officers were elected for one-year term. William Gault, CNR, President, Joseph Whalen, International Hardware, vice - president; Art Dearman, Argosy Transport, Secretary; Harvey Read - Johnson, Don Armitage, Ralph Bell, Ralph Plumpton, Corby's Distillery, William Salter, CNR, directors; William Old, Union Carbide, past president.

Stuart Keate Will Begin to Write Report

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC management and producers met Monday with conciliator Stuart Keate Thursday in efforts to settle the dispute over the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Keate said during the afternoon that the atmosphere is very amicable." Talks continued during the evening and were to resume today.

Mr. Keate, on leave of absence as publisher of the Vancouver Sun, said he will fly to the West Coast on the weekend to begin writing his report on the dispute to Prime Minister Pearson.

Prime minister announced May 1 that Mr. Keate would meet both parties to determine whether a "commonsense" review" of the dispute could be agreed to.

The announcement prompted the Toronto Producers Association to suspend a strike deadline of 10 p.m. EDT May 1. It had threatened a walkout when the corporation's management refused to reconsider its decision to renew for next season the contracts of the program's co-hosts, Laurier LaPierre and Patrick Watson.

Big Crowd

He made continual reference to "Mom and Dad" who flanked him at the head table and to the Hull family all 23 of them, who sat at a special table directly in front of the speaker.

Them included seven daughters, Mrs. Laura Stafford, Mrs. Barbara Brannigan, Mrs. Jackie Gilbert, Mrs. Maxine Messer, Mrs. Caroline Sheridan, the Misses Judy and Peggy and three sons Dennis, Garry, and Ronnie and their families.

It was there one could see pride in the eyes of Mrs. Hull, senior after she introduced the family and added," and my son Robert".

Bobby went back to boyhood days in Point Anne and recalled many humorous evens. "When we (the rats) passed George Hollingsworth's place the rocks began to fly."

TRIBUTE TO PARENTS

Bobby paid sterling tribute to his parents. "In my early days in junior hockey in St. Catharines and other places they helped me no end. They gave me good guidence and are one of the big factors in my success, I must say on behalf of my family that they have been wonderful parents through thick and thin."

He also paid tribute to Mr. J. H. (Ham) Logan, former superintendent of the Canada Cement Plant at Point Anne. "He was a wonderful man to me and I'm glad to see him and Mrs. here tonight."

"Somebody mentioned Belleville annexing Point Anne" said Hull, tongue - in - cheek "you do it, Bellevillians haven't a chance with the Oz Pointers. I'll bet you could use that one heard in Belleville I was getting credit for appearing here tonight. Point Anne, Ont. is the only place there I heard I was to get credit."

One of his sons, Bobby said, kidded him about growing bald. "He looks like grandpa, not amount to everything. Losing hair or not no one loves me like mom and dad and moreover will always love me."

Then Hookings of CJBQ peowed a number of humorous ear excellence. Mr. Hookings added delightful touches of humor to the evening that evoked laughter and applause.

The highlight of the evening came with the presentation of the handsome trophy to the Hull family for their performance at the record-breaking scoring feats.

This was presented by the co-chairmen of the dinner Noble Ken Fox of Islam Carsley Motors and Bob Stewart of the Shrine Club. Both made congratulatory speeches.

Bobby in his appreciation said "I have received many trophies but this will be the nicest in my collection."

Noble Fox presented Mrs. Bobby Hull with a handsome bouquet of red roses.

One of the proudest youngsters in Canada was Stephen Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray, 814 Sidney Street, Belleville.

Wide-eyed with surprise and joy he accepted the miniature of the trophy from his hero, Bobby Hull.

And Bobby offered some fatherly advice to the proud youngster.

"Stay in school, Stephen," he said. "The playing hockey for a living is really scary. You end up to be. I often look back and wish I could have stayed in school and perhaps got a college. So stay in school, keep your grades high and keep hockey as a hobby, not a career. Its fun and a hobby one".

At this point prompted by a sally by MC Hookings Bobby told of being stopped by traffic police when "I was not going very fast." All's well that ends well and this episode wound up with Bobby giving the officer three autographs.

He also recalled that during the Chicago-Detroit series, After the game Bryan Hyphen was waiting for me at one door while Claude Provost was waiting for me at the next corner".

The head table guests included besides the guests of honor and the parents, Islam Caravan commander Ed Lee and Mrs. Lee; Shriner and Mrs. Bill Sievert; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wilson; Monsignor James P. Sullivan; The Ven. Archdeacon A. S. McConnell; Major and Mrs. Jack Ellis; Robert Temple ex-MP; Shrine President Jim MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonald; Rt. Rev. John A. Carley; Lee Grills, MP and Mrs. Grills; Islam co-chairman Ken Fox and the Rev. Gordon Woodcock, ministerial association president and Mrs. Woodcock.

Ski Resort Gets Liquor Licence After Voters Have Defeated Local Option Vote

TORONTO (CP)—How a ski resort in a "dry" area of Ontario obtained a liquor licence within weeks after the defeat of a local option vote was related in the legislature Thursday by a Liberal member, who noted that Premier Robarts was a visitor to the lodge.

Eddie Sargent (L — Grey North) said the Talisman Ski Resort Ltd in Euphrasia Township was given a club licence for the sale of liquor to members just a few weeks after township voters had turned down all questions on a local option vote.

He said the Talisman was principally owned by Alex Graydon of London, Ont., whom he described as a good friend of Premier Robarts, London is the premier's hometown.

Mr. Robarts, who acknowledged knowing Mr. Graydon, said he had twice visited the Talisman with his two children, although he had stayed not at the lodge but at the private chalet of a friend. He said he had had meals at the resort.

The premier said he supposed "one of the prices of public life" was the "nasty insinuation" by Mr. Sargent that he was somehow bound up in the acquisition of a club licence by the Talisman.

Instead of asking him about it personally, Mr. Sargent had chosen to bring it out in the legislature hoping that an insinuation would be drawn from his remarks, said the premier.

REJECTED SALES

According to the Liquor Licence Board, the local option vote was held in Euphrasia Township in June of 1964. Sale of liquor in lounges and club rooms was turned down.

Farquhar Oliver (L— Grey South) said the granting of the licence to the Talisman after the local option rejection by the electorate shows the crazy quilt of Ontario's liquor laws.

"What is the value of heaven was the use of having a township-wide vote?" he asked. The Liquor Licence Board had talked in within weeks and given the Talisman the same thing the voters had turned down.

Mr. Oliver also asked what right there was for the premier to have an licence when there were absolutely good hotels in his own riding which couldn't be licensed. The ski resort also is in Grey South.

Swing Bridge Refuses To Close After Boat Passes Through, Traffic Tied Up

TRENTON — Municipally Trenton has been a separated town for many years, but it was physically divided for more than a half an hour this morning as bridge tenders worked frantically to get the town back together.

It all happened shortly before 9.00 a.m. as the Trenton River bridge was swung to allow the first pleasure boat of the season up the Trent.

The bridge swung open for the Bonita II, and her owners Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bilcopy of Sarnia, then N refused to close.

Traffic piled up on both sides of the river and not a few stores were late in opening as owners were caught on the wrong side of the river.

OTHER HITCHES DEVELOP

But aside from the traffic tie-up other related hitches developed.

Jack Wiligan, president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, was all set to present an engraved tankard to the owners of the first boat up the Trent. But as it turned out the tankard was still at the jewellers — on the wrong side of the river.

Eventually in a hastily arranged mid-footbridge exchange, Mr. Wilson received the engraved tankard from jeweller Dieter Rolf but by this time the Bonita II had passed on up the river.

Mr. Wilson raced up to Lock No. 1 but again missed. He finally caught up with Mr. and Mrs. Bilcopy at Lock No. 2 and made the presentation.

Little Animal Soon Found for Trenton Girl

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Somewhere between Vancouver and here there's equipment for manufacturing amino acids. And a machine for testing gravity is en route from Gananoque, Ont. Two young scientists hope the articles will arrive at Windsor's railway station in time for today's judging in the fifth annual Canada-Wide Science Fair.

Alan Yorke, 15, of Vancouver, and Chris Richard, 14, of Gananoque are among 72 youthful science enthusiasts from across Canada competing for the $100 first prize in the two-day fair.

Yorke's contribution of equipment for manufacturing amino acids—organic acids, some of which are necessary for human growth—and Richards's machine for testing gravity were shipped by train from their respective homes last Friday but have not arrived.

A Windsor cab company also had problems transporting some of the young scientists as they arrived here Thursday.

Gail Nichols, 18, of RCAF Station Trenton, Ont., discovered on arrival at the exhibition area that her 10-ounce albino rat was missing.

The little animal was found after the cab company recalled some of its vehicles. The rat had travelled unnoticed with eight other fares.

SEES MENACE

BADEN-BADEN, West Germany (AP)—A Swedish aeronautical engineer said Thursday supersonic commercial airliners would pose a menace to health and property. He proposed their introduction be prevented. Bo Lundborg, general director of the aerotechnical test centre of Broomma, Sweden, said that when a plane breaks through the sound barrier, a boom results that can break windows, crack plaster and prompt heart attacks in a ground radius of 40 miles.

Trenton Firm Fined Under Safety Act

Convicted in Trenton Magistrate's court on a charge of contravening the Industrial Safety Act, a Trenton firm early this week was fined $100 by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The charge against the Trenton firm was laid by the Ontario Department of Labor after one of its employees lost parts of three fingers while operating a punch press. The court was told the punch press at the plant was improperly guarded.

Toronto lawyer Frank Harrington acted as department counsel at the court hearing.

Case Remanded For One Week By Magistrate

The preliminary hearing for Harold George Marshall, 19, of Station, St., on charges of breaking, entering and theft, was remanded one week today by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to allow the defendant time to obtain a witness.

Marshall is charged with breaking and entering and theft from the property of Riverside Grocteria, September 2, 1965. He has elected trial by judge and jury.

Police testified they were called to investigate a reported break - in on the morning of September 2 at the store. Police said they found a broken window under a porch on the east side of the building at the south corner.

"The window had been covered over with boards and the boards had been removed.

"The window leads into the basement of the store and from there into the rear part, the meat section, of the store."

Marshal was charged September 3rd as a result of information received from one of the store's proprietors, G. Tsalamatas.

Mr. Tsalamatas testified he saw Marshall and a companion outside the store about 9 a.m. September 24. He said he observed a lighter from the second, and turned it over to police. He said the lighter is the same type as those missing from his store.

Flying Club To Play Host On Sunday

The first fly-in of the season will take place this Sunday at Picton Edward Flying Club when it plays host to the Oshawa Flying Club. Between 25 and 30 persons are expected to attend and about 15 to 20 aircraft. The local club reports regular visits by aircraft with the number increasing during the summer months. Sunday's visitors will have breakfast on arrival at the clubhouse on Sunday morning.

Outboard Club To Sponsor Meet At Waupoos

PICTON (Staff) — Both American and Canadian boats will participate in the Picton Outboard Club sponsored race to be held at Sandy Point Park, Waupoos, Sunday May 22. These races are the same as previously held at North Bay (Consecon). Due to the change of North Bay into a Provincial Park it was impossible to conduct these races there. The club is sorry North Bay was unobtainable as a course as it was one of the best and popular courses in Canada.

The club hopes that racing fans will attend the races at Waupoos as they were fortunate in obtaining Jack Wells' property. Booth facilities will be available.

Many thrill will await the spectators who take Ontario's choppy waters and the speedboats of both countries will be there to provide an afternoon packed full of excitement.

Ameliasburgh Twp. Able to Lower Tax Rate

PICTON (Staff) — Other townships in the county, may take their hats off to Ameliasburgh township when they learn that Ameliasburgh has been able to lower their mill rate this year.

Clerk Treasurer William Nightingale said that the main reason for the expected decrease this year is increased assessment this year. The township has had $400,000, in back assessment added to its rolls following revaluation by the County Assessment Commission. This year assessment for all purposes totals $1,756,000.

The auditors report presented at the monthly meeting this week showed the township had a surplus of $12,000 on its 1965 operations. A decrease in costs for the township centennial project and firefighting services from Belleville and Trenton was credited for a large part of the surplus. Another factor which will enable the township to keep the tax rate down is a decrease in the requisition from the Bay of Quinte District High School Board. The board has asked the township for $72,000 which is $1,000 less than in 1965. The centennial project for Ameliasburgh, in addition to the township hall is nearly finished except for installation of a septic tank.

Parks in County Ready to Open

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County's four provincial parks will be opened soon for the season this weekend.

Though weather is not yet suitable for swimming and camping the facilities are open and the same rates for park entrance will apply as last year, $1.00 per day or $3.00 per season.

Two of the four parks in use are free, these are Lake-in-the mountain, and North Bay Beach (at Consecon). Sandbanks and Outlet are the other two parks operated by the department.

Hallowell, Picton Councils To Discuss Annexation

PICTON (STAFF) — At the meeting of Hallowell Township Council Tuesday night members agreed to meet Picton Town council to discuss annexation proposals at 8 p.m. May 30. This was the earliest date Hallowell could arrange the meeting.

The township originally proposed the meeting, agreed to by Picton, which will be held in camera at the township garage. Each municipality will send a delegation consisting of it's planning committee, together with planning consultants to discuss the town's annexation application to annex several hundred acres of township land on the north side of Picton.

The town's consultants have already been instructed to proceed with the final draft of an annexation to be presented to the Ontario Municipal Board. Council was also informed the 1965 auditor's report and financial statement by Victor Allen of the George A. Welch Co. Chartered Accountants. It showed a surplus of $4,205 on the town's operations for after leaving up certain adjustments for the year, there will be a deficit of $4,205 at 8 p.m. May 30. This was the earliest date Hallowell could arrange the meeting.

The report shows there is a total of $77,000 in tax arrears owing the township. Mr. Allen said that it is a good thing that the township has a high reserve of working funds ($21,131) or the town would have to borrow money to make up for the tax arrears. The underlevy built up over the years would also have to be used to make up the tax arrears, the underlevy totalled about $20,000. It was shown he said the township has been reducing it every year.

Relaxed Britons

British business methods are often criticised for their lack of vigor and even efficiency. Delivery is a sore point with North American customers who are accustomed to receiving goods on or near agreed contract dates.

True, life in Britain is still more relaxed, more old-world than it is on this continent. Money and international trade, even though vital to Britain's economic health, are to some extent secondary to the pursuit of recreational activities.

Going to the races, to Ascot for example, and riding to hounds, sailing, playing golf and tennis and a host of other pursuits all have an enthusiastic following.

Our correspondent in Deseronto referred recently to a visit to Britain by executives of the Canada Optical Company. The Canadian visitors found things "markedly different" in England and Scotland.

"The pace is slower, and people have time for the niceties of life. Everyone has time to be kind and gracious. Nothing is crushed by the business man, especially his dress, which is always meticulously correct . . ."

However, there is a strong implication that in Canada output is much greater. "Several of the European representatives with us already visited the Deseronto plant, have marvelled at the speed with which the work is done here."

On the other side of the coin, Britons and Europeans seem to enjoy life to a much greater degree. Many do not take their work and business problems home with them, as many do here.

Certainly, one would reach this conclusion from a statement made by British psychiatrist Dr. Joshua Bierer, who has been on a lecture tour of the United States. He said: "America is a very competitive society. You must work hard just to keep up. And the result is tension and insecurity."

Dr. Bierer also had some interesting observations on marital relationships in the United States. Noting that he had been wrong in saying that women had taken over, he said: "What has happened is that American men have turned over control to their wives. This is the greatest handover in history."

But that is another story!

Forest Resources

If anyone has been under any illusion that the weather patterns are not changing, their doubts must now be dispelled. One look at the depressing outdoor scene, and taking cognizance of the temperature, are sufficient to make us realize that things are not what they were weatherwise.

One group which may welcome the chilly and damp conditions are the foresters. Who knows but this year may see a reduction in forest fires in Canada's vast woodlands.

This is Forest Conservation Week and Canadians should know they have a bigger stake in their timber resources than they know. More than 80 per cent. of the country's million square miles of productive forest are owned by the public.

The Ontario Forestry Association makes an apt observation about Conservation Week. Noting that the more than 170 native species in our forests can be used in more than 5,000 ways, the association says: "It is a peaceful celebration, unmarred by controversy and strife. And throughout the week, as it does for 52 weeks a year, the forest goes on growing and producing.

"We should be proud of our forests and do our utmost to protect them from the ravages of fire, insects and disease." Canadians, it adds, should harvest their forest crop wisely and avoid wasteful cutting practices.

Saigon Incident

The appalling blood-bath in Saigon earlier this week cannot help but impair relations between the American forces there and the local populace they are supposed to be supporting.

For all the fundamental goodwill and practical assistance of the Americans toward the South Vietnamese, it is quite obvious the latter do not always reciprocate these sentiments. The bomb explosion that triggered the shooting and countless other incidents in the past are proof enough of this.

Nevertheless, it is heart-rending when once again innocent people, including women and children, suffer. The indiscriminate gun-play by the Americans — and military police at that — was a serious breach of discipline. A U.S. officer on the spot called it a "disgrace," and he was right.

This incident, even allowing for the constant pressure of communist Viet Cong terrorism in Saigon, was wholly unnecessary, and indicative of poor military discipline.

London Is Mecca of Jet-Set

Manchester Guardian

So you've made it at last.

Recently the cover of Time asked whether God was dead. And now London herself has been slotted into that privileged space that kills the news stands of half the world.

London it seems, the most-set, bimidinging, switched-on, scene-setting city this side of Vienna in the 1890s.

The trend-makers are here already, the international jet set likes is by every plane-load and thousands of lags all over London call boots are busy chasing the bemlins up the thigh.

In a parasitic press that becomes off the page, Times feature writers describe a scene so exotic, so breathless, and so tinted with improbable colors that mere photographs cannot convey its colossal impact.

The calcine is unparalleled, the closing unprecedented and the theatre vibrant and superb.

Is this the London that we knew? The London of the bee-finders and the Horse Guards and the gritty cockney courage of Passport to Pimlico? The London of men of ships with everything and HP sauce?

No, that has long since disappeared along with the empire.

A new London has been built for the young. It is not already born at the time of the blitz. A London where Carnaby Street takes precedence over Downing Street, where pin stripe and bowlers give way to bell bottoms and polyvinyl chloride.

Some of Times picture is overdrawn. Parts of it are trudge through the snow, are unconscionable.

But one thing is unmistakable — the vitality.

Reprehensible some of it may be, from the point of view of the wild, bright clothing of the young, not everyone will applaud the proliferation of trembling saloons and strip clubs that make up Time's scenario.

The gay, yet irresponsible

On Love Everlasting

Windsor Star

This is spring the season when renewed life expresses itself in nature. This is true even of human nature, when lives quicken after the dullness of winter.

Springtime is said to be the season of love, and that is perhaps especially true among those who are in the springtime of life. It must not be thought that love is for the young alone, or for spring time. That love endures, even unto age.

This comes to mind when we read of a man, of sixty-three score years and ten, who has visited his wife in hospital for more than six months. Indeed he has done it twice daily, in late afternoon and evening. His devotion has been brings comfort to her in her incapacity.

Cynics may claim these visits may only be out of a sense of duty but they misunderstand. They do not know of the incompetence a substantial sense of duty. Otherwise what one may call it would be less something very much less. Responsibility to a loved one is an essence of love.

Springtime in The Rockies

Lethbridge Herald

"Gentlemen, it's Spring," said the pallcooper, Sanlayana. He had been looking out of the Harvard University class room, where he had been lecturing.

What Sanlayana saw no one knows, for he straightaway walked out of the class room and never returned.

Perhaps he remembered the time he was a boy. He was young, that "it is about to be time to leave the heart." Later Sanlayana became cynical and disillusioned. He had leaned to despise love, and became a philosophical Realist.

Spring is especially welcome after the parliamentary shenanigans, when everyone is inclined to feel grey and disillusioned. One feels young again and can dream.

Out in the library Orville Brunelle is taking a picture of a girl reading. He is having afterward to take a picture of so owl on her nest.

Gophers are jumping out of their holes, looking right merry. A robin stares up impudently from the backyard lawn. It may be chirping, "Hello, and here and there the grass looks green.

Young girls are in short stockings, showing their bare knees. A young boy is smacking his lips over a bag of candies, about to go to her rescue, but she walked nonchalantly away he walked hastily after her friendly. Perhaps that is how young boys show their true love. This process is far away from boyhood is remember.

Much more obvious are the teen-agers holding hands, walking in deep contemplation.

One of the surest signs of spring is the shrill shrieking of the children in the schoolyards. With their furtive movements, the teens are trying to get rid of sed when no one is looking.

Strictly Personal
Real Meaning of Security

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the reasons that organizations don't work as well as they might — and I am thinking here, particularly, of large business organizations — is that most of us have a defective theory of human motivation.

We think, for instance, of "security" and "initiative" as being opposites, in the sense that the more security a person is given, the less initiative he will display. This seems to me a gross misreading of human behavior.

In modern industrial society, the best rewards and the most solid developments are achieved by those organizations that are willing to make innovations, that are unafraid to take risks and to question the conventional wisdom of the past.

When leaders and executives fail to take such risks, it is more usually because they are insecure, rather than because they are sure. They are fearful of their position, scared of being wrong or thought wrong, doubtful about their talents, or uncertain about their status in the organization. It is this kind of anxiety that makes for conformism, timidity, and a lack of initiative. —

Giving a man security — so long as his performance justifies it, of course — is giving him a firm place to stand. Without a firm place to stand, he will be afraid to move, lest he topple over. The whole psychology is "Don't rock the boat" in the one who feels that the boat may well be knock him out of the vessel, not the one who is securely tied to a chair.

Kurt Wilhelm Marx remarked in his provocative book, "The Conduct of the Corporation," that there is a tendency among our prize in sociology a few years ago: "The freedom to disagree, to criticize, and to question time-honored but irrational formulas, requires for most men as much if not a relatively stable place to stand . . .

We can perceive the same tendency in the unwillingness of organization called a school: the child who is anxious about his acceptance by others, who is too worried about keeping up or passing, will be much worse off in his studies than the one who feels that as long as he is doing his best, he will not be thrown to the wolves if his performance motivates us positively; a sense of fear motivates us negatively. If at all.

Oppressed, insecure and frightened people show little initiative; they are not free enough from inner conflict to stand up boldly and say new, and possibly unpopular things. Only the strong can practice free dom, and only by (relatively) secure can feel strong.

To Your Good Health
Drinking Much Water Will Not Do Any-Harm

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are having quite a problem. I drink six to eight glasses of water a day. I have had a heart attack, and my sister thinks that is too much water and it will put on weight. I never heard of such a thing. Please answer. — Mrs. E. F. H.

I'm afraid your sister has put two and two together and gotten seven instead of four.

Water does not add true weight. It constantly must pass through the body to carry away waste. Since a quart weighs about two pounds, it is obvious that if you temporarily withdrew water from the system, weight will go down — but not true weight. I've used this example before: A football player in an afternoon of hard practice can easily lose five pounds and sometimes much more than that when he is thirsty. Sweating has "dried him out." So he drinks enough fluid to make up for it, and the next day he is right back at his usual weight. If you drink more, you will lose it faster. And vice versa. Water takes on no fat. Drinking more won't make you gain weight. There are no calories in water.

Your sister may be confused over another aspect. People of heart failure — that is, the heart cannot beat strong enough to maintain full, brisk circulation — may have edema or dropsy.

This means that body fluids are not kept moving rapidly enough. This sluggishness lets some water, and waste matter which it has absorbed, remain stagnantly in the tissues. Ankles swell, or other areas become congested.

This is not because the patient drinks too much water. It is because water, and the waste products, are not being removed quite rapidly enough.

The amount one drinks will have slight if any effect on this.

Medications can be given (diuretics) to hasten the discharge of this stagnant fluid, and thus reduce the edema, but that is another matter entirely. You still should drink plenty of water to keep your body functioning healthily.

If you have edema, rely on your physician's advice, not on your sister's, because she is mistaken in her belief.

I should add that the fact that you have had a heart attack does not necessarily mean that you have either edema or heart failure. Millions of people have had heart attacks and returned to fairly active, useful livelihood.

Either way, you need water. And it won't add weight.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently read of a study to determine reasons for loss of hair that revealed an iron deficiency in the majority of cases, and an iron supplement was suggested to remedy this. Do you agree? — J. F.

I am not familiar with this particular study into deficiency implies anemia; plenty of cases of anemia of hair that's treated successfully without observing any change in hair growth — unless the anemia was very severe. If anemia is present it should be corrected. Ill health from whatever cause can be a factor in hair loss. Trying iron whether you need it or not isn't going to be a cure-all for thinning hair.

Dear Dr. Molner: Am I correct in saying that infants have colic according to whether they were injured at birth? — J. G. R. No, ma'am. In general you are wrong.

* * *

Note to Mrs. D.: Birth control pills also are used at times to regulate menstrual periods. They will have no effect on your daughter later, either as to marriage or having children.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 13, 1908 . . .

Jamestown, Va., the first permanent English settlement in North America, was founded 309 years ago today — in 1607 — by Capt. Christopher Newport. Its early years were not much of a success as the village was built on a swamp and was burned down by accident in 1608. The colonists decided the following year to return to England but met an incoming ship with supplies and new settlers, and so decided to try again. Indians, sickness and famine killed off half the colony in the early 1620s, but there were 13,000 people in Virginia by 1640 and there was no turning back. Jamestown was the capital until 1698, after which it declined.

1938—News of King's visit first at Biloche reached Ottawa.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—In 1918 — Scottish regiments dispersed a German raid near Ploegsteert Wood. British Prime Minister H. H. Asquith visited Dublin, still in ruins from the Easter Rising.

Second World War

Twenty - five years ago today—In 1941—Rudolf Hess was declared sane by a Glasgow hospital and revoked to a secret prison; Axis columns reconsolited in force along the Egyptian border; strike in Welsh Wington discussed training RAF pilots in the United States.

Right to Know

Buffalo Evening News

When a man is as prominent in public life as Sir Winston Churchill was, he automatically surrenders a great deal of his privacy, and posterity has a right, through as full an historical accounting as possible, to know as much about him as it can learn This will absolve no attending physician of any breach of medical ethics. But it argues strongly for the public's ultimate right of access to the kind of material in Lord Morsn's publication.

TV at U.K. State Opening

New Statesman

The state opening of Parliament remains one of the last gestures of contempt that the Establishment can offer to what Lord Beaverbrook calls "this popular lace," and to its elected governments.

Admittedly, the diamonds are real, but as a spectacle it provides a cross between an old-fashioned pantomime and the kind of Ruritanian frippery Ivor Novello offered his prewar devotees at Drury Lane.

As a piece of constitutional symbolism, it is a timely reminder that there are still a lot of cobwebs to be cleared away before Mr. Wilson's long-promised process of modernization can begin.

Something of significance did, however, happen in the middle of all this: A television camera was admitted into the chamber of the House of Commons for the first time.

True, it was simply record the ceremonial which opening. But, in a sense, the breach has at least been made. In the Commons as a whole, opinion would seem to be moving in favor of some form of televising debates. This, at any rate, is the trend indicated by two straw polls taken in recent years.

A hard core of opposition still remains. That well-known conservative-minded Labor backbencher, Mr. Hamilton Kerr, has already tabled a motion declaring that televising debates would do damage to the quality of the speeches here."

Under the present system, of course, the viewer is not denied a glimpse of politicians. They are on the screen in an almost endless succession. What he does not see is a transmitted debate — except on those occasions when a question is answered.

This situation is par for the course in Canadian hockey, but a golfer who tries to strain his eyes to watch the ball when it is No. 8 iron is not showing much foresight. He deserves to be penalized for losing his temper, no matter what the provocation. In the non-cricket, golf-loving nation an umpire's ruling in England's national summer game, whether it is considered correct or gesture hardly calls for extreme action. Canadian arbiters, who have much more experience of criticism, are certainly not so sensitive about taking abuse.

Fortunately, these incidents are not typical of golf or cricket. They are likely to occur only when people become over-sensitive-minded over their sports and games, which they are intended primarily for recreation and relaxation.

modested and more work done.

And more needful than all of these, the general level of political understanding could be immeasurably raised and a new group given to the importance of Parliament.

Lighting the city was a some problem years ago. From one fifty copy of this time in 1888: At a meeting of the city council Ald. Hagley introduced his motion in addition to provide for electric lights over each of the bridges, one in front of the Grand Opera on Mill St., one at the junction of Canniton Rd. and another at the corner of Bridge St. and one at the entrance to the depot yard. He put special stress upon the lighting of the street to the depot. It is, he said, a dingy street to travel at night time. The footbridge has been well lighted by Mr. Ritchie of the Ritchie Store. The city clock should also be lighted. Thomas Wills remarked it did lamps along the street to the depot which cost about $11.50 each.

Golfer Ran Foul of Law

Hamilton Spectator

Two incidents arising from games in other Commonwealth countries suggest that hockey is not the only unsavory sport in sight.

In Sydney, Australia, a golfer was bound to the peace for two years after he had clouted a player on the head with a club, and in the English village of Hales Owen a cricketer clouted a fellow who one of his decisions was questioned.

High sticking is par for the course in Canadian hockey, but a golfer who tries to strain his eyes to watch the ball when it is No. 8 iron is not showing much foresight. He deserves to be penalized for losing his temper, no matter what the provocation. In the non-cricket, golf-loving nation an umpire's ruling in England's national summer game, whether it is considered correct or gesture hardly calls for extreme action. India May Soon Develop Own A-Weapon

WASHINGTON (CP) — There are pessimists here who believe it is just a matter of time before India develops its own nuclear weapons, using its Canada-built reactor for the fissionable material.

That would be done, they fear, either by tweaking outright on the Canadian stipulation that the reactor's output is to be used for peaceful purposes only, or by bending the terms to manufacture a device capable of qualifying as a peaceful tool of some kind.

This couldn't be, for example, billed as a canal or harbor project fashioned by an underground blast. Such talk in India is not new.

But every time China explodes another nuclear device, a political shock wave batters at the official Indian position of atoms for peace only.

Such a wave is striking again in the wake of China's third and biggest nuclear explosion this year.

So far, say Canadian informants here, India has never raised with Canada the subject of using fissionable material from the Canadian-built reactor for military explosions.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is still on record as opposed to the build-the-bomb movement. Yet national pride, bolstered prestige and security are raising their heads, U.S. and Canadian observers fear, at a time when they are especially difficult for the troubled subcontinent to resist.

Property East of City Taken Off Auction Block

That nine acre stretch of Ontario Highways Department property just east of the city limits on No. 2 highway won't go on the auction block after all.

Instead, prospects are that it will be purchased by the township of Thurlow and in co-operation with the Belleville parks board will be developed as a picnic site and park area.

Concern over the eventual destiny of the highway property was raised in the city this week after it was learned that the nine acres between "old No. 2 highway" and the four - lane road built during the late 1950's was to be put up for auction.

There is no zoning in this particular area of Thurlow township and concern was voiced as to its possible future use.

Alderman Donald Ross, chairman of the city parks board, said his board had conferred with Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall on the matter and the township will negotiate for the property with the highways department through Clarke T. Rollins MLA for Hastings East.

"The auction has been called off, and the township will purchase the property," Ald. Williams said.

Queen's Gets Bequest of $40,000

The Queen's Theological College has received a bequest of $40,000 from a New York doctor and member of a prominent Kingston family.

Rev. Dr. Elias Andrews, principal of the college, said the gift was made by the late Dr. Duncan Macpherson in memory of his wife, Mina Alice Donaly Macpherson.

Dr. Macpherson was a brother of Colin A. Macpherson, 301 Victoria Street, who was the founder of C. E. Macpherson Limited on Rideau Street.

Dr. Andrew said a tablet acknowledging the bequest will be placed in the Theolog Hall chapel later this year.

'Share-a-Loaf' Campaign Hobby of Toronto Lady

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-five cents, put aside four years ago for a "loaf" for a starving person somewhere in the world, has mushroomed into $100,000 support this year for the Canadian-Mysore project in India.

"I was trying to think of some way the average Canadian housewife like myself could help ease the terrible hunger among Asians," said Mollye Brown in an interview. "One night I had a dream of calling it a 'share-a-loaf' campaign. Each time a woman went shopping for the family groceries she would put aside 25 cents for a loaf for starving fellow human beings."

A year and a half later, Mrs. Brown's husband died, and she returned to her former work as a secretary Her extra time and energy were poured into the share-a-loaf campaign. It became the Robert W. Brown Fellowships for training students in food technology at Mysore, a memorial to her husband.

"Robert (her son) encouraged me," Mrs. Brown says. He attended a meeting of the Women's International League when Mrs. Brown pressed her idea to them.

"We would make cards to hold 20 quarters which then could be mailed into banks for the Canadian Freedom from Hunger Committee of the United Nations. When someone asked if other organizations might want to join, I remember Robert said: 'Let's let anyone share as large as we get the starving fed.'"

SUPPORT STUDENTS

In growing numbers, women began working on the cards. The share-a-loaf funds was diverted to the Robert F. Brown Fellowships, which now support four Asian students at the Mysore training centre where Calgary-born Dr. W. J. Gall is director.

In April, Mrs. Brown presented a cheque for $1,000 to the fund to Joseph H. Blake, chairman of the Canadian-Mysore project. It brought to $14,000 the amount she alone has raised through the $5-cent contributions.

Dr. Prakash K. Shastri, director of the Indian tourist office in Toronto, said he hoped Mrs. Brown might one day visit his country to see for herself the work that is being done.

Dr. Gall and his staff work around the clock to improve methods of food preservation in a land where 30 per cent of the food produced is lost through spoilage. They also help set up new food processing industries, conduct research on special food problems of various Asian countries and teach Asians food technology.

Silver Cross Women Want Pension Hike

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A resolution requesting an increase in old age pension was sent to Ottawa Thursday by the Remembrance Association, Silver Cross Women of Canada, at its annual convention here.

The resolution, passed Wednesday, urged the federal government to take into account the fact that cost of living increase make the present $75 pension inadequate to cover medical expenses and rents.

In other business, members elected Mrs. Percy Hicks of Brantford to her second term as national president.

Other officers elected: Edith James, Edmonton; Doris Cullen, New Glasgow, N.S., Mrs. H. F. McConaghy, Fredericton, Mrs. Fred Valler, London and Mrs. Leo Unrig, Kitchener, vice presidents; Mrs. Walter Hoff, Toronto, recording secretary; Mrs. F. C. Simpson, Hamilton, treasurer; Mrs. H. A. Lippert, Kitchener, corresponding secretary.

The association made up of wives and mothers of servicement killed in action. Its activities are aimed at the needs of families of servicemen killed in war and includes scholarships and other aid.

Delegates voted to have next year's convention in Ottawa, May 7-10 to coincide with VE-Day.

Successful Living
Girl Smart at School But Ignorant of Life

DEAR DORIS: One of two twins in my grade always stands at the top of the class. But she is completely ignorant about everything in the outside world. She knows nothing about politics. She never reads books or newspapers.

She participates in curling, hockey and baseball, yet she doesn't follow these at all on the professional level.

If you do beat her you listen to a half-hour speech of the silly way she lost marks. I've read psychology books and I realize her problem. All her life she's had to compete with her twin. She has found fast, efficient ways of doing things, she is supposed to have the principal paying as much attention to her and not to the other intelligent kids in our class. Every time he passes them up I see red.— FRUSTRATED.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Simmer down. Didn't the psychology books tell you that an I.Q. merely measures potential? And that the real winner has friendliness, perseverance and a broad interest in living going for him (or her) as well?

Since you see her problem, it is your duty as a good psychologist to help her to a more mature point of view; which you can do by hostility.

The students who vent their wrath on a good student merely for being good makes me see r-e-d.

DEAR DORIS: You told me to write and let you know how I made out with the books on playing piano. Doris — It's really good. I am constantly fine and enjoying every minute of it.

I would like to add a little advice to others — don't practice too long at a time. I don't set a certain length of time. Just a little while sometimes or when you have to wait for something to cook, etc. Then sometimes you sit down and first thing you know more than half an hour has gone by, but you do need at least an hour a day.

If you know someone that can give you pointers on music, so much the better, as there are a lot of little things that aren't in the books that one can only learn by a good teacher. I have some good books with advice on practising.

Thank you, Doris, for enabling me to start something I've always wanted to do.— MUSIC LOVER.

DEAR LOVER: Well! How nice for me to get credit for something which was entirely your doing! The practice-that-makes-perfect calls for high class perseverance. Congratulations.

DEAR DORIS: This is for Senior, who wanted to establish date of birth:

Perhaps some school where you attended may have some old records listing your age. When teaching I was asked to verify a similar statement and a back number of "Daily Record" gave the necessary information.

My husband took their Family Bible to Toronto to show his mother's record of a son's birth. They would not accept the signature as an insurance policy as proof.

I wish you success in your search for a convincing statement and would like to know. — MRS. M.H.J.

DEAR MRS. M.H.J.: So would I. Senior, how goes the search?

DEAR DORIS: In your opinion it is a custom in other countries to pay for an invitation. Sorry, but Canadians are not as proud as you seem to be. I have invitations to dinner from many countries, but all of them assured me that they experienced the same thing I did. This custom is widely used by Canadian people, here and indeed in Canada.

I think it is quite inculking to European hospitality to blame it to "some countries." To set things straight, will you, please, name the countries. — H.H.

DEAR H.H.: You mean that even "old" Canadians send out invitations to a private celebration such as an anniversary and charge admission? We must be learning fast!

I was not blaming nor criticizing any country or its customs. Merely trying to explain. Readers, how about this?

DORIS CLARK

QUESTION:

I wondered if you have a recipe for a "crumb cake" in which part of the dry ingredients (which are mixed first when making cake) are saved and spread on top of cake batter before baking, thus forming a topping and no icing is needed.

Mrs. G. S.

ANSWER:

I have not made the following cake for at least 20 years, but I remember it well.

CRUMB CAKE NUMBER ONE

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour,
1½ cups sugar,
2 teaspoons single-acting baking powder,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ cup butter,
2 eggs, beaten,
1 cup milk,
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Rub together the flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and butter until you have fine crumbs. Measure and reserve 1 cup of these crumbs. Beat into remaining crumbs the eggs, milk and vanilla. Turn into buttered 8 x 8" or 9 x 13" pan which has been lined on bottom with greased wax paper. Smooth top, sprinkle reserved crumbs over evenly. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes or until it tests done.

FRIDAY

Scalloped Scallops; Shoestring Potatoes; Julienne Carrots; Toasted Salad with Shredded Lettuce and Shredded Beet Cauliflower; Dispatch Dressing; Lemon Meringue Pie; Tea.

CRUMB CAKE NUMBER TWO

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour,
1 cup sugar,
½ teaspoon salt,
¼ cup butter,
1 egg,
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk,
½ teaspoon baking soda,
2 teaspoons baking powder,
½ teaspoon cloves,
1 teaspoon cinnamon,
1 cup raisins,
1 cup currants.

Rub together the flour, sugar, salt and butter to make fine crumbs. Measure and reserve 1 cup. Into remaining crumbs beat all remaining ingredients. Pour into buttered shallow cake pan and sprinkle evenly with reserved crumbs. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 35 to 45 minutes or until cake tests done when gently touched.

QUESTION:

The commercial "Honey Grahams" are a great favorite. Have you something akin in a crisp cookie?

Mrs. C. E.

ANSWER:

Below is a reasonable facsimile.

HOMEMADE HONEY GRAHAM WAFERS (about 6 dozen)

1 cup shortening,
¼ cup brown sugar,
¼ cup honey,
2 cups white flour,
4 cups graham flour,
1 teaspoon soda,
2 teaspoons baking powder,
½ teaspoon salt,
½ to ¾ cup sweet or sour milk,
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Add vanilla and honey and measure flour, combine with graham flour, and sift salt, soda and baking powder. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Dough should be stiff. Mix thoroughly after each addition. Chill dough in refrigerator overnight. In the morning, turn out on floured board and roll as thinly as possible. Cut in square or any shape desired. Place 1 inch apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until crisp and a golden brown.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

Mrs. R. B. deB. Wright was hostesse on Tuesday afternoon when the Parish Guild of Christ Church met at the rectory for their May meeting. Mrs. J. M. Cousins, president, welcomed the large number of members and guests and presided over the business portion of the meeting.

Correspondence included letters from absent members and from Church friends. Reports were heard from the event-a-meal chairman Mrs. Boyd, and from the remembrance convener, Mrs. Noakes.

The president reported that a successful reading evening had been catered to by the Guild and that there were several more dates scheduled for the next two months. News of the coming Blossom Tea, sale and exhibition of paintings by artists was given by Mrs. Beeby and members were urged to do their utmost to make this annual event an outstanding success. The Guild had catered to a dinner for the church stewards and will be providing another dinner at the end of this month for a large group.

Mr. Cleo Colling, people's warden of Christ Church addressed the meeting, outlining the financial position of the church and offering several suggestions for projects for the organizations to consider. Mr. Colling thanked the Guild for their renovations to the rectory and donations towards the work of the church. After dedications, it was decided that the Guild would undertake the renovation and painting of the outside of the rectory as its next project.

The devotional, presented by Mrs. G. Livingstone, had the theme, "Happiness — the one thing which cannot be bought and must be shared before it can be enjoyed to be found." Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the afternoon Mrs. A. Dimont, Mrs. F. Bradshaw, Mrs. L. Dawson and Mrs. R. B Wright. A beautiful birthday cake in honor of Mrs. Horace Wright was made by the president and a birthday poem composed and read by the birthday guest by Mrs. Earl Hickey.

The June meeting of the Guild will be held at "Tree-tops" on Lake Consecon, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Hicker. It will be the closing meeting for the season and will be a potluck luncheon.

Mrs. Ridley Wallbridge expressed the thanks of the Guild to Mrs. Wright for a most pleasant afternoon.

UCW Sponsor Luncheon and Art Display

FRANKFORD — Unit I of Frankford United Church Women sponsored a delightful luncheon party on Saturday afternoon, from 2 p.m.-5 p.m. in Ross Lowery Hall.

Rev. C. Dugan, Mrs. Ross Bateman and Mrs. Frank Rabel received the guests at the door.

The afternoon featured an art display by Miss Vlasta Rabel, consisting of the highlights of her present term at Ontario College of Art.

The display consisted of an art portfolio, in which was compiled her best work for presentation to an art director when applying for a position and a travel brochure promoting Canadian vacation areas as presents in foreign countries. Display of special local interest was a series of pictures depicting the story of Bateau.

Intermittently through afternoon, Miss Lennie Rowe delighted the guests with vocal selections, among them French Canadian folk songs. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Eleanor Beach.

The tea table was centred with yellow daffodils, pink tulips, and yellow and pink candles. The luncheon tables also carried out this color scheme.

Mrs. Roy Osterhout convened the luncheon tables and the plates were served by: Misses Zelda Halsall, Marian Frost, Gwen Gilmour, Bernice Grills, Anne Beach, Susan Chase, Raelene Rowe and Donna Chase.

Mrs. W. Morrow, Mrs. J. C. Beach and Mrs. P. Chase, convened in the kitchen.

Unit I of Frankford United Church Women were rewarded by the fact that there was a unique venture which displayed some of the accomplishments of their church members and at the same time to bring pleasure and relaxation to the guests who attended.

Ann Landers

Customer Deserted When Telephone Rang

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I promised myself if it happened again I would sit down and write to you. And it did, so here I am.

Why does a telephone customer get precedence over the customer who has taken the time and trouble to go to the store? I left my office today for what I thought would be a quick trip. Just as I was preparing to hand the saleswoman the money, the telephone rang. She turned around without so much as a word and left me standing there while she became involved with a customer who had dozens of questions. With every passing minute my blood- ANN LANDERS pressure mounted. I tapped my foot for 12 minutes.

I very nearly walked out of the store but I decided it would be biting off my nose to spite my face. If I left I would have to start all over again some place else and perhaps not find what I wanted.

Please don't tell me to boycott the store that treats its customers this way. They all do. Just tell me what to do about it. — COLUMBIA, S.C.

DEAR COLUMBIA: Leaving a customer to answer the telephone is more than bad business. It is bad manners. It's as rude as turning your back on a friend in mid-sentence to speak to an intruder.

The sales person who must answer the phone should ask his customer before he leaves him if he will please wait one moment while he takes the number so he can return the call.

The next time you are abandoned this way I hope you will walk out. Then write a letter to the store president and tell him why the store lost the sale and your good will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of seven children and I have seen a good bit of what goes on in the world so please don't think I'm naive. What happened yesterday gave me the shock of my life.

When the delivery boy returned the family dry cleaning he handed me some papers that had been found in our son's pocket. (Karl is 17.) Among the papers was a note from a girl. Karl and the girl are not going steady. He just happens to see this girl more often than any of the others. The girl was pleading with Karl to take her to a motel so they could prove they were married. From the way she wrote it sounds as if she has been trying to get him to do this for quite some time.

Please tell me if I should remain silent and act as if I know nothing. Or should I let Karl know I saw the note and have a talk with him? — LANCASTER MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Get a copy of my book, "Ann Landers Talks To Teen Agers About Sex." Read the book to Karl when you return the papers to him. Explain how you happen to have the papers and tell him you have read everything.

Make it plain you have complete confidence in him and that you know he's not going to do anything foolish. Tell him you want to make sure he has plenty of information since it is obvious that some of the girls in his crowd are in pretty pathetic shape emotionally and are ignorant as well.

Church Groups

ST. COLUMBA PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN

The regular monthly meeting of St. Columba Church Women was held at St. Columba Church with Mrs. G. Devolin presiding.

The guest speaker of the evening was Miss Olive Price of the V.O.N. Miss Price showed a most interesting film called "The Long Way Back". It dealt with the various duties of a volunteer worker at a mental hospital and showed the long, slow process of the rehabilitation of a patient at such a hospital.

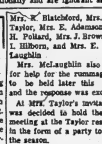
After the film, Miss Price spoke about the Canadian Mental Health Association, and the work they were trying to do.

After a short devotional by Mrs. K. D. Taylor a business meeting followed.

Mrs. G. Devolin asked for volunteers to work at the V.O.N. tea. She also asked for donations for the bake table. It is the duty of each church in the city to help make this tea a success.

Many money-making projects were discussed, and it was decided to have three bake sales before the summer. These sales are an experiment to see whether or not enough money can be realized in order to forfeit a bazaar in the fall.

Conveners were obtained for all these bake sales. They are Mrs. K. Blatchford, Mrs. K. D. Taylor, Mrs. E. Adamson, Mrs. H. Pollard, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. I. Hilborn, and Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin.



Mrs. McLaughlin also asked for help for the rummage sale to be held later this month and the response was excellent.

At Mrs. Taylor's invitation it was decided to hold the June meeting at the Taylor residence in the form of a party to finish the season.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. J. Ritchie and Mrs. G. Devolin.

Mother's Helper

I SAVE wishbones from chicken and turkeys, dry them out, and let the children use them to decorate "art well" cards. The clean bones can be colored and glued on a card, with a special drawing or message from your child in his own friend. They're fun to make —especially appreciated because they're "custom made" —and we know? The wish may make things well! (Thanks to Mrs. Howard Engleman, Salina, Kansas)

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR — The formality usually associated with government commissions gets tossed aside as A. W. R. Carrothers, dean of law at the University of Western Ontario and commission chairman, shows Eskimo children how to do tricks with their hands. Eskimo children showed up with their parents at more than 50 meetings of the advisory commission on the development of government in the Northwest Territories. (CP Photo)

Where Eskimo Mother Goes, All Children Go

By SUTART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Chances are Eskimo mothers have never heard of baby-sitters. If they have, they've probably rejected the idea as another crazy practice of the kabluna.

For no matter where mother goes—or when she goes—all the kids go too.

Tucked in the compartment at the back of mother's parka, baby goes along for the ride when it's time to shop at the nearest Hudson's Bay Co. trading post.

If mother works, junior and his brothers and sisters go along to the settlement's carving centre with her. While mother creates her work of art, the kids play nearby.

Perhaps a public meeting is on the school that night. This is great fun for the older kids who usually can play games without incurring the wrath of their parents. Baby naps in mother's parka.

The great affection Eskimo parents have for their young ...sters has in the past meant they could do as they pleased up to six years of age without knowing the meaning of punishment.

But nowadays kids who rely on this enlightened practice sometimes are in for a shock—right in the seat of their pants.

FORMALITY FORGOTTEN

Members of the advisory commission on the development of government in the Northwest Territories can be excused if they consider themselves experts on how Eskimos raise their young.

At more than 50 public meetings in the North, their audiences were well-sprinkled with children. There were plenty of opportunities for first-hand observation.

Commissioners learned not to bat an eyelash when fi came time to breast-feed baby.

They also came to admire the speed with which the Eskimo mother changes diapers.

You could hardly tell a naked child was running up and down the aisle the way commissioners would continue making points to their adult audiences.

Sometimes the commissioners tossed aside all pretensions of the formality usually associated with government commissions.

At Pelly Bay, for example, chairman A. W. R. Carrothers of London, Ont., dean of law at the University of Western Ontario, was observed showing Eskimo children how to do tricks with their hands.

And in another corner of the meeting hall a second member of the commission party was telling a group of children as gently as he could that Batman and Superman do not exist outside of comic books.

White Female Workers In South Find Tension-provoking Hostility

By FRANK CAREY

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—White female civil-rights workers in the southern United States are experiencing tension-provoking hostility from a source they had little expected —the Negro community itself, a psychiatrist said today.

White girls who go to the southern states "place themselves in a social and psychological cross-fire that for most of them is emotionally shattering," said Dr. Arvin Poussaint of Tufts Medical School in Boston, who also is southern field director of the Medical Committee for Human Rights of Jackson, Miss.

In a report to the annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, he said:

"Not only must they withstand the rejection of the white community, but the Negro community as well, because as white women they are the symbol of the 'southern-way-of-life'.

They may bring with them certain psychological attitudes —often unconscious and in different degrees—which can generally be referred to as the "White African Queen complex".

"At the centre of this 'complex' is commonly found a tabooed and repressed fantasy of the intelligent, brave, and beautiful white woman leading the poor, down-trodden, and oppressed black man to freedom."

Their interpersonal relations with Negroes become marred by the scars that centuries of racism have wrought on both their psyche and that of the Negro.

"They are disturbed, feared, hated, adored, and worshipped all at the same time by their black co-workers."

FEW CAN COPE

He said that few of the girls are able to cope with the personal tensions generated by both facets of the white-black "cross - fire" besetting them—and "most of these girls leave the south in less than six months."

A number of the girls "often contribute to their own difficulties in the Negro community," he said, adding:

Susanna's Family Fare

DRAPERY TRICKERY

How often have you heard someone say, "Draperies from one house just won't fit the windows of another?"

This may often be the case, but if your draperies are wide enough and full enough for the windows — but are simply too short — then there is a way.

I know of an instance where a friend had stunning, lined, floral bedroom drapes in shades of pale mauve and deep purple that were a perfect match for the spread and rug in the master bedroom.

However, since the bedroom windows in the master suite of her new home were floor length, the drapes were nearly 2½ feet too short. Fortunately, a bright young interior decorator was visiting with them one evening, and asked her to let him take care of the problem.

First he hung the draperies she had brought across the window, café style, 2½ feet from the top so that they just gracefully cleared the floor.

Then, picking up one of the important more prominent accent shades from the floral pattern, he made a deep, soft flashy full valance in a plain color which he placed on a rod of its own which stretched completely across the top of the large windows and hung slightly past the top of the original draperies.

The effect is truly elegant! — SUSANNA

Man Who Danced With Princess Tries to Earn Political Spurs

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — For nearly eight years John Turner has been best known as "the man who danced with Princess Margaret."

Now, as minister without portfolio in the federal cabinet, he's working hard to become known instead as the man who helps veteran Jack Pickersgill run the transport department.

"I wish people would forget that Princess Margaret episode," he says with a shake of his head.

"We had a couple of drinks and a few dances together. Some reporters built it up and made a romance out of it. Why didn't they pick on one of the other fellows?"

The "episode" was in 1958 at Vancouver during Princess Margaret's tour of Canada. Organizers had arranged an informal party, inviting a group of young men and women to meet the princess for cocktails and dancing.

Within 24 hours John Turner, a comparatively obscure Montreal lawyer, had joined the exclusive list of world bachelors being talked about as prospective husbands for the princess, then 28.

One reason for the speculation is still fairly obvious. The tall, dark and handsome minister turns feminine heads every time he walks down a corridor on Parliament Hill.

TRANSPORT HIS FIELD

As a secretary in a nearby office puts it: "Watching him is one of the fringe benefits in this place."

Watching him lately has also been a bit difficult. He's been on the go continually with assignments from Transport Minister Pickersgill, so much so that fellow MPs now refer to him as the associate transport minister.

As the youngest member of the cabinet at 36, and the only one without a designated department, Mr. Turner reveals that he was a bit apprehensive when Prime Minister Pearson promoted him in the cabinet in the December shakeup.

"I figured I was due for all the 'go' jobs," he said in an interview.

Instead, Mr. Pickersgill won the prime minister's backing to have Mr. Turner take over massive matters in the overland transport portfolio, particularly St. Lawrence Seaway problems.

A few weeks ago the rookie minister was assigned to pilot the transport department's supplementary spending estimates through the Commons and impressed observers with a detailed report on new proposals for shipping safety in the St. Lawrence River.

FULL OF IDEAS

Now he's deeply involved in a study of tighter regulations on ship officers' licences, the fire safety situation in Montreal Harbor, improved navigation by radio, the future of seaway tolls, new channels for the lower St. Lawrence and a host of other issues.

Sitting down to talk to him about transport matters is a startling experience—something like turning on a switch you didn't know was connected to a buzz-saw.

The ideas and opinions spill out with none of the evasion or reticence that most people expect of politicians.

His eyes sparkle with enthusiasm while he discusses the pros and cons of a national transport board and a single policy for the whole transport field, or the future of navigation by satellite.

"The (satellite) future is really hard to believe," he says, in a voice so convincing that you don't find it hard at all.

What is hard to believe is that just five years ago politics was the farthest thing from John Turner's mind. He candidly admits that he wasn't even a Liberal party member until after attending Mr. Pearson's "thinkers' conference" at Kingston, Ont., in 1960 and the national Liberal conference in Ottawa the following year.

UPSET CHANCES

But just six months after taking out his card he was nominated Liberal candidate in the Montreal riding of St. Lawrence-St. George and in the 1962 election past Conservative Egan Chambers, then parliamentary secretary for defence. He's been unbeatable there since.

When the Liberals came to power in 1963 he was named parliamentary secretary to Northern Affairs Minister Laing and did so well that his appointment to the cabinet surprised no one except, perhaps, John Turner.

HE'S EARNING A NEW REPUTATION — John Turner has been known as "the man who danced with Princess Margaret" but as the youngest minister, at 36, in the federal cabinet, he's impressing observers with his energy and knowledge. Turner, a Rhodes scholar and lawyer, joined the Liberal Party in 1960, was elected in the Montreal riding of St. Lawrence-St. George in 1962 and appointed to the cabinet last December. (CP Photo)

He was born in England, son of a British newspaper man who died when John was three. His mother first brought him back to her own home at Roseland, B.C., then came to Ottawa in 1934 as a research economist for the tariff board.

Mr. Turner attended school here during the war. After the war his mother married Vancouver industrialist Frank Ross and he went to the University of British Columbia.

Mrs. Ross now is chancellor of the university. Her husband was B.C.'s lieutenant - governor from 1955 to 1960.

ON OPPOSITE SIDES

In 1949 Mr. Turner went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar, won his law degree there in 1952 and practised criminal law in London's seamy Bow Street district—"rather interesting work"—before moving on to the University of Paris for a year.

He was headed home to Vancouver late in 1953 when he stopped off at Montreal to visit friends. "One thing led to another and I decided to stay."

Three years ago he married Geills Macas Kilgour of Winnipeg. They have two children, Elizabeth, 2, and Michael, four months.

Last year his father-in-law, insurance company executive Thomas O. Kilgour, was a leading critic of the government's Canada Pension Plan legislation.

Was there a family rift, too?

"No sir, I respected his opinion, he respected mine and my wife didn't take sides."

NOW FROM AMERICAN MOTORS!

How important is an ashtray? At American Motors, we believe it's very important. It represents our meticulous attention to detail. Our no-stick ashtrays roll out smoothly on ball bearings. And if we take that much trouble with a simple ashtray, think of the time and effort that we put into the larger items . . . the hundreds of details that bring us our treasured reputation for quality. We have inspectors who testify to our attention to detail with a personally signed card. You'll find it in the glove compartment of each of our cars. It assures you of overall quality . . . overall quality you get today from American Motors.

Advanced engineering that's out in front. Exclusive features and built-in quality. That's what you get from American Motors today. Look at the proof:

Single Unit Construction. Body and frame on all American Motors cars are welded together into one, single, solid unit for tremendous strength and safety. Result: a stronger, safer, longer-lasting car—a car free from rattles.

Double Safety Brakes. Not just one braking system, but two. If one set ever fails, the other stops you safely. (Double Safety Brakes have been an exclusive feature, at no extra cost, on all our models since 1962. Some other manufacturers have now announced that they will adopt this feature—but not until their 1967 models.)

World's best rustproofing. All our cars get a "bath." They're deep-dipped up to their rooflines in rustproofing compound six separate times. Then they're dipped again in primer and given a separate spray coat of primer. Then come three gleaming coats of Lustre-Gard super enamel. You get a beautiful finish and long-lasting protection from the ravages of rust.

Most powerful standard engines in their classes. Swift, smooth, seven-main-bearing sixes. Powerful, virile V-8's. Take your choice.

Widest range of seating options in the industry. Luxurious reclining seats (buckets, if you want). Armrests and adjustable headrests. And fine-furniture coil springs in all our seats in all our models. (Only one other North American car offers this—and it's in the luxury class).

Fibreglass roofliners and double door seals. A far cry from flimsy fabric roofliners and single door seals. Noise stays out. Drafts, winds, chills can't get in.

Attention to detail. American Motors offers the durability of plastic kick panels, all-metal rear-deck shelves, even ashtrays that roll out on ball bearings. Small details, yes—but they add up to overall quality.

Beautiful luxury fittings. A big, big selection! All the power equipment and features you want. And floor consoles. Thick-cut pile carpeting. Wire wheel discs. Walnut interior paneling. Houndstooth Check fabric. New vinyl patterns. Exciting styling in top-of-the-line Ambassador DPL, Rambler Rogue and Rambler Rebel.

New car quality. We believe that quality is what you build in—not what you add on. We build quality into all our cars from the beginning. We take the time. We take the trouble. We always have. We always will.

Used car quality. The exclusive quality and features that we build into our full line of cars mean that an American Motors used car is a better value and a better buy.

HOSPITAL QUESTION BOX

NAPANEE — James Hopkins, administrator of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital; Miss Violet Cameron, director of nursing, Miss Roy Markman, assistant director, and Dr. Brent E. Berryhill, chairman of the Hospital Auxiliary, will comprise a panel to discuss hospital matters and answer questions, at the general meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary next Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8:00 p.m. in the Memorial Building.

A question box will be in evidence, where those attending will deposit written questions, anonymously if they so desire, for the information of the hospital situation they wish answered.

Tickets are being sold on a quilt donated by Mrs. Percy Maddox, and the draw will be made at the meeting. Those will be entertainment and refreshments.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY

The Jaycees are hoping for good weather May 25 for fireworks display, and they expect an exhibition of sky diving. Tom Cox and Donald Millar of Napanee, and William Wayce of Trenton will take off from the airport at Desoronto and will make their jumps at the fairground just after the parade arrives from the railroad station. Mr. Millar is one of the local National Employment office, was a paratrooper during the war, and he has continued his interest in jumping at the present time. He has a hour and the clouds are lower than 2,000 feet. And so, whether or not people see sky diving in Napanee May 25, all depends on the weather.

ORGAN RECITAL

Mr. Alec Gordon, organist of Bridge St. United Church Belleville, will present an organ recital in Green United Church next Sunday evening, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. He will be assisted by the choir of the church.

New Plan

federal crop insurance legislation, should be in operation in time to cover the harvesting of 1968 wheat, about next spring.

The government says that the insurance premiums will be subsidized at a level of 30 per cent —25 per cent by Ottawa and five per cent by Queen's Park, if the federal government complies.

Introducing an Ontario crop insurance bill in the legislature, Mr. Stewart said crop yields for insurance purposes, will be established on an individual farm basis rather than by township or county.

This would ensure that an average yield area would not be too low for some or too high for others.

Misrepresentation yields by farmers would not be a problem because any incorrect statement by an insured party would render the policy null and void. DOESN'T GIVE RATES

Mr. Stewart told reporters he could give no kind of premium rates, although his department does have some working figures in his proposed legislature. In his statement to the legislature, he said:

"Premium rates for each crop to be insured will be determined from available statistics on actual yields by county. . . . A farmer will not be compelled to insure all crops grown on his farm. He may decide to insure one particular crop and this will be quite permissible under the proposed policy."

A provincial crop insurance commission will be established to operate the plan, but private insurance agents will be largely used by the province.

Speaking to reporters, the agriculture minister said he is confident permissive federal legislation will be amended to provide for the operation of the Ontario scheme as contemplated in the province's own legislation.

The federal Crop Insurance Act fails to provide for coverage of forage crops such as corn, hay and pasture, nor does it allow for spot-loss coverage of individual crops, he said.

As well, the federal legislation permits only 60 per cent of production to be covered by insurance. Ontario wants this raised to 80 per cent.

New Volunteers Join Work On Centennial Project

DESERONTO — Now that the bulldozer is at work and the excavation actually for Centennial Park coming into being, interest is increasing rapidly.

Regular meetings are held by the committee, and at Tuesday's meeting a number of new volunteers filled the few who have been working quietly for a year. Councillor Albert Marks, chairman of the council's property committee, heads Centennial Park Committee, and Councillor James Sharpe is a member of both committees. Mayor Gerald Lott represents the Lions Club, in addition to the town council. Mrs. Stafford Cleve represents the Salvation Army, and Mrs. Fred Martin, the Cubs, Branch 288 of the Royal Canadian Legion has secretary of this committee, Andrew Hrytzak as its representative, James McVicker speaks for the Kinsmen Association and Bert Lloyd for the United Church. William Scholl and William Riggins are residents.

It is the hope of the original committee to have every organization in town represented at the next meeting, May 24 at the Town Hall.

Unwanted trees and shrubs have been removed, and remaining trees are properly trimmed, the drainage tile is laid and the bulldozer has much of the work of levelling completed on the east side. Sand for the beach will be driven in before work starts on the west side. Levelling should be completed within two weeks. Members decided to request a donation for Centennial Park from the Hastings County Council, and that this request first receive the approval of Town Council. It was also decided to sign, dedicate and install on the park site.

A discussion regarding the proposed Centennial memorial rink, which has almost faded from public attention, led to the passing of a motion that the chairman and members of that committee be invited to attend the next meeting of the Centennial Park Committee.

Committee members describe it as an elaborate meeting, auguring well for the co-operation of all sections of the community to bring success to the project.

Optimistic View of Stomach Cancer Given OMA Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — A United States surgeon gave an optimistic view of stomach cancer at the annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association Thursday, but he stressed that early diagnosis and surgery were important.

Dr. Stanley O. Hoerr of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation said deaths from stomach cancer in the U.S. decreased to 12 in 100,000 persons in 1965 from 30 in 1930.

The gloomy approach too often used in the past was that if a stomach ulcer proved malignant there was no point in operating and if it was not malignant, there was no need to operate.

Dr. Hoerr said the reasons for the decrease in stomach cancer are not known.

Stomach cancer is much more common in Iceland and in Japan and there have been theories that it may result from a high intake of smoked fish, but no one really knows, he said.

IT'S ONLY TEST

Dr. Hoerr said there is no test short of removing the ulcer which will prove absolutely how often parents and teachers how cancerous it is or fail to notice a child has a reading problem.

whether it is malignant.

Another speaker, Dr. W. A. Hawke, director of physical medicine at the Hospital for Sick Children, said that a child's examination or inheritance is probably the major factor in learning disabilities.

He illustrated the statement by saying if someone can't do mathematics it is likely his father, mother, aunts or uncles couldn't either.

A person with difficulties in visual perception might have reading difficulties, Dr. Hawke said. "If he had poor memory of visual symbols he might spell poorly, the doctor added."

He said brain damage or disturbance of handedness may aggravate the basic inherited weakness in an area.

Dr. Mary Hackney, psychologist at the Hospital for Sick Children, said it is incredible how often parents and teachers fail to notice a child has a reading problem.

HAVE TROUBLES

She said children were often referred because they were getting into difficulties with the community or other children or because of some physical problem for which no reason can be found.

Princess Omar Fine Acrobat

While most women stay at home and look after the house, or work in an office, one woman has set her aims on something no other woman has ever accomplished before. She is Princess Elana Omar, one of the star attractions with this year's all new Clyde Bros. Circus, appearing in Belleville for one day only May 18th. Princess Omar has mastered a feat performed in the past by only a few men, the one finger stand. She is the only woman who has ever been able to perfect the perfect balance and co - ordination that is absolutely necessary to perform this extremely difficult and dangerous act.

Born to the circus, Princess Omar has trained all her life to accomplish this astounding feat. Still today she spends many hours practising the act. As with any athletic performance, if even a few days go by without practice, the muscles begin to tense and get out of condition.

Not to stop at just one accomplishment, Princess Elana Omar also presents a series of head balancing routines, again an unusual feat. Princess Omar while balanced on her head plays the mandolin. She is an accomplished musician, and can also play the saxophone while in her upside down position.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Is a mortgage lender obliged to tell a borrower about the deficiencies of a property? Many readers have complained that they have been allowed to buy an obviously unsatisfactory property without a word of caution from the bank or mortgage company. This misunderstanding arises because of ignorance as to the role of the mortgage lender.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: The asking price for the house was $12,500. I asked my bank to appraise it. They told me that $12,500 was a fair price and that they were willing to grant a $9,500 mortgage.

I bought the house, but it is almost useless to me. After the owner had moved out, but before I moved in, I found the following wrong: Water pressure almost nonexistent, new pipes required, heater has large crack and must be replaced, chimney completely blocked with fallen brick and new chimney required, most floor joists completely hollow due to dry-rot and the ceiling in three rooms about to fall because the plaster has pulled away from the lath.

Correction of these and other problems will require over $3,000. I don't have the money!

The bank's appraiser examined the house and I paid for the appraisal. However, I was told nothing and I feel that the bank was negligent. I complained to the president, but the only reply I got was the threat that if I did not make mortgage payments immediately, foreclosure action would be instituted. — Mr. P. R.

ANSWER: Our correspondent's complaint is a very common one levelled against mortgage lenders. It arises because of a misunderstanding of the role of the mortgage lender. A mortgage lender inspects and appraises a house to ascertain that the property represents adequate security for the loan. It is not done for the purpose of determining whether the property meets the needs of the buyer.

A lender is not the representative or the agent of the buyer. He is a disinterested third party to the transaction. A buyer must do his own investigating. He cannot expect the lender to assume the burden for him. Think of the untenable position of the lender (vis-a-vis the broker and the owner) if he were to advise a buyer not to purchase.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Although I had lawyers and so-called experts helping me, my husband (now my ex-husband) was able to beat them all. He is a louse. But I have to give him credit for being smart. Here is how he got the money and wiped out my share in our house.

My father's wedding gift was a house, free and clear. After ten years of marriage we separated. My husband then managed the house with only my knowledge for about 30 percent of its value. He took the money and I haven't seen him since. When no mortgage payments were made the bank foreclosed. Result . . . he's living in an apartment and husband enjoying wine, women and song on the beach in Florida. — Smart Now

ANSWER: The deception stated above is one of several methods known to real estate professionals for compensating or wiping out a wife's interest in real estate in spite of protection afforded by the law. This method is applicable in states where a husband can mortgage without his wife's consent. The husband must have had help and advice from some person knowledgeable in real estate for lenders usually insist that the wife also sign the mortgage papers.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My husband is always criticizing me because he claims the light bulbs I use are too large. He suspects me and has agreed to accept your recommendation.

My question is . . . what is the proper size bulb for a reading lamp? He thinks a 60-watt lamp is about the right size. — D. E.

ANSWER: I must tell your husband that he is penny wise and pound foolish. For casual reading, a table lamp should have a minimum of 100 watts and a floor lamp 150 watts. For prolonged reading a table lamp should have one or more bulbs totalling at least 120 watts and a floor lamp totalling 300 watts.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our mortgage is down to $2,400 on a house worth about $20,000. We are buying a new automobile costing about $3,000. The bank is willing to give us an automobile loan at 5 percent or, add the amount to our house-mortgage, which has a 5½ percent interest rate. It is obvious that we will save money with the automobile loan at 5 percent, but to satisfy my wife, I agreed to ask you first. — P. M.

ANSWER: In consumer lending the figures sometimes don't mean what they imply. A mortgage loan at 5½ percent is about 4¾ percent cheaper than an automobile loan at 5 percent. It is a matter of arithmetic and it is. An automobile loan at 5 percent has a true interest rate of almost 10 percent, but a 5½ percent mortgage really means a true interest rate of 5½ percent.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Yesterday I signed a contract to insulate my ceiling with rock wool and aluminum foil. I followed your advice and investigated before making a decision.

Today, another salesman called with the information to give me will cause me to spend a sleepless night. He says that because aluminum foil is a good conductor it will attract lightning. Now, as an adult I am terribly frightened of lightning. I need advice in a hurry. — Mrs. C. C.

ANSWER: No evidence exists that aluminum insulation would attract lightning. In fact, it could conceivably be some protection against lightning. I am informed that if the house were to be struck by lightning the aluminum could help dissipate and ground the charge.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I asked a real estate broker to sell my house. He tells me that he won't advertise or spend other money until I sign a contract. I'm suspicious! Am I heading for trouble if I sign? — S. V.

ANSWER: Your broker is asking you to sign a listing agreement which is quite proper. I recommend this procedure for it has been my experience that an open listing is given little attention or effort.

A fair listing agreement for a house should be for a three-month period. Also, it should be of the type that can be terminated by the homeowners without further obligation if he is dissatisfied with results. Since this is a legal document, it is best to first obtain the opinion of your attorney before signing.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Sunday School Lesson

Virtue and Strength

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Many a present day Christian has walked down the aisle of his church and left his offering in a modern version of Joash' chest. While they know that the case of such a chest is first mentioned in the Bible, they know the story of the king who first suggested it, the story of those reign in Judah, as is often the case, is stranger than fiction.

The reign of Joash, who could have been one of the most good kings of Judah, was preceded and ended in tragedy. The story opens with his father Ahaziah, a descendant of Ahab, on the throne. Athaliah, the king's mother was a true daughter of Jezebel, and cooched her son in idolatry. The sacred record says "His mother was his counselor in doing wickedly." (II Chron. 22:3) What a tragic obituary to place above a mother's tomb.

When her son was killed by Jehu, Athalia, true to her nature, tried to murder every member of the royal family who might prevent her from succeeding to the throne which she seized and kept for six years.

PLOT THAT FAILED

She would have succeeded completely in her plot except for an aunt of her infant grandson who was also the wife of Jehoiada, the high priest. This woman managed to steal the infant heir to the throne and hide him in the priest's home. Here he was tutored in secret until he was seven years of age.

When the child was seven, with the connivance of the palace guards, the priest revealed the child's true identity, and he brought him to the temple to be crowned As the excitement grew, the queen herself came to investigate its cause. She was seized, dragged from the temple and slain.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 15: "Jehoiada Saves The House Of David," II Kings 11 through 12; II Chronicles 23 through 24.

Under Jehoiada's counsel, Joash was a good king. He "did what was right in the eyes of the Lord." (II Chron. 24:2 RSV)

Among his many accomplishments, he supervised the renovation of the temple. When it became apparent that the priests were not using the money given them for this purpose, Joash had the people put their gifts into a chest. The money was given directly to the workmen when it was taken from the chest.

Joash' reign continued to be strong reproach until Jehoiada's death. Then the king began to listen to princes who did not share Jehoiada's ideals. The result was that instead of a chest, the king of Judah was a modern's box to release all kind of troubles.

First, Zechariah, the son of the dead priest, rose to denounce the king for his new tolerance of idolatry Nettled by these accusations, the king let himself be drawn into a plot to stone Zechariah. This released the spirit of revenge from Jehoiada's box. When the Syrian army attacked and carried away the possessions of the temple Joash had renovated, Joash was wounded in the battle in revenge for the slaughter of Zechariah, the king was assassinated by his servants as he lay helpless in his bed.

If the wicked Athaliah carried a tragic obituary, so did the weak Joash. Of his ingratitude in the stoning of Jehoiada's son, the chronicler says of him, "Thus the king did not remember the kindness which Jehoiada, Zechariah's father, had shown him." (II Chron. 24:22) Joash's ingratitude toward Jehoiada was in marked contrast to the thoughtfulness of his successor David, whose line he continued. Instead of vengeance on the descendants of his enemy Saul, David sought them out to show them special mercy as part of his gratitude for the friendship of Saul's son, Jonathan. (II Samuel 9:1ff)

So weakness led Joash to the same fate at the hands of assassins as her wickedness had led his grandmother, Athalia. Why did Joash, who got off to such a good start, come to such a sad end? Had the king depended too much on the high priest's advice instead of reaching his own decisions? Had the high priest kept the king too much under his control so that at his death the king went wild with his new independence? Whatever the reason, Joash remains one whose reign could have had universal acclaim, but who spoiled his record in the last part of his life.

It has been suggested that if Athalia had had Joash's virtues and Joash had had her strength, both might have made great monarchs.

years but now we will have to get out and work and sell."

Before release of the sales reports, much interest had been focused on the question of whether talk about defective cars and safety issues had scared customers.

The figures bore out the prediction Monday by Roy Abernethy, AMC president, that the auto safety hearings would have a "negative effect on sales."

Chevrolet's Corvair, frequent target of auto safety critic Ralph Nader, took one of the worst sales beatings among individual car lines. Its May 1-10 sales fell to 1,580 cars compared with 4,253 for the same period in 1965. For calendar 1965 to date, Corvair sales stood at 36,467, less than half the 84,702 sales at this point last year.

Comparative sales reports for the 10-day periods showed:

	1966	1965
GM	90,540	127,194
Ford	59,095	58,406
Chrysler	30,385	35,770
AMC	5,329	8,029
Total	192,439	227,460

Auto stocks eased on the New York market even before the late afternoon announcement of sales figures. GM lost $1.50 at $84.87; Chrysler declined $1.12 to $43.12 and Ford was off 12 cents to $46.87.

American Motors, which announced its May sales figures long after the stock market closed, rose ¼ Thursday to 9%.

There were many bright spots in the sales picture despite the early May reports.

Among them were:

GM auto sales for the current model year to date ran 374,504 ahead of the same period last year.

Chrysler's calendar year to date sales of 523,183 were 4.3 per cent ahead of last year.

Ford's calendar year sales to date passed 788,000 and were four per cent ahead of 1965.

GM said in releasing its sales report that it "should be recognized that data for any single 10-day period is of limited significance. . . ."

American Motors sales for the year to date were down to 97,302 from 116,861 last year.

ANGRY PICKETERS — A woman appears to be uttering angry words as she is held back with other picketers by a horde of RCMP officials at a struck electrical plant in Burnaby, neighboring Vancouver. (CP Wirephoto)

Intra-Union Battle Seen In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bitter labor dispute that has produced two days of chanting picket lines and open clashes with RCMP erupted in a different direction Thursday night.

A union business agent was deposed by international officers and some rank - and - file members chased after the man who said he was taking over.

The dispute started April 26 at the big electronics plant of Lenkurt Electric Co. in suburban Burnaby when about one-quarter of the 800 workers walked off their jobs in a dispute over working overtime.

Lenkurt termed the walkout illegal and promptly fired all of the strikers, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (CLC).

Scuffles that broke out Wednesday morning on the picket line changed Thursday morning into battles with three dozen RCMP officers called out to help non-striking Lenkurt employees get into the plant.

Eight pickets were arrested for obstructing or assaulting police officers. The pickets included members of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, the International Woodworkers of America and the Vancouver Labor Council.

STRIPPED OF POWERS

Thursday night an open split developed between Angus Macdonald, IBEW local president, and business agent Art O'Keefe. International IBEW officers stripped O'Keefe of his powers and gave them to Macdonald.

At a member's meeting Thursday night, Macdonald was thrown out, and O'Keefe accused international union leaders of breaking the union's constitution by interfering with the local's affairs.

Macdonald said Thursday night's gathering had no power to vote and a special membership meeting would be called within a week.

He said that at one point about 25 union members "charged the executive board room, and I think they were seeking to attack the president —me."

He said he planned to see the company today to try for a peaceful settlement as soon as possible.

FIRM WILL WAIT

Lenkurt President C. W. Hunter said he would meet Mr. Macdonald when the situation "stabilized."

Early today, President E. T. Staley of the B.C. Federation of Labor issued a public appeal to dismissed Lenkurt employees to stay away from the plant "to avoid further violence."

Meanwhile, a special B.C. Supreme Court investigation was held Thursday to get information for possible contempt charges against demonstrators. It was adjourned until Monday to let RCMP compile information on violence at the Lenkurt plant.

The court previously issued injunctions banning certain picketing, but officers told the hearing the pickets ignored the court orders.

Boy's Death Recounted by CN Engineer

TORONTO (CP) — The two-year-old boy took one step to the right, then stopped. Just one more step would have taken him to safety, out of the path of the train that killed him, a coroner's jury was told Wednesday.

Alfred Fever of Belleville, engineer on the CNR passenger train that killed Thomas Donner April 14, told the jury how he watched helplessly as the 75-mile-an-hour train, its brakes full on and whistle screaming, bore down on the little boy.

Mr. Fever said Thomas stood quietly on the tracks and watched the train as it thundered at him.

The jury placed no blame in the mishap which occurred in suburban Scarborough.

Negotiations Break Down At Brockville

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Negotiations broke down Thursday between the Automatic Electric Canada Ltd. of Brockville and Local 526 of the International Union of Electrical Workers (CLC).

Contract talks have been going on for the past two months between the company and the union which represents 1,200 of 1,700 employees in one of Brockville's largest industries.

A decision on whether to seek new talks or call a strike vote will be decided at a union meeting Monday and Tuesday. The meeting will be conducted by one of the union's international representatives, W. A. Knipfel of Kitchener.

There was no indication of the points in dispute. Wage rates were not immediately available.

Mrs. Barbara Ward, American Optical's "Pin-up Girl" and Ontario ladies open ten-pin bowling champion meets the supreme test at the national championships slated for Fort Arthur and Fort William, Wednesday through Sunday, May 18 to 22nd.

Mrs. Ward, who won the Canadian championship in Hamilton in 1961-62 and finished seventh of 47 bowlers in the All-American Tournament in New York faces extremely tough competition.

BARBARA WARD

Some 96 bowlers, men and women, will compete in the Canadian Temple Championships for the O'Keefe awards.

In addition to the O'Keefe awards, the $2,850 purse and national championship honors, the bowlers are competing for a chance to represent Canada at the World Temple Championships to be held in Madrid, Spain next year. At least three men and one lady bowler will be selected from the provincial finalists.

In the Ladies Open class, Mrs. Ward will bowl a four-game block against six prescribed classes and a round-robin series. She has drawn a bye in one of the seven rounds. One point is awarded for each game won and one more, for total pinfall in the four-game block (total 5 points).

The first and second place contenders will meet for three-game roll-offs to determine the national champion on Saturday and Sunday. In case of tie, a further three-game match will be rolled.

Mrs. Ward will meet professional champions from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Northern Ontario, and Quebec. And all these gals boast impressive records.

But in comparisons, Mrs. Ward takes a back seat to lad one. In the field of seven provincial champions she rates second in average (177) single (256) and triple (678).

Her average of 177 is bettered only by the British Columbia entry with a 180. Her 256 single is topped only by the Manitoba entry with a 287 and her triple of 678 is short but eight pins of that of the Manitoba champion.

Which indicates that Belleville's Ontario champion, if she is at peak form, stands an excellent chance of coming home with the major honors in the Ladies Open Singles.

The only other Ontario lady champion is Miss Audrey Schilbe of London, Ontario who is queen of the Ladies Classified Singles. She has an average of 173; single, 228 and triple (500).

But was noted, American Optical's "sweetheart of the lanes" will meet formen worthy of her steel. Bowlers, or say athlete for that matter, have to have "what it takes" to reach the charmed circle of champions.

Mrs. Ward fires the opening gun of the tournament on Wednesday May 18th when she meets British Columbia's Mrs. Louise Smith (average 186; single 251; triple 633) at 11.15 a.m. She faces Miss Bonny Hallaway (178; 237; 611), Saskatchewan champion at 6.15 p.m. the same day.

On Thursday at 11.15 a.m. she tangles with Miss Frances Taylor, Alberta (166; 248; 622) and at 6.15 the same day meets Charlotte Johnson, Manitoba (175; 287; 678). Miss Johnson should provide the toughest competition of the robin.

Mrs. Cathy Townsend, Quebec (176; 252; 658) is Mrs. Ward's opposition at 11.15 a.m., Friday. The Ontario champion has drawn a bye in the sixth round and meets Northern Ontario's Jean Prentice (185; 242; 696) in the seventh and final round.

Mrs. Ward who is representing the Brunswick Lanes of this city is one of the bowling veterans of the tournament. She bowled five-pins for seventeen years and has been using the tenpin lanes the last five years. She has proven extremely constructed in her league, tournament and other ten-pin activities and has a host of trophies to prove it.

This newspaper has arranged for coverage of the Ladies Open activities and will publish Mrs. Ward's progress round by round.

She carries the best wishes of every bowler in the city and district to bring home the championship bacon. And I'm sure she would enjoy that trip to Madrid, Spain next year.

The best of luck.

WANTS TO QUIT

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Second baseman Chuck Schilling, 27, out by the Minnesota Twins, asked the club Thursday to place him on the voluntary retired list. Schilling, one of three trimmed from the Twins' roster Wednesday, was slated for the Denver farm club. The Twins had posted waivers on Schilling but there were no takers. He was acquired from Boston Red Sox in an early April trade.

BOBBY HULL

STAN MIKITA

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks, who this season again missed their personal quest for first place and were knocked out in the Stanley Cup semi - finals, have won their share of National Hockey League stardom for 1965-66.

The Hawks, led by hard winger Bobby Hull, won four of the six positions on the NHL's first all-star team, announced Thursday. They also took one spot on the second team.

The teams, with points in brackets:

The choices were made by sports writers and broadcasters in the six league cities. Points were awarded on the basis of five for a first-place vote, three for a second and one for a third.

HULL UNANIMOUS PICK

Hull, who set records for most goals and most points in a season when he scored 54 goals and finished the campaign with 97 points, was the lone unanimous choice with 60 points in each half of the schedule.

All six players named to the first team have had all-star recognition in the past while three players named to the second team are making their first all-star appearances.

The only change from the mid-season poll is at centre where Mikita replaced Norm Ullman of Detroit, who slipped to third place in the over-all voting.

Making their initial appearances on an all-star team are Worsley, Stapleton and Rousseau. Worsley, along with backup netminder Charlie Hodge, won the Vezina Trophy at the end of the 1965-66 season.

The Vezina Trophy is awarded to the goalkeeper having played a minimum 25 games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it.

Howe has been named to the first team a record-breaking sixth time and to either team for a record 17th time, including 11 straight seasons.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, former Montreal great, holds the record of 14 straight all-star appearances and, until this season, shared the record with Howe for most first-team appearances.

THE GOAL RECORD

Hall, by being named for the sixth time, equals the goaltenders' record set by Bill Durnan, former Montreal netminder.

Hall also has been named to the second team three times and his total of nine appearances breaks the goaltenders' record of eight set by Frank Brimsek, former Boston Bruins player.

Pilote, Laperriere and Hull are holdovers from the 1964-65 first team while Mikita, Mahovlich and Howe were on the second team a year ago.

Voting was closest in the defence positions with only six points separating the players ranked fourth through seventh. Stapleton edged J. C. Tremblay of Montreal by one point for the second berth on the second team and Harry Howell of New York Rangers finished three points behind Stapleton. Doug Barkley of Detroit was six points away from the second-team berth.

Each player on the over-all first all-star squad receives $1,000 while second-team members each get $500. In addition, the leader in the voting for each half receive $500 and the runners-up $250.

Those who led the second-half vote and who receive $500 are: Worsley, Stapleton, J. C. Tremblay, Beliveau, Hull and Howe. The runners-up in each position and winners of $250 in the second-half poll are: Hall, Howell, Stanley, Mikita, Rousseau and Mahovlich.

Oshawa "Over Heads"

By JOE DUPUS

TORONTO (CP) — Wren Blair, manager of oshawa Generals, says his team may have been playing "a little over their heads" when they beat Edmonton Oil Kings in two games of the Memorial Cup junior hockey finals.

Wren was referring to the way the team played in the absence of Bobby Orr in beating the Kings 7-1 and 6-3 in the second and third games of the series.

"I'll have to admit that I'm worried about whether or not we can win a close series—as this one has turned out to be—without Bobby," said Blair.

Wren brings Generals here Saturday night for the fifth game of the series, tied 2-2 after Edmonton's 5-3 win Wednesday night. The sixth game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Crothers Injured In Car Crash

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., Vermont middle-distance runner, is back home after suffering superficial injuries in a three-car crash.

Crothers suffered concussion and minor chest injuries Wednesday night in an accident in nearby Markham.

He was treated in Scarborough General Hospital and released.

Two other persons were injured in the accident, one severely.

"I know my head's still on because it hurts," Crothers said after the accident.

Fred Foot, coach of East York Track Club, said he expects his star to be fit and ready for the British Empire Games in Jamaica this August.

Crothers is one of Canada's top hopes for honors in the Games.

New Orleans Open

Five Lead Field

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Sponsors of the $500,000 Greater New Orleans open golf tourney deliberately forgot to look at their calendar today—a Friday the 13th—and hoped the rash of cancelled rounds on the 1966 tour wouldn't continue here.

Despite a heavy shower Thursday which halted play in the morning for 34 minutes, the first round went over with a bang as Al Atchison and four others tied for the lead with four-under-par 68s.

Champagne Tony Lema, who said he had "probably the best round I've played in six months," joined Nicklaus at the top along with Bob Goalby, Frank Beard and Charles Coody.

Just a stroke behind at 69 were veterans Tommy Bolt and Lionel Hebert, Tommy Aaron and 25-year-old Jack Montgomery, a lanky Texas who hasn't won a dime on the tour this year.

The group at 70 included Billy Casper and in the 17 bunched at 71 were Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanders, and Gay Brewer.

Until the Houston Champions International tourney a week ago, there had been five rounds washed out by rain since the 1966 tour got under way at Los Angeles. After heavy downpours and flooding, Houston was cancelled and raced for Nov. 17-20.

Marichal, Giants Extend Win String

Hurler Unbeaten In 7

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Running as an entry, San Francisco Giants and Juan Marichal have become the scourge of the National Hockey League. Both extended lengthy winning streaks Thursday night —the Giants to 11 games and Marichal to seven—with a 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

San Francisco hasn't lost this month and Marichal hasn't lost this season. The ace right-hander lowered his earned run average to 0.76 with his second shutout.

Marichal allowed just six hits and struck out six for his sixth complete game. He has permitted just five earned runs in 59 innings.

The 11-game winning streak, longest in the majors this year, has opened a 6½-game lead for the Giants in the league standings.

Second-place Houston Astros were rained out at New York Thursday night. In other games, St. Louis Cardinals opened their new stadium with a 4-2 victory over Atlanta Braves in 12 innings and Philadelphia Phillies whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

Marichal got the only run he needed on second-inning singles by Jim Hart, Jesus Alou and Ollie Brown against Pirate starter Bob Veale.

Hart homered in the fourth for San Francisco's second run. The Cardinals tied Atlanta Braves in the 12th on Lou Brock's bases-loaded single.

Felipe Alou's second home run of the night had given the Braves a 3-2 lead going into the bottom of the ninth. But Alex Johnson singled with one out and reached second on Marty Keough's error. Johnson moved to third on an infield out and then scooted home on Jerry Zimmerman's looping single, tying the game at 3-3.

Dick Groat hammered a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jim Bunning struck three hits for Philadelphia.

Groat's shot against Don Drysdale, now 3-4, erased an early Los Angeles lead produced by Jim Ledebero's ninth homer. The Phillies knocked Drysdale out in the fifth and scored three more runs off reliever Ron Perranoski.

When it comes to buying tires there's safety in numbers. Performance rating numbers from Seiberling.

How much should you pay for your tires? What class of tire should you buy? Is a $12 tire a bargain? Is a $39 tire too expensive?

It depends.

On you and your car, and where and how you drive. On how much driving you do. On the kind of driving you do. On how fast you usually drive. On the ride you want from your car. On how long you expect your tires to last.

Tires differ in price and they differ in performance. They differ in price because they differ in performance. Some are built for one kind of driving, and some for another.

That's why one person can buy a so-called cheap tire and get a bargain—the tire performs well for him. It's also why another person can buy the same tire and get trouble—the tire lets him down.

Your aim in buying a tire is to buy the right tire. The right price is what you are satisfied to pay to get the right tire. Right tires come in all price ranges. The important thing is to know the tire that's right for your car and the way you drive it.

That's why Seiberling, alone among all tire manufacturers, developed Performance Rating. That's why every Seiberling tire has a Performance Rating number. That's why Seiberling dealers use Performance Rating Charts—to give you tire information you can immediately relate to your car and the way you drive it.

When you've taken a moment to think about your car and the way you drive it, you've taken the first step towards buying the right tire. The second step is to look up a Seiberling dealer. And a Seiberling Performance Rating Chart.

It's got your number.

Cup Series All Squared

Hungry Miners Blank Beavers

CALGARY (CP)—Coach Roy Kelly of Drumheller Miners said Thursday night that Hungers' was behind his club's 5-0 defeat of Sherbrooke Beavers to tie the best-of-seven Allan Cup series 3-3.

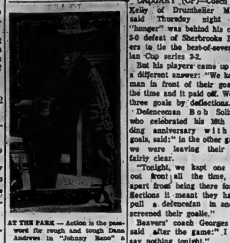
But his players came up with a different answer: "We kept a man in front of their goal all the time and it paid off. We got three goals by deflections." Defencemen Ron Georges Roy said after the game:" I can say nothing tonight."

Beavers took seven of 12 penalties and tempers frayed early in the game.

Ron Leopold also netted a pair of goals before 4,400 fans at Stampede Corral. Owen Malley added a single.

KEEP UP PRESSURE

Miners maintained a steady pressure on the Beavers, forcing Sherbrooke goaltender Al Thompson to make 16 saves in the second period. Drumheller netminder Al Rollins handled only seven shots in the period.



Aubry made 34 saves in all, Rollins 23.

Solinger's first goal was a screened point shot in the first period which was set up by Leopold. In the second period, on a rebound after 21 seconds had elapsed, and again on a screen shot.

Solinger got his second goal in the third period when Mingo picked up a loose puck and he tipped in Rock Crawford's rebound. Malley broke in with a relay pass for the fifth goal.

Chisox Defeat Orioles

Twins Clip Yankee String

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Uobesten during a stretch of three games and two raincouts since being reinstalled as New York manager, Ralph Houk Thursday night's weather-threatened game at Minnesota played in an attempt to maintain the Yankees' momentum.

The Yanks have run out of momentum when they ran into Jim Merritt, and went down 4-3 to the Twins, the first loss since Houk replaced Johnny Keane and mastermindad the streak that saved the Yankees out of last place into ninth.

The Yankees collected 11, but only one Merritt error came out in the sixth inning and cut off a Yankee rally.

On the other end of the standings, Chicago and Baltimore also played in poor weather, the White Sox defeating the Orioles 8-3 despite a constant drizzle. In the only other game played, Washington 5 e n ton downed California Angels 4-2.

James Coburn Goes High

Fashion for Role as "Our Man Flint"

James Coburn could never have been a romantic star in the days when screen lovers had to be handsome almost to the point of being beautiful. Those days were followed by the era of the rugged, kooky, cynical types. Today's women want a movie lover who exudes danger.

Enter James Coburn, in his latest starring role in "Our Man Flint," a 20th Century - Fox release in Cinemascope and De-Luxe Color now playing as cinnamon engagement at the Belle Theatre. Coburn fits the new requirements to the letter. He is six - feet - two and whip thin, wears tight fitting black clothes, drives a black Maserati, combs his hair pre-shoe & means patted on his skull, and in general presents an image of excitement and danger.

As 20th Century - Fox's choice for the sexiest, most resourceful spy of all time, Derek Flint, he plays a character who makes James Bond seem almost colorless and inconspicuous. The script describes him as "fearless, athletic, ruthless, evil - eye and a superman." It's a real challenge for an actor who has filled suave, knifed gangsters and lived in sweat - stained jeans — an actor who couldn't get the correct line of boy from our top movie makers not too long ago.

Coburn has proved his versatility on TV, playing a wide variety of types. Critics recognized his worth, but he never lacked for a job but he failed to add the women of the audience until he played a quiet, deadly knife thrower in "The Magnificent Seven." It brought bundles of mail from women, proof of a mass fan following that producer wound afford to ignore.

MAY SEE CATHEDRAL

About 12,000 people visit St. Peter's Basilica, Rome, on the average weekday.

TV Viewers Getting Rash Of Reruns During Summer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television gave viewers with access to it a British adventure of a second time around without wondering if it isn't a good night to clean the cellar or balance the chequebook.

Reruns are not all bad. If you have been spoiled all winter on CBS Reports on Tuesday nights, summer is a good time to catch up with The Fugitive, on at the same time. If you have seen all the I Spy programs, likely it is Wednesday nights with Danny Kaye will prove enjoyable.

Recommended viewing:

Tonight—Crash Project: The Search for Auto Safety, CBS, 10:11 EDT, a study of the recent hearings and testimony on automobile manufacture.

Saturday — Holiday on Ice, Daniel Boone, Gidget, and Gillingan's Island—all showing repeat programs Thursday night—may have millions of children and patient adults looking in for the first time. But it is a rare adult who can enjoy the inanities of Gidget's British adventures a second time around without wondering if it isn't a good night to clean the cellar or balance the chequebook.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAIND

This is the weekend of all the big fishing trips.

Algonquin Park will see hundreds of fishermen tracking off into such lakes as, Opeongo, Big and Little Dickson, Hogan, Smoke, and LaVieille to mention a few of the good ones.

Ray Grilla, Les and Lloyd Weagant, Frank Donovan and Don Keiler are heading into Dickson and LaVielle for Lakers and Speckies and vowed they would be back with a record fish. "Snipe" Mathews Don McNevia brought home a very nice catch of Speckies on the weekend from a little lake "near Bancroft". Scenes were in the 19" and 20" class.

The Pickerel and Pike fishing in the Bay of Quinte area has been very poor mainly on account of the cold weather we have had. The season opens this weekend for the rest of the waters in Southern Ontario. If this cold weather keeps up it will be another two weeks before the fishing improves.

Last weekend we did not have our usual influx of resident fishermen from Toronto and Oshawa way, so if the weather is right the next few weekends should see many of these out of town fishermen in our district.

The holiday next week will be the first long weekend of this season with many cottages and cottagers all set to take off for the first trip of the year. Fishing and boating will be a first for many of these people.

There are many fishing contests to enter this year all over Ontario, if you catch a good fish be sure to enter it in one of those contests, if you do not enter your fish don't lie. Many a small fish wins prizes because there are not enough entries to really make a good contest.

Woodchucks are plentiful around the countryside; many gunners enjoy this sport. It improves your marksmanship and helps the farmer get rid of those pesky lazy diggers. Permission to trespass must be received from the land owners and a special conservation hunting licence obtained in order to do this type of hunting. A nice sunny day is the best time to hunt these rodents.

Trap shooting at the local clubs is now under way and many an enjoyable weekend can be had by taking your shotgun and visiting some of these clubs. This sport helps to improve your shooting and give you good practice for the duck season.

A few tips on the lures that are catching fish at the present time:

Lake Trout — Dominion 377 with Red Feathers, Dominion 77 Pearl and Red, The Banshee.

Speckies — Flies, Wet, Worms, Eggs, No. 1 Hepco.

Rainbow Trout — Pearl Spinner and Worm, No. 2 Mepps, Red Kaelcock.

Pike — Williams Wabbler, Med., Red and White— Daredevil.

Pickerel — Rapala or copy, Shyster, Yellow Jig, Mepps No. 3, Yellow Fatty or Quirks.

These lures caught fish last week and should take them again but I will not give you any guarantees on this. Fish of all kinds change their habits overnight and are very unpredictable, but if you try enough lures you are bound to hit upon the right one if they are hitting at all.

OIL BUBBLES UP

Australia's first oil well at Moonie, Queensland, produced 4,000,000 barrels in its first two years of operation.

British Seamen To Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — British ships remained today for possible food and fuel shortages as last hopes faded of averting the first national seamen's strike in 55 years.

Leaders of the 62,500 - man merchant seamen's union Friday night rejected a final appeal from Prime Minister Wilson to call off the strike slated to begin at midnight Sunday night.

The union's 48-man executive unanimously agreed to carry out their strike threat despite warnings from Wilson during a 9-hour meeting Friday of the grave effect it would have on Britain's economy.

The seamen are demanding more pay and better working conditions.

The strike would gradually bring about half of Britain's overseas trade to a halt as the 2,500 British vessels likely to be involved lose their crews at the end of a voyage.

EXPECT ANNOUNCEMENTS

The government was expected to announce Sunday emergency measures to maintain essential supplies.

Contingency plans were made, including one to fly 6,000 tons of steels to low idle British ships away from the docks as foreign ships could get in.

Friday night food suppliers said there were enough stocks of imported items to last in the country for about 10 days.

Most fruit importers warned of soaring prices and supplies of fresh fruit and vegetables dwindle.

Power stations and gas plants in southern England, which normally get their coal stocks by sea from the northeast, reported sufficient supplies for about a month.

Lord Geddes, chairman of the shipping federation, called the strike "unreasonable and unnecessary."

Serious Monkey Business

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A baboon restored to life by Soviet scientists after she had been clinically dead for 160 minutes now has survived five years since the operation and had four babies, Tass news agency said today.

The animal, called Sargenia, was cooled and drained of blood in 1961 at an institute at Sukhumi on the Black Sea where scientists are working on how to extend life, the story said.

Then glucose and drugs were fed into Sargenia's arteries while her body was intensely heated and a high-tension electric current was applied to set her heart beating again.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The unreasonably cool weather of the last week shows no sign of returning to normal mid-May values. Temperatures through the weekend will average a bit low during the afternoon throughout the province with night-time reading to near 40 in the south and to into the mid- and low 30s in the north. Cloud cover is expected to be variable due to a series of weak weather systems moving south of the lower Great Lakes.

Recent Cyprus Issue Moves May Bring Tension Solution

ATHENS (Reuters) — Recent moves in the Cyprus issue may turn this perennial Greek headache into a major achievement for Prime Minister Stephanos Stephanopoulos' seven - month-old government.

Observers here believe current, behind-the-scenes efforts by Greece, Turkey, Cyprus, which first came to a violent head at Christmas, 1963.

Diplomats agree the United Nations force now, keeping an uneasy peace between the Mediterranean island's 380,000 Greek-Cypriots and some 100,000 Turkish - Cypriots cannot stay forever. The 4,000 - man force includes 900 Canadian troops.

The UN mandate is renewed every three months.

Informed sources say Greek policy-makers seek a truce of five or six years, during which they hope a final solution to the problem of governing Cyprus can be found.

Their proposed goals are threefold, the sources say. First, the UN Security Council would guarantee Cyprus' status as a sovereign state. Second, Greece and Cyprus would refrain from trying in any way to achieve enosis — union of Cyprus with Greece. Third, Turkey would take no military action against the island.

The Greek - Cypriots appear torn between enosis and complete independence.

A former Greek foreign minister, Evangelos Averoff, has advised Greek-Cypriot leaders to let Greece handle the Cyprus question.

"If Cypriot leaders want to impose their own views and act independently, as has happened in the past, there is no reason for Greece to continue its sacrifices for the island," he has said.

Diplomats interested in a Greek-Turkish compromise, including Canada's external affairs minister, Paul Martin, have suggested bilateral talks with no set agenda or prerequisites.

Any final settlements can only come after Cyprus' two communities decide what they themselves really want.

West Germany Having Trouble With Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Germany Defence Chief Kai-Uwe von Hassel has acknowledged that his country is having "great difficulties" in fulfilling the commitment to purchase $3,250,000,000 worth of American arms.

Von Hassel conferred here with Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara Friday and diplomatic sources said later the United States apparently will have to agree to cut the German outlay by $600,000,000.

The commitment, known as the offset agreement, is aimed at helping to defray the U.S. cost of maintaining the 7th Army in Germany for two years, estimated at around $2,000,000,000.

Under the agreement, the West German government was to spend the $1,300,000,000 in the United States between June, 1965, and June, 1967.

The two defence chiefs issued a joint communique saying "any relocations and adjustments" arising from the eviction order issued by French President Charles de Gaulle to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "should be effected as promptly and economically as possible."

Four Children Die in Fire at Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Four young sisters died in a fire that destroyed a two-family duplex early today in Peterborough's downtown residential section.

Dead are six-year-old twins, Debra and Darlene Lemoire, Diane, 3, and Denise, 3.

Seven other persons, including Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lemoire, parents of the dead girls, escaped the blaze. Mrs. Lemoire is in hospital with undetermined injuries. Mr. Lemoire and another daughter, Donna, 7, were not injured. Another daughter, Deanna Lee, 4, was staying with a friend.

Occupants of the adjoining half of the duplex, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cooper and their three children, were also forced to flee the early-morning fire.

Fire Chief Clarence Bennett said the youngsters apparently suffocated. They were not burned.

They were lying on the front lawn when fire trucks arrived and Mr. Lemoire was inside rescuing other members of the family. The youngsters were taken to hospital but efforts to revive them failed.

Firemen could not immediately determine cause of the fire, but Chief Bennett estimated damage at about $10,000.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Shirley Margaret Wise, 23, of Kingston and Alistair Gordon Currie, 21, Chateauguay, Que., were killed Friday night when their car collided head-on with another vehicle.

Mr. Currie was a third-year cadet at Royal Military College.

Diplomats Hope Rhodesian Oust Will Be Modified

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — There is some hope in diplomatic quarters that a tough 30-country resolution demanding swift action—including force — to end the Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia, may be modified before it reaches the United Nations Security Council Tuesday.

Informants said Britain is mounting a behind-the-scenes campaign to water down the demands into a form she can accept rather than face the embarrassing necessity of perhaps exercising a Security Council veto against the proposal.

It is understood Canada is in full sympathy with the British move to seek modification, arguing that tougher sanctions and the use of force would split the anti-racist coalition and drive Portugal and South Africa into closer support of Rhodesia.

Britain informed the Commonwealth sanctions committee Friday it could support the 30-country resolution in whole or in part, as informant said, adding that Prime Minister Harold Wilson Arthur Bottomley also declined to give committee members any hint of changes to be sought in the March Anglo-Rhodesian exploratory talks.

CHEVRIER CRITICIZES

The hour-long committee session was headed by Canadian UN Commissioner Lionel Chevrier.

One informant said that many African members are looking to the United Nations rather than to the Commonwealth for solution to the problem.

Bottomley is reported to have told the sanctions committee that unless the Smith regime's decision talks continue—and he could not say how long they would last—he would be in a mile to impose full mandatory sanctions and the use of force against the Smith regime. These would make it more difficult for Britain to get results from that current reconciliation talks with Africa and Portugal to adhere to existing voluntary economic sanctions against

No Chance Of Dockers Returning

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) said Friday night there is "very little chance" that the 4,250 longshoremen who walked off their jobs in Montreal, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres earlier in the week will return to work Monday.

The port here became idle last Monday when 3,500 dockworkers staged a wildcat walkout saying it was in protest against actions by the National Harbours Board police in ticketing union members' cars parked near the waterfront.

Tuesday, 500 longshoremen at Quebec and another 250 at Trois-Rivieres also walked out, the parking problem as the immediate cause. However, a union spokesman said later a dispute between the union and the Shipping Federation of Canada was the major cause of the walkouts.

The union spokesman said Friday the ILA had been prepared to insist that the men return to work Monday if representatives of the SFC had shown "good faith" at conciliation hearings held here Thursday and Friday.

However, the SFC lawyer informed the hearing Friday that he had been instructed not to participate and the men went back to work. The SFC delegation then walked out of the conciliation meeting.

He said the ILA members at Quebec would have been back to work Friday if the SFC had allowed the conciliation hearing session on Thursday to progress.

A meeting of the general membership is scheduled for Sunday, the spokesman said.

Sustain Council Reform

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals Friday rejected a Conservative motion to eliminate appointed members of the Northwest Territories Council.

But the government agreed to consider a second Conservative motion to refer changes in the Yukon Act to a Commons committee so the seven members of the Yukon Council could plead for more executive control.

Government House Leader George McIlraith adjourned debate on second reading of the Yukon Act amendments to give the government time to consider the Conservative motion.

The Commons then approved the spending estimates of the territorial department which totalled $68,108,400.

A two-day supply debate began Monday, from which debates are held each session to give opposition parties a chance to move motions of non-confidence in the government.

AMENDMENTS UNDER FIRE

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) and Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) led the Conservative attack on the Northwest Territories amendments which add three new constituencies in the Arctic and give residents there a vote in territorial elections. They have voted in federal elections since 1962.

Northern Affairs Minister Laing said it would be improper to make other changes in the territories until the Carrothers commission reports in September on government in the north.

Mr. Nielsen said appointing five of the 11 council members

April Showers Bring Glowers, Not Flowers, to Trade, Farmers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

April's chilly showers this year brought glowers, not flowers, from many Canadian retail merchants and farmers.

And May could be the coldest and soggiest month in a century.

Only British Columbia could report "a normally balmy" weather. For the rest of Canada it has been icy showers, snow, winds and cold.

Alberta entered May with normal temperatures between 50 and 70 degrees, but began to shiver Friday with an Edmonton high of 30.

Fort Simpson and Hay River in the Northwest Territories were happier. There, the Friday high was 74.

Saskatchewan reported only nine days since April 10 with temperatures at or above seasonal normals: Regina h.s had 12, Swift Current 10 and some southern areas of the province reported snow Friday.

Prairie farmers are planting whenever the ground is dry, even though soil temperatures rarely reaches the 45 degrees needed for successful germination of seed.

Spring shopping in Saskatchewan has been slow, retailers report. Sales are off on gardening equipment, barbeques and camping equipment.

Manitoba reports daily sow temperatures and has been above freezing on only four May days. Field work on farms is behind, and a crop growth slowed. Farmers plan to increase barley acreage at the expense of flax and summer fallow.

In Ontario, Toronto registered the coldest first 10 days of May since 1947.

Toronto's International League Maple Leafs baseball club has drawn crowds of 6m one day and 283 another.

Spring and summer clothing sales are reported "almost disastrous" across Ontario, but some retailers say they are making up part of the loss in sales of overcoats and raincoats.

Farmers have been hit hard, especially in eastern Ontario and the Ottawa Valley. If cold, dry weather continues in the Ottawa Valley, agricultural authorities say the area will suffer its third consecutive bad crop year.

Temperatures in Quebec are 10 degrees below normal for May. The province has had 2.6 inches of fresh snow, the second heaviest fall for this time of the year since 1875.

As in Ontario, spring and summer clothing sales have been slow.

Unseasonably cool and dry spring weather in New Brunswick has hurt clothing and other sales. Saint John has received 4.9 inches of snow this month, a May record.

In the other Atlantic provinces, the weather has been "unseasonable but not unusual," although some areas have reported up to six inches of fresh snow.

Chinese Radioactive Fallout In United States and Canada Said Barely Measurable

WASHINGTON (AP)—A public health spokesman said today that the radioactive fallout in the United States and parts of Canada from China's latest nuclear blast will be barely measureable and "won't last long."

The high-flying radioactive cloud spawned by Monday's blast continued to move east over the United States and the weather bureau said the cloud would be over the eastern seaboard sometime today and over Europe by Monday.

The spokesman described the blast as "a single shot with a relatively small yield. Compared with what we were through in 1961 and 1962, it's nothing."

Heavy nuclear testing by the United States and Russia Brought the average concentration of iodine 131 found in samples across the U.S. to about 700 picocuries per litre by 1963, he said. This is said to be a level considered dangerous by U.S. authorities.

Some of the blasts were in the megaton range, equivalent to millions of tons of TNT. The Chinese blast was estimated to be in the 130,000 kiloton range, equivalent to 130,000 tons of TNT.

Even with the larger Chinese blast, the spokesman said, "if we get any fallout at all it will be spotty and last only a few days."

Most of the fallout will show up in milk, he said.

"Don't forget," the spokesman added in an aside, "if there's a sloped passing over, one of the factors as to whether you get fallout or not is wind is whether there is precipitation."

The cloud moved around the southwestern corner of British Columbia Thursday night and then dipped southward, drifting entirely over U.S. territory Friday.

Today it was expected to move somewhat north- passing over the Ontario shore of Lake Erie and later over southern New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. It then was expected to bear away to the north, passing over southern Newfoundland on its course to Europe.

The U.S. public health service announced Friday night it is stepping up its nationwide sampling of milk until the full effect of the fallout can be measured.

The Atomic Energy Commission reported Friday that the Chinese atomic blast was not from a thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapon.

The AEC said the test probably was an experimental device aimed at either "extending or increasing the yield of the previous low-yield fission device or looking toward the eventual thermonuclear capability."

The blast contained thermal nuclear material, the AEC said. In announcing the blast, China did not say it was a hydrogen device but only that it contained "thermonuclear material."

The joint house of Representatives committee on atomic secrecy was reported to have been told by secret and closed session Friday that the blast — China's third — represented progress toward Peking's goal of joining the hydrogen club now composed of Russia, the United States and Britain.

Some experts have estimated that China will fail develop a thermonuclear device within four years, or less.

Spring Produce Lacking On Market

It may have been the coldest May on record with growth still almost non - existent, but district farmers are optimistic that better weather is "just around the corner."

At least transplanting stocks are commencing to make their appearance on the Belleville market and farmers say that this season's lettuce and radishes are beginning to peep through the ground.

New rhubarb sold at 15 cents per bunch while winter onions brought a dime per bunch.

Spies and Delicious apples sold at 85 cents per half peck; McIntosh were 55 cents for the same quantity and Taiman Sweets, 50 cents.

Fresh eggs sold at 55 cents for mediums and 60 cents for large.

Among the transplants tomato plants were the most common going for $2.50 a hundred. Strawberry plants were priced at $2.00 a hundred while cabbage went for 50 cents each, peonies for 40 cents a box and rose begonias for 75 cents a plant. Lettuce made its first appearance and sold for 40 cents a box.

Rawdon township council is taking action to prevent the proposed closing and demolition of the Canadian Pacific Railway station at Bonarlaw, five miles south of Marmora.

Council members at their May meeting discussed a letter from the superintendent of the CPR in which the closing of the Bonarlaw station was proposed.

Clerk W. J. Barlow was authorized to reply to the letter, requesting that the station remain open and pointing to the $100,000 annual revenue from the station during the past five years. Also it was pointed out there is considerable express shipped from the station each week.

Big revenue producer at Bonarlaw is the shipment of crushed rock by Armstrong Brothers from nearby Marmora.

WILL SEND LETTERS

Letters will be forwarded to the Board of Transport Commissioners, the local federal members of parliament and to the two county MLA's.

Over the years and in the heyday of railroading, the Bonarlaw station has been a busy place serving both the east - west mainline CPR and the CNR line running between Trenton and Tweed. The two lines cross at Bonarlaw 'diamond' with the station serving both railways. At one time the station was called the Central Ontario Junction.

If the Bonarlaw station was closed the nearest depot on the CPR would be at Havelock and Tweed. The Trenton station was closed a number of years ago.

Seven Australians Visit City Under Rotary Sponsorship

Family Campers Will Be Given Cooking Lesson

The enjoyment of good food when appetites have been sharpened by living in the open doors is a major pleasure for the hundreds of thousands of Canadian and American families, who are family campers. The Belleville Family Y-M.C.A. series of Family Camping evenings presents a highlight event — an evening of Cooking for Campers by Dorothy Batchelor, Home Economics Director, Poultry Institute of Canada on Tuesday, May 17th at the "Y" auditorium at 8.00 p.m.

Eating in the outdoors seems to add a mysterious extra tang to food, even the plainest of dishes. Many people visualize camp cooking as heating a punctured can of beans over the open fire. This type of cooking can prove tiring after the novelty wears off (which is usually about the middle of the first meal) but there's no need to have poorly cooked meals when camping. Today's foods and cooking equipment, when enhanced by simple but imaginative recipes can make eating in the outdoors an exciting adventure.

Dorothy Batchelor is an outstanding food expert and an experienced camper. Her advice to camping families can make vacations much more enjoyable. An invitation is extended to all who expect to take camping holidays this year, even if just for weekends, to learn how to make their eating in the outdoors more pleasurable by attending the "Y" Family Camping Session on May 17th.

A group of seven Australians travelling in Canada under an exchange group programme sponsored by Rotary International visited Belleville yesterday morning. These programs are intended as goodwill exchanges between Rotary districts throughout the world and similar exchange groups of Canadians will be visiting other countries under this program. The Australian group consists of one domestrist, a lawyer, an engineer, a farmer, a surgeon, an accountant, and an auto electric mechanic.

While in the city the visitors toured the Ontario School for the Deaf and the Research Institute of the Department of Agriculture. Rotarian Fremont Burroughs and President E. R. Burnham of the local club acted as hosts during the tours.

At the Research Institute Dr. B. F. Beirne, the Director, welcomed the Australians by informing them they were about to see one of the two best research institutions of its kind in the world and that the other one was in their native land. Dr. J. S. Kelleher, importation Officer, guided the tour which included a visit with Dr. P. Belton, who is experimenting with the use of sound in the control of pests and an explanation by Dr. Peter Harris of some of the work he is doing in weed control. Dr. Kelleher spoke of international co - operation in the distribution of beneficial organisms to the residence of interested professional men.

The Australians proceeded to Trenton after lunch continuing their tour of Canada. They will report on their observations and impressions when their return "down under" as will the Canadian exchange groups when they come back. Rotary International hopes by this means to increase international understanding and co - operation.

IN MEMORIAM

ALFORD, Wm. N. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away May 14th, 1965.
Peace, perfect peace, with loved ones far away.
In the unseen presence of the Saviour we pray.
Always tender, kind and true,
What more could a dear one do?
That may be not those of you.
Sadly missed by wife, daughter and family. 20

REMARK — In loving memory of my dear mother Irma Bertha Remark, who passed away May 14th, 1964.
We little knew when we woke that morn
That ere the sun should set
We should be called to mourn
For the call was sudden, the shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Deeply missed by daughter Dorothy and son-in-law Ken, grandsons Joey and Ricky and grandson-in-law Bruce. 20

REMARK — In memory of a dear daughter and sister, Irene Remark, who passed away May 15, 1965.
In tears we watched you sinking,
In vain the doctors tried,
Our hearts were almost breaking,
But God knew best and died.
Deeply missed by mother, Dorothy,
So peacefully from pain freed,
Your memory is our keepsake,
We suffer but agreed.
Sadly missed by mother Herb and daughter Irene. 20

REMARK — In memory of a dear daughter and sister, Irene Remark, who passed away May 15, 1965.
Dear Irene, we think of you today,
But what's the use in crying?
You'd not want us to weep,
But when I lost my darling mother,
I left her in God's keeping.
Sadly missed by daughter Dorothy, son-in-law Ken, grandsons Joey and Ricky, Bruce and Ted. 20

ROBINSON — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Frank Robinson, who passed away May 15th, 1965.
Dad, you left us silently,
No word to say goodbye,
A moment with our dad was here,
And then he was gone.
Sadly missed by son George, daughter-in-law Betty and grandson George.

WRIGHT — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Wright, who passed away on May 15, 1965.
Mother dear, you left us lonely,
Your heart was tired and weary,
You were called away,
To rest in God's garden.
And left us behind to mourn.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Granddaughter Pack, Aunt Viva and Uncle Lyle.

BEDDICK — In loving memory of my dear husband, Arthur Beddick, who passed away May 15, 1961.
Always never forgotten,
A face an empty chair,
A memory we treasure,
Time cannot erase it there.
Sadly missed for so many years,
Memories are all we have,
Contented in his home and always in our hearts.
Wife Ethel.

WRIGHT — In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Wright, who passed away on May 15, 1965.
Dad, you left us very suddenly,
Loving with Mumsie and family. 20

WRIGHT — In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Wright, who passed away May 15, 1965.
We often sit and think of him
When we are alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own;
Time has passed and memories dwell,
Within our hearts he lives as well.
Our love for him will ever be green
And never fade away.
Always remembered by Dad Wright, Jean, Harvey and Laurie and Mumsie. 20

WRIGHT — In loving memory of our dear daughter, David Wright who passed away May 15, 1965.
A thought of sweet remembrance
Steals softly through my mind
The love and memory we hold
Of one who shines of you.
Forever forgotten by grandfather Wright.

Splendid Presentation Given Amphitryon 38 By Theatre Guild

By MAURICE SWITZER

Comedies of manners are lire-some. Yet many amateur theatrical groups jump at the chance to perform them, capitalizing on the fact that their patrons are willing to pay for the privilege of laughing at the moods and habits of anyone else but themselves. Jean Giraudoux's "Amphitryon 38" is fortunately not such a play, although many who will see it on the stage might think that they are treating themselves to just another social saire.

"Amphitryon" is also not an attempt to capture the spirit of Greek mythology in the framework of a factually accurate dialogue. Nor is the play a "comedy," which term has long ago lost any signification as a categorical description. The best about this play, in fact, that one cannot make it fit any pat, pre-ordained definition.

On the surface, "Amphitryon" is a witty commentary, set in Greek mythological times, as well as in the bedroom of a prominent Theban general. There are barbs and references in the work to some of mankind's, and Zyodkind's, most revered and durable institutions including war — "Why we hate work — in the trenches — war is the heaven of the lazy!"; marriage — "Wifely love is a duty. Duty is compulsion. And compulsion kills desire."; there is even a barrage of surreflexly naive "spotshots" taken at man's theological convictions, as when Jupiter descending to earth, lands with "a terrific crash offstage" and sheepishly admits "I forgot the law of gravity."

The Belleville Theatre Guild's production of "Amphitryon" last night at the B.C.I. Auditorium was obviously one which had required a great deal of thought in order to avoid the tempting pitfall of converting the play into sheer farce. The credit for this must go to the director Deirdre Warren, and also to John Faulkner, whose assistance as an instructor with the local players is beginning to make itself evident. Mrs. Warren's work with her cast as Amphitryon, but playing the foil for the master of the gods is no easy task. His farewell scene with Alkmena before departing for the war is one of the most-humorous in the play, and the only time when Mr. Alexander really had the opportunity to display his acting talent.

The supporting cast did not have an excess of work to do, but one almost wished that Giraudoux had written in more "meaty" roles for Ed Wiens as a very vociferous warrior and Pat MacGregor as Leda, an honorable mention goes to Jim Paterson for his Sosie, but Neil Pfeiffer's trumpeter did not achieve the scope it might have, it was a relatively minor part, but such roles often mean more to a play than meets the eye.

In general, the cast deserves much praise for tackling a different type of production in fine style, and for sustaining the light, whimsical mood of the play quite uniformly. Probably the most dissappointing features of the evening were the size of the crowd and the inconsistent auditorium acoustics.

A second presentation of "Amphitryon 38" will take place at B.C.I. this evening.

Employment News

By E. T. YOSS,
Special Services Officer

As of the first of this month, there were 318 persons between the ages of 45 and 64 registered with the Belleville NES as looking for work.

This brings to mind a booklet published by the Federal Government with the above perceptive title, "How Old is Old."

This is quite a leading question, particularly when applied to the conclusions based on the rationalizations of those responsible for hiring policies.

To some employers, if a person is 35 years old, he is not worth hiring, others put age limits of 45 and 50 as deadlines. They do not look at the individual as an individual and ask "What can you offer?" No. By virtue of age you are automatically classified as redundant.

But, of course, we are living in an alleged age of enlightenment, when everything must be classified and neatly packaged and put through an IBM machine. This is an easy way out, it does not require initiative, judgment, or the acceptance of responsibility, or sticking one's neck out to give someone a break, or a chance to prove himself.

At the other end of the scale, young people are pampered together as teen-agers, and treated as a class apart, and are to some extent sanctified. Theatregoers are young people, standing rather awkwardly with one foot in youth and the other on the threshold of adulthood. If adults would act with more maturity and thereby set a better example, the possibility is the teenagers would have something to want to grow up for, and this stage of transition would be less painful and lonely.

If this same maturity was also applied to the outlook affecting older workers much of the problem would not be such a problem, either.

All kinds of rationalizations have been put forward why employers do not and should not hire older workers, but these lose their force and fade when exposed to the light of reason.

Mental ability, that is the ability to learn does not necessarily decrease with age. In the United States, the Army alpha intelligence test was administered to 127 male freshmen at Iowa State College during 1919-19 and was readministered to the same group after an interval of 31 years during 1949-50. In analyzing the results, psychologists found the group was intellectually more capable, at 50 years of age, than they were in 1919 at the age of 20.

A series of learning tests conducted at the Institute of Psychological research, Columbia University, on 200 people ranging in age from 20 to 70, showed there was no significant difference between young and old in the amount of material learned.

Canadian studies substantiate findings in the United States, where surveys, in a variety of industries, proved that older workers, as a group, are equal to, or better than younger employees in the area of productivity.

Employers would do well to examine more thoughtfully the abilities of the older worker. By maintaining arbitrary age limits in hiring, which automatically bar the older workers from an interview, employers are narrowing the margin of obtaining the right person for the job. There is also the effect of unemployment on an older person. With each rejection in his search for employment, inevitably, his morale is lowered with each rejection his self-confidence and self-respect may be lessened until a point is reached when he becomes psychologically unemployable without some form of rehabilitation.

Today's society is certainly work-oriented. It is necessary to work in order to pay for and obtain the necessities of life and to live with some semblance of dignity.

When work is denied a person he is deprived not only of those normal luxuries which make life more pleasant, but also of many of the essentials.

If employers will not adopt a responsible attitude towards the so called older worker, there is no alternative for him but to become the responsibility of the community.

We at the National Employment Service are concerned over this. A man should be judged by his capabilities not his age, and technological advancement should not blind us to the finer human qualities or destroy our social conscience.

Possible Broken Bones Suffered In Accident

Celesta McDonald, R.R. 1, Belleville, was involved in an accident about 7 p.m. last night on highway 2 just east of Bayside.

She was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Belleville General Hospital with possible broken bones.

She was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Death Sentence Is Commutated By Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—The Pearson government announced its first consecutive commutation of a death sentence Friday, sparing the life of Lloyd Lycling, 36, of Edmonton.

Lycling had been sentenced to be hanged next Wednesday for the capital murder of his estranged wife.

It was the first commutation since the Commons rejected a resolution to abolish capital punishment in a free vote April 5. The tally was 143 to 112.

Another 15 men face death sentences, but all are appealing their convictions.

Bobby Hull

Bobby Hull is one of the great sportsmen of our time. Hockey player par excellence, he is on home ground now at Point Anne and Big Island where family and farming interests take precedence until the time comes to don the blades once again and skate, perhaps, to greater achievements.

The formal welcome home celebrations are over, but the name of Bobby Hull remains in the forefront. He ranks with the immortals of sport, and there is not a youngster in this area or across Canada who does not seek to emulate his feats.

Fifty goals and more in a season, not once but twice, and last season it was a record 54. Those are the statistics — and impressive ones at that. But it is the man behind the statistical record who counts for even more, the man who has become a legend in his lifetime.

Bobby Hull is at home now, but we look forward again to seeing his athletic frame in that other home from home — the hockey arenas of the continent, where this flashing genius of the ice really comes into his own.

Potential Air Links

"General aviation will continue to grow. In years to come, towns without airports will learn of their value too late, when business has moved some place else."

The above quotation from Kiwanian Jim Law's address to fellow club members in Belleville is a reminder of the potentiality of air traffic in this and neighboring communities.

A day is coming — and sooner than may be envisaged — when commercial and population growth in the Seaway and Ottawa Valley areas is such that without adequate transportation links economic advancement will be jeopardized.

Such links must of necessity include air traffic, which would provide passenger and cargo service between Belleville and such centres as Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, as well as with the United States.

The time may not be ripe, or even economically feasible, at the moment. It may be recalled for example that Nordair ran a service between Toronto and Montreal, with stops at Oshawa and Kingston, some years ago, but it failed to pay its way. Nevertheless, the anticipated growth of population and commercial interests in these areas may one day make such a service more practicable.

Some years ago we spoke of Belleville's curious geographical location in relation to our immediate neighbors in the United States. Big cities like Rochester and Buffalo are comparatively close, but for the mass of Lake Ontario points lies between. Because of this water barrier, they are several hours away by road.

United States studies, Mr. Law points out, show that a readily accessible airport is one of the top five considerations listed by companies looking for new industrial sites and places to establish branch plants or offices.

Alcohol and the Indian

Alcohol has long been one of the scourges of the Canadian Indian — ever since the white man came to this continent and conquered the native populace and left them to face vagaries of second-class citizenship, neglect and loss of their ancient identity.

Alcohol to a large extent is the refuge of the dispossessed, of whom the Indian is a classic example. Consider the Indians on the band of Friendly Cove on Vancouver Island. Despite its name, death is not an infrequent visitor to Friendly Cove, according to The Vancouver Sun.

"Cruel and senseless beatings come with greater frequency says The Sun's Dave Ablett. "And drunkenness, on its regular weekend visit, is a companion of nearly every adult in the band."

It has reached the point where Magistrate H. A. Tasker, who doubles as coroner for the area, is threatening to impose a ban on the supply of liquor to the men of the village.

"At one time they were a great nation," says Magistrate Tasker. "They had their culture, their art, their legends. Now they don't and it is our fault.

"They have sunk under the weight of alcohol and the only way to get them out from under that weight is to remove the alcohol . . . They have to make themselves a proud people once again. If I have to take drastic steps to help them, I will."

Here in Ontario a study of a band of Indians in the Lake Superior area has revealed that about one-third of the band's estimated income was spent on liquor.

When there is much talk of the need for unity, at a time when Canadians generally have never been so well off economically we should be concerned about conditions like this existing among any group of people.

Ottawa Offbeat

Dief Transfixes Commons With Spy-Probe Oratory

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Man, you should have seen Conservative Leader Diefenbaker the other night in the Commons.

Froot and centre on the Munsinger scandal.

It was vintage Dief.

He did a better "Chief" than Rich Little whose "Dief" is the best by far caricature in the imitation department of showbusiness.

In all his dramatically successful 26 years as "a House of Commons Man," as he likes to call himself, the old "Chief" never had been in such fine form.

It was sheer Barrymore.

More of a performance than a speech.

And it had the Commons floor and House Galleries slitty eyed with fascination.

Where had that evil political genius the Prime Minister kept the Munsinger file in the 4 months it was out of the hands of RCMP Security and Intelligence agents, he what I spered hoarsely?

Where had been the secret hiding place in which this prime ministerial "poisoner of the well of Parliamentary probity" concealed it?

"The Chief" stage-whispered the questions in a horrified voice straight out of "Frankenstein," he was bending down, peering here, staring there around the floor even under his Front Bench.

UNSURPASSED

Where had this documentary dynamite of sex and security been all those months?

Perhaps up the Prime Minister's desk?

And there was Dief, almost in a frenzy, shuffling papers frantically on his own desk top, as if he were having literally a fit of disorder in the search for this bomb-of-a-file that still threatens to blow up who-knows-how-many long and honorable Parliamentary careers.

All but mesmerized, the MPs on both sides of the House and the taxpayers in the Galleries held their breath as Dief, acting for all the world like "The Shadow — Aahh — The Shadow Knows," searched the floor, the desk, even the very faces around him for the secret of the dread secret of the hiding place.

And if, suddenly, he had straightened up, clutching the elusive Munsinger file, with a heave-ho of triumph, "Ah have Here it is" nobody would have been at all surprised.

The performance was that real, that convincing.

He was living the part.

It was good performance should.

And Dief as a performer still remains — and likely will for a long, long time — unsurpassed.

Most of the others, in their simulated anger, their counterfeit indignation, their mock and low exultation, are amateurs in the fine art of playing a dramatic political part on the great national stage of the House of Commons.

WHO'S NEXT?

By comparison, Prime Minister Pearson, a political chairman of continually-improving excellence, is still pretty much of Little Theatre calibre.

And still by comparison, most of the MPs who couldn't carry a spear in any really good Dief drama.

But the Loc Chaney of Parliament Hill had more great moments of theatre in him.

Having made the search for the Munsinger file, he paused, silent, staring around.

Then, with bowed head and breaking voice, he cried in anguish that this monster of a Prime Minister had used in a gloriously-traditioned RCMP as "Pearson's Political Police," as a deadly weapon of "character assassination" in a heinous attempt to kill off his enemies in the Official Opposition.

"Who's next?" he cried, swivelling around suddenly, and with his dagger of a forefinger spinioning the Liberal Backbench MPs across the centre aisle.

"Who's next on the death list?

"Can you ever be sure now that it isn't you who's marked for assassination?"

They couldn't help themselves as they turned into those blazing ice-blue eyes, they sort of reshed back in their seats, a few of them shaking their heads as if in some kind of a nightmare.

One by one, he singled them out with that pointing forefinger, asking a hal dozen, "Is it you? Or you? Perhaps you? Will you ever feel safe again?"

Up in the gallery among the audience were television personalities Johnny Wayne and Frank Schuster.

They must have learned a thing or two.

CLEANING FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 14th, 1946

—When the community concerts started in Canada about 15 years ago, good music was limited to the larger cities and even these cities were not able to have regular concerts with top-notch artists. However by last December, regular community concerts were being held in 410 cities and this figure rapidly reach 500 by the end of the year," said Mrs. Ethel Mills, community concert organizer from Okotoks, Alta., when she addressed the annual meeting of the Belleville Community Concert Assoc. at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening. "The growing interest in this particular kind of concert presentation is growing very rapidly and all over the country the attendance figures are going up," continued Mrs. Mills.

Alan Ramsay of Belleville and Walter Ronald Cody of Halifax were both awarded the Dr. Frederick Cumyn History Prize for 1936 at Dalhousie University according to a Canadian Press dispatch from Halifax.

Mr. E. V. Illsey, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here was entertained at the members of the Kinsmen's Club at the meeting of the club at the Queen's Hotel last evening. His subject, which was interesting and informative, was' "Reflections on our trend of living."

The Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., of St. Michael's Church here was present at the "Forty Hours' Devotions," at the Church of St. Gregory in Picton on Sunday evening.

Increasing Independence

Vance Packard says the "organization man" is starting to show a new sense of freedom.

The author of the best-seller of "Hidden Persuaders," "Pyramid Climbers" and other books says many individuals who once sought security and status as gaining a new sense of individuality despite the inexorable growth of organization. The reason for the increasing sense of freedom, says Packard, is that "affluence" has become increasingly easy for a person of talent to change jobs. A host of business firms have sprung up that are glad to serve as intermediaries.

In an article in the current Reader's Digest he says that while the opportunity to change jobs is growing, taking advantage of the opportunity remains a matter of individual planning and choice.

Many people make no plans; they just drift, then make the best of whatever job they get," says Packard. "But life is a matter of choices, and freedom consists in making them for yourself."

One way to assure the ability to make such choices is by saving money, he says. "Too many of us think of savings as security for old age. A more important function is to strengthen our independence right now." Any family above the poverty level can save money, he asserts. By giving up cigarettes, one family was able to bank more than $200 a year.

Another important way to build personal freedom is to increase one's education and skills, Packard writes. "The more marketable knowledge you possess the freer you are, for it can't be taken away from you — it's a tool you carry around in your head."

In today's rapidly changing world, however, it is important to recognize that knowledge can quickly become obsolete or out. Continuing education is important.

Steel Grab Threat in U.K.

Montreal Gazette

Lord Beeching, who ran the state-owned British Railways for two years, said in Montreal this week that the proposed renationalization of the steel industry in Britain would probably be the last state takeover of industry.

"I don't think nationalization solves problems," he said. "It merely alters the framework in which they must be solved."

Lord Beeching is now back as an executive of Imperial Chemicals.

Britain's giant chemical company, which he left to head the railways. But while in the railways his name became a household word in Britain.

He made attempts to modernize the antiquated railway system in Britain and inject some more efficient methods into enterprise. His Beeching Plan proposed to close down uneconomical lines in the country and his ideas caused a political uproar.

He is also away from broad experience, then, when he makes the point that nationalization does not solve any problems, but merely puts the problems in another framework.

On the question of the renationalization of the British steel industry, which Mr. Wilson forecast in the recent Queen's Speech, many persons in Britain realize it is a futile exercise.

. . . I think the right wing of the Labor party would be glad to see the whole issue of steel nationalization dropped," Lord Beeching said.

It hardly seems worthwhile that Mr. Wilson should go ahead with such a scheme when the only reason for doing so is to placate a few left-wing theorists in his party. As Lord Beeching pointed out, the real problems is the British economy as a whole. It is a matter of Britain putting her economic house in order.

Nationalization — even steel nationalization — is not a step forward. It probably is a step sideways — a step which avoids the real issue.

To Your Good Health

Heart Attack Victim Needs Some Exercise

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When one of the two main arteries is closed in an attack of angina, does a person ever really recover? — M. E.

Before I answer your direct question, I want to make sure that you are not confusing angina pectoris with a coronary occlusion or "heart attack." They are not the same although at times they may be related.

Angina means pain in the heart region. While there can be other causes, the principal one is some reduction in flow of blood to the heart muscle via the coronary arteries. When the flow of blood is less than the heart muscle requires for the work it must do, the muscle rebels and cramps painfully.

But the about flow is not entirely shut off in angina. When a complete blockage occurs, that is a coronary occlusion. (It, too, is very painful.)

Angina does not necessarily lead to heart attack; a heart attack does not necessarily mean that there will be angina afterwards.

Now let's get to your specific question, M.E. Whether there is complete recovery from either a heart attack or angina depends on a good many things, one of which is what is meant by "recovery." This is true whether we are thinking of either ailment.

About 75 percent of people who have heart attacks recover and return to their regular jobs. Once the original attack is past, collateral circulation develops — that is, other, smaller blood vessels enlarge gradually and provide additional circulation to make up for the flow that has been lost at the point of blockage.

The size of the original damage remains. All the same, the heart can become strong again.

Collateral circulation develops with use — in a word, with exercise. This does not, of course, mean that if a person has had a heart attack, he should strain himself with vigorous exertion. In the beginning he needs rest. But later on, he should be active within reasonable limits.

The same is true of angina. Coronary (heart) circulation can improve in time. It will not be accomplished by excessive exercise. Nothing is gained by forcing the heart to try to work beyond its capabilities. Pain in this case is a warning sign.

The person with angina should learn how much he can do without actual pain and cramps, and he should keep his activity below that point. But the heart with angina can gradually improve, and physical activity within the limits of the heart's capability is better for the patient than trying to avoid all exercise.

The individual doctor must, of course, help the patient to learn just how much he can do. However, in a great many cases patients do too little instead of too much.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any stimulant in chocolate? It seems that every time I have a chocolate bar, I get a rapid heart beat. Why? — C. L.

Chocolate contains theobromine, a stimulant akin to caffeine but not nearly as strong

It could be that you are particularly sensitive to theobromine just as some people are to caffeine, but I surmise that your rapid heart beat might be due to some other factor of which you are not aware.

• • •

To Mrs. N. T.: The blood and urine tests you mentioned would not show pregnancy. If you think you might be pregnant, tell your doctor so he can make other tests which will decide.

Hospital Financing

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

It is becoming increasingly clear that when governments set out to put hospital insurance plans into effect they should also take steps to ensure there are enough hospitals to carry the work load that will result.

This is not being done, under the present system. The federal government's contribution to the cost of building active treatment hospitals — about $2,800 per bed—has remained fixed since January, 1961. It must be the only price tag on anything that has not been drastically revised upward since that time. The last change in Ontario government grants came in August, 1963, when the per bed grant was increased to $5,200. The meagreness of these grants from the senior governments can be measured by the fact that it now costs about $31,000 per bed to build a hospital.

Many of the financial difficulties now faced by hospitals in this province stem from the introduction of the hospital insurance program in 1950. The need for a physical expansion and new equipment has become far more acute. But since the hospitals receive little more from the OHSC than actual operating expenses they have no funds to finance new facilities. Indeed, some hospitals cannot even possess the means to service their capital debts.

An estimated $280,787,000 was spent on hospital construction in this province in the 1960-65 period. Of this amount, 26.35 per cent came from provincial grants and 14.85 per cent from the federal government. The local communities had the responsibility for making up the difference, through municipal grants, fund-raising campaigns or loans.

In 1965 local authorities had to put up 40 per cent of the money needed to finance hospital projects, an unrealistic and unwarranted burden on the municipalities' restricted tax resources.

The $00 million dollar health resources fund promised by the federal government will provide a measure of help to treating hospitals. It is designed to expand medical, dental and nursing research and training facilities.

This looks to the future and the federal government should process the required legislation through the Commons as soon as possible. But this should blind no one to the fact that the only solution to hospital problems as they exist today is a generous enlargement of grants from both the senior levels of government.

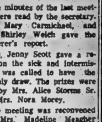
W.A. Holds Dutch Tea

ROSLIN — A Dutch tea was held recently in St. Paul's Anglican Parish Hall sponsored by the W. A.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the president Mrs. A. Bates and Mrs. T. Osborne.

Decorations in the Dutch theme were carried out with real and artificial tulips, while picket fence topped with tulips and blue and white windmills at either end of the gateway formed the entrance to the tea room.



The tea table was centred with a pair of Dutch shoes filled with tulips and snapdragons. Mrs. R. Gray was in charge of the decorating.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. P. Smith, Mrs. T. Ferris, Mrs. F. Gray and Mrs. H. Sills.

Mrs. B. Hamilton and Mrs. E. Gray dressed in Dutch costumes and wooden shoes, explained these items to many visitors.

The home baking was convened by Mrs. Wilbur Gilmore and Mrs. Ken Sharpe, and fancy work by Mrs. H. Sills and Miss L. Wilson.

'White Elephant' Becomes A Lively Bow-Tied Bunny

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

OCHO RIOS, Jamaica — Like Miami Beach's Fontainebleau, there is an aura on the facade of the hotel. There is, however, a driveway sign post with a symbol on it — a rabbit in a bow tie.

Next to the lobby is a nightclub called the Playroom. Inside, the men's room and ladies' room are marked "Playboy" and "Playmates" — respectively, we presume. The darkly rugged wood-and-leather cocktail lounge downstairs enhances its decor with illuminated portraits of ladies known to all men and most women as Playmates of the Month. The waitresses are dressed as rabbits in bow ties.

Situated on what was known laboriously as the Boscobel Bay — now renamed Bunny Bay — the Playboy Club Hotel started life a short eight years ago as the Marrakesh. It was based, reputedly, on a design the owner had seen of an old hotel in North Africa, and was built like the Pyramids. The plot was hacked out of the jungle. Stones were hauled up and placed by hand, piece by piece, by native workers.

It had the tourist world agog for a while, but the enterprise soon went broke. It reopened later as the Reef Club, and went broke again. Its overdesigned past (it was, and still is, necessary to take an elevator from the lobby to the beach) became known as the White Elephant of the West Indies.

THE GIRLS

It no longer is. With the aid of some eye-catching advertising featuring scantily endowed golden girls in bikinis disporting on golden sand and water by gold-fish-like pools, the Playboy Club now has the third highest occupancy rate in Jamaica's fashionable north area.

But any leering ashtray who's think this must be the place had better think again. Our exhaustive scientific survey of the situation indicates that — so long as the girls wear their bow ties and well-tailored merriedfolks than practically any place on the island, it was about as wicked as the YWCA.

The 25 cotton-tailed rabbettes, nearly all native Jamaicans, live in a dormitory wing under the eye of a housemother, are rigidly trained to be looked at but not touched, and are subject to classes for entry-exit circular social activities with guests. Most men guests bring their wives. Anyway, all girls get passed at. Bunnies just get paid for suffering it.

According to Manager Frank Irving, the hotel has no higher proportion of single guests than any other on the island, and is quite likely less.

"Maybe we get more business because we have waitresses in costume. But look at the kind of groups we have coming up — General Electric, RCA, Pepsi-Cola, American Motors, Pratt and Whitney Engines, Track and Field Men's Tour . . ."

Track and Field Men's Tour? Hearts of visitors to Jamaica plan to do nothing but look the sun in the eye amid surroundings the Tourist Board describes as "no place like home." Except for the hotels, few find out it.

MOST SCENIC

But the North Shore is one of the most scenic and historic parts of Jamaica. The Spaniards' first capital, called Nueva Sevilla, was near here, and Columbus first landed within sight of spitty Runaway Bay Hotel's Robert Trent Jones golf course.

Ocho Rios means Eight Rivers, which there aren't. The name is a corruption of Las Chorreras, the Cascades, and comes from the spectacular quarter-mile-long stone-stepped falls at Dunn's River flowing to the sea. A favorite tourists' exercise is climbing and splashing their way up through nature's needle shower.

Another romantic beauty spot blithely ignored by oceanwatchers is 60-acre Shaw Park Gardens, a private preserve where the area's oldest resort, the Shaw Park Hotel (now removed from the beach), once stood. The wild semi-landscaped forest with a commanding view of the sea is countryside in a hurry. Botanical garden running amok with royal palms, giant ferns, hanging vines, huge cotton-woods, blazing rainbows of tropical flowers, fly ponds, falls, rocks and rills.

Almost walking distance from here is the road known as Ferry Gully. The former river bed is gouged through coral embankments where hundreds of varieties of towering trees and giant ferns keep out all but splashes of sunlight. The result is to break the silence, and the atmosphere is as authentically primeval jungle as the Amazon.

WHERE NIGHTS ARE GAY

Down the way where the nights are gay and the silence deily on the mountaintop is Montego Bay, two hours west of Ocho Rios by car. It is the first place most tourists see, when, still shivering from the cold fit-to-die, they step off the jets from civilization. Most of them never go any farther.

Montego Bay is Jamaica's second city, it's tourist and night life capital, and still the location of its poshest and most expensive bocels. Hotels like Half Moon, with its great swath of silvered Round Hill, have become legends in their own time. Now there's a new one which for sheer elegance, if not location on a hillside above town rather than on the beach) may well be added to them.

Called Miranda Hill, it is operated by Chicago restaurateurs Jerry and Diana Kovler. Its cottages cluster coyly around a pool set in flowered grounds. The main house was the home of Captain Edward Molyneux, Paris couturier and international setter.

The huge cottage rooms appear to have been furnished and styled by a speedthrift decorator given carte blanche. The flatware is gold, the glass crystal, the chef French, and the breakfast menu has Bloody Marys. Box lunches include chilled glasses and wine, and the maid presses your clothes for you on arrival.

What more could you ask for at $72.50 a day double in winter? Summer rates maybe?

BEARINGS END

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. auto safety hearings end Friday and both Senate and House of Representatives committee chairmen pledged to do late high gear to speed the shaping of specific legislation. Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), chairman of the Senate commerce committee, said it will meet Tuesday to start drafting its bill.

Lines on Life

The Greatest Loyalty

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

What is true loyalty? How do you gauge a man's commitments to see if they are unblemished and untarnished by ulterior motive?

Often we hear: "He wouldn't have done it, really, if he didn't think he'd get something out of it." Are there different kinds of loyalty, some higher than others? Or, ought we to learn to take love as we see it, condition ourselves to accept goodness without asking why it is done?

Often the love we display, is not really loyalty but only a hope that we will be repaid in some measure. Even mother love can be seen as a form of human barter, a kind of "love, fear." The Parent fears being rejected by her own child. (This fear of rejection by the young is a very real terror in our society, since the worship of youth is so strong!) Fearing rejection we become more and more permissive: we love our children because we so often afraid that if we didn't love them they wouldn't love us!

Even our charity is often prompted by our desire to gain affection, attention and a fine plaque. It is better to give than to receive — this is an oft-quoted precept. But what it sometimes forgotten is that in giving we often receive. And this is one of the reasons why we give.

We want to be accepted. And often we do almost anything — even to the point of illegality — to merit the approval of our friends.

But there are kind nesses which such motives are not to be found. There are acts which are not as selfish as we would think.

An ultimate loyalty is the love we have for our parents when they are no longer here. Such love cannot ever be linked to a desire for re-payment. There is nothing we can do for the dead, nothing except to remember them lovingly. This is a love which has no ulterior motive.

But such remembering is not a passive thing, not a fleeting fluttering sigh or the brushing of our heart. Such love, if it be true, implies that we shall act — the absence of our parents, or their lives within our own. It suggests that the greatest loyalties are those which we perform when nobody is around to check on us. The knowledge that we can do what we are doing because we remember what we have been taught to do, though our teachers are no longer here to examine us on their — this knowledge, and the moral strength it confers, constitutes the greatest human loyalty.

Woman Runs Logging Operation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Logging, above all else, must be considered a man's world.

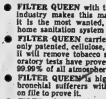
Yet Mrs. Helen Grossking, 68, has been successfully running two logging operations on Vancouver Island for 13 years since her husband died.

A former Ontario schoolteacher, she had had little to do with the business before she took over the operations.

"I never thought of selling out," she says. "It didn't enter my head. We had a good contract and were making money."

Grossking and Trueman Ltd. of Cowichan Lake cuts in two areas, employing 35 men and turning out 20,000,000 board feet of lumber a year.

Mrs. Grossking employs a top-notch foreman and her son Bill runs one of the operations. She looks after the books and gets the contracts.



What does she like about logging? "The mountains."

During her 13 years—a period in which many small firms went broke and closed—she has added to a basically mobile operation with expensive equipment required—and not money is used one year—"the year we had poor timber."

Mrs. Grossking says she doesn't go into the woods any more, feeling she's a bit old to be climbing over logs.

"My department is to keep track of what it costs us to log. My accountant tells me how much it costs. If costs start rising, then I ask why."

The Lord's Supper bread plate is a pressed-glass piece from the 1890's. It is one of the most exacting of the pressed-glass patterns, showing great detail.

ST. JOHN'S FRIENDSHIP GROUP

The Friendship Group of St. John's Anglican Church, Foint Anne held their monthly meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Paula Horwood.

The meeting was opened with prayer led by Rev. Brown and the president, Mrs. Clara Green, welcomed the members. The June meeting will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Brown.

Final arrangements were made for the euchre, and a pie social was planned for the month of June.

Arrangements were also made for the congregational reception to be held in the Parish Hall on Sunday, May 15, when the Right Rev. Kenneth Evans, Bishop of Ontario will preside at the service of confirmation in a joint service with St. John's, Point Anne and Holy Trinity, Shannonville.

Rev. Brown closed the meeting with prayer and the hostess, Mrs. Horwood, assisted by Mrs. E. Loft, served refreshments.

NURSERY DRAWERS are easy to wipe clean if you line the entire inside with adhesive-backed plastic. The plastic comes in many different patterns and colors, and will last until you decide to change it. Be sure to catch soft little sweaters, either. (Thanks to Mrs. Rebl. Reid, Falls Church, Va.)

Famous Bread Plate Shows Lord's Supper

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Bread was an important part of the nonweight-watching pioneers. The bread tray was used each day and examples of bread trays from the eighteenth century are to be found today.

One of the most famous glass trays is the Lord's Supper bread plate. It was first made about 1890 by the Model Flint Glass Company of Findlay, Ohio. Thirty years ago a writer attributed the plate to a Pittsburgh factory. The molds may have been used by more than one factory.

The Lord's Supper bread tray was made for many years. It is still being repoduced. The earliest trays had no signs of gilt or paint.

Q. An eagle, the words "E Pluribus Unum" and 13 stars are on the flat oval brass dresser pulls on my inlaid cherry chest. Will this help date it?

A. Irpplexwhile furniture from about 1785 to 1800 had brass oval hardware. A ball-type handle was used with thin brass plates. The plates were stamped with ornamental designs such as eagles, stars, oak leaves, flowers, grapes or animals.

The eagle and stars design usually had a star representing each state in the Union. Kentucky was admitted in 1792 as the 15th state. The 16th state was admitted in 1796.

Unfortunately these brasses have been reproduced.

Q. I keep seeing an advertisement requesting old barbed wire. What is old?

A. Barbed wire is one of the unusual antiques collected in the West. The first patents for a wire fence with barbs or points were issued in 1867. The wire had wooden blocks strung on a wire. Each pinch had two sharp points projecting from it. Later types of barbed wire had small wheel-like attachments, sharp spiral wire or other variations.

Collectors want 18-inch samples made before 1880. Early types are often mounted on wooden plaques. The collectors find bits of the old wire still clinging to old fence posts or in barns.

Q. What is watermelon glass?

A. Some dealers have been offering watermelon glass for the past few years. It is evidently a new name for Amberina, the shaded red to light-yellow glass made in the late Victorian era.

RELIGION IN PIONEER DAYS
(Conclusion)

"Lord thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." — Psalm XC - v. 1.

Many of the Loyalist pioneers of Dutch and German descent were members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church while residents of New Jersey and New York States," concludes Miss Fraleck.

"There appears to have been large settlements of them in Marysburg, Prince Edward County, in Fredericksburgh, Camden and Richmond, Lennox and Addington County, and in Williamsburgh, Dundas County.

"It is claimed that probably the first Protestant church erected in Eastern Upper Canada was a Lutheran church in Williamsburgh known as "Zion Church."

"Ebenezeer Church" at Big Creek, the old records pertaining to which are still in existence, is supposed to have been built about 1800, though the exact year is not known. The deed was given by Philip Schmith, who was a member of the church, and bears date of July 14, 1815.

"There was then a church, and burial ground in use as there had been for years. The old church is not in existence today nor the burial ground is overgrown with weeds and bushes and many of the inscriptions on the stones almost undecipherable.

"St. Peter's Church" in Ernestown, Second Con., near where Ernestown station now stands, was built a few years later but the oldest date on the stones that bears the date February 9, 1815, but it is known to have been built and the burying ground used years before that time.

"The deed was given by Jonas Amey and provided that when not used by the Lutheran ministers, it should be at the service of the Methodists and Presbyterians subject to the discretion of the trustees.

"It still stands, and the burying ground is still in use, but it has been neglected and overgrowned. It is now owned by the Methodists.

"The Union Church" in Camden East Township, where the village of Napanee Mills now stands, was afterward built but the date is not known. Like the others, the members were gradually merged with the Methodists and became a Methodist church.

"As far as the records go, the Reverend John C. Wigsant was the first Lutheran minister. His name occurs in the old Register in 1797 but the previous baptisms appear to have been in his handwriting.

"He is reported to have secretly joined the Churches of England and to have been rebaptized by Bishop Mountain."

Upon completion of her fine series, "Pioneer Days, Pioneer Days," we wish to express our sincere thanks to Miss Fraleck, who we pay tribute to in Belleville-born and bred.

Because we know you will be as interested as were we, here with her kind permission, is a family letter addressed to a young man soon after beginning his term of office in Belleville as Judge, (1851-1916) which is none other than her father, the late Judge E. B. Fraleck. It reads:

Stradcona Hall, Ottawa.
January 7, 1882.

My dear Sir:

I have your note of the 4th inst. I am glad to have had the opportunity of rewarding your faithful services to the Party by recommending your appointment, but I am sure you will make an equally faithful Judge.

You must, however, put on all the quiet dignity and self restraint which is so necessary in a person holding a judicial office.

Wishing you the compliments of the Season

Believe me,
Yours faithfully
(signed) J. A. MacDonald.

APPLE STRUDEL

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon pure lard
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ cup warm water
10 large apples
1 cup sugar
½ pound raisins
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Sift flour and salt into bowl. Make well in centre and drop of egg and lard. Work flour, lard, egg and lard gradually. Combine water and vinegar. Work into flour mixture to make soft dough. Knead well and continue to work dough by throwing it against board several times. Continue this until dough has lost all stickiness, about 10 minutes. Cover bowl and let dough rest with flour. Pace in warm bowl covered, and allow to remain in warm place until about 30 minutes. Spread a clean cloth on large table and dust with flour. Roll dough on floured cloth as thinly as possible. Brush dough with a little melted lard. Continue to pull dough until paper thin. Brush dough again with melted lard. Peel and cut apples as floorl as possible. Mix with sugar, raisins and cinnamon. Spread over dough. Roll from side like a jelly roll. When completely rolled paint with yolk of egg. Grease a baking sheet. Cut roll into long pieces depending on size of sheet and bake 25 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr. When cooked, cut into smaller pieces and serve hot or cold.

QUESTION: Would you print the proper way to cook and serve asparagus? . . . S.J.

ANSWER: Yes, with great pleasure.

HOW TO COOK AND SERVE FRESH ASPARAGUS PROPERLY

Wash asparagus thoroughly, cut off tough ends, being sure no sand lurks under scales. With a large knife trim bottom end for about one inch. Stand up in tall pot, put about ¾" boiling water in pot, cover and boil 7 to 10 minutes or until barely tender — the tips cook in the steam, and color remains bright green. Drain carefully without breaking tips and serve at once lovely with Genuine Hollandaise or

LEMON BUTTER SAUCE

Melt ¼ cup butter and blend in 1 tablespoon corn-starch. Stir in 2/3 cup hot water until thick. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice and stir over low heat for 1 minute. Serve hot.

A Lift for Living

Prejudice Toward Goodness Needed in World of Today

By REV. HAROLD E. KOEN

A backwoods wood carver from America's Deep South was well known for his "primitive" carvings of bears. After watching him carve for some months an astonished woman visitor exclaimed, "I don't see how you do it!"

"Well, Ma'm," the wood carver replied, "it's like this: I look at a block of wood until I see the bear. Then I cut away the wood, and that's the bear."

Such a tendency is an expression of one form of prejudice, a harmless kind. This wood carver sees in a piece of wood what he wants to see — a bear. But other woodsmen would see each block of wood only as fuel for the cabin fireplace.

Everyone is prejudiced. We seldom see things simply as they are. We see them through our interests. We see other people not as they are as a whole, but fractionally — looking in them for what most interests us. But tragically, when we have found what concerns us, we attempt to cut away all the rest.

EXACT INDIVIDUALITY

Prejudice causes us to react to a situation instantly, without thought, and it prompts us to react to the pattern of all of our past reactions, rather than seeing in a new way in a new situation, with new people.

Thus a person who has a anti-Jewish feelings reacts to all the known Jews he meets in the same way. The anti-Catholic, the anti-Protestant, the anti-Negro, the anti-White act toward the objects of their prejudice impulsively and habitually. No analysis is attempted.

Behavior rests upon prejudgment, which is judgment formed before we think and formed on the basis of emotional considerations. Such prejudice is a time - saver. It enables us to express instant opinions about anybody without bothering to gather facts.

But, of course, when we state our opinion, it is not about the essential person that we are speaking, but about one of our surface judgments. We need to whittle away the layers of prejudice that have over the real person, hiding him from our sight so that his essential nature can clearly stand forth.

What would you think of a teacher who, on the day of a child's enrollment in school, inscribed the youngster's name in the class book, and appeals it wrote "failure" before the child had been in class five minutes, or had done an assignment, or had been called on for recitation? Unfair? Of course.

Yet, every day, people enter our lives and are marked "failure" or "inferior" or "unwanted" in our record books before they have any chance to prove what is in them. There is something profoundly wrong with those of us who make and believe these labels.

MAGNIFICENT PREJUDICE.

But prejudices can be good as well as evil. Jesus was one of the most prejudiced people the world has ever seen. He believed that every soul is a child of God, and before He met a person He was sure that such would be the case with that individual. Moreover, Jesus was convinced that God loved everyone, and therefore everyone that Jesus met should receive His love, too. This, too, was a prejudgment, a prejudice, the most magnificent prejudice the world has ever seen.

Thus Jesus unforgettably illustrated one meaning of the word "love." Dr. James Moffatt has translated the verse in the 13th seventh chapter of First Corinthians that reads "Love believeth all things," to mean "love is . . . always eager to believe the best." This prejudice for "the best" does not imply a sentimental credulity, a foolish readiness to blind oneself to all evil in human nature or a weak-minded indifference to human perversity.

Rather, such a bias is like that of the prospector for gold, who searches for riches amidst unsightly rocks. It means a determination to look upon all people searchingly, seeking for saving qualities even in the worst people. It implies a "mind-set," a prejudice toward goodness.

No soul is so completely lost that every one of its qualities is as black as all the rest, nor are all of its tendencies equally evil. Very well then, love is eager to look for the best, to believe in it when it is found, to believe that in a touch of goodness is a clue that God has been working in that life, to encourage the expression of good as much as possible, as patiently as possible for as long as it is possible.

The world desperately needs more such gloriously prejudiced people.

Lighting the Way

By Edgar S. Cross

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

A number of years ago, one of America's best known actresses was a principal in a divorce action. She was only 31 years of age. Millions had adored her on the silver screen, and amassed a fortune of several millions of dollars. Married at only 17, she had a beautiful home, a private swimming pool, and everything money could buy and popularity could bring. Yet, at only 31, she stood in divorce court weeping, and said to the Judge, "at times I contemplated suicide."

Wealth? She had that too. But wealth, but her heart was broken. She had been missing life!

That which makes life really worth living cannot be found in material acquisitions, or earthly glory. Inner Joy, peace of mind, a spirit of contentment, a sense of well-being, are never dependent upon whether we have or have not material things. Abundant living is a matter of the spirit. The Master said, "I am come that they might have life, and have it more abundantly."

Prices Tumble to Lowest Level in Past Nine Months

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices continued to tumble on the stock markets this week as stocks fell to their lowest levels in nine months.

The declines followed the slumping New York exchange where blue chip issues were outlieted for the second consecutive week by spreading cutbacks in the United States automobile industry.

Analysts also say uncertainty over the U.S. government's position of a tax increase to fight inflation has helped push the decline.

Volume on Canada's exchanges was light. At Toronto, it totalled 16,892,496 shares compared with 19,010,858 last week.

As a result of the slide 115 issues skidded to 1966 lows. Included were Falconbridge, down 2¼ to 62, Canadair 1¼ to 46¼ and Inco, down 2¼ to 97¼.

INDUSTRIALS RETREAT

The industrial index retreated 3.21 to 161.39, and is the two-week period dropped 7.32 points.

In Monday's trading the Industrial index fell 2.20 following a weekend announcement by General Motors it was putting eight plants on a short work week.

Brokers are divided as to where the market will level out. Some feel it will continue to decrease until a more favorable price earnings ratio is reached. Others are advising clients to buy in what they describe as bargain prices.

In the industrial list, Ford of Canada declined 4½ to 145, General Motors 1¾ to 91, Bell Telephone 2 to 51, Interprovincial Pipe Line 1¼ to 79, Massey-Ferguson 1 to 82 and Alcan Aluminium 2½ to 38¾.

Massey - Ferguson advanced ⅛ to 34⅛ on 90,483 shares. It reached a 1966 high of 37 before backing off. Imperial Oil was up ¼ to 53¾.

BANKS LOWER

Banking issues also were lower as the bank index moved down 2.20 to 137.49. Imperial Commerce was off 1⅛ to 82⅜, Royal 1 to 73½, Toronto-Dominion ¼ to 61, Montreal 1 to 90 and Nova Scotia ⅛ to 68¾.

In base metals, Hudson Bay slid 2¼ to 79¾, Denison 1¼ to 46, Noranda 1 to 50¼ and Rio Algom 1 to 22. Pine Point bucked the trend, rising 2¼ to 63¼.

Western oils were also caught in the retreat with Pacific Petroleum off ⅛ to 12¼, Dome ⅛ to 13, Ogilvie ⅛ to 17 and Home A ⅛ to 16¼. Scurry Rainbow added 1 at 29¼.

Golds lost ground as Hollinger dropped 2¼ to 21¾, Kerr-Addison ⅛ to 10⅜ and McIntyre 3¼ to 86¼. Dome rose 1¼ to 43¾.

Speculative activity was quiet although International Helium climbed 25 cents to 2.70 on 497,865 shares and Mill City 20 cents to 2.17.

On index, golds fell 2.53 to 164.97, base metals 2.77 to 88.64, western oils 2.06 to 103.89 and the TSE 3.11 to 152.82.

At Montreal, industrials were down 3.25 to 159.66, utilities 3.52 to 138.36, banks 1.33 to 113.39 and papers 1.70 to 115.97. Volume was 2,957,783 shares compared with 6,052,540 last week.

is not in keeping with basic rights.

Mr. Dinsdale, former Conservative northern affairs minister, said the 76.W.T. is ripe for a move in the direction of self-government.

Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) suggested the government continue to appoint members to council but that they not be allowed to vote.

DOESN'T WANT CHANGES

Rod Orange (L — Northwest Territories) said the Commons should hold off further changes until the Carruthers commission reports

Mr Nielsen also fought Yukon Act amendments.

He said the Yukon council can not introduce money bills but could "merely act in concert with the commissioner" who is a civil servant.

The council wants to come before a Commons committee to ask for power to spend money, to make laws dealing with natural resources and administration of justice he said.

Mr. McIlraith said the request to hear the Yukon delegation would be considered.

The checkstop hearings, headed by Judge Claude Prevost, who was named to the post earlier by federal Labor Minister Nicholson, adjourned Friday after only a half-hour session but another meeting was scheduled for Monday afternoon.

The SFC contends that the strike is illegal and that the hearing would be condoning an illegal act by continuing to sit while the strike continues.

The ILA, while admitting that they did not advise the strike, argue that the conciliator was given the widest possible terms of reference and that the hearing can continue regardless of the walkout.

Judge Prevost has declined to rule on the legality of the strike but has ruled that the hearings will continue in spite of the walkout.

Meanwhile, three injunctions issued against the union, to prevent picket-line interference with the operation of three shipping companies, were extended Friday by Associate Chief Justice George S. Challes and they now will be in effect until Tuesday.

The injunctions prohibit interference in the operation of Clarke Steamships, Canada Steamship Lines and Agence Maritime. The ILA has also been named the issuing of the injunctions for continuation of the strike.

Meanwhile, about 113 ships are reported tied up by the walkout, 19 of them bulk carriers waiting to load grain here.

dent of the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders and chairman of the Ford Motor Company in Britain, warned:

"In a relatively short time the export production lines will have to stop because export models and specifications vary from country to country and cannot be absorbed on the home market. Such a strike would have disastrous effects on the country's largest export industry."

British seamen are paid an average of £30 ($80) a week with overtime. Those demanding a cut in their work week to 40 from 56 hours and other benefits amounting to a 17-per-cent wage increase.

The shipowners have offered an immediate five-per-cent raise and agreed to graft other benefits on request.

Strikers would get £3 ($9) a week. The union declaring a "fight to the finish," disclosed that it has borrowed £250,000 to augment the £130,000 in its treasury.

Council Wants Longer Hours At LCBO Stores

MADOC — The regular meeting of Madoc Village Council was held in the Council Chambers Monday evening.

Members present were, Reeve Thomas Burnside and Councillors C. R. Hagerman, J. M. Caverly, Bruce White and T. C. Barton.

Miss Olive G. Ashe, was instructed to write the L.C.B.O. requesting that the hours of sale in the local stores be extended to 9 p.m. on Friday evenings during the summer months.

Permission was granted to the Library Board to hold a Tag Day in the community on May 21st for the purpose of purchasing books.

A letter was read from the Department of Highways stating that according to the Highway Traffic Act the local council is permitted to pass a by-law reducing the speed on Elgin Street to 25 miles an hour only.

Much discussion took place on dogs running at large in the Village. It is the intention of Council to strictly enforce the by-law in this regard. The clerk was instructed to insert a notice in the North Hastings Review that dog tags are now available.

Mr. Harry Moffat interviewed Council regarding the driveway at the Free Methodist Church.

Rhodesia, including a complete ban on oil deliveries.

Canada believes the gaps in the effectiveness of these existing sanctions can best be eliminated through diplomatic approaches to Rhodesia's principal trading partners.

Commonwealth prime ministers agreed at a conference in Lagos, Nigeria, last January to meet again in July if the Smith regime is not brought down by that time. In Canadian view, this position still stands. The leaders would have to meet in July, unless they agree to a later date or the Rhodesian crisis is ended. Britain is reported to favor a later date.

Wesleyan Methodists Dedicate New Church

MADOC — The Wesleyan Methodist Church in Madoc was filled to capacity on Sunday afternoon at the dedication service. Friends came from many places including Ottawa, Blind River, Trenton, Kingston, Belleville and Marmora.

The Conference President, Rev. J. S. A. Spearman of Trenton was present with the building for dedication, "to the service and worship of God," by Mr. Jack Smith representing the Board of Trustees. Assisting Mr. Spearman were the former pastor, Rev. M. J. McKnight of Newington; Rev. Eldon LeRoy of Belleville and the pastor of Madoc, Rev. Walter A. Smith.

Words of greeting were brought from the Madoc Area Ministerial by the secretary, Rev. M. Heimbecker and from the Wesleyan Conference by Rev. Spearman. Letters and telegrams of congratulations from other Wesleyan churches and from the Smiths Falls Free Methodist and Pentecostal churches were read by the pastor.

DONATED GIFTS

Through the gifts of many community friends at the time of Mr. Oliver Trotter's death and by members of his family, Mrs. Vivian Trotter, his daughter Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. James McMechan and Blanche Trotter, the pulpit and screen, the communion table and communion rail were given in memory of Mr. Trotter.

At the time of their death, Mrs. Nathan Bronson in anticipation of the building of a new Wesleyan church, had left in trust a sum of money, in acknowledgement of this gift and in memory of Mrs. Bronson, the choir pews were dedicated.

The Rev. Miss Carrie Hazard who was born and lived for many years in the Madoc area before entering the ministry, gave the dedication address. The text was taken from Matthew 16: "I will build my church: and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

The brick and stone church was designed by Church Enterprises of Canada. The church features a side entrance, laminated arches with exposed roof decking, a full basement with classrooms, kitchen, mothers' room and wash rooms. The sanctuary floors and wood work is finished in sandalwood with matching pews and chancel furniture from Valley City Manufacturing Company. The floor is wall-to-wall broadloom in oak leaf brown.

SEATS 225

The sanctuary is designed to seat 156 in the pews and 26 in the chancel. Additional seating can be provided in the aisles with the use of chairs, making a total possible seating of approximately 225.

The church was built under the supervision of Mr. Elmer Woods, a general contractor from Belleville, formerly of Madoc. The total cost of the church, including furnishings, will be over $38,000. It is planned to complete any unfinished work by donated help. The church will have an indirectly lighted wooden cross superimposed on the shadow-stone panel, and a lighted brick sign on the lawn.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

At 27 years of age when athletes, the experts claim, have reached the peak of their potential, Bobby Hull, if he follows the golden trail of professional hockey, can reach the charmed circle of twenty-year stars.

Bobby has just completed his ninth year in the monied ranks and if my arithmetic is correct, he would be the youngest player to chalk up twenty years service at the age of 28.

Only three "senior citizens" of the National Hockey League wear the golden spurs of knights of the 20-year round table. These are Gordie Howe, Bill Gadsby and Dit Clapper.

Gadsby has announced his retirement and will seek a coaching job probably with the Detroit Red Wings, while the ageless Howe, like Ole Man River, still keeps rollin' along.

But Hull, the brightest comet to flash across the National Hockey horizon, may beat the injuries and other hazard roadblocks of the long trail, by hanging up his gear voluntarily.

He has been quoted as saying he will retire after three or four years more service and devote the rest of his life to his family and the lucrative "hobby" of raising pure-blooded beef cattle.

With an annual income from hockey and other sources reported to be in the six-figure mark, that seemed a bit fantastic to these ears. But after hearing Hull speak at the testimonial dinner given in his honor Thursday night — well I dunno.

I have heard Bobby speak at several functions like boy scout and minor sports dinners. The personal charm and ease of delivery was there, but Bobby usually spoke of his hockey experiences, gave advice to budding young Hulls, Howes, and Richards and wound up with a question-and-answer period.

Bobby's "address" the other night was a living breathing refutation of the once famous war-song, "Howya gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Paree".

I believe an American magazine writer penned a story he called "The Decline of Bobby Hull". He touched upon Bobby's love of the farm and cattle-raising He wrote about his devotion to his own family. His dwelt on the social activities during hockey season intermissions. He wrote his story from interviews with the Black Hawk star.

Those who heard Bobby talk the other night at his testimonial dinner left with no doubts about his strong attachment to his immediate family, his parents and brothers and sisters.

There was genuine happiness in his voice when he said "this is the first time the family has been together in four years".

There were no make-believe or histrionics in the good-natured banter Bobby exchanged with his family during the dinner.

His tributes to them especially to "Mom and Dad" were heartwarming and sincere. There was no feigning or play-acting in the obvious enjoyment he derived from relating anecdotes of his boyhood with his family and friends in Point Anne.

He left no doubt as the down-to-earth enjoyment he derives from living and working on "the farm" with his beloved Herefords during the summer "lay-off".

Bobby has reached the point of near-perfection in professional hockey. The image he has created puts him on a lone pedestal in comparison with such great stars as Gordie Howe and Rocket Richard.

Time will tell what Bobby will do with his future. But it is a safe bet that they'll have no trouble keeping him down on the farm after he has finished — or before — with the "Paree" of pro hockey.

Pickerel Prospect Dullish

TORONTO (CP)—The opening of the pickerel fishing season in most parts of Ontario this weekend finds prospects for all species reported only poor to fair across the province.

Twelve district offices of the department of lands and forests reported Friday that lakes in most of Northern Ontario remain ice-covered, with little prospect for success with pickerel and the fishing of speckled rainbow and lake trout poor to fair.

Another 10 districts reported all waters free of ice, but fishing prospects not too bright because of cold, windy weather.

Pickerel have finished spawning in southern Ontario. Spawning is continuing in the Parry Sound district and the fish have not yet moved to deep water from the spawning beds in the Sault Ste. Marie area.

Davenport Clicks In 17th' ★★★★★ Giants Win Marathon With Homer ★★★★★ 12 In Row

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco Giants were having a lot more trouble emptying Shea Stadium than they had filling it up. Even New York Mets fans were beginning to yawn.

Then Jim Davenport waved his magic wand, and everybody went home to bed.

The largest crowd of the season, 56,658, squirmed through the evening's longest game Friday night before Davenport's 17th-inning home run gave the Giants a 5-4 victory over New York and extended their winning streak to 12 games.

Willie Mays may have been directly responsible for the huge turnout, a single - game record for the Mets' park. Casey's eighth-inning homer was no more than a memory when Davenport finally decided the 4½-hour marathon.

Although slowed by a virus Friday night, the Giant outfielder entered the game in the seventh inning after shortstop Hal Lanier was lifted for a pinch hitter.

Then two out in the 17th, he slammed a Dave Eilers pitch over the left field fence, enabling the Giants to continue an unbeaten run that began April 29.

The victory also kept National League leaders 4½ games ahead of the second place Houston Astros, who slipped Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 on Jim Wynn's ninth inning homer. Wynn's double-play grounder of Dick Farrell and Claude Raymond.

The St. Louis Cardinals blanked Atlanta Braves 8-0 behind Al Jackson's six-hitter and Pittsburgh Pirates edged Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in other. National League games. Cincinnati's game with Chicago Cubs was rained out.

The Giants spotted New York a three-run lead before rallying for three in the seventh and tying Le score on Mays' 10th homer in the eighth.

Billy Murphy's first major league hit, a three-run homer, broke the fourth—but the Mets ahead 3-0. They added a run in the sixth on Ron Jones' triple and a wild pitch by Ron Herbel.

Tom Haller's two-run homer, a walk to Ollie Brown, Dick Landrum's single and a sacrifice fly by Cap Peterson pulled the Giants within range in the seventh.

Wynn's ninth inning homer, off Ron Perranoski, broke up a duel between Farrell, and Philadelphia's Chris Short.

Jackson drove in three runs with a double and sacrifice fly while Orlando and the Braves and Mike Shannon delivered two runs with a homer and single as the Cardinals won their second game in two starts at their new stadium.

Ron Brand, Clemente's trade and Jim Pagliaroni's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning lifted Pittsburgh past Los Angeles.

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Hunter, manager of Edmonton Oil Kings, can see the day coming when there will be a super junior hockey league stretching across Canada.

But Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, Ont., second vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, doesn't quite see it that way. To him it's a pipe dream.

Hunter, speaking at the Memorial Cup dinner Friday night, said the Oil Kings, currently tied with Oshawa Generals 2-2 in the best-of-seven final for the Canadian junior hockey championship, want to be part of a national junior circuit.

"I can see in to immediate future leaps from Halifax to Vancouver competing in a Canadian league," he said.

Pollock said after the dinner such a league was a pipe dream.

"Every area in Canada as a right to try to win the Memorial Cup," he said, "not just a few."

Pollock said the CAHA is on the verge of negotiating a new agreement with the National Hockey League "and until we determine how we're going to operate with the press, the idea of a super junior league is just not feasible."

IDEA NOT NEW

The idea isn't new. Frank Boucher, former NHL star, here is now commissioner of the Saskatchewan Junior League, has long advocated a super junior league embracing major cities in Western Canada.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and will try again. The Kings have represented Western Canada in the Memorial Cup final the last seven years, winning once, but do not play in a junior league in Alberta. They play in a senior league.

The Generals are members of the OHA Junior A.

Last week, a new junior league was proposed for the Atlantic provinces but one of the participating entries, Halifax Junior Canadiens, are reported interested in joining the OHA. Hamilton and Edmonton were to join the Ontario teams, some see it as a step towards a cross-Canada junior circuit.

Boucer's idea has been to have a western junior league winner play off for the Canadian title against the OHA champions. But the OHA is opposed to this plan because it excludes teams from Northern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. Boucher and OHA officials held discussions earlier this year but no action was taken.

CALGARY SIGNS HOWES

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference today announced the signing of Canadians Bob Howes, 22, and Ken Hays, 23. Howes comes to Stampeders from Queen's University, Kingston. He is an offensive centre and defensive end. Bray has played as a linebacker at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Fitness Council To Probe Hockey Setup

OTTAWA (CP)—A study of hockey in Canada and particularly the relationship between professional and amateur leagues, is being undertaken by a committee of the fitness council.

While a more general study may be in the works later, including public meetings across the country, the committee now is confining its probe to the agreement between the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the National Hockey League.

Committee chairman Bill L'Heureux, head of the physical education department of the University of Western Ontario, said results of the study probably will be made available to the public along with recommendations on how to solve any problems the committee may find.

The fitness council is a 30-member body appointed by the government to advise it on grants made to amateur sports and fitness groups.

Problems the committee will come to grips with include the labelling of professional, professional teams and the trouble the national amateur team has recruiting players to represent Canada at world events.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball star Willie Mays this told the U.S. government he is prepared to go $a court, rather than pay $14,712.21 in back income taxes the Internal Revenue Service claims he owes.

The San Francisco Giants' outfielder made his stand known in papers filed with the U.S. tax court, asking for a "redetermination of deficiencies" in his federal income tax payments for the years 1960 through 1964.

The internal revenue commissioner informed Mays of the alleged short payments in a notice dated Feb. 11, 1966. That notification, detailing the disallowance of various forms of travel and business expenses, showed a tax shortage totalling $16,229.78.

But Mays' lawyer, Vibert L. Kesler, Utah, said Mays will not dispute tax deficiency claims totalling $1,527.57.

Leafs, Hens Divide Twin Bell

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The temperature rose above 80 degrees Friday for the first time since Toronto Maple Leafs arrived at their home park more than a month ago and the faltering International League club responded by splitting a doubleheader with Toledo Mud Hens.

The seasonal temperature also brought out 3,430 fans as the Leafs lost their opener 5-0 before stopping the Hens 4-0 in the nightcap.

The Leafs had won only six games in 15 starts before Friday and their largest hometown crowd was less than 3,000.

Elsewhere Buffalo Bisons defeated Columbus Jets 13-4 after losing the first game of a doubleheader 5-0, Jacksonville Suns edged Syracuse Chiefs 6-5, and Rochester Red Wings defeated Richmond Braves 4-2.

SETS UNOFFICIAL RECORD

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Mario Andretti, 26, set an unofficial record of 167.411 miles an hour for the Indianapolis Speedway Friday during a practice run despite wet pavement. The Italian-born Andretti piloted his Brabham-Brawner rear engine Ford to a lap in 53.76 seconds.

Canada Faces Toughie

From Reuters-AP

PARIS (CP) — Canada faced the tough task of beating France in three consecutive tennis matches this weekend if it is to stay in the running for the Davis Cup.

The chances looked tiny on the basis of the opening day's play Friday in the France-Canada series, in which the French swept to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five matches with rather surprising ease.

The series against France is the second round for Canada, playing in the European zone for a chance instead of the American zone. Canada eliminated Finland 4-1 in the first round.

The Canadians and French tangle in the doubles match today, and play the two concluding singles matches Sunday. France needs to win only one of the three matches to gain the third round of European zone play.

Indians Shade Orioles In Eleven

Yankees Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam McDowell, who shuts himself in a room before pitching, soon may begin talking to himself.

Although he put on another stinger performance, Cleveland's ace left-hander wasn't around at the finish as the Indians edged Baltimore Orioles 4-3 in 11 innings Friday night.

McDowell, who has been 4-0 since pitching a second straight one-hitter two weeks ago, departed for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the eighth inning, trailing 2-1. He allowed the Orioles only four hits but walked six.

McDowell ruminates in his pre - game room because he doesn't like anyone to bother with him before a game.

"I don't want to relax I want to be nervous and scared," McDowell explains. "I deliberately work myself up. I go into a room and shut myself away."

In other American League games, Minnesota Twins defeated Washington Senators 8-3, California Angels beat Boston Red Sox 4-1, Detroit Tigers defeated Chicago White Sox 5-4 and New York Yankees trimmed Kansas City Athletics 4-3.

BLOW LEAD

Baltimore took a 2-2 lead in the top of the 11th on Brooks Robinson's run - scoring single, but the Indians came right back to tie the game. Singles by Chuck Hinton, Leon Wagner and Fred Whitfield brought in the first, and one out later Dick Hall intentionally walked Vic Davalillo, loading the bases.

Pedro Gonzalez grounded to Jerry Adair, and the second baseman fired the ball home trying to force Wagner. But the ball hit in the dirt for an error, and Wagner scored the winning run.

Tony Oliva powered the Twins past Washington, lashing four hits and driving in four runs. Washington's Fred Valentine had two hits, upping him 13 in his last 32 times at bat.

Schoolboy Team Sets Relay Mark

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Canadian school boy record by Hamilton Westdale Collegiate of 3:21.2 in the mile relay was set Friday in the Kennedy collegiate relays.

Westdale, which also captured the team championship with 21 1-3 points, broke its own mile relay mark by half-a-second.

The new mark was turned in on a slow track drenched by rain for the last two days.

Westdale's entry in the girls' 440-yard relay also won in the record breaking time of 51.8 seconds, knocking ½ second off the present Canadian record.

Ruth Fisk, Delcie Hutton, Rhona Bulger and Gail Szalak were Westdale team members.

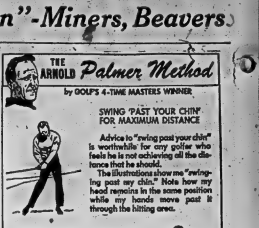
One Must Be Wrong

"We'll Win"-Miners, Beavers

CALGARY (CP)—Roy Kelly, coach of Drumheller Miners, is the last man who would argue with success.

The Miners scored a 5-0 victory over Sherbrooke Beavers in the fourth game of the Allan Cup senior hockey finals Thursday night to tie the best-of-seven series 2-2. Fifth game is set under way here tonight.

Drumheller won the opener 6-3 but dropped the next two matches 4-1 and 2-1.



After the impressive 5-0 win, Kelly said Friday he plans no lineup changes for the fifth game.

"I'll go with the same club Saturday as I used Thursday, and we'll play the same style of hockey," he said. "We're ready and we're hungry."

After Tuesday's game, in which the Miners outplayed the defending champions, but could not beat goaltender Serge Aubry, Kelly was heard to say "I'm convinced we're the better club."

Thursday, he got the western champions moving in the same fashion as in the opener and they outshot the ex-Ingersoll Beaver squad in posting the shutout.

Georges Roy, coach of the Sherbrooke squad, was not available for comment Friday, but said after the game: "We'll win this series. It may not be in five games or even six but even if it goes the limit we'll take the trophy back home.

Stroke Up On Nicklaus

Goalby Leads; Palmer Hurt

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Bob Goalby is aiming for his first victory on golf's tournament trail in six years, but his mastery of the Lakewood Country Club course has been overshadowed by Arnold Palmer's misfortune.

Goalby carved out a three-under par 69 Friday to take sole possession of first place after 36 holes of the $100,000 Greater New Orleans open golf tourney.

Coupled with his three-round 68, it gave him a 137 and put him one stroke ahead of Jack Nicklaus.

But the big mystery for today's third round was whether Palmer would show up. He wrenched his back on his fifth hole Friday and limped home with a one-under par 71 for a 36-hole total of 142.

Palmer was rushed to a doctor, underwent treatment and received a narcotic to ease the pain. Later he reported by telephone: "I'm getting stiffer and stiffer."

Bob Rosburg of Toronto, the only Canadian entrant, Friday slipped to 80 after an opening-round 70 and missed the cutoff with his 158.

The field was cut to the low 70 and ties—88 actually—for the last two rounds. It was the largest group to survive the 36-hole cut this year.

Pearson Lauds Nationals

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson told members of Canada's national hockey team Friday they had represented their country well in the 1966 world hockey championships.

He likened to every game on radio, the prime minister told a luncheon honoring the team. "I was very proud of the way the men conducted themselves under difficult circumstances," he said. "They were a great credit to their country."

Many Canadians don't realize how important international sports have become, Pearson said. Doing well in world competitions now has become important to a country's prestige.

"We must wake up to the fact that our national teams should have the whole nation behind them."

Team captain Terry O'Malley said it was "an honor and a challenge" for players to play for their country. The team was determined to bring world honors to Canada.

The high - average Trenton bowler averaged 238.5 for her ten games. Mary Smith won in 1956 with a 220.3 average and last year with a big 243.5 mark.

In second place, after last night, is a well known Belleville keglер, Peg Rosaky with a 225.8 mark. She had the only 300 - plus games last night, with 316 and 333.

American Hockey League

Rochester Wins Calder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rochester Americans have their second straight Calder Cup championship today, and much of the credit can go to goalie Bob Perreault.

During the best - of - seven American Hockey League final series, won by Rochester 4-2, Perreault allowed Cleveland Barons for 143 minutes and 25 seconds, which figures to be more than seven periods of hockey.

Perreault blanked the Barons in the first and third periods of the sixth game Friday night while his teammates scored three goals for a 3-2 victory.

The Americans did all their scoring in the first period, with goals by Brian Conacher, Larry Jeffrey and Jim Pappin. Conacher connected first while the Barons were a man short, and the other two goals were two minutes apart.

The Barons went to work in the second period, getting goals by Howie Glover and Keith McCreary before Perreault closed the door.

He blocked out nine shots in the third period as the Barons mounted a strong offensive game.

People Confuse Comedy Partners, Rowan, Martin

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rowan smokes cigarettes, Martin chews swizzle sticks.

Martin says he took "like a small-town bank embezzler hot on his way to Buenos Aires."

"He answers to Dan and I to Dick," says Dan Rowan.

To add to the confusion, Rowan and Martin are this summer's replacement on NBC television starting June 16 for the other Martin-Dean. there may be further puzzlement in California and Nevada, where Rowan and Martin will be appearing simultaneously in night clubs. Their television shows are prolonged.

This, then, is a handy guide to Rowan and Martin — or, which is who.

Green - eyed Dan Rowan, handsome and substantial-looking, says that in their act "I'm the authority, settled, steady, sober, reasonable, square, indignant at the life he leads."

WANTS TO BE 'WHEE!'

Dick, who has a Peck's-bad-boy look and brown hair: "I play the vague, inept lecher, chasing girls, wanting to be wheel All through Rie."

Each is 42, a Los Angeles resident and an ex-writer, Dan for Paramount, etc., Dick for Luz Radio Theatre, etc. Rowan and his wife have three children; Martin is single.

They teamed as performers after they met a mutual friend introduced them 13 years ago and have been busy in night clubs and television ever since.

They improvise much material onstage. "Our minds seem to work tandem," said Rowan. "Often we get the same idea at the same time."

Do they associate between appearances? "We play golf now and then," said Dick.

I think it was Dick. Maybe it was Dan.

QUESTIONS BARRIERS

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Japan's domestic market for manufactured goods now is large enough that it is doubtful whether that country needs to keep its "highly protective barriers to trade," Finance Minister Sharp said Friday night. Mr. Sharp, speaking to a banquet, said these barriers are one reason Canada has not developed exports of manufactured products to Japan.

Historical Society Lists New Officers

NAPANEE — President of the Lennox and Addington County Historical Society since 1953, Judge G. F. Smith was again returned to office at the annual meeting last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Norman Hutchison is again first vice - president and R. Bruce Aikenhead was re - elected second vice - president.

James Earle was returned as secretary, and Mrs. G. F. Smith as corresponding secretary.

Treasurer is once more Miss Betty Smith, with Mrs. David Smith treasurer of the special fund for reconstruction of the MacPherson House

Raymond Preiss, W. Stuart Eadon, Mrs. W. H. Dutcsit, Miss Anne Turner and Cummings comprise the directors.

The annual business meeting preceded a panel discussion with Earl Morrison as moderator, and was followed by refreshments.

The meeting was one of the largest and most enthusiastic ever held by the Society. The auditorium of the Memorial Building was well filled.

Cancer Society Campaign Successful

NAPANEE — W. W. Creswick, co-chairman of the campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society, reports that over $1,250 has been turned in from Napanee and the immediate vicinity, Mrs. R. E. Dale, chairman, and her captains and canvassers, did a wonderful job; he says.

Returns for the county are not complete. Funds collected have not yet been received from Amherst Island or from the Junior Farmers, who canvassed the rural areas.

Mrs. Max Lash of Deseronto, chairman of the Cancer Campaign for Deseronto and the area, and her co-chairman, Mrs. George Reid of Shannonville, are pleased with the success of the campaign, and are grateful for the enthusiasm shown by the people and by their canvassers, and — to the contributors for their generosity.

The campaign is finished and final returns are in. A total of $1,250 was collected with Deseronto, Empey Hill, Kingford and Lonsdale residents contributing $1,000. Alex Reid and her helpers collected a total of $225 from Shannonville and the vicinity while Ireland netted $110 contributed to the four canvassers on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve.

U.C.W. Meetings

DESERONTO U.C.W.

DESERONTO — Mrs. Francis Transue was the hostess when the regular evening for the members and several guests who attended the U.C.W. meeting, with the guest leader, Mrs. Gladys Gould, in charge of proceedings. Mrs. William Schell was assisted by Mrs. Howard Vanvlack and Mrs. Ada Boyce in the devotional period. They took with the place of the church, and especially of its women, in education and in social life in today's changing world.

During the business period plans were completed for the strawberry social which will be held in June.

Mrs. Gould gave a report on the U.C.W. Presbyterial in Belleville, where each council was assigned a topic on the writing of the history a Centennial project. A letter from Mrs. Russell Finley, who could not attend, gave the highlights of the Picton conference.

It was decided to hold a joint meeting of all units in September, with a special speaker. It would follow a potluck supper.

Deseronto School Board Plans Added Classrooms

DESERONTO—Concern was expressed at the Public School Board meeting this week, that the addition to the school would not be ready in time for classes in September. Two class rooms, one for an opportunity class, are necessary, with two additional ones next year.

The chairman, W. J. Spence, was authorized to take whatever steps he thought best to speed up matters. Mr. Spence has since met with Paul Anderson, inspector of public schools, and Mr. Anderson assured him that the Board would be able to call for tenders in June.

Preliminary drawings are in the hands of the Department of Education, will be approved shortly and working drawings are now being prepared by the architects, Sorensen, Thompson, LaFramboise, and Mallette of Kingston, who realize the necessity of speed. Temporary classrooms may be necessary for about six weeks, but the inspector believes this can be overcome. Every alternative would be to have shift classes for that time.

At the above meeting with the inspector, applications for the position of principal were gone over, and the applicants will be interviewed Saturday.

CHECK EQUIPMENT

At the regular meeting the Public Utilities Committee of the Board was directed to have a full inventory made of all equipment and furnishings held in the public school and in the former high school, which is now public school property. No inventory has been made since 1958 and there is confusion regarding equipment which is missing. It has probably been worn out and discarded, but there are no records to show this. No new equipment on hand, although at one time there were two. Last year when there was a problem a janitor a man was hired to use his own mower. Now that there is a full-time janitor, the Board authorized the purchase of a power mower, to cost no more than $100. One has since been obtained.

Authority was given to purchase a typewriter, to cost no more than $377, and an adding machine, at not more than $160.

Peter Morris, local insurance agent, attended the meeting to bring the Board information regarding the liability insurance carried by it. On his advice, the secretary was instructed to obtain information from the Workmen's Compensation Board regarding liability to its employees.

The Board wishes clarification of the regulations for Public School property and has placed the matter in the hands of its solicitor, K. G. M. Ross of Belleville. It will be necessary to go back to the deed of the Sommers estate. There is some question regarding the legality of the present fences.

James McVicker, a new trustee, attended the meeting. He had been appointed by the Board at its previous meeting to take the place of William Sarjeit, who had resigned on moving to the Belleville area.

Swimming Instruction Arranged

NAPANEE — Meeting Wednesday evening, the Lennox and Addington Swimming and Water Safety Committee decided to add two new classes to the ones which it has given in previous summers.

Children who are at least in grade one at school, and who will be seven years old by December 31, will be allowed to take the classes.

A second class will be given for those who are physically fit leaders. As a rule such classes are crowded into a short period during the Easter holidays, but as no pool was available this year, the classes will be given this summer instead. It is considered to be a better arrangement, as the Easter course is so exhausting. To qualify for the leader's course, the boy or girl must be at least 13 and must have passed the tests for the senior Red Cross swimmer's course.

Tenders will be called for busing to transport the children to the swimming areas. During July this will be on the John Parker farm off the Bay of Quinte, and during August, in Lake Ontario, at Bath, and at Beaver Lake.

A special committee to examine applications for swimming instructors for this year met after the regular meeting. Nine instructors were chosen, but their names are not yet available. Members of the special committee are Grant Clark, Mrs. Wesley Babcock, Mrs. E. Hooper, all of Napanee, and Mrs. Donald Chown, of Bath. Erle Poulsen is the chief instructor.

Ann Landers
Told to Clean Up Room Boy, 16, Kicks Mother

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a feeling I am on the verge of insanity. I have two major problems. First, a 15-year-old infant son who is 6 feet tall and weighs 218 pounds. The second problem is a 60-year-old moron — my husband.

Last evening I told my son not to plead straighten up his room. (It was beginning to look like a garbage dump.) He started to jump up and down like a three-year-old child and yelled "I won't. And you can't make me!" Then he turned around and kicked me in the leg.

I was shocked. When I finally recovered my wits I really gave him a piece of my mind. My husband heard me, came into the room and ANN LANDERS shouted, "Shut up, you bitch!" I told him the "child" is twice as big as I am and I'm sick of his laziness. My husband says I expect too much of the boy and this is why he is rebellious.

I'd like your opinion. — SCRANTON.

DEAR SCRAN: What a peachy-keen start for a thoroughly messed up life. A 15-year-old boy who kicks his mother and is then defended by his father needs plenty of help — and fast. Talk to your doctor about counselling for both babies.

DEAR ANN: I need advice on how to break my husband of the habit of throwing his clothes all over the house.

Tom was a bachelor (age 35) when I married him. I thought I knew him very well but I guess this is one thing you never know about a man unless you live with him.

Last week I tried an experiment. For six days I left his clothes wherever he dropped them. On the seventh day I counted four pairs of trousers, six shirts, six pairs of shorts and three bath towels. This does not include the stuff hanging on door knobs or thrown behind the bathroom door.

Tom and I read your column every day so please print the reply in the newspapers! P.S.: I adore your answers. — CHAMBERMATRON.

DEAR CHAMBER: This one answer you won't adore because I'm going to tell you to forget it.

He takes less energy to pick up after a man than it does to try to get him to change a life-long habit.

If you have some children in the house they belong and they can pick up after themselves so their wives won't have to write to Ann Landers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How does one go about telling good friends that their young son steals?

Every time this couple comes to our home and bring the boy something to play with one day recently I had left some small change on the kitchen window sill. I know the boy took it because I saw the change when I was preparing the lemonade. The boy entered the kitchen as soon as I left. I returned five minutes later and sure enough — the money was gone. Please advise. — R.B.

DEAR R.B.: You haven't told me how old the boy is and this is important. If he is seven or older, have a private talk with him and give him another chance. If he continues to take things, you must inform his parents because he needs professional help. If he is under seven, tell his parents at once and suggest counselling.

Madoc

RE-ORGANIZATION OF CHAMBER IS COMPLETE

MADOC — At a recent meeting in the town hall, 30 interested businessmen discussed the re-organization of the local Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Al. Loreman of Marmora, a former president of Commerce director outlined the history, purpose and objectives of having an active Chamber.

After considerable discussion the following committees of Tom Burnside, Jim Kellar and Larry Slickwood was appointed to form a slate of officers or a list of ten directors at a meeting to be held in the town hall May 19.

Holy Baptism was held in St. John the Baptist Anglican Church Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. H. Thompson conducted service with Mr. Leonard Ward assisting. The following children were baptized: Scott Edward Pigden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pigden; Carol Lee Whiteman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ann Whiteman, Christopher James Earl Whiteman, daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Whiteman; Brenda Lee Cleveland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cleveland and Brenda Lee Masters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Masters.

Children who will be starting school in Madoc Township Public School in Grade 1 are requested to register at the school on Saturday, May 14th from 2 to 4 p.m. Children who are six years by Dec. 31, 1966 are eligible to start. Parents are asked to bring proof of age.

Ameliasburgh Twp. Stands on Threshold of New Prosperity Summer Home Area Planned

AMELIASBURGH — With one large summer home development already well established and another undertaking of a similar nature under serious consideration by a Toronto group of financiers the township stands on the threshold of new prosperity and growth as a recognized resort area.

The one venture, in its second year of development, has been designed to generate more than $1,000,000 in building material specials and construction wages according to veteran developer, R. S. Hiscock, who came out of retirement to personally direct work on his latest endeavor. The plan of subdivision for this undertaking calls for 145 summer residences with a minimum floor area of 600 square feet in accordance with the recommendation in the township's proposed zoning bylaw. The developer's regulations determine that each home will be serviced by a septic tank installation and drilled well. Lot sizes range from 40,000 to 80,000 square feet in area on 100-foot frontage.

Interviewed on Wednesday Mr. Hiscock said he does not intend offering any lots for sale for at least another two months. Among items he listed to be completed before then was the application of a top coat of gravel on the main road, spreading hundreds of tons of top soil and planting great numbers of trees. He said he has had to turn away interested people anxious to acquire property before the home building season starts. He revealed that one persistent doctor friend of his was finally talked into waiting.

Meanwhile big waterfront deals are becoming a regular occurrence in the township. And the recent acquisition of the Cecil Blakely farm with one-and-one-half miles of frontage on Weller's bay just north of Consecon is no exception. This portion of the township's extreme southwest boundary parallels one section of highway 33's beautiful scenic route through Prince Edward county.

The Blakely farm comprises 218 acres of cleared and tillable land all suitable for building summer houses and permanent homes. It lies five miles north of the provincial government's North Bay Park and southbound traffic to the park passes along highway 33 which cuts through the property. While the owner did not disclose the price he received for his land and buildings it is understood the purchasers paid an amount considered higher than average asked for farm property in the area.

One of the new owners R. G. Hobbs of Willowdale visited the Blakely farm on Wednesday and before returning to the city sought information from various people in the district. He said he was making a preliminary survey for the group deciding on a course of action. He indicated several ideas put forth so far have merit and all of them require careful study. "When we make up our minds, probably within the next few weeks the information will be made available to your newspaper," he said.

CONTINUE SHORELINE

The Hiscock development including Sugar Point and Smoke's Point is taking place on a continuation of the Weller's Bay shoreline further west. It was originally the Roden Church farm comprising 144 acres.

To date the developer has spent $80,000 on the two-and-one-half miles of waterfront. He expects the basic preparation will cost him $75 a lot again before its finished.

Until he retired in the early fall developer Hiscock had been engaged in building houses for 28 years. In that time he built some 1,200 homes and two shopping centres in the city of Toronto.

However, when city people increased their demands for summer places in the country and the situation was brought to his attention he began thinking about becoming active again and started looking around for a suitable location within convenient driving distance of Toronto. Even after he moved to Florida he kept the idea in mind and continued to take enquiries about property that would serve his purpose whenever he returned to Canada to visit friends in Prince Edward County.

Some two years later he found the site he wanted and then it took him another two years to negotiate the purchase from the executors of the Methodist Church estate in Cleveland, Ohio.

This week Mr. Hiscock reported that progress on the site so far includes the construction of a permanent all-weather road well back from the water's edge the entire length of the shoreline.

Building the 24-foot wide road he pointed out involved the gigantic task of moving tons of thousands of tons of crushed rock by truck and compressing the material in place with a 25-ton dever pulled behind a giant caterpillar tractor. The depth of the till that averages better than three feet throughout had to be increased to eight feet in building a causeway across a low stretch. The heavy equipment employed in this phase of the development has been rented from the Belleville-based Lightfoot construction company. The same firm's dragline equipment was used to deepen and clear obstructions along the waterfront. In some places the contour of the shoreline had to be changed to comply with the master plan. Mr. Hiscock estimates his costs will run to $150,000 before he is ready to make commitments.

Presently the developer is advertising for carpenters and associate tradesmen experienced in house building. He is starting construction on a residence for himself although he expects to live in it only five months of the year, and will also build a boathouse for his cruiser.

Construction on a 300-foot long marina is to follow Mr. Hiscock said disclosing that it was her intention to build a general store in the complex later on for servicing the development and the whole area.

Successful Living

Hostess Embarrassed By Reference to Work

DEAR DORIS: I'd love to have your comments on this. My husband and I have had a lovely winter by inviting a few couples in one evening each weekend, perhaps only three or four couples, and I have noticed that each evening as our guests leave they always make me cross by commenting on the amount of trouble I've gone to. It goes something like this:

DORIS CLARE

"Oh, I'd have come out and helped you had I known you were going to all this trouble."

"It's just been lovely, but you really shouldn't have fussed so."

This irritates me, I immediately come to my own defence saying, "Oh, it was no trouble at all; I had everything prepared ahead of time." But I just hate being put on the spot like this. Am I supposed to be pleased or what? I'm only angry and feel embarrassed.

I've served a patty shell, hot rolls, a bit of lettuce and tomato on the one plate; a meringue with unfrozen strawberries and whipped cream for dessert. I don't call that fussing! — NOT FUSSY.

DEAR NOT: Invite me — sometime when I'm not counting calories. I'll say: "Thank you, N.F., for a grand time; especially the food!"

But your friends are not being critical; they are paying a left-handed compliment — and perhaps unconsciously wishing they could have fussed with as good results. Just say, "Glad you liked it," and really appreciate their appreciation.

DEAR DORIS: My husband served four years in the Canadian army during World War Two and was discharged with the rank of colonel. I am very proud of his war service and would as lief have my rank on our daughter's wedding invitations, but only if it is correct to do so.

He has been in civilian life for many years. — PROTOCOL.

DEAR COLONEL'S LADY: The kernel of the matter is that he has seen active service. Your colonel retains his title in civilian life. Put it on.

NEW FEDERAL PRICE SUPPORT BENEFITS ALL MILK PRODUCERS

AVERAGE RETURN $4.00 PER HUNDRED

The new Federal Government policy of price support and direct payments will give all dairy farmers increased returns for their milk, whether they ship manufacturing milk, fluid milk or cream. The new policy is designed to bring economic stability to the dairy industry and prevent runaway consumer price increases by ensuring adequate supplies of dairy products.

HOW IT WORKS FOR THE FARMER

A. The Federal Government will pay the farmer 75c for each hundredweight of manufacturing milk with a 3.5% butterfat content. Another 10c will be put in reserve to assist the export of by-products and surpluses.

B. The Federal Government, and direct purchases of will create a demand to pay $3.25 per hundredweight milk with a 3.5% butterfat content. However, the government has no authority to set through export assistance such products as butter, which will enable processors of manufacturing butterfat content. government has the prices processors pay producers. It is in your own interest to negotiate the best possible price for your milk through your farm organization.

METHOD OF PAYMENT

MANUFACTURING MILK SHIPPERS: You will receive a direct payment from the Federal Government of 75 cents per hundredweight on all milk. Your payment will be made monthly by cheque from Ottawa.

FLUID MILK PRODUCERS: You will receive 75 cents a hundredweight on all milk over 120 per cent of the amount for which you receive fluid prices. For instance, if your dairy pays you fluid prices on 10,000 pounds in a certain month, you will receive the government payment on all milk over 12,000 pounds. Cheques will be mailed once a month from Ottawa directly to you.

CREAM PRODUCERS: You will receive 21.43 cents per pound of butterfat (the equivalent of 75 cents per hundredweight of milk with a 3.5% butterfat content). Because time is required to complete the registration of producers and to set up a reporting system, your cheques will go out from Ottawa every three months.

NOTE:

Because the fat content of milk varies, the 75 cent direct payment is based on a standard 3.5 per cent butterfat content in milk. This works out to 21.43 cents per pound of butterfat. If your milk tests 4 per cent, then your payment will be four times 21.43 or about 85 cents per hundredweight. On the other hand if your milk tests 3% then your payment will be three times 21.43 or about 64 cents per hundredweight.

REMEMBER TO REGISTER

Milk producers must be registered with the Agricultural Stabilization Board in Ottawa and be assigned a registration number. Manufacturing milk and cream shippers who participated in last year's supplementary payment program already have a registration number and do not need to register again. But fluid milk producers are not registered; they should do so as soon as possible. To register, get the proper form from your dairy, manufacturing plant, cheese factory, or creamery. Fill it out and send it off to Ottawa. If you ship to more than one plant, you do not need to register twice but you must inform all outlets of your registration number so they can relay the information to Ottawa. Remember it will be impossible to participate in the program if you are not registered.

Ky Controls Da Nang; Hue Arms

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky fired the military commander of the rebellious northern provinces of South Viet Nam today, but insurgent forces moved up tanks and artillery in the old Buddhist stronghold of Hue for a stand against the government.

Five persons were reported killed in the government's sudden move on Da Nang Sunday.

Tension eased somewhat in Da Nang during the morning but the rebels held onto some positions. A U.S. 300 man marine troops and several hundred civilians milled around the Tinh Hoi pagoda.

Two civilians and two soldiers of the Da Nang garrison were killed in fighting for the Da Nang radio station Sunday. Two other soldiers and 12 civilians were reported wounded.

On the home front, a government official said one marine was killed and five were wounded.

Fighting near the radio station lasted about an hour before the government troops moved to the Tinh Hoi pagoda where the marines sent their tanks forward.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration, apparently surprised by the Ky regime's new crackdown against the Buddhists, has urged U.S. officials in South Viet Nam "to make every effort" to help South Vietnamese leaders resolve their differences.

Officials said Sunday they did not have advance knowledge of the crackdown and no American units were involved.

Ky's second move in sending troops against Buddhist dissidents at Da Nang in the north prompted a near-crisis atmosphere in Washington Sunday.

President Johnson called in State Secretary Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Saigon Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for a mid-afternoon meeting. The president then flew to his retreat at Camp David, Md., for an overnight stay.

The United States apparently is adopting a hands-off attitude in the new crisis.

Military sources said all U.S. installations in the Da Nang area had gone on full alert and had reinforced their perimeters.

The sources said the new political outbreak in South Viet Nam could have serious military consequences because it comes in the face of the Viet Cong buildup aimed at a new monsoon offensive.

The sources indicated the gravest possibility is that South Viet Nam's military forces might become tangled in a civil war, opening the door for the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese to launch wide-ranging attacks and make extensive gains.

Sources here acknowledged that current internal troubles are bound to hurt operations against Communist troops in the 1st Corps area, and point out that the pace against the Viet Cong already has slowed down because of the troubles that spilled over into early April.

Buddhists Face Tanks, Force Talks

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — Four government tanks were moving on a Da Nang pagoda today ground to a halt before a barrage of yelling Buddhists, including saffron-robed monks and young girls, it said.

For 80 minutes the Buddhists faced the carbines and machine-guns of the government marines before spokesmen for the two sides negotiated the return of 14 marines held by the Buddhists.

The government forces claimed the marines were captured by Buddhist-backed rebel troops in fighting Sunday in northern Da Nang to government control.

The Buddhists claimed the marines defected to the rebel side on learning that they had been flown to Da Nang to fight their fellow-countrymen.

The peaceful trial of strength followed the funeral of one of 10 persons reported killed in Sunday's street fighting in this northern garrison city.

Michigan UFO Real Is Claim

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — The civil defence director of Hillsdale County issued a report today disagreeing with U.S. Air Force explanations of an unidentified flying object reported in the county.

William Van Horn, completing what he said was a seven-week investigation, said he first was skeptical but now "I am firmly convinced that the UFO is down exist." He attacked an Air force astrophysicist's conclusion on the sighting March 21.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, an air force scientific consultant on unidentified flying objects, looked into reported sightings in Michigan in March.

Hynek said then the sighting at Hillsdale "could have been due to the release of variable quantities of marsh gas" which could produce lights that might be mistaken for objects in the sky.

Hynek said today the swamp gas hypothesis still "seems to be the most logical conclusion." He noted Van Horn's report was based largely on data accumulated by Van Horn and by two teen-agers.

Hynek said "both Van Horn and particularly the youngsters are to be complimented for pursuing this." But he said they were unwise in not getting cor-

Britain's Gambling Fever Spreads at Alarming Rate

LONDON (AP) — Britain's gambling fever is still spreading and it's time to do something to curb it, the churches' council on gambling said today.

The council, an interdenominational group which keeps an eye on gaming and its effects of society, estimated gambling was a £915,000,000 ($2,745,000,000) business in Britain last year—an increase of £815,000,000 ($2,745,000,000) business in Britain last year—an increase of £815,000,000 ($2,745,000,000) compared with a decade ago.

"Gambling offers excitement, but as an addictive social habit it is a dangerous thing on which to depend. . . ."

The council said Britain has opened doors to permit commercial exploitation of gambling, and has done this not because it is to appease reckless as many visitors from overseas.

Although a few Britons stumbled in crooked gaming houses were forbidden in Britain from 1845 until the law was relaxed in 1960.

The council reported its assertion of last year that the law should be amended so that its original intentions are carried into effect.

The 1960 parliamentary act was designed to make gaming lawful while preventing anyone from making a profit by encouraging others to play for high stakes.

The council, which sprang from a special committee formed in the 1920s to study effects of gambling, is comprised of representatives from the Church of England, the Church of Scotland, Methodist, Congregationalist, Presbyterians, Baptists, Unitarians, Quakers and the Salvation Army. It says it does not necessarily speak officially for each of its member churches.

The report decried the increase in off-track betting offices throughout England and the widespread playing of bingo which, it said, for some people is the only way of filling a huge vacuum in their lives.

300 British Ships Rock Crewless as Seamen Walk Off

LONDON (CP) — Some 300 British ships rocked crewless in their berths today as 65,000 merchant seamen launched a strike which could hit the country's crucial export drive and bring food shortages.

Seamen walked off their ships in ports all over Britain at midnight Sunday, and their strike promised to leave 2,500 ships idle within a few weeks.

The walkout, expected to last at least three weeks, came after weeks of abortive meetings between government ministers, shipowners and the National Union of Seamen to settle the seamen's claim for more money and better working conditions.

The seamen want an immediate reduction from a 56-hour week to a 40-hour week, with no loss in their basic wages of £14 ($42).

Union leaders said they can stay out for up to three months. They ignored a last-minute personal warning from Prime Minister Wilson that the stoppage would harm the nation's crucial export drive.

DIRECT OFFER

The seamen rejected the employers' offer to cut the 56-hour week in three yearly steps.

Wilson, beset with the crisis less than three months after his sweeping election victory, viewed emergency plans to deal with the walkout.

In a broadcast tonight, Wilson is expected to warn Britons against panic buying and hoarding of food.

Today 52 British ships were distressboard in the 200 - berth port of London which handles about 20 per cent of the nation's $10,000,000,000 - a - year seaborne trade.

More than 200 other vessels were sidelined in other major ports—Southampton, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Cardiff and Hull.

The rest of Britain's merchant fleet is expected to be immobilized at the rate of about 300 a week as the ships dock in British ports.

EXPECTS CHAOS

"We are facing a creeping chaos," said a London port official.

Cunard's Queen Elizabeth — the world's biggest liner—will be deserted by its 800 crew when it docks at Southampton today.

Fate of 262 On Ship Unknown

MANILA (AP)—Typhoon Irma drove a 170-foot Filipino ship aground off Cebu Island today and a radio blackout obscured the fate of 262 persons aboard. The last message from the vessel said the situation was critical.

The typhoon's 80-mile-an-hour winds kicked up giant seas that lashed the 980-ton inter-island steamer Pioneer Cebu. The centre of the typhoon was almost directly over the ship.

"We have not had any radio contact since mid-afternoon and we have no hope of getting any help to the area before tomorrow morning," a rescue official said. Rescue ships were standing by in nearby ports.

Port officials in Manila said the ship left Sunday night on the trip to Cebu with a crew of 34 and 208 passengers, including 46 children.

A radio operator at the Philippine President Lines offices in Manila said the ship went aground on a reef off the northern tip of Cebu.

Supply Debate Still On

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, angered about release of a summary of an RCMP file on the Gerda Munsinger case, got another opportunity today to move a non-confidence motion against the government.

The occasion is the third supply debate of this session. Defeat of the supply motion would mean defeat of the minority Liberal government and, probably, a general election.

There has been no indication what subject the Opposition will choose for the non-confidence motion, but Mr. Diefenbaker has indicated he is fighting mad about the decision of Mr. Justice Spence to release the summary of the file.

"It's simply a travesty and slander," he said a Winnipeg press conference Thursday with reporters' remarks of ernest McCarthyism."

Mr. Diefenbaker Friday conferred with C. F. H. Carson and C. I. Dubis, the lawyers representing him at the Munsinger inquiry. The inquiry is to resume open hearings Wednesday.

Two weeks ago the government survived a non-confidence vote on the same subject by 128 to 106.

That motion said:

"This house strongly deplores and condemns this government's actions in having the RCM Police provide information to the government as to the past conduct of all members of Parliament generally—a course of action which would destroy the independence of all members and undermine the institution of Parliament."

In the debate Mr. Diefenbaker made suggestions about "Pearson's political police", and the prime minister strongly denied charges in the motion.

The Munsinger inquiry was set up after Justice Minister Cardin charged Mr. Diefenbaker when he was prime minister mishandled a sex-and-security case that involved two or more of his ministers.

Mansfield Proposes Cut In U.S. European Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Mike Mansfield proposed today that the United States withdraw all but a token force from Europe as part of the realignment of North Atlantic treaty defences.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, said in an interview he hopes the Johnson administration will recognize the change in status in Europe and seek some compromise with President de Gaulle in France's scheduled exit July 1 from NATO.

Out of such negotiations, the Montana senator said, could come a sizeable reduction in the six American divisions and supporting forces now in Europe.

"In view of the economic rehabilitation of Western Europe and the reduced threat of Russian aggression, I believe it is time for us to look at the European nations themselves take on the primary military and financial responsibilities for their defence," he said.

In another development, Senator Frank Church said he expects the Senate foreign relations committee to hold public hearings soon on U.S. policies in Europe.

The Idaho Democrat, who recently completed a two-week tour of Europe, said Sunday on the NBC television-radio program Meet The Press, these policies need updating.

Church said, the United States must cement the allegiance of the 14 NATO members besides France.

Washington discussions on NATO step up this week with George Thomson, Britain's minister of European and NATO affairs, due to see State Secretary Dean Rusk and other high officials today and Tuesday.

Meanwhile, U.S. strategists were reported seeking stronger ties and unity among the 14 NATO members in advance of the NATO ministerial meeting to be held in Brussels June 23.

The United States is reported to have made three moves toward this unity:

—It has told its allies it is in favor of moving both the political and military headquarters of NATO from Paris to Brussels.

—It has agreed to expand the present U.S. - British - French standing group that guides NATO's military activities to a six-nation membership composed of the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy and two rotating countries.

—It is willing to support a German officer as commander of allied forces in Central Europe—a position now held by a French official.

Rusk has made clear Johnson administration hopes to reorganize Europe's defences without France, if that becomes necessary.

Astronauts Make Final Preparations for Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — Healthy and eager on the eve of a bold space adventure, Gemini 9's two astronauts bored up on intricate details of their complex assignment today as launch preparations sailed along without a hitch.

Air force Lt.-Col. Thomas Stafford and navy Lt.-Cmdr. Eugene Cernan have "the toughest job ever handed an astronaut crew," one official said.

Only the weather cast a glimmer of doubt about a 12:39 p.m. EDT launch of Gemini 9, an hour and 20 minutes after the scheduled lifted of its Agena target rocket Tuesday.

Weather observers eyed a weak "east wave" in the Atlantic, creeping toward the area 175 miles offsoutheast of Bermuda where the recovery aircraft carrier Wasp will be stationed in event of an abort.

In three action-packed days—70 hours and 40 minutes—the Gemini 9 crew plans to catch and latch on to an Agena rocket in the quickest rendezvous ever in space, conduct man's longest orbital walk, and try tricky rendezvous exercises vital to efforts to send men to the moon.

Stafford, 35-year-old native of Oklahoma, is fresh from the pilot's seat of Gemini 6, the hunter craft that rendezvoused with Gemini 7 last December. Cernan, a 32-year-old Chicago native who never has taken a space flight has been handed the world's longest space walk —2½ hours—during which he'll become a human satellite

The Belleville Federation of Musicians formally received its charter yesterday at a large dinner meeting at the Sub Valley Motor Hotel. The new organization is now Local 357, American Federation of Musicians, United States and Canada.

J. Alan Woods, International Executive Officer, A. F. of M. Local 149, Toronto, presented the charter to Local 357 president, Douglas Aselstine and the guests were welcomed to the city by mayor Jack Ellis.

On behalf of President Kenin, the International Executive Board and all Canadian locals, Mr. Woods said, "I take pleasure in presenting this charter to the Belleville Federation of Musicians, Local 357, "I Alan of M., of U.S. and Canada."

Mr. Woods congratulated them on their rapid membership growth, from six to 74 musicians in just over a year, and wished them continued success.

Andrew E. Thompson, International Representative, New York, said, "True musicians by nature are a disciplined group of people, completely dedicated to their art. Many times to their own disadvantage.

"For them, Local 357 will provide an organization that will serve both the interests of the art and the artist in equal measure.

"While the condition of live music on the North American continent is not particularly healthy, if it is to survive and eventually flourish, and I am confident it will, it will be through the efforts of the A.F. of M. and its locals such as the one we honor here today.

WILL NOT BREAK FAITH

"The A.F and M. has always felt there should be a close rapport and friendly relationship between ourselves and those who employ our members. An agreement between two parties is only as good as both parties make it, and, as the records will show, our locals do rule against and discipline any members whenever they have broken faith and have been guilty of unfair dealings with an employer.

"Thus the employers of this area will have an organization they can deal with in full confidence, knowing that their interests will be served and that they will be getting the best of musical talent and responsible service.

"Musicians enhance the cultural climate of the community by and bring joy, happiness and beauty into the lives of its citizens with their message of live music.

"Much of this is done free, in public parks and recreation areas, veterans' hospitals, homes for the aged and so on. Belleville musicians recently donated their services at the dance following the Bobby Hull testimonial dinner Thursday and will do the same tomorrow night for the Ontario Heart Foundation at the B.C.I. auditorium.)

Until January of this year, the Belleville musicians were members of the Kingston Musicians' Union, Local 518.

AGREEMENTS SIGNED

"The problem of distance presented difficulties in properly carrying out service. Thus in November 1964, Leo J. Tugwell, secretary-treasurer of Local 518, called a meeting to discuss the situation. Six Belleville musicians attended them. Douglas W. Aselstine and James R. Landolt were appointed stewards of the Quinte area.

"However, distance was still presenting a barrier to communication and it was felt by the stewards that perhaps the Belleville area would function best under its own autonomy.

"In January 1966, the Kingston local voted that the Belleville area be granted Hastings and Prince Edward counties . . . and an application for Belleville's Charter was presented and accepted at the International Executive Board meeting.

"Federation agreements have been signed with Sun Valley Motor Inn, Tope Motel, Wayside Inn, Dutch Mill Inn, Red Kilo Motel, Club Canara and C.J.B.Q."

Fire Dept. Had Busy Time Over Weekend

The Belleville Fire Department answered several calls over the weekend beginning Friday evening at 8.39 p.m. when they were called to Rossmore to deal with a flooded cellar.

On Saturday a blaze started by firecrackers damaged a shed ago barn owned by Mr. W. G. Way of 10 Geddes Street, Children playing with matches set a tree on fire sending the Department to the 1st concession of Ameliasburg at 1.05 p.m. Saturday. At 3.47 p.m. Saturday a fire was extinguished in a tractor belonging to Mr. C. Vandervalde on the 5th concession of Sidney. Faulty wiring is believed to have been the cause.

The only call answered on Sunday was to the railway siding between Pinnacle and Church streets where a CNR gondola car was on fire probably due to the combustion of oily rags.

Motorist Hurt As Car Rolls On 401 Highway

A Redrock, Ont. motorist, James W. Farrell, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital this morning with scalp lacerations and bruises to his body after he suffered when his car rolled over on 401 highway just west of the city.

Provincial police said the westbound car apparently went out of control and rolled several times before coming to rest on the north lane shoulder, with all four wheels in the air.

Mr. Farrell, the only occupant of the car, could not be freed until the car was rolled back onto its wheels. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at about $300.

Two Youths Face Sentences For Break-ins

Two Belleville youths were remanded until May 24 by Magistrate R. C. Jackson today for sentencing on three charges of breaking, entering and theft and one charge of attempted breaking and entering.

Terrence A. Moore, 17, 149 Pinnacle St., and Robert J. Hannah, 20, 75 South George St., pleaded guilty to the charges and were remanded to allow time for a pre-sentence report.

They were found guilty of breaking into the Britannia Restaurant, 61 Dundas St. S., April 8, Belleville Metal and Waste, 100 South, Church St., April 6 and the Spur Service Station, on highway 2, one miles east of the city, April 8. They were also found guilty of attempted breaking and entering at the Britannia Restaurant April 10.

Police testified that on information received from Robert Francis Daley April 10, they proceeded to the Britannia Restaurant and observed one youth standing at the southwest corner of the building. He dropped to the ground as they approached.

Moore jumped over a fence but was caught after a short chase by police.

Police said that Moore had part of a wood chisel in his pocket when apprehended. Another part of the chisel was found near the door of the restaurant.

Moore and Hannah were taken into custody and gave a signed statement confessing to the attempted breaking and entering and the charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Police said that on April 8 the two youths broke the glass on the rear door of the Britannia Restaurant and gained entry into the main part of the building. The cash register was broken and between $40 and $50 taken from it. Damage to the register has been set at $20 and to the door and the glass, $27.

Nothing was taken from the Belleville Metal and Waste, but the door was forced open and the office was ransacked April 6.

Fifty packages of cigarettes, $6 in silver and three quarts of motor oil were taken from the Spur Service Station April 2.

Ontario 15 to 20 Years Behind in Pollution Cleanup NDP Speaker Tells Meet

TRENTON — Resources and Energy Minister J. R. Simmonds is "dreaming dreams and seeing visions," if he believes what he said in the legislature last Monday . . . that industrial pollution would be cleaned up by 1970 . . .New Democratic Party MLA for Yorkview said at the area conference on pollution in Belleville Saturday.

Mr. Young told a joint meeting of N.D.P organizations from the ridings of Quinte, Hastings South, Hastings Frontenac, Prince Edward-Lennox and Northumberland that Ontario was 15 to 20 years behind in a pollution cleanup of the Great Lakes and auxiliary waterways. The Ontario government should be making more money available to the Ontario Water Resources Commission so that this body could finance sewage disposal systems for municipalities, he said, and industry should be "forced" to install sewage treatment plants.

"The government does not seem to have been seized with the overall importance of this problem . . . very little has been done to date, and what is being done is moving at a snail's pace."

With phosphates pouring into Ontario waterways from sewage and detergent run-offs, the fishing industry has become nonexistent in some areas, Mr. Young said. "Detergent manufacturers have been 'encouraged' to come up with a non-toxic, non-phosphate product, but the government should step in and name a date for this to be done. Then manufacturers would do so," said the speaker.

He told from ships on the Great Lakes, raw sewage from cottages on lake and bays and run-offs of high phosphate content pesticides on soil are also adding to the overall pollution of Ontario waterways, Mr. Young said.

Only public demand will force the government to speed up its anti-pollution program, Mr. Young said.

LAW NOT ENFORCED

There is existing legislation on the books which would force industry and municipalities as well as individuals to stop pouring pollutives into waterways, but it is not being enforced, claimed Mr. Young.

Dr. David Elrick, of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph also spoke at Saturday's conference. He echoed Mr. Young's thoughts on the pollution problem, and, because he is a soil expert, concentrated on this particular part of the problem.

Dr. Elrick said there was an indiscriminate use of D.D.T. and other pesticides, high in phosphorous content. Bird life is being destroyed and man is absorbing these "poisons".

Dr. Elrick said lead poisoning was being introduced by the absorption of this substance from motor vehicle exhaust. He saw the day when cars would be driven by batteries.

Dr. Elrick agreed that only public demand could bring about greater action on the part of government. He said most people were concerned about the pollution of water, air and soil and added a fourth dimension . . . "mental pollution," by persons living near junk yards, noisy neighbors and spending a great part of their lives in traffic line ups, breathing CO_2 fumes.

Among the out-of-town observers at Saturday's conference was Dr. John Harney of Guelph who sits on the N.D.P policy review committee.

Quinte association president, Ian Reilly, called for the passing of a resolution which will be presented at the provincial N.D.P convention in Toronto this October.

The resolution will urge the Ontario N.D.P to press for immediate and impartial enforcement of anti-pollution legislation by the Provincial Government. The resolution also endorsed similar action against the pollution of the air and the soil.

Ban Student Leader

South Africa's Suppression of Communism Act covers a multitude of political "sins." The latest victim is Ian Robertson, 21-year-old leader of the National Union of South African students.

Robertson is reported to have been "banned" under the act. What form the ban takes has not been stated, but it usually means a strict confinement at the victim's home, if not in jail, or else restrictions on travel.

What was Robertson's offence? He played a leading part in arranging a visit by U.S. Senator Robert Kennedy, who by no stretch of the imagination can be labelled a communist.

However, Kennedy will address a students' gathering in connection with the day of affirmation of academic and human freedoms. And that promises to be an occasion when the policies of Dr. Verwoerd will come in for sharp criticism.

The South African government's sensitivity on this score is further reflected by the fact that it has refused to grant a visa to Dr. Martin King. The student body had invited the U.S. Negro leader to open its annual congress.

Japanese Success

No harm to a well-known Japanese motorcycle manufacturer whose machines have been selling in Canada like hot cakes, but we often wonder why the British failed to reap such a windfall.

Britain has been manufacturing quality motor-cycles for years. Powerful machines, British roads are choked with them and it must be confessed they constitute a singularly dangerous hazard for heavy traffic. The light machines can out-distance most cars and, of course, are raced professionally on such circuits as the Isle of Man and Dundrod in Northern Ireland. Ridden in normal traffic, however, the temptation to show off their paces is to the detriment of other road users, is often too much for their young owners.

However, big machines like that have never caught on here, which is probably just as well. Highway 401 would make a superb drag strip for motor bicycles, but we are not suggesting anyone adopt such an idea, 401 being hazardous enough already without 100 m.p.h. motor-cycles entering the fray.

Rather, it is in the field of light runabouts that the Japanese have cornered the North American market. They have done so at the expense of the British who apparently never even considered trying to sell their equivalent models here. Had they done so their balance-of-payments problem would likely be less pressing today.

One wonders if there will ever be a swing away from the motor-cycle runabouts, and even cars, and a return to the popular bikes for getting around town. Advertisements could stress the value of the exercise this would afford. The only snag would be the difficulty in bringing home the groceries on a bicycle!

Charm School

An Englishwoman, Leslie Clayton has opened a school in London for secretaries who aim to marry their bosses. The school will produce girls who are as decorative as they are efficient, she says.

The students will be taught hair-styling, coached in makeup and trained to cook, and there will be lessons on etiquette, flower arranging, dancing, interior decorating and design. As if this were not enough, they will be coached on the art of walking gracefully, while also learning something about antique furniture, art appreciation and public relations. On a more mundane level, they will also spend long hours learning dictation, shorthand and typing.

"The girl who finishes our course will be a knockout in any office," says Miss Clayton (that is her professional name). And we can well believe it. So bachelor bosses in Britain had better watch out.

Ruth Tolman, a New York consultant in charm and personality development, seems to prefer a more subtle approach. Most of the people she sees are young girls and she admits that her aim is to produce the kind of girl who will get married.

However, she hastens to add that this does not mean teaching girls to be professional husband-hunters. By teaching someone to be poised and self-confident, she said in a Montreal interview, the chances are that some man will want to marry her.

One way or another it all has to do with the fascinating battle of the sexes, the age-old business of boy meeting girl, of strolling down the street, as Richard Rodgers puts it, and meeting not merely by chance.

Strictly Personal
Make-Believe at Miami

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

During the Easter weekend, I happend to be in the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area, and I drove over to the beach to watch the college students congregate for their annual spring vacation roughhouse.

After talking to a number of them, I was left with a quite different impression of the group than I had received from reading press accounts. These are pathetic, empty, aimless and essentially passive young sters — and not at all representative of college youth today.

In the first place, many of them were not college students at all, but high school seniors of both sexes from the surrounding area. Many others were only pretending to be collegians — secretaries and salesgirls from as far as New York, and clerks and gas station attendants masquerading as campus types.

Even those who genuinely attended college came mostly from the academic slums — from little junior colleges and from the barely-accredited marginal schools that survive and flourish only because of the tremendous college explosion. They looked like wistful extras, hired to play the parts of collegians in a synthetic travesty of campus life. They may have fooled the adult population, but they did not fool each other.

Secondly, these were not aggressive swingers, filled with obstinence and high spirits. They were, in the main, the rejects, the misfits, the ones alienated not only from society at large but from their own peergroup as well. It resembled nothing so much as an enormous convention of wallflowers.

And boredom was the keynote of their convention, not mischief or merriment. They milled back and forth "looking for the action" — but the genuine action-makers would never be caught dead than on the ocean-front at Fort Lauderdale. They resembled a huge flock of lemmings driven down to the water's edge, but knowing what to do when they got there except provoke the police into hosing them.

It was a sight more poignant than annoying. These young boys and girls seemed utterly resourceless, unable to amuse themselves or one another, desperately in need of films, or even much animation — just waiting for some Pied Piper to come along and lead them into the enchanted forest, where their glimpses would disappear, their senses would awaken, and their fantasies would be translated into shining reality.

It was all quite depressing, and the picture it presented was more significant than all the mass of college youth. Some real high-jinks would have been welcome, some genuine display of animal spirits, rather than this melancholy make - believe without point or passion.

Government Spending High

Christian Science Monitor

Those who wonder why American taxes have to be the highest in free world history, running slightly behind Sweden's $2,280 per capita.

American productivity is thus higher than Europe's with the natural result that Americans have an edge in comparative standards of living. Another yardstick of OECD statistics provides another reason for the disparity.

Government spending in Canada in 1956 represented 27.4 percent of the Gross National Product. In the U.S., despite heavy spending for defence and foreign aid, government spending represented only 23.7 percent of the GNP.

In other words, Americans seem to have turned the trick of having your cake and eating it, too.

Cheers for the Princess

Hamilton Spectator

Many folk feel refreshed rather than depressed when they hear that Princess Margaret is a bigger drawing card than a parcel of glamorous movie stars. The fact that she does proves that even celebrity watchers have good taste at times.

More proof of Princess Margaret's standing as a real people's league came to light at the recent Cannes Film Festival. Scores of extra police were called to handle the mobs waiting to see Britain's delightful Royal princess and her husband arrive at the festivities. All the movie stars combined didn't attract as much attention or revoke so many cheers.

One thing is sure, Britain's Royal Family has no fears of meeting the fate of some of the unfortunate continental monarchies. Not so long as it continues to merit vast popularity everywhere.

They Had No Choice

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Last month in an editorial on this page we commented on the actions of a gang of 75 teenagers who, attacked four young men after they had burned their cars. The incident took place in Boston.

The Vancouver Province suggests that the young Americans were not to be condemned. Draft cards and holding demonstrations against the United States' conscription law might be considered a frame document in the office of General Lewis Hershey. General Hershey is the man who is charged by the U.S. system of national service.

It is Hallie Soissaie's mobilization order to the Ethiopians when Mussolini invaded the country in 1935. It reads:

"Everyone will now be mobilized and all boys old enough to carry a spear will be sent to Addis Ababa.

"Married men will take their wives to carry food and cook. Those without wives will take any woman without a husband. Women with small babies need not go. The blind, those who cannot walk or for any reason cannot carry a spear, are exempted.

"Anyone found at home after the receipt of this order will be hanged."

Same the World Over

Windsor Star

An English observer points out that the practice of over-charging strangers has little, if anything to do with race. The cause primarily is avarice.

"Soaking foreigners" is an old European custom, one not unknown on this continent either. To have a stranger sufficient, distinctive dress or other characteristic identifying oneself as an alien, is to invite being taken by higher prices or otherwise.

Those who have visited Paris or Rome, for instance, know what we mean. Unless one is sharp one can find oneself paying higher prices than the natives do. The idea for a tourist would be to disguise himself as a native but this usually is impossible, particularly where the language is different.

The Chinese interpret Russia's acceptance of diversity in Communist movement as a sign of weakness and betrayal. On the evidence so far, the Chinese are wrong. In the battle for men's minds the Chinese seem to be making little progress. In fact, the higher they pitch their message the more the audience seems to diminish.

To Your Good Health
'Nervous Stomach' Is Result of Tension

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as a nervous stomach? For a number of years I have had vomiting spells if I get overexcited, or have plans for going out in the evening. I get so I can't swallow another bite until I am home again.

I asked a doctor but he said there wasn't such a thing. I hope there is some cure. I am 19. — Miss R.A.

Maybe I'm quibbling, but I can't agree with the idea that there's "no such thing." There is!

It doesn't mean that there's anything wrong with the stomach itself. Various parts of the body perfectly healthy, respond to nervous tension. Some folks get headaches. Some can't eat. Some get backaches. Some get the jitters. There are different manifestations.

So if the stomach, under pressure of your nerves, becomes rebellious temporarily, as far as I'm concerned it deserves to be called a nervous stomach. The cure, however, is not in the stomach. The cure is in learning how to keep your nerves under control.

I've known of plenty young people, and a few older ones, too, whose stomachs go into spasm because of tension or excitement. The fact that you "can't eat a bite" until after you've calmed down is all right. There's no use trying to force food into a rebellious stomach. You can eat afterward; that's proof enough that it is nervous and not something physically wrong.

Just realizing this often helps. As time passes, you learn to recognize this tension, and you learn to say to yourself, "Look here, now. Let's just sit quietly for a few minutes, and relax, and let the nerves relax." Pretty soon the nervous stomach stops bothering you.

For special occasions, a mild sedative or tranquilizer can help, but sometimes sipping a glass of milk will do as well. I'm thoroughly opposed to getting in the habit of depending on medicines except for some real reason — for diabetes or epilepsy, or some such thing.

But if you'll be sparing in the use of a sedative or a tranquilizer, only when you are "all wound up" over some special occasion, it can help you learn to keep those nerves in their place.

Dear Dr. Molner: Several women in my area have developed what appears to be cancer and are trying to understand it. Long ago doctors believed that only people who neglected to care of the body was a major responsibility, but not any more, just a brief set of directions. — L. B. H.

I prefer to think that physicians haven't changed much in basic goals, but in these hurry-up days, and the heavy demands on doctors' services, there isn't much time left, and blatal hernia can't be explained in a minute or two.

I know how common blatal hernia is, and I've written a booklet that explains what it is, and the principles of treatment. To receive a copy, send 20 cents in coin and a large, stamped self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 138, Dundee, Ill., asking for "Hiatal Hernia."

Dear Dr. Molner: Are all fibroid tumors malignant? If a fibroid is just developing, would you advise removing it? — Mrs. R. B.

Fibroids, fortunately, rarely are malignant. As a general rule small ones are not removed since they ordinarily cause no trouble and quite often subside spontaneously after menopause.

Chamber Assists Local Consumers

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

In a letter entitled "Magazine Racket Over Telephone" in your issue of Tuesday, May 13, 1958, reference was made to the Belleville Better Business Bureau. The Editor's note stated that "Belleville has no Better Business Bureau comparable with the Toronto organization."

What you have said is correct. However, what you have omitted is that the Belleville Chamber of Commerce operates a Belleville Business & Consumer Protective Board which provides a similar service on a smaller scale.

If the City of Belleville were to operate a Better Business Bureau as such, considerable financial support would be required and this financial support would have to come out of the City budget or from contributions by local businessmen.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce does not have the staff or facilities to deal with protective-side problems but it does provide a service for the protection of local citizens and businessmen. We feel that we have had a fair measure of success in curtailing the operation of unethical salesmen who misrepresent products or service. The results we have achieved to date are largely extended due to the, excellent co-operation we receive from the City and the Belleville Police Department.

We shall continue to provide this service, but if "in the feeling of the majority of Belleville that four-to-doog solicitation has reached an intolerable stage, perhaps it is time that the City Council consider modifications to the existing bylaws which could have the desired effect.

O. F. Bradley,
Secretary-Manager
Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Kiplings' Day Is Long Gone

Brantford Expositor

"We are not living in the world of Rudyard Kipling," was External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's reminder the other day to Commonwealth relatives who had charged that Canada is waging war alongside British against Rhodesia.

As it is over 30 years since Kipling died in 1936 and about 90 since he was in his heyday as the poet of an empire on which the sun never set, the full import of Mr. Martin's reference may not be clear to some Canadians. The world has indeed changed vastly since Kipling surged his counterpoem to continue to carry "the white man's burden" which to him and most other Britons of his time meant ruling and civilizing backward races, and, it must be said, some not so backward.

Many remember Kipling verses belong to the time when, as in "The Song of the Cities," he could proudly extol Britain as the theme of England and Empire, lines about Halifax, Quebec and Winnipeg, verses about Capetown, Bombay, Calcutta, Rangoon and Singapore. The then formidable sailing merchant navy he called "swift shuttles of an Empire's loom that weave us each to each."

Today it is a London that no longer talks of Empire but of Commonwealth and equal partnership with people Kipling, in a famous phrase, called "the lesser breeds without the law." The empire that Sir Winston Churchill once said he had not become Her Majesty's first minister in order to liquidate, is almost liquidated. More than 40 of its parts, with a population of 700 million, have achieved self-rule since then, and half a dozen of the remaining 32 small colonial territories will join them in the next year or two.

A Nation On Welfare

Edmonton Journal

Remember how Canadian politicians looked when Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced tax grants for B.C. home - owners? Remember how, after, they said: taking money out of one pocket and stuffing it in another.

And remember what happened? First Manitoba, then Saskatchewan and now Alberta reversed course. Home owner grants have become the order of the day, each province trying to outspend the last.

They are still ridiculous; but that's politics.

And what's next?

Grants to home buyers, naturally. Borrowing to buy a house in B.C. will get a gift of several hundred dollars from the province. And why not? That's the beauty of a government that's in good financial shape."

Ridiculous? Of course it is: an insult to public intelligence.

All the same just wait and see what the other provinces do.

The measure had been proposed eight days by C. D. Howe, in order to lend $80,000,000 to a pipeline company. It was carried, despite the fury of the Opposition, by general election the following year the Liberals were turned out of office.

Brownies, Guides, Cubs and Scouts Hold District Parade

Yesterday afternoon 1500 Brownies, Guides, Cubs, and Scouts in one of the largest parades seen in the city for years attended their annual District Church service at the Belleville Arena. Attended by the Salvation Army Band, the RCAF Brass Band, the Trenton Civic Brass Band, and the Trenton KHite Band, the marchers were heard Rev. Norman Hutchinson of St. Columba Church conduct the service at 2.00 p.m.

The parade mustered at BCI and proceeded down Victoria Avenue to Front Street turning left to Market Square and then to the Arena. The return route lay along Pinnacle Street to Campbell Street with dismissal again at BCI.

Officials commented that this was one of the largest turnouts ever seen for the District Parade and expressed pleasure at the way the operation had been carried out.

The parade took over half an hour to pass a given point and the marchers were commended for their fine personal appearance and precision. Each unit had a color party and the mass of flags made an imposing sight as they marched to the breeze.
